Spraying with Bordeaux mixture is the best way to control the potato leaf hopper, which not only feeds on the leaves but causes hopperburn, a disease which sometimes ruins an entire potato crop in one or two weeks. When leaf hoppers are abundant make at least three applications of Bordeaux, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and spray a fourth time if necessary to keep down hopperburn until the crop has matured. Spray both sides of the rows, using at least 150 pounds pressure, and see that the mixture reaches the undersides of the leaves. The 4-4-50 formula is generally used. The leaf hopper, which is one of the worst enemies of potatoes, is a very small, pale-green insect. The adult is about one-eighth of an inch long, with white markings, and has an 11 on its body.

Kill the Barberry.

Kill common barberry bushes with salt or kerosene and prevent the spread of black stem rust to small grains. The U. S. Department of Agriculture is assisting farmers in the wheat-growing states of the upper Mississippi valley and plains regions to reduce losses from stem rust. Twenty pounds of crushed rock salt or a gallon of kerosene properly applied at the base of a clump of barberry stems one foot in diameter will kill the bush and prevent sprouting which often occurs if bushes are dug. Keep livestock away from salted bushes unless they have been getting plenty of salt.

When To Cut Oats.

Oats should be cut when they are in the hard dough stage. If cut before this time they shrivel in curing and are light in weight. If allowed to get fully ripe before cutting, some of the crop shatters and is lost in harvesting. When a large acreage is to be harvested, it is advisable to begin cutting soon after the grain passes out of the milk stage. If the grain is ripe or in the hard dough stage, it can be placed at once in round shocks which should be capped to prevent damage from rain or dew. If the grain is green or if the bundles contain many weeds, they should be allowed to cure for a few hours before shocking or should be put into long shocks.

Cool the Milk Quickly.

Prompt and proper cooling of all milk and cream on the farm would improve the grade of dairy products and thus add greatly to the income of dairy farmers. To make sure that milk reaches its destination in the best condition, cool it to 50° F. or below immediately after milking, and protect it during shipment, says the Bureau of Dairy Industry, U. S. department of agriculture. The quickest way to cool milk is to run it over a surface cooler, through which flows the coldest water available, then set the cans of milk in a well-insulated tank filled with water at a temperature of 40° F. or below. By this method it is possible to cool milk within an hour after it leaves the cow. Cream should be cooled immediately after it is separated. If the amount is small, cool by placing in a can and setting the can in water not warmer than 40° F., and stirring after half an hour. In hot weather, chunks of ice scattered over the tops of the cans will help to maintain the temperature of the milk or cream.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday services 10:45 a. m.

Subject, "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced."

Wednesday evening at 7:45, first Wednesday of month only.

Reading room Tuesday and Saturday, 3:00 to 5:00 p. m.

The public is cordially invited to all services.

"Soul and Body" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, May 25.

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Lord, thou wilt ordain peace for us: for thou also hast wrought all our works in us" (Isa. 26:12).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "As astronomy reverses the human perception of the solar system, so Christian Science reverses the seeming relation of soul and body and makes body tributary to Mind" (p. 119).

HALLETT'S INN OPEN ON THURSDAY

Hotel Hallett Begins Season on Saturday, June, 7th.

Marking the official opening of the resort season in Charlevoix, Hallett's Inn opens Thursday evening, May 29th. Following next will be Hotel Hallett, which opens Saturday, June 7th, the date of the first resort special over the Pere Marquette.

Extensive improvements have been made at both hostilities in preparation for the season. The former has been re-decorated inside and out, 30 new floor carpets put down and a general program of improvements completed.

At the Hotel Hallett, a new lighting system has been installed and new machinery added in the kitchen to facilitate work in that department. The dining room has been pleasantly re-decorated in old rose and cream, porch furniture painted attractively in orange and black.

Hallett's Inn is managed by John Hallett, while the Hotel Hallett is under the management of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hallett and son, Harold. All have been prominently identified in the hotel business for many years and their establishments have a large following among resorters and tourists.

CHEBOYGAN GRADERS WIN WRITTEN TESTS

Their Contestants Best In All Five Grades Competing.

Results of the written spelling contest between the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades of Charlevoix and Cheboygan schools were announced Monday by Supt. M. Otterbein, who together with Supt. Titus of Cheboygan, conducted the contests.

Cheboygan's spellers were again victorious by a heavy margin, winning in every grade. The percentages for each grade were: 8th, Charlevoix 59.6, Cheboygan 98; 7th, Charlevoix 57.6, Cheboygan 84.4; 6th, Charlevoix 66.8, Cheboygan 89.8; 5th, Charlevoix 74.57, Cheboygan 77.09; 4th, Charlevoix 69.28, Cheboygan 89.

The oral contest will be held at Cheboygan next year, and in the meantime Charlevoix spellers are going to brush up in an attempt to reverse the results.

PENN LINES HAS SCHEDULE READY

Through Trains Start On June 2 With Daily Runs June 22.

Advance notice on the summer schedule of through trains on the Pennsylvania Lines has been received by A. D. Phelps, Petoskey agent. The news thus conveyed carried word that the service will start on June 2 when through cars will be inaugurated out of Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago and other cities.

The early season through trains out of Cincinnati will arrive at Petoskey on June 11, 14, 18 and 21, and the daily service will be inaugurated on June 22. The through cars will reach Petoskey at 5:40 a. m., and the through trains will arrive at 6:55 a. m.

Once changed over to the daily through service the morning Chicago train will arrive at 5:50 a. m., and be known as the North Star. The Northland Limited will arrive from Cincinnati and Indianapolis at 6:55 a. m. The afternoon train will arrive as at present.

Going south the morning train will leave as at present. The first afternoon train will be at 2:55. The next one will go at 7 p. m. On Sunday nights a train will leave at 10:50 o'clock as at present.

METHODIST CHURCH WILL GIVE PAGEANT

Special Program at 10:30 Hour Next Sunday Morning.

A special Children's Day program, featuring the pageant, "The Glittering Gate," will be presented by children of the Methodist church at the 10:30 worship hour next Sunday.

Wouldn't you like to listen in on what the creatures of the woods say to two children who don't want to go to school? They find themselves instead, attending the school of nature and woodland creatures are in session. It is going to be a real delight to see children representing these animals and insects in their pretty nature dresses going to school to Mother Nature.

Past performances justify seeing this one. Bring a special gift to help some student get a college education. This 10:30 service takes the place of the regular Sunday school session at noon.

WALLACE ACQUIRES NEW GAS STATION

William H. Wallace has rented the front portion of the Charlevoix garage from A. J. Rehfs, the owner, for oil station purposes. The station has entrances from Antrim and State streets and is being decorated and put in readiness for the summer. Harry Coblentz will be in charge.

LIVE STOCK

TIMELY HINTS FOR BUYING STALLION

Keep in Mind Importance of Pure Breeding.

In buying a stallion one should keep in mind the importance of pure breeding, soundness, individual excellence, potency, and the reliability of the party from whom purchased.

It should be remembered that pure breeding is important in a breeding sire as it means that his type has been fixed by a long line of ancestors of similar type, and that he will therefore transmit his qualities with more certainty than the grand sire. It is well to keep in mind also that there are certain families within every breed that stand out because of their superior excellence, and that such families are especially desirable.

It is a good safeguard to have a horse examined and certified sound by a competent and reliable veterinarian before buying. If this is not possible, a guarantee should be secured that the horse will pass the requirements of the stallion registration board, and payment should be withheld until a license has been secured.

A horse may be pure bred and sound, and yet an undesirable individual. A horse which would not himself be a high-priced gelding if castrated can hardly be expected to sire high-priced geldings.

In buying, a guarantee should be secured that the horse will prove a 50 per cent foal getter, under conditions with which you can comply, and that failing to do so the purchase price will be refunded in cash. Remember that such a guarantee is of little value unless given by a responsible party.

Before buying a stallion it is well to inform yourself as to the reliability of the party with whom you expect to deal. There are plenty of reliable breeders and dealers from whom good stallions can be secured and they are worthy of your patronage. There are also men in the business of selling stallions who are not reliable and it is well to avoid them.

The color and markings should be carefully examined to see that they correspond with those called for in the pedigree. The age as shown by his teeth should also be checked with the date of foaling.—Bulletin No. 7, Minnesota Stallion Registration Board.

When Ewe Disowns Lamb Stanchion Comes Handy

Occasionally a young ewe, and even an older one that is in poor condition with a scant milk supply, will not own her lamb. A little patience on the part of the shepherd will usually bring favorable results. The ewe will have to be held for the lamb to suckle and when the milk flow starts she will usually take to the lamb. If the ewe becomes ferocious and lights the little one she should be confined in a stanchion, made by driving two panels into the ground and wiring them at the top. In this way she cannot injure the lamb and it will suck in spite of her efforts.

If the ewe has more milk than the lamb will take she should be milked out clean at least once a day for several days. The first milk appearing within the udder is intended to be consumed only at the beginning of the lamb's life and if retained in the udder for a number of days it is likely to sicken the lamb.

In case a lamb dies and the mother has lots of milk it is often advisable to put the twin lamb of another ewe with her. The best way to do this is to skin the dead lamb, pulling the legs out like stripping off a stocking, sprinkling a little salt over the inside, and then fastenag the skin on the twin lamb that is to be transferred. The ewe will generally by it; scent accept it as her own. Often by sprinkling some of the ewe's milk over a lamb, and by rubbing some of the secretion about the udder on the lamb, she will adopt it.

 Live Stock Items *****

To give sheep perfect health, there should be salt and chemicals available.

A good herd sire should never be sacrificed because he is ugly. Build a bull pen.

Strive to keep live stock comfortable, thereby favoring more profitable production.

In a barn used for horses only self-feeders for hay are very handy and entirely practical.

The market preference for light-weight fat cattle together with the economical gains made by calves in the feedlot favors the feeding of young cattle. Well bred, rugged, blocky calves must be selected for satisfactory results.

A little attention given to the feet of colts and young horses may make a great difference in the value of the horse when ready for work. When the colts' feet are allowed to become uneven and crooked, it is almost sure to affect the feet and legs permanently.

FAMOUS PICNIC SPOT IS OPEN TO PUBLIC

Many Improvements Being Made at Tyrell's Grove, Antrim City.

An extensive improvement program in anticipation of tourist and resort trade is being made at the old Antrim City site south of Norwood by M. A. Tyrell of Detroit, owner of the former Simons property on Lake Michigan.

One log tourist cabin has been completed and seven more have been started and will be built. A store, catering to picnic parties especially, providing all their wants, will be a special feature.

The picnic spot, known to many as Tyrell's Grove and to others as the Simons property, has been visited annually by families of this region. Mr. Tyrell extends a hearty invitation to all to continue to make the place their picnic site, stating that in spite of recent developments, the place is open to all who wish to use it for picnic purposes. He wishes the public to know that there are no "Private Property" signs and that they are welcome to come at any time.

HENDRICKSON-USHER WEDDING SATURDAY

Ceremony Performed at Parsonage of Petoskey Baptist Church.

A pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday evening, May 24th, when Miss Lucille Hendrickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rasmus Hendrickson, was united in marriage to Clare D. Usher, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Usher.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. A. Ross, pastor of the Petoskey Baptist church, at the parsonage in that city. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Usher, brother and sister-in-law of the groom, attended the young couple.

Both young people are well and favorably known to Charlevoix citizens. They are graduates of the local high school and have lived here their entire lives. They will make their home in this city.

CLUB CONVENTION A GREAT SUCCESS

TWO-DAY SESSION HERE LAST WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY.

Charlevoix and County Clubs Hosts to Northwestern District of State Federation Women's Clubs.

Charlevoix is still being praised for the excellent manner in which the northwest district of the State Federation of Women's Clubs were entertained during the two-day convention here last Wednesday and Thursday. The following report of the convention was submitted by Mrs. Adah Beeman, one of Charlevoix's active club women:

"The convention was called to order by the president, Mrs. R. B. Armstrong. The invocation was given by Mrs. B. G. Mattson, followed by assembly singing led by Mrs. Mattson with Mrs. A. J. Stelter at the piano.

"Mrs. R. B. Armstrong, representing the hostess clubs, gave the address of welcome to the guests, which was graciously responded to by Mrs. Mason B. Morton, vice-president of the district.

"Mrs. Eben Mumford, president of the State Federation, was warmly greeted, and in a short talk, expressed the pleasure it gave her to meet with the northwest district.

"At the close of the afternoon session, a beautifully appointed reception and tea at the Belvedere Golf Club was tendered the officers and delegates, and was followed by a motor drive which covered the most attractive parts of the city and resorts. Though the weather was cool, the sunshine cast a glamour over all and helped Charlevoix to live up to its title of 'The Beautiful'.

"Hotel Charlevoix having been made headquarters of the federation, presented a lively and unconventional scene. The genial hostess, Mrs. C. J. Winder, a member of the Shakespeare club, soon made all feel at home. At 7 o'clock, 59 sat down to a delicious, well served dinner. The committee in charge of the decorations artistically carried out the club colors—purple and gold—by using low bowls of pansies and nut cups, candles and napkins in various shades.

"The evening session Wednesday was held in the Congregational church. The Charlevoix high school band gave several selections, including their contest numbers. Mrs. R. B. Armstrong gave a short address and introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Eben Mumford, who spoke on international relations, peace problems and the part women are taking in it all, and what they hope to do both in homes and communities. Mrs. A. J. Stelter and Mrs. A. A. Swinton were enthusiastically received in organ and piano numbers.

"Mrs. G. G. Bates of Traverse City, district chairman of American citizenship, gave a short talk on 'The Indian Citizen' and the legend and life that is a part of the very atmosphere of this region, concluding with a plea for kindly help for them. Members of the Indian Mission church rendered a number of songs, closing with a solo by Mrs. Susan Greensky in the Indian language. Then followed an extensive and interesting exhibit of Indian relics arranged by Mrs. Bates, assisted by Mrs. Etta Waite and Mrs. Ahgosa of Traverse City, and Mrs. E. L. Dawson of this city.

"Probably Charlevoix will never have as complete an exhibit again. Beautiful Navaho rugs, examples of basketry, old patchwork quilts of intricate patterns, peace pipes of various tribes, fragments of pottery taken from mounds in this region, wonderful head-dresses and suits, beaded belts—in fact many articles too numerous to mention and too short a time to really get acquainted with their history—were shown.

"Following the call of order of the Friday morning session, Mrs. D. W. Dicken sang a group of songs in her usual pleasing manner, accompanied by Miss Myrtle White, both of the Boyne City club.

"Mrs. Mumford struck the keynote of the convention in her morning address, 'The Individual Federated Club.' Intense interest centered in this phase of club life. A president and vice-president were elected at this meeting, and the voting resulted in the election of Mrs. Mason B. Morton of Muskegon Heights as president, and Mrs. Arlie Hopkins of Bear Lake for vice-president. The retiring president, Mrs. R. B. Armstrong, was made delegate from the northwestern district to the national meeting to be held in Denver in June. Just before adjourning, Mrs. A. A. Swinton presented her pupils, Miss Lola Fessenden and Miss Gwendolyn Miller, in a two-piano number, which was fully appreciated by those present.

"At 12 noon the convention adjourned to Hotel Charlevoix, where a fine luncheon was served. Mrs. Winder kept Charlevoix in the foreground by having a meat course of fish, for which Charlevoix is noted.

"The afternoon session was opened with a piano solo by Miss Bashaw, a member of the East Jordan club, and one who has ever been ready to give of her talent at these meetings. Club reports were continued and short talks given by newly-elected officers.

"Mrs. C. L. Thompson of Muskegon, reached here from Alpena, only to be called home by the serious illness of her son. The district went on record as supporting Mrs. Thompson for president to be elected at the annual state meeting in Jackson in October.

DEATH CLOSES ACTIVE CAREER

RICHARD S. RYAN, PIONEER OF CHARLEVOIX, DIED SATURDAY.

Identified With Early Lumber Days
Here—Employed by Pere Marquette R. R. 32 Years.

Charlevoix grieves today the loss of Richard S. Ryan, one of its pioneer residents. Mr. Ryan, born and reared at Spencerville, Ontario, died at the Charlevoix hospital last Saturday after a short illness.

Richard S. Ryan came to Charlevoix in the early days and engaged as a helper with the lumber men, lumber then being the chief industry in this northern country. Joseph Dixon found out about him as a faithful worker, and soon employed him as superintendent of the big acreage he owned on Lake Charlevoix. Mr. Dixon knew his true value and they became great friends.

When the railroad, now the Pere Marquette, purchased the Dixon interests, Mr. Ryan was retained to take charge of the grounds which belonged to the railroad company after The Inn was built in 1898. He was then made custodian during the closed season and continued to have charge of the property owned by the Pere Marquette Railway company at Charlevoix. His faithful and loyal attitude for over 32 years in the service of the Pere Marquette Railway company, a record which the community may well be proud of, brought many messages from high officials of the railroad, as well as from associates, citing the high esteem in which he was held.

Richard S. Ryan leaves a host of friends who mourn their loss. His widow, Mrs. Ida S. Ryan of Charlevoix, and his daughter, Mrs. R. E. Tobias of Grand Rapids, survive him.

Funeral services were held from St. Mary Catholic church Tuesday. Rev. Fr. Fitzpatrick officiating. Pallbearers were Messrs Joseph E. Howard, Joseph Foster, William E. Flynn and Dan Walsh. Honorary pallbearers were Messrs. Andrew I. Creamer, James A. Gaskin, William McNally, John A. Martin, Samuel Rose and Lou See. Burial was at Brookside cemetery.

"SHOOT" MOVIES OF JORDAN RIVER FIRE

Reels Said to be Most Spectacular Ever Taken by Department.

The most spectacular forest fire motion pictures ever taken by the conservation department were photographed during the recent Jordan river valley fire May 11.

Pictures showing the fire which swept more than 2,000 acres were taken during both the day and night. These films will become a part of a new forest fire reel to be released by the educational division of the department next fall.

LIBRARY HOURS CHANGE TO SUMMER SCHEDULE

Beginning Monday, June 9th, hours at the Charlevoix public library will change to summer schedule. Forenoon hours will be 10 to 12; afternoon hours 2:00 to 5:00, and evenings 7:00 to 8:30.

GRADUATION PRO- GRAM IS FRIDAY

C. M. SANFORD, REDPATH BUR-EAU, TO DELIVER ADDRESS.

Baccalaureate Was Sunday Night and Class Day Exercises Wednesday Evening of This Week.

Another year has rolled around and Charlevoix high school and Charlevoix county normal are about to open their doors for the last time to the graduating classes of 1930. They are 17 in number, 33 seniors and 14 normal students. For the first time they will stand upon their own. Years of assiduous training have been completed—years that will linger long in their memory as the happiest period of their lives.

First of the closing events of school life was the senior banquet Friday evening at Monte's restaurant and the senior Prom which followed at Juliettes. Members of the junior class were guests at the latter affair.

A large crowd attended the baccalaureate services at the gymnasium Sunday evening. Rev. Bernard G. Mattson of the Congregational church delivered the sermon, leaving a deep impression upon his listeners. His timely talk will linger long in the memory of the graduating class.

Class day exercises for the seniors were held Wednesday evening of this week at the gymnasium. The program, entitled "Ghosts of Tomorrow," was presented with the following cast of characters: Louise Reese, Dorothy Withers; Jack Eldridge, Oscar Stroud; Aunt Mandy, Bonita Higgins; Uncle Neb, Wesley Manley; Class History, Dorothy Beardsley; Class Will, Fernie Crandall; Class Poet, Roy Kelderhouse; Class Prophecy, Joe Smith; Class Jokes, Jane Siminow; Ambition, Esther Goldstick; Courage, Doris Solomon; Optimism, Elizabeth Sharrow; Perseverance, Clementine Browne; Work, Ruth Yennans; Inferiority Complex, Helen Mary Campbell; Laziness, Clara Kelderhouse; Procrastination, Zoe Patterson; Temptation, Alice Parttridge; Carelessness, Erma Meggison; Chorus, other members of senior class; pianist, Jaunita Secord.

Commencement exercises for the senior and normal classes is Friday evening at the gymnasium and the following program has been prepared: March, Gwendolyn Miller; invocation, Rev. W. H. Rauch; "By the Waters of the Minnetonka," by Lieurand, girls' trio; salutatory, Eleanor Tumth; valedictory, Billy O'Neill; clarinet solo, John TerWee; address, C. M. Sanford; "Good Night, Good Night, Beloved," by Pinsert, triple quartette; presentation of county normal certificates, Miss Pearl C. Bigge; conferring of graduation honors, W. C. Palmer, commissioner of schools; presentation of senior class, M. Otterbein; conferring of graduation honors, Ernest L. Dawson.

School closes Friday. The week-end will see many picnic parties and other events which will wind up the 1930 school year.

P. M. PLANS ITS SUMMER TRAINS

ALL-PULLMAN RUN FROM CHI-CAGO NEW THIS SEASON.

Advance Schedule Service Is To Be About Same As During Last Year.

Agent B. Nickerson of the Pere Marquette has received the following notice about summer service of through trains to Potoskey for this summer:

An innovation in the operation of trains—9 and 10—The Resort Special between Chicago and Potoskey is announced for the coming season inasmuch as it will be a solid Pullman train. The growing popularity of this train has made this change necessary. Trains 14 and 15—the Resort Special operating between Detroit and Potoskey via Saginaw will continue to carry sleeping car and coach passengers. Both sections will go into commission on Monday, June 23. Advance season runs of the Chicago section will be made, northbound, from Chicago, on June 10, 13, 16, 18 and 20. The Detroit section will operate one advance season train via Grand Rapids, instead of Saginaw on this run only, June 20. It will leave Detroit at 8:30 p. m., Central time, both for the advance season run and the regular schedules, and arriving in Potoskey in time for breakfast the next day.

The Chicago section will carry a 10-section, two compartment sleeping car between St. Louis and Potoskey in connection with the Chicago & Alton railroad; one four-compartment, two drawing-room observation cars between Chicago and Potoskey; one 16-section sleeping car between Chicago and Potoskey; one 10-section, two-compartment, drawing room sleeping car between Chicago and Potoskey; one 12-section, one-compartment sleeping car between Chicago and Traverse City and one 12-section, one drawing room, sleeping car between Grand Rapids and Potoskey, northbound, Fridays, southbound, Sundays.

The Detroit section will operate a sleeping car line between Cincinnati and Potoskey via Baltimore & Ohio, the car being a 12-section, one drawing room type; one 10-section, two-compartment, between Toledo and Potoskey; one 16-section sleeper between Detroit and Potoskey and one 12-section, one drawing-room sleeping car between Detroit and Traverse City.

TRAVERSE CITY WON NORTH TENNIS TITLE

Central High and St. Francis Best in A-B and C-D Competition.

Traverse Central tennis players won the Northern Michigan regional meet at Traverse City last Saturday, in the A-B class, but Homer Schoop, Manistee city champion, copied the singles for the Chippewas, while the Trojans were proven best in the doubles.

In the C-D division, St. Francis outdistanced Charlevoix in both singles and doubles. The point scores, as announced by Manager Bud Hamlin, were: Class A-B, Traverse City 10, Manistee 7, and Potoskey 0; class C-D, St. Francis 8, Charlevoix 4.

MATT MOORE VICTIM OF HEART DISEASE

Died Saturday in Motor Car While Coming Home from Potoskey.

Matt Moore, aged 69 years, a resident of Charlevoix and vicinity nearly his entire life, died Saturday afternoon in a motor car while enroute from Potoskey to Charlevoix. He had been suffering from heart trouble throughout the winter, and the end came with a sudden attack when he was returning with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Moore following a visit to a Potoskey physician.

Deceased was born December 25, 1861, in New York state near Buffalo. He came with his parents to Charlevoix at the age of 10 years and had made this city his home almost continuously since that time.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Eri Babcock of Mackinaw City, and four sons, Dean, Mackinaw City; Leon, address unknown; Walter, Detroit; Joseph Moore, Charlevoix.

Funeral services were held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the Methodist church, Rev. John E. Lockyer officiating. Interment at Brookside cemetery.

CITY OBSERVED MEMORIAL DAY

CELEBRATION WAS ATTENDED BY LARGE CROWD.

Impressive Ceremonies at Brookside Cemetery—Rev. James Leach, East Jordan, Gave Address.

With reverence significant to the occasion, Memorial Day was observed in Charlevoix last Friday with appropriate and well executed exercises. The day was ideal. Weather conditions could not have been better and a general spirit of patriotism brought out a record crowd to help in the observance.

The parade formed at the corner of Bridge street and Park avenue at 9:30 o'clock. The American Legion color bearers led the fine procession. Others in line were American Legion members, the city and school bands in uniform, floats for the Baxter Relief Corps, G. A. R. members and smaller children, and a line of several hundred school children carrying flags.

At Memorial Park the procession paused while a floral tribute was cast into the waters of Round lake in memory of those who died on the seas and a short and impressive ceremony conducted. From there the parade proceeded to Brookside cemetery, where a large crowd of Charlevoix and out-of-town citizens met with them to witness the ceremonies. Rev. W. S. Rauch of the Baptist church opened the program with a beautiful and expressive prayer. Musical selections by the high school chorus and the American Legion quartette were pleasing numbers, also selections by the school and city bands. Stanley Hammond delivered the Gettysburg address in a commendable manner. Ritualistic work by the W. R. C. was impressive.

Rev. James Leach of East Jordan, who gave the address of the day, spoke along patriotic lines. He held the undivided attention of his listeners and his talk was one of the high spots of the splendid program, leaving a deep impression on the audience. Following the floral tribute, salute to the dead and taps, Rev. W. H. Rauch closed the day's exercises with prayer.

LAKE LEELANAU PRIEST TAKEN

Fr. Leo McManmon Formerly of St.
James, Beaver Island.

Father Leo C. McManmon, priest of the Lake Leelanau parish, died Thursday evening at St. Mary hospital, Grand Rapids.

The body arrived at Traverse City Friday noon and was taken to Lake Leelanau. Sunday afternoon at two o'clock it was removed to the Catholic church there to lie in state until Monday morning at 9 o'clock when high mass was said. The body was then taken to his old home at Saginaw by motor where last rites were held and interment made.

Fr. McManmon was formerly priest at Holy Cross church, Beaver Island, and was well known to Charlevoix residents. A large number from here and Beaver Island attended funeral services Monday.

THREE MANCERONA ROBBERS CAPTURED

TAKEN AFTER GUN FIGHT NEAR ALBA TUESDAY—BOTH SHOT.

Alba Banker, Mancelona Deputy and Bellare Physician Shot During
Two-Day Search for Fugitives.

(From Grand Rapids Herald).

Two brothers, who based their career in crime on the historical slogan: "We've only begun to fight" missed the fruits of victory usually associated with that challenge and today are lying in Lockwood hospital, Potoskey, the second and third to be captured of the quartet of bandits which Monday robbed the Antrim County Savings bank.

The two, Fred Elliott, 25, and Leonard Elliott, 19, former Big Rapids boys, are brothers of Sylvester Elliott, 23, who was seized by a posse Monday night.

It was through Sylvester's capture and resultant confession that state police under Lieut. Earl Hathaway and Capt. Jack Clegghorn, learned the identity of the four bandits and laid the net in which they expect to nab Loren Murks, alias James Kelly, former Kalamazoo policeman, the last of the quartet.

Youth Causes Capture.
Sylvester was captured Monday night when a state police spotlight played upon him as he made a break from his ambush in a marsh six miles northwest of Mancelona. He was unarmed and had none of the loot. He maintained his innocence of the robbery during an all-night questioning by Lieut. Hathaway, but broke down Tuesday morning, implicating the others.

But it was hunger and thirst, climaxed by the juvenile detective ability of an Alba lad, that led to the downfall of Fred and Leonard.

Weakened by their 24-hour fast, the two emerged Tuesday morning from their hide-out in a wooded tract eight miles northwest of Mancelona and picked their way to a general store at Alba about a mile away. With residents of the community on the alert for suspicious-looking strangers, the youth, whose identity was not established, followed them back to their rendezvous in the woods, where they prepared to feast on a loaf of bread and several cans of tomato soup and a basket of tomatoes.

Former Banker Shot.

The boy notified Alba officials and a posse of civilians led by state troopers immediately was formed and surrounded the clump of woods. Surprised during their meal, the Elliotts opened fire on the posse with a sawed-off shotgun, several pellets taking effect in the chest and abdomen of R. C. Bennett, former Alba banker, one of the possmen. They then retreated to the west end of the woods, firing as they went, only to run into a fusillade from other members of the posse.

LILLI-PUT-IEN GOLF COURSE BEING BUILT

Traverse City Interests Locate Course on Merriam Corner.

Coinciding with the general spread in popularity of the miniature golf course fad throughout the country, is the installation of a Lilli-Put-Ien course on the Merriam property, corner of Dixon and Michigan avenues, work on which was started early this week.

H. J. Sweet of Traverse City, is the owner, and the local unit is one of a chain of links in Michigan. Mr. Sweet has others at Traverse City, Cadillac, Manistee and Mackinaw City.

Lilli-Put-Ien links are a permanent lay-out, greens and fairways being constructed of a cotton-seed formula. The course is of 18 holes. It will be lighted with a battery using 4,000 watts for night play. The name is derived from the fairy tale, "Lilliputians," and the names of each fairway will be taken from that well known and popular child's book. Gold gilt will be featured in the landscaping scheme.

It is expected the course will be open for play around June 18th. Local people, who have not been named as yet, will be in charge.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."
But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.
Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the Central Drug Store, the Rexall store.

"KONJOLA SAVED MY LIFE," SAYS DETROIT LADY

Nervousness And Constipation Of Years Standing Yield To New Medicine — Four Bottles Bring Health.

MRS. MARGARET HAYNES.

"Konjola saved my life," said Mrs. Margaret Haynes, 2734 Fourth street, Detroit. "I was a nervous wreck, so nervous that I could not bear to be in the company of my own family. I frequently left the table at mealtime in order to be away from everyone and everything. I was unable to eat and became terribly run down and was losing weight rapidly. No matter what I tried nothing relieved me until I took Konjola."

"Before I took the medicine I was terribly constipated. I was listless, sleepy and unable to do my work properly. This had been going on over a period of fifteen years. I have taken four bottles of Konjola and today my nerves are in much better shape. I have an excellent appetite and am free from the misery of constipation. I cannot say enough in praise of Konjola and I have all my friends taking it."

When given a real trial over a period of from six to eight weeks, Konjola has made a record that would often challenge belief were the actual fact known and verified.

airplane spinning toward Charlevoix. One farmer said to the other, what a wonderful invention, but I believe it is for the rich man and I don't see how it will ever benefit you or I very much. The two farmers went on with their daily work, and in less than two hours the one who was plowing with his tractor discovered that gasket to his tractor was badly worn and he must purchase a new one. He called up by telephone a certain business place in Charlevoix to order one, and the office man said we are just out of your kind of gasket, but if you wish to leave your order, I will have one here by the next airplane. The farmer smilingly, from under the brim of his old straw hat, said, "You have my order, I believe the airplane was meant for me as well as the rich man." He received his gasket and finished his plowing.

ATWOOD.

Fine weather here.
Jack frost hit hard here last week. Work is progressing on the laying of cement on U. S. 31.

L. A. S. meets at the home of Mrs. E. Jolliffe this week Thursday.

Frank Brown is the possessor of a Nash sedan, purchased of Benjamin Brown of Charlevoix.

The Christian Reform church people finished painting and cleaning their church last week.

Glenn LaPres of Columbus, Wis., is here this week in the interests of the Leonard Seed company.

Cecil Blaine and wife, Mrs. Harry Parsons of Grand Rapids, were callers at the E. Jolliffe home last Saturday.

Several went to Charlevoix Memorial day exercises May 30th. All report the exercises at the cemetery as very fine, especially the speech given by the Methodist minister at East Jordan. Some claim that the Charlevoix cemetery is the best in the state.

ROCK ELM.

Orchards look sick and their owners feel sicker since the frost.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Hipp of East Jordan, and Mrs. Hipp's sister of Grand Rapids, were Sunday evening callers at the L. Jensen home.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Sunstead and little daughter, Betty Ann, of Flint, came Friday for a week-end visit at the home of Mrs. Sunstead's sister, Mrs. Lawrence Jensen, and mother, Mrs. Metz. Miss Jessie Metz of Detroit came with them, also Mr. Sunstead's mother, who will remain in East Jordan for a few weeks. The others of the party returned to Flint Sunday.

BARNARD.

Lovely June.
Mrs. William Shapton has been quite ill, but we are glad to know she is improving.

Emerald Bolhuis and Giles Warner drove up from Grand Rapids to visit their parents over the week-end, returning on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Seegmiller and Irene Walker drove up from Detroit last week to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Walker.

Mrs. Frank R. Sawyer of South Haven, Mich., and Miss Beulah Bowdish of Evanston, Ill., visited the latter part of the week with the former's niece and the latter's sister, Mrs. Clarence Beattie and family.

Mrs. A. B. Clarke has been visiting friends in Barnard for a few days. On Sunday she presented the church with a beautiful individual communion set in memory of her husband, A. B. Clarke, who was a lifelong member of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Beattie and two children of "Ann Arbor, arrived Saturday evening for a short visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Beattie of Charlevoix, and with other friends and relatives in and around Barnard.

We hear that Miss Lola Chew and John Boss were married in Charlevoix on Saturday evening. As John is a Barnard boy and Miss Chew taught both Barnard and Clarke schools, they have many friends in this community who wish them a long life of happiness together.

Township school day on Wednesday was attended by a nice crowd from Loeb school and our own neighborhood. In the athletic contests Loeb school won and in the exhibit the schools each received first place on four grades. The pot-luck dinner and program was enjoyed by all present.

The Pomona meeting at the Grange hall on Friday evening was attended by a crowd of strangers from all over the county and several visitors. The program, consisting of songs, recitations and dialogues, and remarks by Mr. Melencamp, preceded the most excellent address by Stanley Powell of Ionia, the speaker of the evening. All voted it a most worth while meeting and hope to have the pleasure of hearing Mr. Powell again.

The respective families of Louis Shapton, Clarence and John Beattie, also Mr. and Mrs. Albert Beattie, Mrs. Frank R. Sawyer of South Haven, and Miss Beulah Bowdish of Evanston, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shaw of Traverse City, enjoyed a picnic dinner together at Whiting park on Sunday.

Mrs. George Ball and son, also her daughter and family of Levering, called on friends in Barnard on Sunday.

HER PLAN WORKED OUT SPLENDIDLY

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

IF ANYBODY had told Edith Kent as she sat dawdling over a late breakfast that morning that she would receive an invitation to dine with Mrs. Jasper French that evening she would not have believed it, for, although Mrs. French had always taken pains to be gracious to Edith, her friendliness had never gone so far as an invitation to dine.

Edith was having a holiday. Her employer had been called unexpectedly out of town and the office would be closed for a day or two. That was why Edith was enjoying a leisurely breakfast instead of hurrying to her work. It was a real treat, for in Edith's life, since her parents' death, there had been all too few times that she could idle away a bit of time. She was a wage earner and had only recently arrived at a time when her earnings made it possible for her to have two rooms in which to work out a semblance to a home for herself. True, to most people her home, as she called it, would have seemed poor enough, but to Edith, long used to hall bedrooms, this sunny room, with its couch, tea wagon and few pieces of ancient furniture, seemed a paradise.

It is true that Edith did not expect to pass an idle day, for there were stockings to darn, her office suit to be sponged and pressed, and a new recipe for sponge-cake, which she wished to try. Therefore, when Mrs. French, who owned the house in which Edith had her "home," came telling up the stairs to announce in a wheezy voice, "Phone, Miss Kent," Edith had no idea what was in store for her.

When Edith had taken down the receiver and called, "Hello!" she received the announcement that it was Mrs. French, and that she wished Edith to dine with her at six that evening. "Perfectly informal," Mrs. French assured Edith. "Only Miss Gordon and my nephew, Harry Case, whom you already know. Afterward we will have a game or two of cards."

At Edith's ready acceptance Mrs. French murmured a conventional phrase or two and said good-by. Edith was in the seventh heaven of delight. To dine with Mrs. French, who up to this time had merely been pleasantly neighborly. To dine and spend an evening in Mrs. French's cozy home, which from the glimpses Edith had caught through the lighted windows as she passed to and from her work must be lovely. To meet the beautiful Miss Constance Gordon, whom she had long admired, but never met, and to be in the presence of Harry Case, whom she had known since their school days, but had seen little of since. Edith's heart fairly danced for joy. She pinched herself to make sure she was awake and not dreaming.

Upstairs she flew. There would not be a moment to waste. The organdie must be put through the dye bath and pressed, her hair brushed until it shone. Oh, there was much to be done before she would be presentable. And all the time she worked her heart sang a merry little accompaniment to the grateful thoughts which danced through her mind at the kindness of Mrs. French in asking her—little Edith Kent—to her house.

At a quarter before six, when Edith ran down the street toward Mrs. French's house, she was still joyously happy. Snowflakes were falling and Edith laughingly held up her face to their caress. What a wonderful world it was! Forgotten were the sorrows and troubles which had beset her nineteen years. Tonight she would be happy.

A trim maid admitted Edith and showed her to the parlor where Mrs. French and Miss Gordon, who had already arrived, were seated before the fireplace talking. As Edith entered the room Mrs. French arose and in a delightful, cordial manner welcomed her, and taking her hand led her to the fire and introduced her to Miss Gordon. For a moment Edith was quite speechless. Never before had she seen anything so perfectly lovely as Miss Gordon. Miss Gordon might have been thirty. At any rate, she had the air of sophistication which is so fascinating to nineteen. She was blond and far more beautiful than nature had intended her to be. Thought of this Edith was unaware. She, too, wore a pink gown, but of a shade that could not be bought for ten cents at the corner drug store. It was satiny—one of those gowns that defy imitation and empty one's purse to buy. It had cost nearly as much as Edith could have earned in a whole year.

Soon after Edith's entrance, the maid ushered in another guest; this time it was Harry Case. From that time on things became very interesting. Indeed, Harry Case was a fine, manly-looking fellow of twenty-one. He had finished college and was spending a year working in his father's office learning what he could of the business before entering the firm as a partner.

The dinner which followed was perfect in every detail. Edith, completely absorbed in the pleasure of her first really fine dinner party, was unconscious of anything save her own enjoyment. She was simply an attractive young girl, beautiful, as youth is always beautiful, and her lack of self-consciousness enhanced her charm, but beside Miss Gordon she was as a tiny taper compared to an incandescent light. Mrs. French, however, saw that every attention was showered impartially upon her guests and she also seemed to be thoroughly enjoying herself.

When the guests returned to the parlor Miss Gordon seated herself upon a big gray davenport and, patting the seat by her side, said to Edith: "Come, my dear; sit beside me. Let us get acquainted."

Under the bright light which the chandelier threw directly on their faces Edith looked like a pink rose-bud, while Miss Gordon, with her touched-up skin and penciled eyebrows, looked decidedly artificial. Harry Case, who had seated himself directly facing the two girls, looked from one to the other at first in surprise and then in growing conviction. Miss Gordon was in her liveliest mood and all went well until Mrs. French was called to the telephone. Then Miss Gordon's wit seemed to vent itself on poor Edith, who was bewildered by the change in the woman's manner. The fifteen minutes which followed were the most uncomfortable that Edith had ever endured. She felt she was being dissected for Harry's benefit, but she endured it all politely. She was, however, glad almost to tears when Mrs. French returned to the room and the maid brought in the card table. The bad quarter of an hour had done its work and left Edith with the joy of the evening blotted.

At ten Miss Gordon decided it was time for her to go home, and to Mrs. French's offer of her car Miss Gordon shook her head and with an arch look at Harry Case said she preferred to walk. But Harry failed to catch the look and, turning to Edith, he asked her if he might walk home with her. Thus the party left the house, Miss Gordon laughing merrily and insisting that she had had a most delightful evening, "dear Mrs. French," but with scarcely a good-night to Harry and Edith, who walked away while she was still saying good-by to her hostess.

As Mrs. French turned from the door and reached to turn off the lights she caught sight of herself in the long mirror over the fireplace and smiled at her reflection. Her little plan had worked very nicely, and Harry's career was safe in the hands of Edith and all she stood for. It had been a darling thing to do, but Harriet French loved her nephew as if he were her own son. She had resolved that he would not become involved in an affair which would hinder or complicate his future. She had been troubled by the growing friendship between Miss Gordon and Harry, for he was at the age where his fancy might be caught by the charm of an older woman. She was sure Miss Gordon was only amusing herself, but to Harry it might be serious enough to spoil his future. Therefore the risk was too great—hence the dinner party.

Mrs. French switched off the lights and ascended the stairs to her room, humming happily to herself.

Force of Environment Superior to Heredity

Take any newborn American youngster into the interior of China and give him over to the exclusive care of a Chinese family, and he will develop flawless Chinese, wear a queue, worship his ancestors, eat with chopsticks, sit on a mat, John B. Watson writes, in Harper's Magazine.

He will learn the Chinese scale of music (very different from our own, since they have a smaller number of notes than we have), develop very different rhythms and accents in music than we have in the West. What has become of his western traits? Inheritances from his jazz-proclitic, piano-playing mother and from his cubist-modernist-in-art father? Gone like the snows of yesterday.

His behavior, his capabilities, what he will do, will be determined by his family life—by the patterns he finds there, by the accidents of that environment, and by the special emotional fixation of the one or the other of his (adopted) parents.

In the light of what we know we can do with the human infant (and ando and spoil) at an early age, we are no longer willing to make accurate observations upon it. Heredity in the sense both of instincts and of inborn traits, dispositions, capabilities, tendencies, constitution must go until other facts are produced to substantiate it.

Adjutant Stork Not Happy in His Exile

There is an Indian adjutant stork with only one wing at the zoological gardens in London.

On the boat he managed to break his wing by thrusting it through the bars of his cage in defiance of his native guardian. This wing had to be amputated when he reached the zoo. And his other wing, with a stretch of some four feet across, plays him false when he tries to fly. So he folds it round him like a soldier's cloak and sits under his mulberry tree, looking very unhappy.

Maybe he is thinking of days gone by, when he followed the course of a river in full flood, pouncing on snakes driven out of their holes, and smashing the head of the biggest with a blow from his strong and massive bill.

If the snake showed fight, he hanged its body to and fro as a terrier would that of a rat. And he ended by swallowing as much of it as he could.

In the East adjutants act as scavengers. They miss nothing that comes their way, be it dead rat or fallen horse.

Flying at a great height, they descend to earth to dispute with vultures, and before an Indian adjutant stork the vultures have to give way.

Old Scotia's Glories Recalled by Tartan

The tartan is the embodiment of everything Scottish. To Scotsmen abroad it conjures up memories of Rob Roy bidding farewell to visitors who try to win him away from his life as a freebooter. "Nor has the world a scene that would console me for the loss of the rocks and cairns, wild as they are, that you see around us." It recalls the "March Past of the Cameron Men" played on the brass when bonnets awayed and kilts wagged. It revives a historic and traditional past, a past that is recorded in literature known all over the world.

Generations have come and gone since the clan system, with its municipality of tartans, ceased to exist. But while there is mist on the mountains the clan settlement will endure.—Exchange.

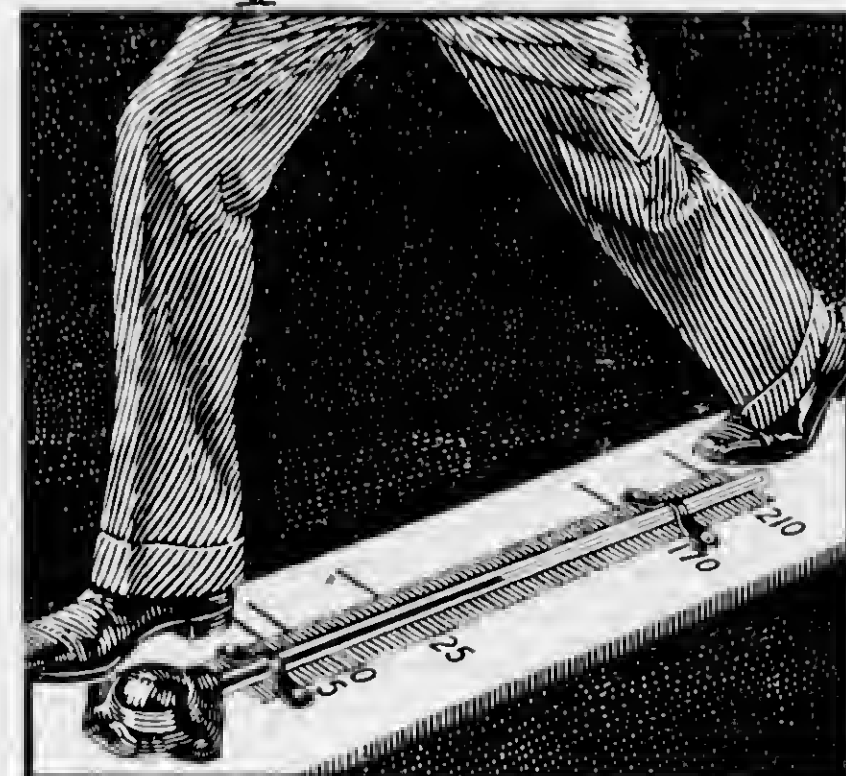

Age of Outdoor Life

This is the age of sunshine and outdoor life. Houses are built with many windows, sun parlors, sleeping porches and daylight basements. Homes are brighter, cheerier and healthier. To modernize an old house is to bring the sunshine in with more and larger windows.

Be sure the spray reaches right through the trees. To insure this, go in, if necessary, underneath the tree and spray the part beyond the trunk first, then step back to the outside and spray the remaining part. Do this from both sides.

New ISO-VIS lubricates properly at all engine temperatures. Some oils—satisfactory at low temperatures—do not stand up under intense heat. Others that are heat resisting refuse to flow in cold weather. New ISO-VIS strides from one end of the thermometer to the other.

TO GET a motor oil that would stand up under sizzling heat and yet flow freely in cold weather, our engineers after long research, developed a new refining process.

New Iso-Vis is a Wholly Distilled Oil. No undistilled parts of the crude have to be added to give it body as is the case with most oils. Only in March was it put on the market . . . after six months of the most careful checking.

Besides its heat and cold resisting features, this improved oil deposits far less carbon than most oils. And by a special patented process, New Iso-Vis is prepared so that it will not thin out in your crankcase.

New Iso-Vis will add miles to the life of your car. Your engine can be drained, flushed and filled with New Iso-Vis at any Standard Oil dealer or service station.

New ISO-VIS 30 quart
The New Polarine also is produced by our new refining process—giving it an efficiency which is exceeded only by New Iso-Vis. The price is 25¢ a quart.

PRETTY HOME WED- DING ON SATURDAY

Miss Lola Chew and John Boss Married at Home of Bride.

At a very pretty wedding Saturday, Miss Lola Salome Chew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Chew of Hayes township, was united in marriage to John E. Boss, son of Ed.
Boss of Marion township.

Rev. W. H. Rauch, pastor of the Charlevoix Baptist church, officiated.
Attending the young couple were Margaret Boss, sister of the groom, and Milo Chew, the bride's brother.
Miss Helen Paul played the wedding march.

Mr. and Mrs. Boss are well and favorably known to local residents.
The latter is a graduate of Charlevoix high school, class of 1927, and of the county normal the year following. For the past two years she has taught nearby rural schools. The groom is employed at the Northern Creamery company. Mr. and Mrs.
Boss will be at home to their many friends after June 6 at 218 Mason street.

THREE MANCELONA ROBBERS CAPTURED

showered them with lead, both brothers falling helpless.

Although wounded in several places, Bennett is thought not to be in a serious condition. The Elliott boys were peppered in the face and chest with buckshot, Leonard sustaining an injury to his right eye, which may result in the loss of his sight. None of the trio is believed to be seriously wounded.

Find Part of Loot.

State police plied the Elliotts with questions at every opportunity and although they made no formal confessions, the officers obtained sufficient statements to lead them to believe the brothers will admit their part in the robbery.

Approximately $500 in bills and currency, equally divided, was found on their persons and several shotguns and boxes of shells in a cache in the woods. According to Sylvester's confession, the firearms and ammunition were stolen from an Alba hardware store which the quartet robbed Saturday night.

Fugitive Takes Train.

A man who fit the description of Marks bought a ticket from Alba to Cadillac Tuesday morning and departed on the Pennsylvania train shortly after 10 a. m. that day. Suspicion that this might have been the fourth bandit coincides with Syl-vester's statement that Marks left the Elliott brothers at Alba and Cadillac officers were notified.

The events, which had extensive ramifications, began when the quartet held up the bank Monday morning and fled with approximately $936 in cash amid a hail of bullets. Herbert Sullivan, war veteran and clerk in a Mancelona dry goods store, was wounded by buckshot when he chased the fleeing bandits for five miles, where they made a stand and picked him off the running board of the automobile driven by Dr. F. G. Rifenberg. He was not seriously injured.

Later in the day Dr. John H. Gervers of Bellaire was critically wounded when two posses, mistaking each other's identity, opened fire on each other, one taking refuge in the Lind-mer slaughter house and meat market outside of Bellaire, raking that building with a hail of lead.

Dr. Gervers was also taken to the Lockwood hospital, Petokey, where his condition still is regarded as grave, although attending physicians announced that he was holding his own. Dr. Gervers was shot in the throat, the bullet piercing his spinal cord, paralyzing him from the hips down.

The robbers were forced to remain in the vicinity of their crime when an automobile that was to have met them at a corner north of Mancelona failed to appear. They had run the car used in the robbery into a deep ravine and were unable to extricate it when their accomplice failed them.

BIBLE CLASSES OPEN ON MONDAY, JUNE 9TH

Daily Classes at Baptist Church to be Held Two Weeks.

Daily vacation Bible school begins in the Baptist church next Monday morning at 9 o'clock and continues two weeks, two and one-half hours each day.

This school is open to all children of the community from 6 to 16 years of age. It will be a real school. We want the boys and girls to remember this as one of the happiest periods of life. There will be no books except in the hands of the teacher. No home study will be required. We shall teach the boys and girls portions of the Bible suited to their ages. Scripture gems will be memorized, story telling, sword drill, habit forming, periods for music and note book work, also supervised play periods.

The school will close on Friday, June 20, with a demonstration of the work in the evening.

Does not this program appeal to you? Will you not cooperate with us in helping your children. Help us advertise the school. Boost it to the children. Tell your neighbors. Visit us when we get going. Pray for us.
Don't forget to ask about anything you do not understand.

We wish to enroll the children at the church next Saturday at 2 o'clock, that we may lose no time from work Monday. A registration fee of ten cents will be asked from each to help cover expenses of the school. Please have your children there if possible. Let us all work together to make this school an epochal two weeks in the child life of our town.—Contributed.

FORMER LOCAL RESI- DENT DEAD IN SOUTH

Clarence Price Succumbed at Daytona, Florida, Monday Evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Price received a message Wednesday morning from Port Orange, Fla., of the death Monday night at 6 o'clock of the former's brother, Clarence Price.

Mr. Price, a former Charlevoix resident, died at the Daytona hospital following a stroke of paralysis. He is survived by his wife and one daughter of Daytona, also two brothers, J. L. Price of Charlevoix and Lyman Price of Catalina Island, Calif.

Card of Thanks.

Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion, wish to thank the citizens of Charlevoix for the part they took in the observance of Memorial Day, Friday, May 30. Especially to those who furnished cars and trucks in the parade; those who assisted in the program, and the speakers of the day.—Adv. 2311p.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Mrs. Sula Hanson and daughter,
Maxine, arrived in Charlevoix Monday for the summer following a winter's sojourn at Cleveland, Ohio. Mrs.
Hansen is manager of the Hotel Alhambra and is now busy supervising preparations there for the summer season.

Miss Minnie Payton, librarian, and Miss Helen Barstow, medical libranian of the Grand Rapids clinic, who is spending some time in the city, attended a librarian meeting in Gaylord Wednesday. They drove over with Mrs. Ira Adams and Vincent Madison.

Mrs. Sandy Shearer, her daughter,
Nita, and son, Emmett, also Mr. and Mrs. Archie Alcock, visited from Thursday until Sunday with the Lefe Alcock family in Pontiac and with relatives in Detroit and Flint. Although hurried, they report the trip a very pleasant one.

Alfred Browe, caretaker of the R.
E. Olds property at Charlevoix, left Sunday for New York City, where he will make his headquarters for the summer. Mr. Olds will summer in the East, making New York his home, and will use a new yacht recently built for him there.

William E. Flynn, assistant manager of The Inn hotel, arrived in Charlevoix Saturday for the summer.
Mr. Flynn has been wintering at Southern Pines, N. C., and before coming to Charlevoix made a short visit with his father, who is very ill at his home in Marblehead, Massachusetts.

Dan C. Walsh, who has been spending the winter months in Southern Pines, N. C., at Mr. Creamer's winter hotel, the Highland Pines Inn, has arrived in Charlevoix for the summer. Mrs. Walsh, who was accompanying him, stopped enroute at Buffalo, N. Y., for a visit to her sister, Mrs. B. W. Edwards.
Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ash of Detroit, were Charlevoix visitors Saturday. They motored up from Bellaire, where they were spending the weekend at the home of Mr. Ash's mother.

Mr. Ash will return to Charlevoix early in June to resume his position as tennis instructor at The Inn courts, a position he has held for several years.

Mrs. R. B. Armstrong left Monday for Denver, Colo., to attend the national convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs. She was chosen a Michigan delegate at the annual convention of the northwestern district held here last week. Mrs. Armstrong will visit Yellowstone National park and other places of interest before returning.

At the Children's Day exercises held last Sunday at the Congregational church, diplomas and Bibles were presented to the following children upon their promotion from the primary department to the junior department: Betty Dean, Martha Imogene Craig, Patty Lou Hyers, Muriel VanAllsburg, Georgia King, Donald Tillotson, Robert Goss, Lee Miller, Shirley McCann.

Mrs. B. L. Harrington and Mrs. E.
N. Coulter were Michigan Air Express passengers to Grand Rapids Monday. Through a cleverly planned ruse, Mrs. Harrington's daughter, Mrs. V. Y. Tuttle of Grand Rapids, was asked by Mrs. H. W. Usher, also of that city, to go for a motor ride. Mrs. Usher incidentally drove Mrs. Tuttle to the airport just in time to see her mother and Mrs.
Coulter alight from the plane. The surprise was quite complete.

Card of Thanks.

Baxter Relief Corps wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to those who furnished cars and trucks in the observance of Memorial Day, and others who took part in the program, both at the cemetery and parade. With this co-operation the day was fittingly observed.—Adv.

SAVING

Just what is saving? Isn't it really keeping your money, or a portion of it, instead of scattering it among people who have as much or more than you have.

Maybe the definition of saving never presented itself to you in that way before, but think it over. Isn't it really the proper definition?

Are you keeping your money or are you scattering it? Are you saving it or are you squandering it? Take thought—then, if you are already saving, save more. If you are not, start today.

We will gladly help.

CENTRAL LAKE.

Frost wrought havoc with many cherry orchards here last week.

Mr. Harrington of Ellsworth, was doing some canvassing here last week. Central Lake's high school graduation exercises take place here this week.

The Petrie boys have all returned from Detroit on account of lack of work there and will work on the farm this summer.

Herbert Ruggles and family have returned from Detroit and will work the old farm this summer. Work in Detroit is scarce.

Barney Mitchell has been settling with the road men this week. U. S. 31 is being graded and widened so that it presents quite the appearance of a Chicago boulevard.

O. R. Morse moved his family back from Lansing last Friday and they will occupy the Hersey residence on the east side of town for the summer. Mr. Morse is employed by the J. B. Rice Seed company of Detroit.

Abe Arnold was able to get out and visit with the J. A. Triplett family this week. He is feeling quite well this spring, but has never entirely recovered from his stroke of paralysis of two years ago.

The airplanes are so regular in their trips over here now that one can quite safely set his clock by them. They fly quite low over the farming communities as though sizing up the cherry crop.

The death last week of Mrs. Mary Green Burns of East Jordan, has removed one of our oldest settlers here who has been identified for over 50 years with the affairs of our community. Her daughter with whom she resided, Mary Green, had charge of the Bell telephone office at East Jordan.

Some of the losses to the cherry crops of this vicinity are reported to be as follows: A. B. Wooton of Bellaire, $4,000; Allen Ardema, $1,000; J. W. Morse, $300; and C. S. Guile of Bellaire, $2,000. It rather curtails the output of the Central Lake Canning company, as they had bargained for the Wooton orchard.

Quite a lot of excitement was stirred up in this burg Monday, when the Mancelona bank was robbed at about 9 o'clock a. m. People from here and Bellaire rushed to the Linderman home north of the fair grounds at Bellaire, where it was reported the robbers were hiding. It was afterwards found that Dr. Gervors of Bellaire, had gone down to the place to head off the robbers and when the Mancelona searchers came along fired on them, thinking they were the bandits. They thought he and his son Fred, two Mr. Bradys, and Mr. Linderman were the bandits, and fired, shooting the Doctor in the shoulder, who lay there for an hour before being removed to the hospital. Mr. Linderman did once answer his call for water, but being aimed at with a rifle did not again go to his rescue, as there was danger of getting killed himself. Mr. Linderman's residence was something like a sieve, it was so full of bullet holes. The four men took refuge in the cellar. In the meantime the robbers had made their escape, presumably on a different route. It is reported about $2,000 was taken, but Mr. Mills, the cashier, tells us that the loss was fully covered by insurance. Mr. Sullivan of Medalie's store, was the hero of the hour, as he thinks he shot one of the bandits as there was blood in the car abandoned. William Kittle of Bellaire, was another hero, as he was the one to stop the firing at Bellaire, thereby saving the men's lives in the Linderman home.

EVELINE.

School closed Monday with a picnic at the school for the children and parents.

Pattie Clark of Barnard is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman, this week.

Walter and Charlie Cooper returned to Flint Sunday after a two weeks' visit with their parents. Mrs. James Zitka entertained her sister and family, and also her father of Detroit, a few days last week.

Will Vandermade of Ann Arbor, was here for Decoration day to spend the day with his mother, Mrs. Robert Sherman.

The Thomas and Kiser families went to Bellaire for Decoration day and the Best family spent the day at Ellsworth.

A farewell party was given last Wednesday night for Mr. and Mrs. Harry Knudsen, who left next morning for their home in Pennsylvania, after a visit with his brother, John Knudsen and family.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

STATE INVESTIGATION STARTS SOON

CHUBNET OPERATIONS SUBJECT OF 2-YEAR RESEARCH WORK.

"Fulmar" Being Placed in Shape for Tests—Many Repairs Made—Four States Cooperating.

Plans for an extensive investigation of the chub net operations on Lake Michigan are being completed here by the Michigan department of conservation.

The U. S. Bureau of Fisheries vessel "Fulmar" is being outfitted for the work at Hamilton's boat yards. A new forward deck house with net lifting equipment, laboratory, addition to captain's quarters and rear deck covering are being added to the boat.

The investigation will be in charge of Dr. John Van Ooston, in charge of Great Lakes fisheries investigations, and is being sponsored by the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, the conservation department of Michigan and Wisconsin, and a group of fish net and twine companies. Three fisheries scientists of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries stationed at Ann Arbor, will assist.

Experimental fishing will be started about June 1, and it is expected the work must be continued at least two years to obtain sufficiently adequate data to satisfy all parties involved and to arrive at a permanent settlement of the controversies.

Gangs of experimental chub nets of various sizes meshes will be fished simultaneously in five localities in Lake Michigan, one gang in the northern area of the lake, and two gangs along each shore of the lake in the chub waters south of an imaginary line connecting Frankfort, Michigan, and Sturgeon Bay, Wisconsin. The primary purpose of these experiments is to determine which size mesh destroys the greatest number of immature lake trout—a hotly disputed question upon which neither the various states nor the fishermen can agree.

The law provides a two and three-quarter inch mesh for chubs in the State of Michigan, a two and five-eighths inch mesh in the state of Wisconsin, and a two and one-half inch mesh in the states of Indiana and Illinois, and the fishermen of Wisconsin are attempting to legalize the two and one-half inch mesh commonly used in Wisconsin.

Data will also be obtained on the number of sexually immature chubs taken in the different sized meshes and on the question whether it is possible to fish chub nets out of the various parts of Lake Michigan and at all seasons of the year without destroying an undue number of lake trout.

Experimental gill nets will also be fished to ascertain the effect of the method of stringing on the taking of lake trout, to test the fishing ability of nets treated with a new non-preserved recently developed by the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, and to locate the grounds of the yearling lake trout.

At each setting of the nets, determinations will be made of the depth of water, the nature of the bottom, the temperatures at various levels, and possibly the chemical condition of the water at several levels in order to obtain some data on the factors involved in the distribution of lake trout and chubs.

Data will be obtained on the food of the lake trout and chubs, on species of races of lake trout in Lake Michigan and on the life histories of the lake trout and chubs, emphasizing their age, growth and size at sexual maturity. Lake trout and whitefish will be tagged to determine the extent of their migratory movements.

At regular intervals lifts by the fishermen with their bait nets and hooks will be examined to obtain data on the number of immature chubs destroyed by the bait nets, the amount of chubs wasted by the hook fishermen and the number of immature trout destroyed by hooks. The lifts of the commercial chubnets will also be inspected at irregular intervals for the purpose of comparison with the lifts from the experimental nets.

AT THE MOVIES.

Two Blonde Beauties in "Love Racket."

When William A. Seiter, famous director, was casting his players for "The Love Racket," the first National picture which comes to the Palace Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, June 4 and 5, he discarded the usual formula of casting brunettes as a foil for blondes.

Dorothy Mackaill, the star of the picture, is a decided blonde, and Alice Day, chosen by Seiter to play "the other woman" is also a blonde. So the pulchritude of this particular story runs to blondes, it being Seiter's theory that a good actress is a good actress, regardless of the color of her hair.

The picture is based on the successful stage play "The Woman on The Jury" by Bernard K. Burns, and was adapted for the screen by John Goodrich.

Sidney Blackmer, famous stage player who has recently entered pictures, appears opposite the star. The supporting cast includes Edmund Burns, Myrtle Stedman, Edwards Davis, Clarence Burton, Edith Yorke and Martha Mattox.

Yachting Scenes of "The Divorcee" Prove Stumbling Block to Director Leonard.

Making talkies while yachting on the blue billows of the Pacific brought beautiful scenes into "The Divorcee," Norma Shearer's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, which comes Friday and Saturday, June 6 and 7, to the Palace Theatre, but only brought gray hairs to the heads of the sound technicians.

The scenes were filmed aboard the 90-foot power yacht, "Gentry," off the coast of Catalina Island, an ideal setting for marine landscape, but poorly cast in behaviour of wind and waves.

Miss Shearer, a devoted lover of sailing and yachting, enjoyed the rough trip much more than most of the camera and technical crews who seemed glad to get back on solid earth after choppy Catalina Channel jaunt.

Chester Morris plays opposite Miss Shearer in "The Divorcee," which was adapted from a story by Ursula Parrott. The supporting cast includes Robert Montgomery, Conrad Nagel, Zella Sears, Tyler Brooke, Mary Doran, Florence Eldridge, George Irving, Helene Millard, Robert Elliott and Helen Johnson.

Mikes Capture Outdoors Thrills for Big Classic.

A spectacular outdoors action scene in which 300 head of bellowing cattle swim across the swirling current of the Stanislaus river in California, is one of the big features of "The Virginian," which comes to the Palace Theatre Sunday and Monday, June 8 and 9.

The action scene represents a new chapter in talking picture history. It is the first time such a spectacle has ever been recorded on film.

The handsome Gary Cooper, with his winning drawl and tall, rangy physique is admirably cast as the hero. Huston is sensational as the villain. It is a triumph of talking pictures that such remarkable talent can be brought to show-goers in two dimensions—"see" and "hear."

In Memoriam.

Gornell—In loving memory of our dear uncle, who passed away June 5, 1925:

When the evening shadows have fallen, and we sit here all alone, To our hearts there comes a longing, if you could only come home.

No one knows the silent heartaches—only those who last can tell Of the grief that in silence for the one we loved so well.

From his nephew and niece, Joseph and Alice Gornell.—Adv. 23tl.

"MICHIGAN IN SUMMER."
 "Michigan In Summer" is the name of the pamphlet the Pennsylvania Railroad has issued for the year 1930. The pamphlet is a beautifully arranged booklet advertising northern Michigan resorts.

The Little Traverse Bay region, including Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Bay View, Rosedale, Menominee Beach, Ramona Park, Roaring Brook, Wequetonsing, Harbor Point, Forest Beach, Clifton Heights, Charlevoix, Wailoon Lake, Conway, Cincinnati Point, Olen, Indiana Point, Ponshe-waing, Burr Lake, Birchwood Bay, Pinewood Camp, Douglas Lake, Carp Lake, Northwoods Camp, Mackinaw City, and Point St Ignace on the Straits, are described in detail.

"Bountiful nature has showered her choicest treasure on the lower Michigan peninsula. With hundreds of beautiful inland lakes, with their broad, sandy beaches; with great forests of resinous woods; everywhere breezes that bring new life and vigor; surely this northland is the pre-eminent summer playground of young and old.

"Michigan in summer! It holds for the vacationist that subtle fascination which makes him want to linger in the cool, pine-scented forests, along the sparkling streams, on the limpid lakes, or beside the enchanting waters of Lake Michigan.

"No matter what your mood, Northern Michigan is tempered to them."

In addition to the detailed information telling of the location and the beauty of each particular resort, there is a complete directory of the boys' and girls' camps located in the region, and the location, name, size and length of the various golf courses.

In addition to a synopsis of the Michigan fish laws for the 1930 season, there is a complete directory of the hotels and boarding houses in each resort, giving the names of the hotels, the managers, post office address, capacity and rates per day and week.

The Mackinac region and the Grand Traverse region are depicted in detail.

In correlation to the splendid descriptions there are many excellent pictures to further portray the beauty and advantages of this glorious country of ours.

The Pennsylvania Railway company is to be complimented on the literature which they are distributing in order to further advertise this great vacation-land. We are glad and proud to note further that this progressive organization, which has already done so much to further the good of the region is continually forging ahead with the great work.—Emmet County Graphic.

EAT LESS AND WORK MORE.

If you are fat, eat less and exercise more or remain as you are.

There is no easy way to take off the surplus flesh that so many people carry about. If you are heavy, nature has either made you that way or else you do not really care.

Many people have been imposed upon by snake-oil sales. They have tried to reduce in a way that has done them real harm. Doctors advise a reduction of weight but most of them feel that much reduction is obtained at a high price in health.

The department of agriculture has its experts who report on food and drugs. They warn the public against the use of so-called "reduction remedies" in no uncertain terms. Some of the remedies have been driven from the market. Here is what the experts say:

"Promoters of so-called obesity remedies and fat reducing cures are attempting to influence fat people to spend money for worthless or dangerous preparations. The advertisements appeal to the vanity of persons who wish to regain slim, graceful figures and also to the business necessities of those who become so fat that they can no longer do their work efficiently. The principal appeal of most of the promotion claims is that no dieting is necessary; the medicine is to do it all and the advertiser says the patient can eat all he wants and as often as he wishes, which is a strong inducement to most stout people.

"These preparations frequently contain thyroid and laxatives. The promiscuous use of thyroid may prove very harmful unless given under the advice of a physician personally familiar with the subject's physical condition. The department has on record an instance where death has followed an overdose of a preparation containing thyroid. Some preparations contain poke root (phytolacca), a poisonous drug, and others, analysis shows, contain nothing that could possibly have the slightest effect in reducing flesh.

"The promoters of one preparation assert that it secures most marvelous results by a process of elimination of foods without digestion. These people guarantee the reduction of a pound a day. A preparation of this character, if it did what its makers claim for it, would probably eliminate any need of digestion in the future. Another product, examination shows, consists principally of ordinary soap.

"The idea is to apply this locally with friction and thus remove the fat wherever it may be in excess. A still more clever scheme provides chemicals to be added to the water in which the patient is to bathe. These chemicals are of such a nature that they form a sort of curd in the water after the patient has bathed. This curd, the advertisement states, is fat and surplus tissue removed from the body. Other schemes offer tablets at 75 cents a dozen which are claimed to reduce fat at the rate of a pound a day.

"No other class of preparation exploited to humbug the people has a wider sale than these so-called fat reducers, and nearly all the preparations are absolutely worthless. Often patients seem to lose weight, but this is to be attributed to the hot baths and the diet and exercises recommended to accompany the medication."

THREE BAKERIES GONE. HOW ABOUT TWO FURNITURE STORES?

(R. D. Gifford in the Eaton Rapids Journal).

Since the last issue of the Journal a number of people have been brought to realize that the matter of eating bread made in Lansing, Albion or Battle Creek, instead of calling for home baked goods means something after all. In our last week's issue we told you what the result is today.

Now, how about two furniture stores we could boast of a few years back? At one time Eaton Rapids had two very good furniture stores, stocked with very fine furniture, each doing a very good business. What have we today? The two large furniture stores have gone the way of others—in other words that have "walked the plank" and plunged beneath the waves of business oblivion, never to rise again unless home patriotism is reborn and the economic value of spending your money at home is fully realized by the citizenry. We have several vacant stores in town today—not good things to look upon—not good for the owners—not good for the business places in which the owner is in the habit of spending his money and not good for the city in general. Who'll walk the plank next? Will it be YOU or ME—God only knows.

MERIT AND MULES.

It has taken the war department 12 years to get around to giving Curtis Harrison, a Columbus, Ohio, veteran of the world conflict, the Distinguished Service Cross "for extraordinary heroism," but the story does not suffer by the delay.

On the contrary it recalls, at a time when the years are dimming the doctory deeds of the doughboys, the unusual but not uncommon courage which they manifested on many occasions.

Mr. Harrison did not drag a wounded buddy to safety through the hell of no man's land, nor single-handed capture an entire German detachment. His feat was of still sterner stuff—he made a stable of army mules keep on their gas masks through a 12-hour attack, spite of the fact that he was twice felled by the concussion of shells and wounded by shrapnel.

It is alone the fact that Mr. Harrison risked his own life to save those of the animals which makes this incident remarkable. Mules are traditionally stubborn, and we doubt that even army discipline changed the nature of those in the service.

Imagine getting one of the beasts to wear a gas mask for half a day, multiply this by a stableful, add the element of terror because of the bombardment, along with Mr. Harrison's own wounds, and you have an idea of the tremendous work which he successfully engineered.

An expert has made the clever suggestions that the surplus of farm products may be reduced by raising less stuff.

Lindbergh has become an enthusiast about gliders, but we doubt that he will try to duplicate his New York-Paris flight in one of them.

Community Building

Architects in Move for Creative Beauty

With the prime motive of improving upon the nation's architecture, a plan has been proposed by the American Institute of Architects by which the efforts of the various artists will be united to produce a perfect work of art in each building. This plan involves collaboration among architects, sculptors, mural painters, landscape architects and craftsmen, which is believed will bring about a notable advance in architectural expression.

C. Merriek Hammond, of Chicago, president of the American Institute of Architects, in a report, says: "The world in which we live is essentially a collaborative creation. We who are living in it find ourselves surrounded by conditions which have come about as a result of the adjustment of forces, some of them creative, some of them destructive, some of them making for order and durability and beauty, and some of them tending to confusion, instability and ugliness. No lasting element in our environment is the result of purely individual effort. Collaboration has been a continuous creative influence in every great human undertaking.

"Every architect realizes his dependence upon the results of collaborative effort in those phases of his work that are classed as structural and in all those matters in regard to which the specialist must be called in, but in the matter of ethics he has become more and more an individualist, less and less appreciative of the adjustments between master minds that have made possible the great achievements of the past."

Co-Operation Helps to Bring in Industries

Co-operation between the Toledo (Ohio) real estate board and the industrial department of the Toledo Chamber of Commerce has been sufficiently successful to be made the subject of a special letter sent out by the chamber of commerce to each individual member of the real estate board. Inquiries from industries which are contemplating a new location are usually, of course, made in confidence. Where such inquiries are made to the industrial department of the chamber of commerce a letter is sent out from the president of the real estate board, in his capacity as a member of the industrial committee of the chamber. In this letter pledge of the real estate men of Toledo is given to co-operate with any new concern coming into the city.

Where open requests for information are received from industries, the chamber of commerce sends copies to any real estate men having on file property that fits into the request.

Architectural Changes

"A building," an architect explains, "is only enclosed space, or a combination of spaces. The shape and size of the desired space are factors in determining the outline of the building. There is a reason for every architectural form. The Egyptians, the Greeks, and the Romans, had their own peculiar needs, for which spaces were enclosed, and sheltered from the elements.

"The ornamentation of the past had, as its purpose the telling of stories. Most of the people could not read. Religion and patriotism were conveyed to them through likenesses and symbols. Artists who wished to glorify themselves had the stories of their exploits done so that their subjects might see and appreciate their greatness.

"Today, printing and reading have taken the place of this decoration. People no longer observe and study such details. They are unnecessary. Things which are unnecessary tend to disappear."

Fighting City Congestion

An attempt to limit the density of population in residence areas is made in a unique building code restriction adopted by the city of Madison, N. J., a suburban community which is attempting to protect itself against the piling up of congestion in its residence sections. An amendment to the building code prohibits the erection in any part of that community of buildings to house more than one family for each 2,500 square feet of lot area. This is equivalent to limiting the maximum density of population to 17 families to the acre.

Consider Neighborhood

While a family may think that it would like to live close to relatives and friends, this factor should not be given too much weight. Nevertheless, the general type of people living in the neighborhood is important, especially if there are children in the family, who should be brought up in the right kind of surroundings.

Appearance Counts

Keeping up the exterior appearance of one's home keeps up the real estate value of the grounds as well as the building. One home, fallen into dilapidated condition, not only depreciates tremendously in its own value but tends to lower the value of all the homes along the street.

NEW ENTERTAINMENT LAYOUT BUILT HERE

Pee Wee Golf Courses, Inc., Putting In Unit on North Side.

Adding to their Michigan layout, the Pee Wee Golf Courses, Inc., a Michigan corporation, are putting a string of 18-hole units in Northern Michigan. Work has already been started in Charlevoix at the corner of Michigan avenue and River street, and others are to be installed at Beaver Island, Bay View and Harbor Springs.

Pee Wee golf courses have been the entertainment rage wherever located, according to word coming from southern resorts. G. S. Clark, vice-president of the corporation, who has charge of the northern Michigan chain, stated Monday that his concern had courses in several California and Texas cities, also in various larger cities in southern Michigan. All have proven a great drawing card.

The Charlevoix unit, which is portable the same as all others, will be ready for use around June 15th. Night play is the big feature, and the lot is lighted with a battery of lights using 5,000 watts. The miniature links are 18 holes, designed along golfing lines to promote accuracy as well as fun and entertainment. The lot will be landscaped to add to its attractiveness.

Pee Wee golf courses are manufactured in Muskegon. The company is said to be one of the originators of the miniature golf idea in the country. However, they are not the first in Charlevoix. The Inn 18-hole links, built last summer by John R. Bowker, being the first in this section of the state. If reports from the south are true, this new entertainment feature should be a great local attraction to reporters and tourists.

COUNCIL VOTE FUNDS FOR SPORTS PROGRAM

Commerce Body Employs Recreational Director—Prospects Bright.

Summer sports, listed as features on Charlevoix's 1930 entertainment program, were given impetus this week by the city council, who voted liberal allowances towards the expenses of the various events.

Five hundred dollars was voted for the Michigan Riviera tennis tournament, scheduled for the week of August 18th, and an equal amount for the Great Lakes Open Golf championships to be played on the Belvedere course in July.

In addition, the council agreed to make extensive improvements at the North Side ball park to get it in shape for the season's schedule.

The Charlevoix Association of Commerce has closed a contract with Robert Short of St. Louis, Mo., to act as city recreational director. He will handle swimming events, the regatta and other features of the summer program.

Considering prospects from all angles, Charlevoix's summer sports program will be the most successful on record. Those in charge of the various events are negotiating with stars of national prominence to compete in the golf and tennis tournaments.

FIRST SPIRITUALIST CHURCH.

GRADUATES HEAR A FINE ADDRESS

GYM CROWDED FOR EXERCISES
LAST FRIDAY EVENING.

Thirty-three Seniors and Fourteen Normal Students Bld Good-Bye to Charlevoix Schools.

"The man of vision is a dreamer, a forefather into the unknown. His obstacles are milestones to mark the progress of his journey and his dreams are often the forerunners of things that may eventually be."

This was the message brought to the class of 33 seniors and 14 normal students who graduated from Charlevoix high school and normal Friday evening. Wallace Bruce Ambury of Armour Institute of Technology of Chicago, spoke on "Dreams of Power," emphasizing the value of dreams to the world of today, declaring that there is always room for more dreamers, and that the visions of great men have accomplished so much in these days that no one dared to ridicule the dreamer. Mr. Ambury spoke in place of C. M. Sanford of the Redpath Bureau, who was unable to be here on account of illness.

Mr. Ambury carried his audience to emotional heights, and dipped down to refreshing bits of humor running the full gamut of human experience. "So many words in our vocabulary," said the speaker, "are to the man born, and by Divine right there hedges about them the halo of majesty. To me there is a kindly grace in the very sound of the word 'power'—the two syllables have a regal vibration and resonance that is dynamic. Symbol of force, strength, energy—it belongs to the royal family of words, purple-crowned—possess it, and you possess a kingdom."

The speaker then cited in dramatic pictures the achievement of some of our great inventors, engineers and scientists: Marconi, Roebing, Lee De Forest and others—all dreamers.

"When the first radio message ever broadcast came to the waiting De Forest who had dreamed of the possibility of such a thing—it seemed to him the whirl of spirit wings passing bearing the laurel. His castle had been floating in air, he took Thoreau's advice and put a solid foundation under it."

The speaker warned the students to: "Beware of the shabby garments of Failure. The self assurance that comes to a neat, smartly dressed person is an asset incomparable. A millionaire is the only man who can afford to dress like a poor one." "Avoid the cynical attitude. It is a form of conceit, and conceit in any form is motivated by a shallow mind where obnoxious self-esteem will eventually eat its heart out with envy, self-pity and remorse."

The speaker registered the poet as a factor, a force, a power in the scheme of things, in these effective words:

"In all the ages poets have awakened the dormant conscience of nations and done much to fashion policies of the state. They dream of power and attain it. They are the spokesman of the people, and by their utterances compel the powers that be to put their house in order. By use of symbols they liberate thought and emancipate us from the narrow and provincial mode of thinking." Here the speaker quoted many poets to illustrate the emotions that poetry awakens.

"Some of you dream of financial power and will attain it. Possession of it is the acid-test of character. It is up to you to use it as a rock to destroy, or a foundation upon which to build the highest of ideals. Remember this: 'A man takes to his grave only the things that he has given away.'"

He advised his audience to cultivate a sense of humor.

"Above the deep well of truth that served Lincoln with its wisdom, the jingle of the jester's bells was often heard. Lincoln had a sense of humor, and it proved for him life's greatest blessing. He laughed with the world—not at it."

The speaker dramatized the vision of Daniel Burnham who looked upon the unsightly condition of Chicago's front door-yard 30 years ago. It resembled a pig-sty, but it had possibilities, and Burnham the dreamer saw them. He dreamed of making a thing of beauty out of this mud-dump—to-day it is a veritable fairy-land—a beautiful reality."

Concluding, the speaker said: "Work, as the troubadours of old sang to some ideal. Dream and try to realize every vision that may come and have it said of you: 'He was a dreamer who had dreams of power, who by force of character, inclination, and wise direction, used his gifts intelligently and made his dreams come true.'"

FRED ALBERTS BUYS CO. CREDIT EXCHANGE

Takes Over Business in Both Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

Fred Alberts, manager of the Charlevoix County Credit Exchange, announced Tuesday morning that he had purchased the organization's interests north of Traverse City and would continue the business under his personal direction as previously.

Territory involved in the transaction includes Charlevoix and Emmet counties. While Mr. Alberts states there would likely be some changes in collection rates, the general business will be conducted without change.

Mr. and Mrs. Alberts will continue to make their permanent home in Charlevoix, and it is the new owner's intention to expand the business considerably.

BIBLE SCHOOL CLASSES OPEN

ENROLLMENT SHOWS BIG INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR.

Classes Will Continue for Two More Weeks—Commencement to be Held Friday Eve., June 20.

Monday marked the opening of the second daily vacation bible school held in Charlevoix. The enrollment exceeds by far over the enrollment of last year. The register showed 71 Monday with an addition of seven Tuesday, making the enrollment the second day 78. We have reasons to believe, with this increased attendance over last year, that Charlevoix residents are seeking the highest ideals in life for the children.

This school of religious instruction lasts but for two short weeks, two and one-half hours each morning. If you have children who have not enrolled, send them for the remaining seven days. Special mention will be made of those who have a perfect attendance record, at the commencement exercises on Friday evening of the 20th. We have secured the best teachers for the school we have. At the head of each department we have trained public school teachers.

The following are the faculty: superintendent, W. H. Rauch; primary department, Miss Mildred Howe and Miss Pearl Smith, assisted by Miss Erma McGinnis; junior department, Mrs. Mary Kirby, assisted by Dorothy Beardsley; intermediate, Miss Erma Carey; high school age, Mrs. W. H. Rauch. Mr. Rauch is in charge of the boys' projects.

BRADLEY-BROWN WEDDING WAS MAY 29TH

Popular Young Couple Steal March on Their Many Friends.

Coming as a pleasant surprise to local friends is the marriage on Friday, May 29th, of Floyd Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Brown, and Miss Marian Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bradley of Harbor Springs.

The ceremony was performed at Traverse City. Attending the bridal couple were Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Beaudoin of Petoskey.

The former Miss Bradley is a popular member of the younger social set at Harbor Springs. She graduated from high school there and attended Western State Normal at Kalamazoo and Mt. Pleasant Normal college. Mr. Brown, who is associated with his father in business here, is a graduate of the local high school and Ferris Institute.

The Courier joins their many friends in extending congratulations.

BOULDER PARK WATER MAIN IS BEING LAID

Work of laying a 4-inch water line to Boulder Park from the city's main at the head of Antrim street was started this week and is now well under way. Water at Boulder Park has been previously furnished from flowing wells and the hook-up with the city lines gives assurance of a very adequate water supply.

GIVE BAND CONCERT SATURDAY

SCHOOL BAND TO PLAY AT BRIDGE STREET STAND.

Beginners' Class Now Being Organized Wants More Members; School Band Plays at Interlochen.

John TerWee, director of the city and school bands, has started the task of organizing a new beginners' school band to replace members lost by graduation in June and to add pieces to the organization for the coming year.

Practice sessions are to be held at the band room in the junior high building each Tuesday and Friday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. An invitation is extended to any school youth who wishes to join. They may report to Mr. TerWee at once and begin practice with the rest of the group.

Practice sessions for the regular school band is each Friday evening at 7 o'clock. On Saturday evening of this week they will play a concert program at the city band stand on Bridge street.

On July 27th, Interlochen will entertain a massed band from the entire territory known as district No. 5. Charlevoix and East Jordan have been invited and are now practicing hard on the music to be played there.

John Philip Sousa, internationally famous band leader, is expected to lead the massed bands when they play his favorite marches. Last year the group included three hundred high school boys and girls and there was an audience of over 6,000 people present to hear the concert.

A bigger band and a larger crowd is expected this year. It is a high honor to the local school band to play under this world-famous bandmaster and they are practicing hard for the occasion.

Band and special concerts at Interlochen last year drew thousands of regular visitors from the Northern Michigan resort region. It was a great attraction and is destined to be even more popular in years to come.

EVELINE TOWNSHIP LOSES LOVED ONE

Mrs. Frank K. Hayden Died Tuesday Morning, June 3rd.

Mrs. Frank K. Hayden passed away at her home at Orchard Hill, Eveline township, Tuesday morning, June 3, 1930, following an illness of a year from tuberculosis. She had been confined to her bed since last February.

"RESORT SPECIAL" NOW IN OPERATION

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 11, MARKED INITIAL RUN ON P. M.

Other Trains June 15, 17, 19 and 22—Regular Summer Service to Open Tuesday, June 24th.

Pre-season and post season runs of trains Nos. 10 and 9 between Chicago and the Northern Michigan resort region have been announced by the Pere Marquette Railway company passenger department.

The "Resort Special" arrives in Charlevoix the morning of Wednesday, June 10th, on its initial run. Leaving dates from Chicago are announced as June 10, 13, 16, 18 and 20. Southbound dates from Bay View are June 11, 15, 17, 19 and 22. The regular summer schedule begins with the northbound out of Chicago on June 23rd and southbound from Bay View June 24th.

Arriving time at Charlevoix is 7:37 a. m. and leaving time 7:32 p. m. Equipment includes sleeping car between St. Louis and Bay View via C. & A.; sleeping cars (including observation sleepers) between Chicago and Bay View; sleeping car between Chicago and Traverse City; club car between Chicago and Bay View.

The "Resort Special" will be placed in service on the Detroit division north bound on Monday, June 23rd, and southbound from Bay View on Tuesday, June 24th, operating via Saginaw in both directions.

On advance dates named, connection at Grand Rapids from Toledo and Detroit, northbound, will be by regular train leaving Toledo at 1:50 p. m. and Detroit at 4:30 p. m. except on June 20th, when train No. 15 will be operated from Detroit via Grand Rapids, leaving Detroit at 8:30 p. m.

Coincident with arrival of the first "Resort Special," Hallett Hotel opened for the 1930 season. Other of the city's hostilities will open for the season in June. Advance reservations indicate the resort season will have its usual quota for June and later months show a large increase.

EXPRESS REGRET OF RECENT OVERSIGHT

Shakespeare Program Committee Credit East Jordan Member.

The program committee of the Shakespeare Study Club wish to make an apology to Mrs. Kitzman of East Jordan, who so generously gave of her talent at the district meeting of Women's Clubs, as her name was not in the report.

The state federation created the department of poetry at the last annual meeting and the northwestern district was happy to present Mrs. Kitzman in her original poems. They were very much enjoyed.

Mrs. Kitzman plans to publish her poems at some future time.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the Central Drug Store, the Rexall store.

KONJOLA ENDS SUFFERINGS OF THREE YEARS

Battle Creek Man Eager in Praise Of New Medicine—Kidney And Liver Troubles Banished.

MR. CHARLES GARRET.

"For three years I suffered daily with the pangs of kidney and liver trouble," said Mr. Charles Garret, route No. 10, Battle Creek. "The more medicines I tried the worse my condition became. I had nausea and dizzy spells and was forced to rise often at night. I felt tired and worn out all the time and took little or no interest in my work. Back pains and bilious attacks brought on severe headaches and my nerves were becoming badly shattered."

"I had tried so many medicines without benefit that I hesitated when Konjola was recommended. Almost from the beginning of the treatment with this new medicine life took on a different aspect for me. One by one the organs of my body became normal. Back pains vanished and my kidneys functioned as they should. My liver was no longer torpid and sluggish and I was free from headaches and bilious attacks. I am in better health today than I have been since childhood."

Konjola is designed to give thorough and lasting relief. Like any worth-while treatment it should be taken over a period of from six to eight weeks in most cases. Results after such a treatment will amaze you as they have countless thousands of men and women.

WEST MICHIGAN HISTORIC TOUR

WILL VISIT CHARLEVOIX EARLY IN JUNE.

Tour Leaves Grand Rapids Thursday June 19—Newspaper Men Will Accompany Tour.

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of an invitation to participate in the "Western Michigan Historic and Legendary Tour" being jointly sponsored by the Muskegon Chamber of Commerce and the Grand Rapids Association of Commerce. The plan, as tentatively outlined, is to have each community or organization represented by an auto load of its official representatives.

All the various communities throughout the resort territory of Western Michigan have been invited to participate as well as the Michigan Tourist and Resort Association and the Western Michigan Motor club, both of which organizations have members or branches in most of the communities, which will be visited.

The purpose of the tour is to locate and mark historic and legendary places of interest in order to create greater appeal about them to summer tourists, thereby making additional business. It is the belief of the sponsors of the tour that Michigan has a great potential value in this field which is not being advertised sufficiently and they believe that through this tour, much good can be accomplished.

The local chamber of commerce is asked to start an immediate campaign in Charlevoix to enlist the help of every citizen and organization in locating these historic and legendary spots and to secure as much information as possible regarding them.

All persons or organizations which have such information or can get such data will greatly help in the movement by bringing notes to the information bureau as soon as possible.

This information will be assembled and prepared and sufficient copies type-written so that each organization participating in the tour may have a copy upon the arrival of the tour.

Representatives of all the newspapers of mid-western cities have been invited to accompany the tour, which fact alone should result in thousands of dollars worth of advertising which could not be purchased.

There will be no expense to the local chamber of commerce, unless it enters one or more cars in the tour, in which case the party representing this city would pay its own lodging and automobile expense.

The tentative itinerary calls for leaving Grand Rapids Thursday morning, June 19, and going over the following route: Hastings, Kalamazoo, Paw Paw, Dowagiac, Niles, St. Joe, Benton Harbor, Watervliet, South Haven, Saugatuck, Beulah, Frankfort, Leeland, Northport, Traverse City, Charlevoix, Petoskey, Harbor Springs, Boyne City, Reed City, Cadillac and Big Rapids, Holland, Grand Haven, Muskegon, Hart, Whitehall, Pentwater, Ludington, Manistee.

SERVING MANY BUSINESSES

Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford

A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most instances, the Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter and Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks. The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality of materials, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

At many points, as on the transmission counter-shaft, clutch release, fan and pump shaft, and front drive shaft, these ball and roller bearings are used where less costly types of bearings might be considered adequate.

Additional instances of the high quality built into the Ford are the extensive use of steel forgings, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, Rustless Steel, four Hondaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, and the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part, and then, through large production, give it to the public at low cost.

This poster is being distributed by the Committee on Education, Safety Section, American Railway Association. The figures are taken from Interstate Commerce Commission reports, and include all reportable injuries, no matter how slight, to all classes of employees whether working in shops or offices. Considering that there was an average of approximately 1,700,000 employees last year, the fact that total casualties affected only about 60,000 or 3 1/2 per cent constitutes an amazing tribute to the safety work of the railways.

Of the total casualties in 1929 to railway employees on duty, 60,000 were injuries, a reduction of 60 1/2 per cent as compared with 1923; whereas 1,348 were fatalities, a reduction of 30 1/2 per cent as compared with 1923.

THIS LAND OF OURS.

Very soon there will be graduated from our institutions and colleges thousands of young men and women who have completed their courses and will enter upon their life work. They face the world with a different prospect before them from that which confronted their parents and their grandparents.

The opinion is held in some quarters that America has exceeded the bounds of reason in education, and that the professions are being crowded by men who would make better mechanics, while the field of workers and artificers is not getting the services of an adequate number of recruits, nor recruits of the right calibre. Be that as it may, the fact remains that one of the brightest hopes before America rests in what will be the accomplishment of these educated men and women, who, in their search and research in various fields of endeavor, are, from one standpoint or another, working for the betterment of the race.

Trained minds bent upon new discoveries and new creations to benefit mankind. What a prospect! And similar thousands are crowding the entrance doors, to begin their work with the new academic year. Before they in turn shall graduate what changes will come about!

In this rapidly moving age changes come quickly. The airplane will probably be used many times as much as it is today. It will be used not only by the population generally, but for the transportation of freight from coast to coast. Plans are already being laid in that direction. And new cities will have been planned to meet modern travel conditions and old cities, for all their improvements, will be thinking in terms of wider boulevards, set-back buildings and greater safety for the lives of their inhabitants. Perhaps we will see the people to whom we talk over the telephone, and talking without wires to carry the message may at that time be a fully realized accomplishment.

With a national wealth that is rapidly approaching the inconceivable mark of five hundred billion dollars, with a spirit of virility and optimism that has never been equalled on the face of the earth—what a prospect America faces. And the cry for men is greater today than ever, for men who can do things, men who can be trusted to carry forward the work, the plans of which we have seen only the beginning.

In view of all this, shall we be downhearted in a moment of business depression? If we are, it would seem that we are hardly grateful for the blessings we enjoy.—Manufacturers Record.

GOVERNOR GREEN CHOOSES NOT TO RUN.

A very great many friends and supporters of Governor Fred W. Green unquestionably were disappointed when they learned that he has determined not to become a candidate for election to the senate of the United States, but is going to retire to private life. However, there is no reason to criticize the governor for his decision, much as some may have wished to see him in Washington.

Mr. Green has had occasion to visit the national capital a great deal of late. He has been able to observe the "upper house" and its workings. He has listened to the piffle which makes up a large part of the senate oratory, and he has found out what the body is like and how little there is in connection with its spirit and methods that is congenial to an active man of affairs who likes to get results.

So there is no reason for surprise if Mr. Green has come to the conclusion that a seat in the senate is not worth the effort incident to a campaign. Indeed, it is asking quite a lot to expect that a man used to accomplishing things, will be anxious to bury himself in a legislative body where he must continually fight a miasmic atmosphere and watch himself all the time to avoid stagnating. After a person has served a state as governor for two terms in the way Mr. Green is serving Michigan, he may be pardoned in case he concludes that he has performed his full duty as a citizen for a while, and chooses to devote his attention and strength to private business, rather than seek a public place which, he finds on examination, possess no particular attraction.

It has been good for Michigan to possess Mr. Green as chief executive. He has done well, and often excellently. There is every reason to suppose that throughout the coming seven months, which constitute the remainder of his present term, he will maintain fully the high excellence of his administration. After that he can have the satisfaction of knowing that he is a person Michigan always will hold in uncommon esteem.—Detroit Free Press.

MORE FOREST FIRES.

The acting governor of New York has been compelled to close the state forests by executive proclamation as a fire prevention measure. The order forbids the public to enter the forests until further notice. This act followed the report of 60 new fires which had sprung up over the week-end chiefly in the Catskill and Adirondack regions.

It is pointed out that while this ban may result in protecting certain specific forest areas, it will not necessarily end the trouble, for there is no way of closing all the highways that run through the countryside past farms and bits of lovely woodland. Along those highways go careless motorists and hikers who toss aside burning matches and glowing cigarette ends and who build little camp fires that grow to threatening proportions.

In the area close to New York City alone, in early May, such needless fires caused millions of dollars' worth of damage. Nearly every section of the country knows the dreadful consequences of forest fires caused by human negligence. Is there no way to develop a more widespread sense of individual responsibility in this matter?

AIRPORT CONFERENCE AT TRAVERSE

NORTHERN COMMUNITIES INVITED JUNE 13 AND 14.

Discuss Airport Construction and Other Problems — Nationally Prominent Officials Coming.

Charlevoix together with communities of Northern Michigan, will have an unusual opportunity to study the latest ideas of airport construction when the first Michigan Airport Conference is held at Traverse City June 13th and 14th.

A special invitation has been sent by the Traverse City Chamber of Commerce to officials of Charlevoix calling attention to the discussions conducted by some of the best authority in the United States on airport building.

The conference is scheduled to start with a dinner meeting the evening of June 13th at the New Park Place hotel. Several persons famous in aero nautical circles will be present.

On Saturday, June 14th, the conference will be carried on in group discussions of all phases of airport construction and administration. Among those scheduled to speak is A. H. Wait, airport specialist connected with the aeronautic branch, U. S. Department of Commerce, who will talk on "What Michigan Can Do For Aviation." Capt. Ray Collins, director of the state department of aeronautics, will explain Michigan regulation. J. T. Sharpsteen, engineer with the Michigan Highway Department, will lead a discussion on airport design. Mr. Sharpsteen has spent much time in study of this subject and is especially recommended as an adviser to small communities in their efforts to provide landing field facilities.

For the larger communities there will be a discussion of airport lighting of L. O. Simpson of the Curtiss-Wright service, who designed much of the lighting equipment used in on modern airports today. G. Donald Kennedy, the man who built the first A-1-A airport in America at Pontiac, will discuss airport administration and how communities can derive revenue from their fields.

A score of pilots have already made reservations and it is probable that the air meet planned for entertainment of the visitors to Traverse City will be one of the most interesting aerial events ever held in Northern Michigan. This meet will include races, stunts and interesting competitions such as dead stick landing, obstacle races, etc., carrying on through Sunday, June 15th.

The Michigan Municipal League and the National Aeronautical Association are cooperating to help make this conference a success. It will be the first of its kind in America.

For reservations or information one may write B. L. Taylor, Secretary of the Traverse City Chamber of Commerce and conference chairman.

MAY CLOSE TRAVERSE TWO BATHING BEACHES

Stream Control Commission Acting to Clean Up Pollution There.

Two bathing beaches within the City of Traverse City may be closed within the next few weeks by the state health department because of impure water there, Walter C. Sperry, engineer of the state stream control commission, stated last week. Both, he says, are contaminated by sewage discharges from the Boardman river.

The beaches are those to the east of the mouth of the river, one on Front street in the heart of the city and the other is on the east side of West Bay. The one downtown has been technically closed for some time, but signs have fallen down and the closing order has been generally ignored, Sperry stated.

The engineer said that the closing action would be taken after samples of water are tested and that the course is being adopted to "protect tourist visitors."

The commission fixed September 1 as the final date when the city must produce a solution of its sewage disposal problem if it desires to avoid court action to force it to build a sewage disposal plant. Meanwhile, doubting that Traverse City will act, the commission ordered its engineer to begin a 90-day series of water tests which will be the basis of court action.

The city has three times voted down proposals designed to finance construction of the plant.

A NECKTIE FOR FATHER.

We see that father's day is scheduled for June 15.

It is perfectly proper that father's day should come after mother's day. Mother is first all of the time.

When her day comes we wear a flower. That is a nice tribute. Mother has a natural connection with flowers. More of them ought to be worn in her honor.

Nothing new can be said about mothers. Sometimes they play bridge. Sometimes they talk about the neighbors. But how much mother knows? She knows how to cook and sew, how to make one dollar do the work of two. In these days she knows much more. She applies science to the art of raising a family. She knows all about the Boy Scouts and the scores of activities in which children are engaged. Mother is very, very wise.

Thus it is that father's day comes as sort of an anti-climax.

Father is a good old scout. He does a lot for the family. He gives mother and the children most of what he earns and the older he gets the less he saves for himself. But he is not one, two, three with mother. He understands his boys only in a rather half-hearted sort of a way. His interest in the home is quite likely to be much concerned with his own comfort. When night comes he thinks that he had done a day's work.

But father has some real virtues. He is a good old scout, deserving some little thought. Give him a necktie.

A LESSON FOR INDUSTRY.

Business will learn an important lesson out of the present times.

Business has been unusually prosperous during the past few years. It has forgotten some of the essentials to real prosperity though it still talks about them.

Trade and commerce depend very much upon the prosperity of agriculture. It was once said that business could not prosper without profitable farming operations. We have just come through a period of prosperity for business and depression for agriculture. But there have been other factors entering into this situation.

The business of trade and manufacturing cannot prosper to its fullest extent with the low prices for farm products. The greatest industrial prosperity cannot exist when agricultural lands have no value, when the price of farm products is low and the cost of production is high.

Trade and commerce is also dependent upon the ability of labor to earn and buy. Such a statement is as old as the hills. But the truth is not recognized until labor needs employment and its ability to purchase is impaired. If the nation will learn a lesson out of the present unemployment the current industrial depression will have a good side.

Industry has been especially favored during the past few years. It has had sound protection from government. It has had adequate capital, in fact money has been too easy and its prevalence has led to too much expansion, too large production. Industry has been favored with a public sentiment which encouraged investment in its securities, which has given to it all of the privileges which modern people may grant to those who serve it.

The public has recognized the importance of industry but we are not sure that industry has recognized the full importance of the public. If it did it would be a much more energetic and constructive element in the solution of the problems of agriculture and labor.

But doubtless the lesson will be learned and a new interest come out of adversity.

When a man is prominent in a number of lodges he has to attend so many functions that he doesn't look natural without a strip of ribbon pinned on his coat.

Dean Chung of Minkuo University in China, declares that one Li Ching-yung of Kai-shen is still living at the age of 252 years.

MRS. ROBERT STAFFORD DIED TUESDAY

Had Been Ill at Her Home in This City Several Months.

Charlevoix lost a lifelong resident in the death at 4:30 Tuesday morning of Mrs. Robert Stafford, aged 50 years. She has been ill for several months prior to her passing.

Bertha Mary Joliffe was born October 18, 1880, at Atwood, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Joliffe, Charlevoix county pioneers. She spent her girlhood at the family home near Atwood.

On May 19, 1903, she was united in marriage to Robert Stafford of this city. Three daughters, Viola, Robert and Doris, were born to this union, whom, together with the husband, survive. Other relatives are four brothers, Ethan Joliffe of Atwood; Cyrus, John and Sidney Joliffe, residing in the states of Ohio, Washington and Oregon, respectively.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the Methodist church, Rev. John E. Lockyer officiating. Interment at Brookside.

MACKINAW CITY IS TO HAVE AN AIRPORT

Grading Work Will Begin At Once—No Airline Scheduled.

Mackinaw City is to have an airport and it is to be ready for use in a short time. This is the outcome of the community meeting held in the gymnasium last week Monday, but the proposition is made to the business men by the Foster Airways Corp. has been rejected.

The Smith farm with 160 acres of cleared land south of town on U. S. 31 has been secured for the airport and the work of grading down the central part will be started at once. Airplanes with passengers and mail for Mackinaw City or Mackinac Island may land there, but no airline has been secured to make scheduled trips.

KALKASKA MAIL CARRIER HONKS HORN FOR BEAR, CUBS

Orrin Beebe, rural mail carrier out of Kalkaska, came upon a black bear with two cubs near the banks of Kittle lake Wednesday morning. The bears were feeding in the road as Mr. Beebe came along and he states that the bears never looked up until he sounded his horn. Whether this is the same bear and cubs that were seen in the Crofton neighborhood is not known, but it is generally thought that it is another as many bears have been seen in the heavy woods bordering Kittle lake.—Kalkaska Leader.

Out of Reach--

Is that how you regard those things you desire—things that require money you haven't got? Or do you think of them as beyond your reach only for the moment?

For if you stretch out steadily toward the thing you desire—by means of regular deposits in a Savings Account here—you will soon build up a fund that will bridge the gap. And 4 per cent compound interest will speed you along. Why not come in, open your Savings Account now—and extend your "reach"?

LIVE STOCK AUCTION ON FRIDAY THIS WEEK
Elmer Ingalls Disposing of 20 Head Holstein and Jersey Heifers.

An advertisement on page three of this issue of the Courier calls attention to an auction sale of live stock at the Elmer Ingalls farm, known as Maple Dale Dairy, south of Charlevoix on the Ellsworth road.

Mr. Ingalls is disposing of 20 head of Holstein and Jersey heifers, all thoroughbred stock. Lack of housing facilities is his reason for selling, and those in the market will find the sale an excellent opportunity to acquire their needs along this line. The sale will be held on Friday of this week.

SAVING

Just what is saving? Isn't it really keeping your money, or a portion of it, instead of scattering it among people who have as much or more than you have.

Maybe the definition of saving never presented itself to you in that way before, but think it over. Isn't it really the proper definition?

Are you keeping your money or are you scattering it? Are you saving it or are you squandering it? Take thought—then, if you are already saving, save more. If you are not, start today.

We will gladly help.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Council Chambers, June 5, 1930
The common council of the city of Charlevoix met on the above date at an adjourned meeting from June 2, 1930, with Mayor Bergeon presiding. Ald. present, Fessenden, Hooker, Hammond, Smith and Webster.

Ald. Webster offered the following resolution, seconded by Ald. Hammond:

Lewis Street Curb and Gutter — District No. 12.

Resolved by the common council of the city of Charlevoix that the establishing and constructing of a combination curb and gutter, including the cost of survey, plans, specifications and expenses incidental thereto, along both sides of that part of Lewis street lying between the north line of Dixon avenue and the south line of Potoskey avenue in the city of Charlevoix is a necessary public improvement.

Resolved further that the plans, plats, diagrams, specifications and estimates of cost of the Committee on Streets and Alleys for the establishing and constructing said combination curb and gutter be and the same are hereby approved and adopted, making a total cost of the sum of seven hundred and twenty dollars.

And be it further resolved that the expense of said public improvement be defrayed as follows: First the expense of said public improvement caused by the intersection of all public streets and alleys and in front of all public buildings, public grounds and city property, estimated at the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars, shall be paid from the general fund of the city of Charlevoix.

And that the sum of five hundred seventy dollars being the estimated cost of said public improvement aside from the constructing and installing of said combination curb and gutter caused by all intersecting streets and alleys and in front of all public buildings, public grounds and city property, heretofore ordered to be paid from the general funds of the city of Charlevoix, shall, pursuant to Act No. 215 of the Public Acts of 1895, as amended, being an "Act to provide for the incorporation of Cities of the Fourth Class" be paid by special assessment, payable in five equal installments to be assessed upon the following lands and premises, which constitute a special assessment district and deemed to be benefited by said public improvement: All lots, parts of lots, lands and premises abutting and fronting on either side of that part of Lewis street lying between the north line of Dixon avenue and the south line of Potoskey avenue in the said city of Charlevoix, except from the above all public streets and public alleys: Provided that the whole amount levied by special assessment on any one lot or lots shall not exceed twenty-five per centum of the value of said lot or premises as valued and assessed for state and county taxation in the last preceding tax roll. Any cost exceeding that per centum which would otherwise be chargeable upon the said lot or premises shall be paid from the general funds of the city of Charlevoix.

Adopted this 5th day of June A. D. 1930, at an adjourned meeting of the common council for the city of Charlevoix by the following yeas and nays vote:

Yeas, Fessenden, Hooker, Hammond, Smith and Webster.
Nays—none. Absent—Kibbe.

Attest: Arthur Bergeon, Mayor
Ray S. Hamilton, Clerk.

Ald. Hooker offered the following resolution, seconded by Ald. Fessenden:

Lewis Street Curb and Gutter — District No. 12.

Resolved by the common council of the city of Charlevoix, that whereas the said common council did by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the aldermen elect, resolve to make the following improvement: the constructing and installing of a combination curb and gutter, together and including the cost of survey, plans, specifications and expenses incidental thereto along both sides of that part of Lewis street lying between the north line of Dixon avenue and the south line of Potoskey avenue in the said city of Charlevoix.

And whereas the said common council did by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the aldermen elect of said common council resolve that the expense of said public improvement—aside from the expense caused by all public streets and alleys crossing said part of Lewis street and in front of all public buildings, public grounds and city property estimated at the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars, be paid from the general funds of the said city of Charlevoix—estimated at the sum of five hundred and seventy dollars, shall pursuant to Act No. 215 of the Public Acts of 1895, as amended, being an "Act to provide for the incorporation of cities of the Fourth Class," be paid by special assessment, payable in five equal installments, to be assessed according to frontage upon the following lands and premises which constitute a special assessment district and deemed to be benefited by said public improvement: All lots, parts of lots, lands and premises abutting and fronting on either side of Lewis street lying between the north line of Dixon avenue and the south line of Potoskey avenue in the said city of Charlevoix, except from the above described district all public streets and alleys.

Now therefore, Robert F. Sloan, Darwin F. Meech and Lisle Shanahan, who constitute the board of special assessors, be and they are hereby directed to make such assessment of the sum of five hundred and seventy dollars, pro rata upon all lots, parts of lots, lands and premises within the district aforesaid, said assessment to be made in accordance with the provisions of Act No. 315 of the Public Acts of 1895, as amended, being an "Act to provide for the incorporation of cities of the Fourth Class," and that said board of special assessors meet for the purpose of making such special assessment on Saturday the 7th day of June at nine o'clock in the forenoon in the council room in said city; and it is further ordered that the city clerk make a certified copy of this order and deliver the same to one of the special assessors, together with the plats and diagrams of the said public improvement on or before the date herein fixed for the meeting of said board of special assessors.

Adopted this 5th day of June A. D. 1930 at an adjourned meeting of the common council for the city of Charlevoix by the following yeas and nays vote:

Yeas, Fessenden, Hooker, Hammond, Smith and Webster.
Nays—none. Absent—Kibbe.

Attest: Arthur Bergeon, Mayor
Ray S. Hamilton, City Clerk.

Moved by Ald. Hammond, seconded by Ald. Smith, that Lyle Shanahan and Darwin F. Meech be confirmed as board of special assessors. Motion carried.

Moved by Ald. Fessenden, seconded by Ald. Webster that the mayor and clerk be authorized to purchase one heating boiler from Oil City Boiler Works at $549.00 F.O.B. Charlevoix. Carried by following yeas and nays vote:

Yeas, Ald. Fessenden, Hooker, Hammond, Smith and Webster.
Nays—none.

On motion the council adjourned.

Ray S. Hamilton, City Clerk.

raised by tax upon the July tax roll of the year 1930, to be assessed upon all the taxable real and personal property in said city a total sum equal to nine (9) mills on each dollar of the assessed valuation of such property as shown by said tax roll and assessment roll for said year. Also the further sum of three (3) mills on each dollar of such valuation for the purposes of the interest and sinking fund and to be used for the purpose of paying the funded debts of the said city of Charlevoix and the interest thereon as the same shall mature. Such taxes shall be entered on said tax roll under the heading of City Taxes and the amounts so assessed and levied when collected, shall be apportioned to the said several funds in the amounts prescribed in section one of this ordinance; and the amounts so prescribed in said section one of this ordinance are hereby appropriated to the said several funds as therein specified.

Section 3. That the city assessor shall assess and spread the total of the amounts specified in section one of this ordinance on the said July tax roll in the manner provided by law, together with all unpaid special assessments appearing upon the special assessment rolls of said city as a lien upon the lands described in said rolls, which special assessments shall be spread and levied against the lands and premises liable therefor according to such special assessment rolls.

Section 4. That the city treasurer shall collect the taxes so levied and spread on such July tax roll, and when collected, credit the several amounts to the said several funds as herein prescribed, pro rata as the appropriation to each fund shall bear to the total of all taxes assessed and spread on said roll. Also such city treasurer shall collect the taxes spread under the heading of special assessments in such tax roll, and when collected, shall credit the amounts so collected to the special assessment funds as specified and described in the special assessment rolls.

Section 5. This ordinance shall take immediate effect. This ordinance was adopted at a regular meeting of the common council for the city of Charlevoix, held in the council room in said city of Charlevoix on the 9th day of June, A. D., 1930, by the following yeas and nays vote, to-wit:

Yeas: Fessenden, Hooker, Hammond, Kibbe, Smith, Webster.

Nays: none. Absent: none.

Attest: Arthur Bergeon, Mayor

Ray S. Hamilton, City Clerk.

Ald. Fessenden offered resolution No. 2, seconded by Ald. Smith:

Guernsey Breeders' Association Holds Annual Meeting.

The members of the Charlevoix County Guernsey Breeders' association at their last meeting held in East Jordan, made plans for their annual summer show and picnic, which will be held in East Jordan some time during the latter part of June. G. A. Bowling, dairy specialist of the Michigan State college, was present and outlined some important projects that could be sponsored by the organization. At a latter date plans will be perfected to include the best sires in a county group, so that it will be possible for the owners to change sires from one group to another inexpensively, and to keep them long enough to find out the type and production of the offspring they have left behind.

An invitation has been sent to Prof. E. L. Anthony, head of our dairy department, to be present and to judge the exhibit. Indications show that there will be around 30 head of the most representative Guernsey cattle in the county at our summer exhibit.

Cherry Fruit Fly Cage Erected in County.

Of interest to all growers of cherries in the county is the announcement that a cage was erected for the purpose of capturing the adult moth which causes the damage, in the orchard of Mrs. Louise Johnson, located west of the ferry road about four miles north of East Jordan.

In many sections the cherry fruit fly has done considerable damage, and the only way to cut down to a minimum the damage done by this insect, is to spray timely and properly. Ordinarily the moth or fly which lays the eggs emerges from the soil underneath the tree about the latter part of June. This fly feeds for a few days on the tree, and then deposits

IDEAL FOR THE AMERICAN FAMILY

Dodge cars have always been a prominent factor in the motoring life of the American family—because they have been dependable. And that same dependability is the foundation of this latest Dodge Brothers Six with its silent, sturdy and safe Mono-Piece Steel Body of unusual spaciousness, with wide doors and windows, abundant head-room, leg-room and elbow-room. Under the hood is a sturdy, dependable motor that gives it smooth, flexible, powerful performance. And it is a safe car to drive with its weatherproof internal hydraulic brakes that are always positively equalized. Yet, with all the advanced quality of its design and construction, with all its typical Dodge dependability, the price is lower than for any other closed car ever included in the Dodge Brothers line.

a large number of eggs inside the cherries. By using the cage and knowing exactly when the flies emerge, they can be sprayed and killed before they lay any eggs.

There will be around 40 cages scattered throughout the state in the cherry areas, which enables farmers to get the exact time for spraying.

We are highly gratified to state that there will be a considerable crop of cherries from Charlevoix county this year in spite of the three severe frosts we have had. Indications point to a larger crop than we had last year. Much less damage was done to the cherry crop on the Old Mission, near Traverse City, Antrim county and Charlevoix county, than in sections further south.

All cherry growers will be notified by County Agent Mellencamp of the exact time to spray to control this cherry fruit fly, so please be on the lookout during the last few days of June for this information.

Safety Bull Pen Erected at the Farm of Arlo Wickersham.

The second safety bull pen demonstration was held on Monday, June 2nd, at the farm of Arlo Wickersham.

Considerable interest was manifested at this demonstration by some 15 farmers who watched the progress of its construction. By means of the safety bull breeding chute, which is an important feature of the demonstration, it is possible to own and take care of an aged bull without any chance of injury to the owner. Furthermore, the only way to know definitely how good the bull is, is to note the difference in the productive ability between his daughters and their dams. This means that the bull must be kept long enough for this to be carried out, and many times at a mature age they become very difficult to handle, but with a bull pen the owner never has to be within the same enclosure with the bull.

The cost of the construction is very low, and in the case of Arlo Wickersham the actual cost was less than three dollars. It is hoped that several other farmers in the county will build a safety bull pen within the near future, and in order to simplify matters, a complete plan is available to all who wish it. Just drop a line to County Agent Mellencamp, and this plan will be gladly sent to you.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank everyone who assisted us in any way, and for flowers and cards and kind words in our bereavement. Especially do we wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mitchell for the use of their home. Although we have all been gone for years, it makes us all feel good to return and find that the good people of Charlevoix have not forgotten us. Charles W. Howard and children.

New Ford Car Wins Favor

Ford Phaeton

THE Ford Phaeton, shown above, is equally popular as a family car and as a sport car for young people. The seating arrangement provides for the driver and one passenger in front and three passengers in the rear. Seats are upholstered in two-tone cross cobra grain artificial leather. The top is of the quick collapsing type, easily handled by one person, and folds flat. The windshield, of Triplex shatter-proof glass, is of the folding type and can be laid flat forward. The windshield wings fold over it, emphasizing the sport effect of the car.

CITY 1930 TAX SAME AS IN PREVIOUS YEAR

Twelve Mills Assessed Will Raise a Total of $39,268.20.

Despite the general trend of tax increase throughout the state, Charlevoix taxpayers will be called upon to raise the same amount in 1930 as the previous year.

At their regular meeting Monday night, the city council voted 12 mills to cover general expenditures and the interest and sinking. The first items requires 9 mills and the latter 3. The total to be raised is $39,268.20.

The interest and sinking fund takes the largest amount, $9,817.05. Street fund is next with $8,000 and $7,901.15 will be raised for the contingent fund. Following are the amounts to be allotted to the various funds.

* AT THE MOVIES *

"The Children" Becomes Great All-Talk Film.

"The Marriage Playground," an all-talking moving picture with all the elements of perfect entertainment—pathos, romance, comedy and drama, is coming to the Palace Theatre as the main attraction Thursday and Friday.

Based on the novel "The Children" by Edith Wharton, this production moves along swiftly, stirring the heart of the beholder to continuous emotional response. It concerns the revolt of the younger generation against the divorce-crazed, thrill-thirsty behaviour of their elders.

New Colleen Moore Film Coming Soon.

"Footlights and Fools," the newest of Colleen Moore's entertaining screen stories, and the first of her dialogue pictures to include episodes in Technicolor, has been secured by the management of the Palace Theatre for Saturday and Sunday.

This Vitaphone special offers the popular little star a wide scope for her exceptional talent in characterization, for her role includes highly interesting variations. She appears as a supposedly exotic French actress with an intriguing Parisian accent, in part of the story; impersonates a slangy Broadway chorus-girl in another episode of the plot, and plays the greater part of her characterization in her own charming personality.

Although "Footlights and Fools" recounts the humorous and dramatic adventures of a Broadway revue star, it is not solely a story of back-stage life. Miss Moore's two leading men, Raymond Hackett and Frederic March, do not portray theatrical characters, and the plot is built around a three-sided romance, with the eventual winner of Colleen not being disclosed until the final moments of the picture.

Technicolor has been employed to enhance the beauty of several stage numbers.

Nancy Carroll Tells Meaning Of "Sweetie."

Lessons on how to be a "sweetie" were given recently to an eager group of schoolgirl extras by Nancy Carroll, Paramount star. As the "sweetie" in "Sweetie," a romantic revue, Miss Carroll portrays a chorus girl who suddenly finds that she has inherited a boy's school.

"A girl makes a great mistake in trying to merely be a man's pal. Of course, she should be a pal while she is a 'sweetie,' but to strive to be a pal only, is disastrous. Men marry their 'sweeties' but never their pals, unless they find that she really is a 'sweetie' after all. When a man pats a girl on the shoulder as though he were saying "good old girl," she is sunk."

"Every girl can be a 'sweetie,' whether she is a frivolous little flapper or a more serious person, because for each type of man there is a different type of 'sweetie.'"

This city will learn all about "sweeties" when "Sweetie" comes to the Palace Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

NEW WILSON COTTAGE NEARING COMPLETION

Workmen Putting Finishing Touches on Palatial Summer Home.

Work is practically completed on the new Wilson cottage at the corner of Dixon avenue and Meech street. Construction has been finished and painters are putting on the final touches.

A program of landscaping is being followed out, and at the present time an attractive hedge and rustic fence are being built. This new summer home is a decidedly welcome addition to the many palatial residences on the North Side district.

John Curtis, local contractor, is the builder.

LOVED NORWOOD RESIDENT DIED SATURDAY

Mrs. Frederick Thier, Age 89, Buried Tuesday Afternoon.

Norwood township residents were saddened Saturday by the death of Mrs. Frederick Thier, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Norman Wells, following a short illness.

Catherine Detreck was born in Selbach, Germany, August 29, 1841, and was 89 years old at the time of death. She was united in marriage to Frederick Thier at Philadelphia in 1863. To this union were born seven children five of whom survive, viz: Fred Thier of Detroit; George Thier of Thompson, Mich.; Mrs. Anna Brown, Muskegon; Mrs. Mary Wells and Mrs. Minnie Wiles, Charlevoix. Two boys are deceased. There are also 13 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from the Methodist church. Because of the illness of Rev. John E. Lockyer, Rev. W. H. Rauch of the Baptist church, officiated.

Mrs. Thier was a devoted christian and a kind and loving mother. She will be greatly missed by her family as well as a host of friends.

DOCK AT MACKINAW TO BE LENGTHENED

Will Be More Safe for Boats to Dock—Buildings Moved.

The work of lengthening the State dock at Mackinaw City will be started in a short time and it will be extended 250 feet out into the Straits so that the boats can be assured of a safe place to dock during bad weather. The water at the end of the dock is now too shallow for safety.

The state highway department has also bought all the land adjacent to the entrance on the dock and will use this land as parking space for cars waiting to cross the Straits instead of having them lined up on the pavement. The buildings which were on this land recently purchased by the highway department are being moved to new location this week and will soon re-open for business.

The tourist waiting to cross the Straits need not go hungry while in Mackinaw City for a number of new restaurants have been opened this spring near the dock and if he cares to spend the night or a few days or weeks here, there are hotels, overnight cottages and rooms at private homes to assure him comfortable lodging.

OLD SETTLERS' PICNIC NEXT WEDNESDAY

Fiftieth Annual Gathering at Traverse City Fair Grounds.

Of interest to residents of Charlevoix and vicinity is the 50th annual picnic of the Grand Traverse Old Settlers' Association, to be held Wednesday, June 18th, at the Traverse City fair grounds.

A general picnic dinner will be at 12 o'clock central standard time. Visitors are to bring lunch basket and table service. Coffee, tea, cream, sugar and butter will be furnished by the picnic committee.

Included in the program will be music by the Traverse City high school band, and singing by the Indian Mission church under the direction of Mrs. Susan Greensky of Bay Shore. Two prizes for the oldest settler attending are listed. One, an airplane ride furnished by the Sheldon Cole Auto company and an easy chair by the Wilson Furniture company.

The Grand Traverse region embraces the counties of Antrim, Benzie, Charlevoix, Emmet, Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, Leelanau, Manistee, Missaukee and Wexford. Charlevoix will send its usual large quota to the picnic.

INDIAN BALL TEAM WON OPENING GAME

Trimmed Bellaire Here Last Sunday By 11 to 9 Score.

"Si" Powers' Indian baseball team won the opening game of the season at the North Side ball park Sunday afternoon before a good crowd, trimming Bellaire 11 to 9.

It was a Charlevoix shut-out for the first four innings. A circuit swat by Tolles, catcher, in the third inning with the bases full put the local team out in front 5 to 0.

After pitching good ball for the first four innings, Bellaire knocked Willis Emos out of the box in the fifth, scoring seven runs. Tokolo took over the twirling job from then on and held Bellaire to a few scattered hits while the Indians were scoring enough runs to put the game on ice.

Both teams, although putting up a pretty good brand of ball, showed lack of practice. Fans look for the local nine to get in shape before the season advances far, and future contests will find them in better form. The team goes to Bellaire for a return game next Sunday and the week following play at Harbor Springs.

RUHSERT'S SADDLE LIVERY LOCATE HERE

Opeo Paddock on Hwy Property Off Petoskey Avenue.

A new-comer to Charlevoix this season is the Ruhser's Saddle Horse Livery, who have located their stables and paddock on the Hwy property, just off U. S. 31, Petoskey avenue, north of the city.

Riding instruction will be featured and horses for the experienced are available. Mrs. Nora Ruhser, the owner, comes from Hamlin lake, near Ludington, where she has been previously located, and is getting ready for the summer season.

* CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH *

The Sunday appointments for the Congregational church for the summer schedule will be as follows: Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.

Morning worship and sermon by the pastor at 10:30.

TWO GOLF COURSES OPENED ON SUNDAY

BOTH ARE IN BEST CONDITION
THEY HAVE EVER BEEN.

Many Improvements at Charlevoix Club Course—Two Big Tournaments at the Belvedere.

Charlevoix's two 18-hole golf courses, operated by the Charlevoix Golf Club and the Belvedere Golf Club, opened Sunday, June 15th, for the 1930 summer season.

According to William Watson, who returns again this year as manager and professional at both clubs, the courses are in the finest condition they have ever been. Abundant early-summer rains have put the fairways and greens in wonderful shape and both courses present the appearance of a huge green velvet carpet.

At the Charlevoix Golf Club course, a program of improvements which have been in progress for several years under the supervision of James Gaskin, grounds superintendent, are now practically completed. The old type cop bunkers have been removed from almost the entire 18 holes and have been replaced by modern mounds and sand traps which have been arranged to harmonize in their surroundings. All of the putting greens have been renovated and a very fine quality of bent grass introduced on each.

The staff at the Charlevoix Golf Club has been announced as follows: Cleveland Roe, caddy master; "Billy" Supernaw, club-maker; Miss Angie Scott, in charge of office; Miss Arlyne Supernaw, assistant in charge of office; Charles Hamlin, green-keeper. No assistant caddy master has been employed as yet.

Insofar as condition of the course is concerned, the same may be said of the Belvedere eighteen. This year will give this now famous course further prominence among followers of golf. Two big tournaments will be played there—both during the month of July. The second annual Great Lakes Open is July 15, 16 and 17, and on July 23, 24, 25 and 26, comes the Michigan State amateur tourney.

John R. Bowker, who is executive secretary of the Great Lakes Golf association, will be in charge of both tournaments. He is expected to arrive in Charlevoix July 1st, and more information regarding the tournaments will be available at that time.

Frank Supernaw is grounds superintendent at the Belvedere course. Milton Converse returns as caddy master. Mrs. C. E. Hanshaw is again in charge of the office and has as her assistant Miss Marvel Smith. Vernon Jones of Mt. Pleasant, is assistant caddy master.

SEND TREASURE CHEST TO PHILIPPINE ISLES

Congregational Sunday School Observed Occasion Sunday.

A Friendship Treasure Chest, donated by the Y. P. S. C. E. and containing gifts from the Happy Helpers' class of the Congregational Sunday school, will start this week on a long journey to the Philippine Islands, nine thousand miles or more away. A farewell service was a special feature at the school last Sunday morning.

Thousands of these chests are being sent by the children of this country to the Filipino children to be distributed December 30, 1930, a national holiday observed throughout the islands in memory of Dr. Jose Rizal, who gave his life to help his fellow countrymen throw off the Spanish yoke.

The sending of these chests is the third in a series of projects undertaken by the committee on world friendship among children in an effort to create good will and friendship between the children of the United States and the children of other lands and so help to obviate future wars. "We who desire peace must write it in the hearts of children."

JULLERET'S GRAND OPENING JUNE 26

Charlevoix Cabaret Opens June 29—
Snappy Jazz Bands to be Featured.

According to an announcement made by L. E. Juilleret, the annual opening of his popular cabaret at Harbor Springs will occur on Thursday evening, June 26, featuring Ange Lorenzo and his seven-piece band, "The Tunesters," with entertainers. This cabaret features fountain and lunch service.

Juilleret's Charlevoix cabaret will be opened on the evening of June 29 with Emerson Brown and his Brownies furnishing the music. The Charlevoix Cabaret will be open every evening with a six-piece orchestra and on Sunday evenings the Tunesters and Brownies will be combined to furnish the music. They will comprise a ten-piece band with two pianos. Dinners will be served every evening and a fountain and sandwich service have been added.

The chef, who has been secured for Juilleret's at Charlevoix was formerly connected with the Forest Beach Inn near Harbor Springs.

1930-31 TEACHING STAFF ANNOUNCED

SUPT. OTTERBEIN AND PRINCIPAL NORTH HEAD FACULTY.

Two New Instructors in High and
One in Grades—Balance of Teachers are Returning.

Several changes have been made in the teaching staff for next year, according to Supt. M. Otterbein of Charlevoix public schools, who gave out the complete staff this week.

Three new names appear on the list. Miss Ruth Dowd of Mason, Michigan, replaces Mrs. Leona McKipley on the high school staff as English instructor. She will come here very highly recommended. In charge of language instruction will be Miss Edna Logan of Portland, Ark. Miss Logan is a member of two national language organizations and to her experience has added travel abroad.

In the grades, Miss Clara Dittmer of Cedar Springs, is a new faculty member, taking charge of the fifth grade. She succeeds Miss Ethel Mellin.

The remainder of the teaching staff, headed by Mr. Otterbein as superintendent, and Oscar P. North as principal, is the same.

Following is the complete list of next year's faculty:

Supt., M. Otterbein; principal, Oscar P. North; mathematics and coach, Ray L. Kipke; English and science, Stewart E. Coleman; English, Miss Ruth Dowd; domestic science, Miss Helen S. Button; language, Miss Edna Logan; music and art, Mrs. Ethel McKee; history and debate coach, Miss Bea L. Ferneau.

Junior high — Principal, Walter Alexander; English, Harry E. Bingham; history, Miss Floranz Milner.

Grades—Principal and Kindergarten, Miss Helen French; first grade, Miss Lydia Phillips; 3rd grade, Miss Margaret Fitch; fourth grade, Miss Sophia Manson; 5th grade, Miss Clara Dittmer; sixth grade, Miss Mildred A. Bodfish; second grade, Miss Florence Little.

Miss Pearl Bigge returns as principal of the Charlevoix county normal, with Mrs. Gertrude Dick as critic.

CHEBOYGAN BANKING PLACE CLOSES DOORS

Suicide Savings Teller Short Approximately $308,000 in Accounts.

The First National Bank of Cheboygan closed its doors last Wednesday morning, the board of directors passing a resolution to that effect, after an all night session with the national bank examiners.

Discovery of defalcations amounting to around $308,000 by the suicided savings teller, Clyde Milliken, led to the action of the directors.

National Bank Examiner B. E. Quinn is in charge of the affairs of the closed bank, which was considered to be one of the substantial and prosperous depositories of Northern Michigan.

The bank is capitalized at $50,000 and had surplus and undivided profits amounting to $81,387.14 on their March 27th, 1930, statement. The sum of these two items is regarded as the capital structure.

WHO WILL BE NEXT GOVERNOR

DRAFTING OF GOV. GREEN COM-PLICATES MATTERS.

Daily Newspaper Men of State Un-tarily Offer Editorial Support of Present Governor.

Who will be the next governor of Michigan? This is the foremost topic of the day. Or, to make it somewhat easier to answer, how many candidates will there be and who are they?

The only candidates so far having formally announced himself is Attorney General Wilbur M. Brucker. Others listed as possible candidates are former secretary of state De- land, John S. Haggerty, present secretary of state, and James E. Davison of Bay City. Other prominent men of the state have been mentioned as possible candidates.

Now to make the situation more complicated, enthusiastic friends of Governor Fred W. Green in several sections of the state have launched a "draft" movement by circulating petitions bearing the governor's name, urging him to enter the race for a third term.

They presented a petition to him to run and Saturday the governor indicated that sometime the first of this week he would have something to say on the proposition. Previous to this Green had turned a deaf ear to all proposals that he seek a third term.

Since Wednesday of last week the governor's desk has been swamped with a deluge of letters and telegrams from admirers who wish him to "carry on the politics of his administration." A group of publishers of daily newspapers of the state met in Grand Rapids last Tuesday and voted almost unanimously to pledge their editorial support to him should he decide to become a candidate. It is quite safe to say that editorial support to his candidacy would not be confined to daily newspapers alone, but among weekly newspapers as well.

Being "drafted" as a third term candidate for highest state political honors is a move very unusual. Most anyone would consider it about the greatest compliment that could be bestowed on a public servant. Fred W. Green, as governor of Michigan, has fulfilled his duties as well and faithfully as any of his predecessors. His final decision in regards to being a third-term candidate is awaited most eagerly by others seeking this important position as well as thousands of ardent supporters.

MINIATURE GOLFING COURSE IS OPENED

Play Started Wednesday at Lilli-Put-Ian Links on North Side.

Wednesday, June 18th, has been announced as the opening date of the Lilli-Put-Ian miniature golf course, located at the corner of Michigan and Dixon avenues.

Work on this course, which is owned by H. J. Sweet of Traverse City, operator of a string of such courses throughout the state, has been rushed to completion so that play could be started. The course is an attractive layout, with a clever and very pretty landscaping scheme.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found an advertisement announcing the opening, hours of play and fees charged.

OVER A MILLION ACRES IN CAMPS

1,600,000 ACRES OF STATE LAND IS OPEN TO PUBLIC.

Camping Permitted for Fifteen Days —Regulations of Department Are Enumerated.

The state of Michigan has more than a million and a half acres of free camp sites on which the public is always privileged to pitch a tent.

Scattered throughout the northern part of the state are more than a million acres of unadministered state owned lands in addition to the 12 state forests comprising practically 500,000 acres. All of these lands are free to the public for camping purposes, under a few simple regulations, and the department of conservation, under which these lands are supervised, invite public use.

Eight brief regulations have been drawn up regulating conduct at camps built in state property, to protect public property.

Camping is permitted on state lands for a 15-day period. After that time written permission must be obtained from the lands division of the department of conservation.

It is not permissible to post advertising signs on trees or signboards or to mutilate or deface the department's posters, notices or signs. Campers may not deposit and leave papers, cans, refuse and other rubbish after camping or other occupancy or to deposit in streams, and lakes.

It is unlawful to remove trees, shrubs, plants, sand, gravel or marl without authority of authorized representatives of the department. Trees may not be mutilated. Fire without proper provision to prevent spreading is forbidden and persons building fires on state lands may not leave them temporarily or permanently while these fires are burning. Fine or imprisonment is provided as a penalty for violation of any of these regulations.

While the large majority of campers make use of the state parks where all conveniences for camping may be found; hundreds each year camp in state forests and on other state land where they may be more secluded. The forestry division of the department of conservation has completed several and is preparing more forest camp sites; ideal spots in state forests where brush has been cleared and the ground made more comfortable.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR NEW CITY DOCK

Roe Bros., Harbor Springs, to Build Wharf at Foot Clinton St.

Authorization Monday night by the mayor and city council for the construction of a new city dock at the foot of Clinton street will furnish a much needed improvement to the Round lake waterfront.

A contract was awarded Roe Bros. of Harbor Springs for a dock 16x32 feet. It will be 16 foot wide and extend into the lake 32 feet with docking slips on each side. The dock will be for public use.

The former docks at this point became completely submerged by high water of recent years. They were torn out after becoming a menace to water craft.

STATE OLD AGE PENSION PUSHED

Former Petoskey Man Is Chairman of Commission Arranged by Green.

A special commission to make a survey of the possibility of establishing a state old age pension will be appointed and instructed to make a report to the 1931 legislature, Gov. Green promised a delegation representing the Fraternal Order of Eagles last week.

The commission will have as its chairman, Mayor William A. Seegmiller of Owosso who was spokesman of the delegation which called upon the governor last Wednesday. Other members are yet to be named. Seegmiller is formerly from Petoskey.

Mayor Seegmiller told the governor that 11 states now have enacted old age pensions that the system is proving more satisfactory and economical than the maintenance of indigents in poor houses.

The Owosso mayor stated that the cost of maintaining poor persons under the pension method is less costly than in almshouses and that in several instances it has amounted to less than half per inmate.

OPENING PLANNED COMING SATURDAY

PUBLIC INVITED TO L. P. ADAMS
& SON'S NEW STORE.

New Fountain and Other Improvements Give Establishment Most Complete Equipment in Region.

On page four of this week's issue of The Courier, will be found an advertisement announcing special offers being made in connection with the opening of the L. P. Adams & Son store at the corner of Park avenue and Bridge street.

This special event, scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, June 21 and 22, is the culmination of a program of improvements that have been in progress for the past year and have given Charlevoix one of the most complete and up-to-date stores of its kind in Northern Michigan.

A Taylor Freezer, the latest in ice cream freezing machines on the market today was just recently installed. It is enclosed behind glass on the store floor next to the new Fischman & Son fountain, which has been acclaimed the best in this region. Ice cream is made so that patrons may see the operation and this equipment will be interesting to the many who will visit the store on the opening days. The freezer is said to be 100 per cent sanitary.

The fountain, storage tanks, refrigerator, etc., are connected with an artificial ice machine. Attractive leather upholstered stools are part of the fountain equipment. The new lay-out gives the store the most complete ice cream plant and fountain to be had.

In addition to the fountain and ice cream department of the store, practically all floor and wall show cases have been replaced with new, modern equipment. Merchandise such as films, toilet articles, etc., have been added to the already complete cigar and tobacco line, news stand and magazine counter.

Charlevoix can well be proud of this most complete and up-to-date establishment, and Mr. Adams is deserving congratulations for his enterprise.

BIBLE SCHOOL COM- MENCEMENT FRIDAY

Demonstration of Hand Work to Be Given at Evening Program.

The daily vacation bible school, which has been going on for two weeks at the Baptist church, will close Friday evening with a demonstration of the work.

The public is invited to the Baptist church for this closing exercise of the school. There is an enrollment now of 104. Much interest has been manifested by the pupils and parents. The evening's entertainment will begin at 8 o'clock.

GAVE BEACH PARTY ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Ned Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Wagner, entertained a group of eight boy friends at a beach party Thursday afternoon in honor of his ninth birthday anniversary. An excellent lunch and afternoon of games were much enjoyed by those attending.

BELVEDERE HOTEL OPENS NEXT WEEK

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 25TH, IS REGULAR ANNUAL DATE.

Many Attractive Improvements Are Made This Year—Advance Bookings Indicate Good Season.

The Belvedere Hotel will be ready for business on the regular opening date, June 25th.

A great many attractive improvements have been made. The lobby and lounge are entirely redecorated in a pleasing color combination of old ivory and mahogany with furnishings and electric fixtures to correspond. Another large group of bedrooms have also been redecorated and new furnishings added.

The beauty parlor is unusually attractive in a color scheme of ivory, old rose and apple green with furnishings to match. Mrs. Ruth Shattuck, whose efficient service was so pleasing to her many patrons of the shop two seasons ago, will be in charge of this room and this season she has added to her equipment, a fine Eugene waving machine. She will be prepared to arrange appointments for permanent waving any time after opening date, at a nominal figure that should offer special inducement to all Charlevoix ladies to arrange with her for this service.

The kitchen has been entirely rebuilt and re-finished with increased pantry space, new steam table, new sinks, ice boxes and other equipment, a new bake oven and new system of electric lighting and power, which will add much to the rapidity and efficiency of food service in this department.

Very few changes appear in the hotel staff of other years. The front office will be in charge of Frank A. Shattuck of Coral Gables, Fla., who was a member of the Belvedere staff two years ago. Nelson Sanford is returning as porter and no new faces appear in the front of the house service with exception of Mrs. Selma Cameron, whose several seasons' office experience at the Harbor Point club house, qualifies her as an efficient secretary and bookkeeper.

Mrs. Jeanne Durzin of Petoskey, is returning for her third season in charge of the housekeeping department.

Harry Wilkins of East Lynn, Mass., is returning for his sixth season in charge of the dining room service, and Chef Ed Yates, after a successful season in one of Florida's new hotels at Avon Park, is here with his capable crew of kitchen experts from Chicago and is again established in the kitchen department, with Chef Fred Severa, also from Chicago, for his third season as baker.

Miss Mary Julian as stewardess and Miss Lucy Hogan in charge of the pantry, come fresh from a winter's experience in one of the popular new hostleries of Florida, and all are enthusiastic over the fine improved conditions for kitchen service at the Belvedere.

Mrs. Franklin C. Sears, manager, feels that business prospects for the season are even brighter than those of last season at this date. The bookings are excellent and early season plans now in the making, promise an unusually fine beginning for the opening of the resort period.

The two major golf tournaments, the Great Lakes tournament, July 15th, and the Michigan Amateur Championship beginning July 21st, both played on the Belvedere course, are creating a great deal of enthusiasm on the part of golf fans throughout the country, who will be here in larger numbers than ever before, during the last two weeks of July, to share with the crowd of professionals attending these tournaments, in the joys of this unusually attractive and sporty course.

Rachel's Inn Popular Ironon Place.
Miss Rachel Potts of Petoskey, has opened a summer dining room at Ironon in a new place recently purchased near Mosher's store. A specialty is made of chicken dinners and last Sunday a good crowd was at the place for dinner. Dances Tuesday and Friday evenings are being held at the Grange hall.

WHO'S WHO AND WHY?

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the Central Drug Store, the Rexall store.

NO MEDICINE IN THE WORLD LIKE KONJOLA

"Thought I Never Would Be Well Again," Said Saginaw Lady In Praise Of New Medicine.

MRS. BENJAMIN VINCENT.

"To me there is no medicine in the world like Konjola," said Mrs. Benjamin Vincent, Sixth and Madison streets, Carrollton, Saginaw. "I was told that I had stomach ulcers. My kidneys were out of order and my back ached all the time. Night risings were frequent. My stomach was so sore I could scarcely bear the weight of my clothing. My son was then taken ill and we thought we were getting more than our share of misery."

"A friend of mine in the South wrote me about Konjola and told me to take it for my ailments. Two bottles of this great medicine were enough to show me that I was on the right road. I took five bottles in all and at the end of that time my health troubles were over. I eat and sleep as I did years ago and all my health troubles have vanished. It is no wonder to me that Konjola is known as the master medicine of them all."

Konjola, when taken over a period of from four to eight weeks, easily and harmlessly relieves ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Konjola is sold in Charlevoix, Mich., at F. J. Pessenden's drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Gladys at Inkster, returned home Sunday, accompanied by Miss Mildred Otter and Marlin Otter of Waltz, who will spend a few days at the Boyer home.

A number of young folks called on Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Otter to charivari them Monday night. After much noise they were invited inside and spent a very merry evening. After wishing the young couple much happiness they left for their homes in the wee small hours of the morning.

On Saturday, June 14, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, Gladys Boyer became the bride of Ernest Otter at Waltz, Michigan. Miss Ruth Boyer, sister of the bride, and Marlin Otter, brother of the groom, attended the couple. They are now receiving congratulations at the home of Mrs. Otter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Boyer. Mrs. Otter is very well known in these parts, where she was born and educated. She has been teaching the last three years at Inkster, near Detroit, where she has made many friends who are wishing her much joy and happiness in her wedded life.

a new large tower and water tank at the canning factory. They will now have their own water system for fire protection as well as for use in the factory.

Harry Foot, auto salesman of Traverse City, was a business caller here last Monday. Automobile agents are coming thick and fast this spring, and the farmers are getting lots of free rides, which kind of rests a person about as much as sitting down and milking the cow.

We are sorry to record this week the sudden death of Mrs. Harry Warner, who resided on the J. H. Smith farm, formerly the William Dawson place, three miles northwest of town. Mrs. Warner dropped dead while assisting her husband at milking cows. Heart trouble was given as the cause of her death. She was about 45 years of age. She leaves a husband, two small children, and a married daughter in Grayling. The family were hard working, industrious people, and Mr. Warner has the sympathy of many friends of the neighborhood.

We learn that there is to be a milk station in Charlevoix soon.

The roar of the cement mixer is heard from early morning until late at night.

The L. A. S. meets in the old John Joliffe house this week Thursday. Quilting is the order of the day.

The young folks' order I. H. N. will soon be ready to give their play at the Atwood hall. Full particulars next week.

R. S. Brown and Miss Tornga, married Tuesday morning, will reside in Atwood. There were about 125 at the charivari. Congratulations.

The average college boy doesn't care so much about making the grades as he does about having a car that will make them.

IN the offices of architects you'll find style headquarters for roofs.

In our Certain-teed Shingles, are summed up all the demands of modern roof trends. For your home, we have the color, design, and type most suited.

Come in today and let us tell you of their moderate cost.

Bringing Prosperity to Charlevoix!

Prosperity is a condition that is brought about mainly by the public mind.

If we, first of all, believe in our community and then actively give our energy toward real progress —Charlevoix will have its best start toward genuine prosperity.

True prosperity means honest and efficient government, a contented populace, a healthful community, greater co-operation and conservation of supplies.

No single individual can hope to bring about full prosperity to Charlevoix. Every man, woman and child here must constantly have the welfare and the community at heart and act accordingly.

Co-operative efforts toward an attractive town, support of our schools and churches, contribution of effort to public enterprises, civic patriotism and loyalty to home merchants—are the most effective means of attaining community prosperity.

If everybody in Charlevoix will talk, think and act for the community's good—we'll put our fair city on the map as an outstanding example of civic prosperity.

IMMORTALITY.

All things are engaged in writing their history. The planet, the pebble, goes attended by its shadow. The rolling rock leaves its scratches on the mountain; the river, its channel in the soil; the animal, its bones in the stratum; the fern and leaf, their modest epitaph in the coal. The falling drop makes its sculpture in the sand or the stone. Not a foot steps in the snow or along the ground but prints, in characters more or less lasting, a map of its march. Every act of the man inscribes itself in the memories of its fellows, and in his own manners and face. The air is full of sounds, the sky of tokens, the ground is all memoranda and signatures, and every object covered with hints which speak to the intelligent.

FINE IMPROVEMENTS AT THE HOTEL NOBLE

Kitchen Enlarged, Redecorated and New Furnishings Installed.

Preparing for the 1930 resort season, many improvements have been made at the Hotel Noble on Antrim street, and, if appearances are a drawing card, this popular hostelry should have a wonderful season.

A convenience from the hotel standpoint and one leading to greater efficiency is an enlargement of the kitchen, which has been doubled in size.

In the dining room and lobby, a new, attractive-patterned linoleum has been put down. The place has been redecorated inside and out, porch furniture repainted in a pleasing design and some new pieces added. The flower gardens and landscaping of the grounds surrounding the hotel is very pretty. The whole improvement program is worthy of mention and a credit to the enterprise of the hotel management.

Dance at Rachel's Inn, Ironton, Tuesday and Friday evenings. Everybody welcome.—Adv. 2511pd.

TOURISTS AND HOTELS FURNISH BIG MARKET

Bring Era of Prosperity to Farmers of Charlevoix Region.

With the near-approach of the resort season and the opening of Charlevoix's various summer hotels, an era of prosperity should be in store for farmers of this section.

R. S. Shapton, who manages Knollwood Farm, made the statement today, that crops in northern Michigan were far in advance of former years. It is a very favorable condition.

Charlevoix's hotels and resorters will bring a ready market for chickens, vegetables and fruits and other farm products. It is being preached to buy at home, live within your own state, etc., and farmers of this region should make a marked effort to see that their products fill the needs of this immediate territory.

CITY BAND CONCERT THURSDAY EVENING

First of Season at Corner of Mason and State Streets.

First of the regular Thursday evening band concerts by the Charlevoix city band will be held off Thursday evening of this week.

A temporary band stand is being erected by the city council on the lots at the corner of Mason and State streets and concerts will be held there.

An excellent program has been arranged for the initial concert and for those in the future. This weekly event has been a decidedly popular entertainment feature in past years and the present summer will be no exception.

CLOSE PORTIONS OF LAKES AND RIVERS

Late Spawning Will Be Protected by Department Ruling.

Bayous along Michigan's rivers have been added to waters closed to fishing until June 25, when the season will open on bass and bluegills.

An opinion received by the department of conservation from the attorney general's office rules these bayous as inland lakes and consequently subject to the same regulations as inland lakes. All inland lakes not specifically designated as "pike" or "trout" lakes are closed to all fishing until June 25.

Parmelee has good building material. Phone 417.—Adv. 14tf.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Mrs. O. O. White of Allegan, was the guest several days last week of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Dawson at their home on State street.

Mrs. Katie Berger and Emil Chvatil, both well known to Charlevoix residents, were united in marriage Saturday evening by Rev. John E. Lockyer at the Methodist parsonage.

LOCAL YOUNG MAN MARRIED SATURDAY

Grand Rapids Scene of Wedding of Lynn L. Mayne.

An announcement of interest to local people is that of the marriage on Saturday, June 14, at Grand Rapids, of Lynn L. Mayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mayne of Norwood township, to Miss Marguerite Elizabeth Erxleben, granddaughter of Mrs. Pauline Erxleben of Grand Rapids.

Mr. Mayne is a graduate of the local high school and county normal and is well known to local residents. The young couple will reside in Grand Rapids.

CHRIST EPISCOPAL

Regular evening service of Christ Episcopal church will be held Sunday, June 22, at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. Edward S. Doan of Petoskey. This will be the last evening service for this season. The public is cordially invited to attend. Rev. John K. Coolidge of Glencoe, Ill., will take charge during the months of July and August, and regular morning services will be held during the summer as usual.

SECOND PEE WEE GOLF COURSE BEING PLANNED

To Be Located at Corner Belvedere Avenue and Alice Street.

A fourth miniature golf course at Charlevoix is being planned, the Pee Wee Golf Courses, Inc., having leased the Graves property, corner Belvedere avenue and Alice street for that purpose.

Their original course at the corner of Michigan avenue and River street is now practically completed and will be opened for play this week. G. S. Clark, who is vice-president of the company manufacturing the Pee Wee outfits, will have charge of both, also the courses at Harbor Springs and Mackinac Island.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our loved father, Laurence Livingston, who died June 19, 1928:

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our hearts,
Which never can be filled.

God in his wisdom has recalled
The boom his love had given,
And though the body slumbers here,
The soul is safe in Heaven.

SAVING

Just what is saving? Isn't it really keeping your money, or a portion of it, instead of scattering it among people who have as much or more than you have.

Maybe the definition of saving never presented itself to you in that way before, but think it over. Isn't it really the proper definition?

Are you keeping your money or are you scattering it? Are you saving it or are you squandering it? Take thought—then, if you are already saving, save more. If you are not, start today.

We will gladly help.

MAKES GOOD THINGS TASTE BETTER

FESSENDEN the DRUGGIST

After the First Twenty-five Thousand Miles

THE VALUE of sound design, good materials and careful craftsmanship is especially apparent in the new Ford after the first twenty-five thousand miles. Long, continuous service emphasizes its mechanical reliability and economy of operation and up-keep.

As you drive the Ford through many months and years you will develop an increasing pride in its appearance and a growing respect for the substantial worth that has been built into it. From every standpoint—in everything that goes to make a good automobile—you will know that you have made a far-seeing, satisfactory purchase.

Wherever you go, you hear enthusiastic praise of the car and this significant, oft-repeated phrase—"I'm glad I bought a Ford."

A FORD owner in New York tells of a 13,000-mile trip across the United States and back in sixty days and says "the car was extremely economical to operate, comfortable and speedy." A grateful father tells how the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield saved his wife and children from serious injury.

To test tires, a large company drove a new Ford day and night, for an average of 500 miles every twenty-four hours. It was still giving satisfactory service after 105,000 miles.

A Ford car that had fallen into Fernan Lake was submerged for twelve days before being raised. After a new battery and carburetor bowl were installed, it was driven back to Spokane under its own power.

Many police departments have written of the special advantages of the Ford in crowded traffic because of its alert speed, acceleration, and ease of control. An increasing number of fleet owners are also purchasing the Ford because their cost figures have given conclusive proof of its economy of operation and up-keep.

In addition to important triumphs in Germany, France and Italy, the Ford won six out of seven leading places in a contest in Finland, first and second in the Rafaela races in Argentina, first and second in the run from Copenhagen-to-Paris-to-Copenhagen, three gold medals in England, first ranking in the durability test over the tortuous Amance road in Peru, and first place in the 1930 reliability run conducted by the Royal Automobile Club of Sweden.

This contest was an exceptionally severe test of endurance and sturdy construction because it was held in the dead of winter and covered 600 miles of steady running over snow-covered country roads and mountainous hills.

"Beef Truck" to Visit Charlevoix County.

Of great interest to all farmers who are engaged in the production of good quality beef is the visit of the "beef truck" to this country on Monday forenoon, June 23, at 9:30 o'clock fast time. It will be held in back of the Boyne City Co-operative company building, which will permit plenty of room for showing the several sires and steers carried on the truck.

You can be assured that there will be a Herford, Aberdeen Angus, beef shorthorn, and milking shorthorn bull on the truck. Also, one or more good type steers will be shown, indicating the type of animal that brings the best price when sold to the butcher.

Delmer LaVoi, specialist in animal husbandry of M. S. C. L. L. Drake, district extension agent, and representatives from each of the breed associations will be present to demonstrate and discuss the selection of the herd sire, the importance of the pedigree, what constitutes type and quality, and other important factors that will interest you as a beef producer.

Several exhibits will be shown, one entitled "Two Steers of the Trial," others on grading and selection, in addition to pictures, literature and bulletins from the breed associations.

Are you good at guessing weights? If you are guess how much each of the bulls weigh and win a prize. These prizes are being donated by local merchants.

This will be your first opportunity of seeing representative sires of the different breeds, and of comparing the difference between a good steer and the scrub.

If you are interested in buying a good sire or female for your herd let us know as we have a list of some 350 animals varying in price from $50 to $300 that can be purchased. Let one of the speakers help you in your selection.

Space does not permit giving any more of the details, but by all means make up your mind to come and let nothing stop you. This will be one of the most valuable demonstrations you have ever attended so let us see you on Monday forenoon, June 23, at the Boyne City Co-ops.

BARNETT BROS. CIRCUS COMING JUNE 25

To Show on Central Land Co. Property on North Side.

Lovers of the out-of-the ordinary amusement will be interested in the announcement that Barnett Bros. big 3-ring circus and trained animal circus, will be seen at Charlevoix on Wednesday, June 25, presenting decidedly the largest and greatest program of original, unique and thrilling feature acts known today.

To the show world this vast tented amusement enterprise is alone in a class, by itself without a rival. Nothing like the performance provided by Barnett Bros. circus and trained animal shows, was ever before dreamed or dared by the boldest managers. Whatever your preference, you will find plenty to interest, astonish and edify you.

There are thrilling aerial acts, during every moment of which one expects to see the intrepid performers hurled into eternity; artistic and sensational equestrianism; incredible and bewildering athletics and acrobatic numbers, and the phenomenal exhibition by trained animals. In fact, so numerous and varied are the novelties offered in the three rings and upon the hippodrome track by these shows, lack of space will not permit each of these to be mentioned. The wonderful growth of this circus is that the owners have always aimed to present all and more than they advertise.

MANCERONA ROBBERS SENTENCED TO LIFE

Judge Parm C. Gilbert Meted Out
Terms in Bellaire Court.

Four men, three of them brothers, were on their respective ways to Jackson state and Marquette prisons last Saturday, sentenced to life imprisonment, for the Antrim County State Savings Bank holdup at Mancelona, June 2.

Two of the brothers, Sylvester Elliott, 23, and Leonard Elliott, 18, were committed to Marquette by Judge Parm C. Gilbert of the circuit court.

The other brother, Fred, 25, and Loren Morrison, 19, were sentenced to Jackson. All four pleaded guilty when brought before Judge Gilbert.

The quartet was captured by a hastily organized posse after they had escaped with $936.

Fred and Leonard Elliott were wounded in a skirmish with the posse prior to their capture. In the hunt by possemen, Dr. John Gerver, of Bellaire, was mistaken for one of the bandits and wounded.

His condition still is reported serious at Lockwood hospital in Petoskey.

The holdup of the bank and subsequent temporary escape of the robbers precipitated one of the greatest man hunts ever staged in Northern Michigan.

Before the gang was rounded up four members of various posses had been wounded, along with the two Elliott brothers.

The most serious was, of course, Dr. Gerver, while R. C. Bennett, of Alba, was shot in the abdomen and had to undergo a serious operation at Lockwood hospital, to which institution the two wounded bandits also were taken.

INTERESTING NEW FACTS ABOUT FEET

Method of Obtaining Foot Comfort Explained by Local Dealer.

It is no longer necessary to wear large or peculiarly shaped shoes in order to have comfortable feet. Mr. Campbell of the Campbell Boot Shop made this assertion today, thereby puncturing what has long been a popular notion. He also made the interesting statement that seven out of ten persons suffer from foot troubles of some kind. These were government statistics, he said.

Mr. Campbell was explaining the significance of Dr. Scholl's Foot Comfort Week, which will be held June 14 to 21. This, he said, was a concerted movement of progressive shoe dealers all over the United States and Canada to spread the message of foot comfort.

Mr. Campbell, who has had special training in Dr. Scholl's method of giving foot comfort, says he can send every person, whether they are suffering from broken down arches, weak ankles, extreme tiredness of painful, burning feet, out of the store in comfort, and in neat, stylish shoes. Pains from corns, calluses and bunions can be relieved at once he said; suffering is needless, for there is a Dr. Scholl's Appliance or Remedy for every foot trouble.

"I expect that a great many people will call at our store during Foot Comfort Week," he said, "and they can be assured they never have had such an opportunity as this to find out just what their foot troubles are and how easily and inexpensively they can be remedied."

AT THE MOVIES

Two Tunes Heard in "Wedding Rings"

Two tunes, which are attaining wide popularity wherever the picture has been shown, will be heard in "Wedding Rings," the First National and Vitaphone romantic screen drama which is scheduled for the Palace Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, June 18 and 19.

They are "Love Will Last Forever," and "That's My Business," Eddie Ward and Alfred Bryan, two of the First National studio's noted composers, wrote the numbers.

Lois Wilson displays a tuneful voice, as does Olive Borden. Miss Wilson and H. B. Warner portray the leading roles in the story.

Two Teams Play Prominent Parts in Rialto's Film.

The football gridirons, the baseball diamonds and the polo fields are not the only places where there are "teams."

There are two "teams" in one moving picture, "Pointed Heels" and it is coming to the Palace Theatre for a two days' stand on Friday and Saturday, June 20 and 21. There are two players on each "team."

The first "outfit" has played successfully in other pictures. It comprises William Powell and Eugene Pallette. This pair played to full houses all over the country in "The Greene Murder Case" and "The Canary Murder Case," as Philo Vance and Sgt. Heath. In "Pointed Heels" Powell is the theatrical producer and suave man of the world. Pallette of the booming voice is the hard-boiled dance-director.

The other "team" which plays in "Pointed Heels" is that of Helen "Sugar" Kane and Richard "Skeets" Gallagher. They never appeared together—previously in a moving picture. But their work in this fascinating play with music may bring them further assignments as an established pair of song and dance comics.

"Great Divide" On Its Way to Local House.

The First National screen version of "The Great Divide," known as "The great American drama," has been booked by the manager of the Palace Theatre and will open Sunday, June 22, with Dorothy Mackaill in the featured role.

"The Great Divide," as a play, ran for many years and broke box office records throughout this country and in Europe.

In the screen version, Miss Mackaill portrays an emancipated, cocktail-imbibing modern girl, the type of role in which she has had such success in her recent pictures. She has an opportunity for splendid dramatic work when she is kidnapped by the man she both loves and hates, and is brought out into the silent desert of Arizona. The Vitaphone talking scenes amid this beautiful country are a feature of the picture.

Ian Keith portrays the role of the Westerner, made famous on the stage by Henry Miller.

CROPS ARE AHEAD OF USUAL SEASON

CONSIDERED TWO WEEKS EARLIER THAN NORMAL.

Winter Wheat Conditions in South Part of the State Are Considerably Improved.

Michigan crops for the most part are two weeks earlier than normal this year, with the exception of fruit crops to which frost did heavy damage, according to a report released today by Verne H. Church, agricultural statistician of the United States department of agriculture.

The condition of the winter wheat crop has improved since May 1, particularly in the southern counties. Church's report shows. With retarded growth due to late planting last fall the recent warm dry weather appears to have been generally favorable. The reported condition of 82 per cent on June 1 is three per cent higher than for the same date one year ago. Present prospects are for a crop of 15,732,000 bushels, which is only slightly under the ten-year average for the state.

The condition of spring wheat in the state is reported at 86 per cent normal, or three per cent higher than on this date last year, and two per cent greater than the long-time average at this date.

The probable production of rye in Michigan is now estimated at 2,520,000 bushels. Last year, 2,241,000 bushels were harvested.

The reported condition of oats on June 1 was 86 per cent. This is 16 points higher than on June 1 last year, but four per cent less than the ten-year condition on that date.

Barley prospects are generally satisfactory throughout the state, the condition being reported at 86 per cent of normal or two per cent more than the average condition on June 1.

On account of last year's drought, the condition of all tame hay is reported at 81 per cent, which is three per cent less than on June 1, 1929. Alfalfa is reported at 86 per cent or the same as last year, but two per cent less than the ten-year average. All clover and timothy prospects amount to 80 per cent or four per cent below the June 1 figure last year.

With the low temperatures that prevailed from the 24th to 28th, a decided change in the fruit situation has occurred. The early season and consequent advanced development tended to augment the losses. The northern half of the fruit belt suffered severely, the fruit in some orchards being frozen on the trees. Southeastern Michigan seems to have escaped damage, while the injury in the southwestern counties was considerably lighter than in those farther north.

The peach outlook on June 1 was 41 per cent of a full crop. The June 1 outlook on other fruits in terms of percentages of a full crop is: Apples, 57; plums, 58; cherries, 41; blackberries and raspberries, 67; strawberries, 70; and grapes, 80.

CITIZENSHIP TOPIC FOR JUNE MEETING

Interesting Information Heard by W. C. T. U. Last Friday.

A fund of interesting and useful information was brought to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union meeting last Friday afternoon through Mrs. Simmons' presentation of the subject of "Citizenship."

The Constitution of the United States including the 19 amendments was briefly reviewed, especially those portions which relate to the rights and duties of citizens.

The appointment of justices of the Supreme Court for life or during good behavior was commended as this makes it unnecessary for these officials to play politics in order to continue in office.

The 19th amendment, while it has not brought the millennium, has not proven the calamity which many prophesied. More women vote every year and vote more intelligently.

The importance of the primary, which does away largely with the old caucus and convention system, was stressed. The fact that nominating petitions must be filed well in advance of the primary election gives voters the opportunity to learn the personal character and political attitude of any candidate.

The annual school meeting was mentioned as an election which ought to be participated in by every eligible voter. The election occurs this year on July 14th and three school trustees will be elected.

During the business session a committee was appointed to find out and report at the next meeting if anything can be done to get certain offensive bill boards removed.

COTTAGERS ARRIVE AT BELVEDERE CLUB

Daily New-Comers Rapidly Filling Cottages on Resort.

The on-coming days of summer are bringing with them an ever-increasing group of summer resorters at the Belvedere Club. Cottages are filling up rapidly now, and by the first of July the resort season will be in full swing.

Arrivals during the past week at the Belvedere include Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Boucher of Chicago, who are now in their cottage; Mrs. W. A. Layman of New York, who last fall purchased the Holden cottage; Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Adams and family of Chicago, who are occupying the Fielder cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd R. Steere of Chicago, are in their cottage. Mrs. Steere was called to Chicago Monday by the death of Mrs. Charleton, former Belvedere cottager. She will return later. Mr. Steere is financial secretary of the University of Chicago. Others of the University of Chicago group are Prof. and Mrs. A. C. McLaughlin, who are now in their cottage. Mr. Boucher, previously named, is also with the university.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Zahner of Topeka, Kansas, have rented the Burr cottage on Belvedere avenue. They will be joined later by Dr. and Mrs. Reynolds of Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. McGregor of Detroit, have rented the Birge cottage. They will come July 1st for the season.

BAD FIRE NARROWLY AVERTED TUESDAY EVE

Electric Flat Iron Set Fire to Room at The Tea Gardens.

A damaging fire was narrowly averted at The Tea Gardens on Clinton street Tuesday evening.

An electric flat iron had been left in circuit in an upstairs bedroom. It burned through the ironing board and fell to the floor, setting the room afire. A call to the fire department brought a chemical outfit, and the blaze was extinguished after it had burned some of the furnishings, and a hole in the floor and ceiling.

Shall Villages Sue Townships for Road Cash?

Taking issue with the Michigan Municipal League which recently urged villages throughout the state to consider legal action to recover certain road funds which the league claims the township governments may have retained illegally, R. Wayne Newton, director of taxation of the Michigan State Farm Bureau, has issued a statement in which he suggests that village officers should go slow in following the league's advice. His statement follows:

"The recent effort of the Municipal League to foment litigation between the villages and the townships over road funds is ill advised and will prove a boomerang both against those who have counseled this action and those who follow the advice without careful consideration.

"Township road taxes are only a small part of all taxes, and we will be bound to ask for an inquiry into the assessments of village real and personal property on request of members in any case where an effort is made to shoulder onto the township the burden of restoring such road funds, much of which has been spent with the full knowledge of village officers.

"It is an open secret that assessments in many villages have not been up to the level of those on the surrounding farms. A suit which sought to recover road taxes and ended with a review of valuations by the state tax commission on petition of over-assessed farmers might easily place a larger tax on the village than is now imposed. The farm bureau will make every effort to secure such reviews, at the request of its members, whenever it develops that the village files a suit for road taxes, as the Municipal League advises, and we will call particular attention to the assessments now being placed upon personal property in these places.

"In any event, village taxpayers and officials will do well to remember that a favorable result in a suit against the township will probably mean the spreading of a tax over the whole township including the village and will therefore take money out of one pocket in order to put it in another. In many cases, the winning of such a suit would lead to further extravagance in local expenditure and the very taxpayer who is urged to push the suit may be the principal loser.

"It would be suicidal at this time for the villages and townships to be led into a quarrel over road funds. What is needed is a better all around system of auditing and handling local tax money, such as the farm bureau has favored. This, plus township road relief through state-aid, which the farm bureau has championed, would eliminate the present difficulties and work for the benefit both of the village and the township.

"Village officers have had their attention forcibly called to an opinion as to their legal rights issued over the signature of Deputy Attorney General Emerson E. Boyles, and holding that they were legally entitled to bring suit as the league suggests. I wish to call village officers' attention with equal force to the following terse comment, also made by Judge Boyles, for publication in the Michigan Farm Bureau News:

"As a matter of fact I think it is a problem that ought to be straightened out in the legislature."

SUMMER VACATION CAMP IS ANNOUNCED

Grand Rapids Christian Group Is Sponsoring Two Week Outing.

A summer vacation camp is being offered to all christian young men, 16 years and older, by the Grand Rapids League of Young Men's Societies, an organization of the Christian Reformed Church. The purpose of this camp is stated to provide a healthful and inspiring vacation period in a distinctly christian environment. The only requirement for membership is that members be of good christian character. All applications are accepted subject to approval by the executive committee.

The camp site is a beautiful wooded tract on Lake Michigan at Atwood, 12 miles south of Charlevoix. The camp is offered for a two weeks period only, opening on Saturday, July 19, and closing on Monday, August 1.

The costs are very low, $10.00 per week, or $2.00 per day, payable in advance. Reservations are to be mailed to Grand Rapids League Summer Camp, 910 Hall street, S. E. Telephone G. Kingma at that address for any desired information.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Laurence Livingston, who died two years ago, June 19, 1928: June brings back sad memories of a loved one gone to rest. Who will always be remembered by those who loved him best. Days of sadness still come o'er us, tears in silence often flow; For memory keeps him ever near us, though he died two years ago. Ever remembered by parents, sisters and brother.—Adv. 2511.

Many Improvements Have Put Hotel in Prime Condition—Booking Indicates Good Season

The Inn, Charlevoix's largest hotel, opens Saturday, June 28th, for the 1930 summer season.

To the hundreds who annually make this popular hostelry their summer headquarters and to the rapidly increasing contingent of new-comers, The Inn will be more pleasing than ever before. Looking to the comfort of its patrons, the Pere Marquette Railway company, owners of The Inn, have spent a vast amount of money this year on improvements.

The entire property has been completely re-wired. In the hotel, new reading lamps and floor plugs have been added in the rooms and in addition to dome lights new fixtures have been installed in the dining room. The hotel has been redecorated inside and out and other improvements made to comply with the Pere Marquette's policy of keeping The Inn in first class repair.

A. I. Creamer, who is senior partner in the ownership of the Highland Pines Inn, Southern Pines, N. C., comes to Charlevoix for his 25th year as manager of The Inn and its properties, a record we believe is unparalleled in this northern Michigan region.

Practically the same corps of efficient officers and help will assist Mr. Creamer in the management of the hotel this year. William E. Flynn returns as assistant manager; Lee McDonald is cashier and bookkeeper; Dan C. Walsh, private secretary to Mr. Creamer; Leon M. York, steward; P. B. Abel, chef; James Flynn, head waiter; Mrs. William E. Flynn, housekeeper; Carlton S. Ryens, head porter; A. Montisanti, doorman; C. Y. Marshall, in charge of grounds.

It is creditable that the entire organization at The Inn has remained intact for so many years. Mr. Creamer stated that he knew of no body of men who could place a big piece of property like The Inn and cottages in condition for an opening in the short time that has always been necessary.

In addition to the fine service and food for which The Inn has been recognized during the many years of its operation, the hotel has also gained prominence as an entertainment center. The Charlevoix open and the Michigan Riviera tennis tournaments, the former the week of July 7th, and the latter the week of August 18th, will be played on the battery of five excellent clay courts. Other entertainment features provided are croquet and roque grounds, miniature golf course; its bathing pier on Lake Charlevoix directly in front of the hotel, and a fine string of Kentucky and Virginia saddle horses. All of these features are reached from the hotel and within two minutes walk—truly as convenient as the many other things which characterize this noted hotel.

Mr. Creamer stated that prospects for the summer were better than for a great many years. An arrangement with the Pere Marquette Railway company for week and two-week visits at special rates has resulted in a great many bookings. The mammoth Pere Marquette advertising campaign featured The Inn prominently, and this, together with the booklets and other literature provided by the railroad, gives Charlevoix a lot of good advertising.

LOCAL YOUNG MAN MARRIED SATURDAY

Robt. C. Burns and Miss Margaret Schrandt Wed at Flat Rock

A wedding of interest to Charlevoixans occurred Saturday, June 21, at Flat Rock, Michigan, when Robert C. Burns, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Burns of Hayes township, was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Schrandt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schrandt of Flat Rock.

The ceremony was performed at First Congregation church of Flat Rock by the pastor, Rev. J. C. Hutchinson, before an assemblage of four hundred relatives and guests. The impressive ring service was used. Attending the couple were Miss Mable Blackmore of Detroit, as bridesmaid, and Pete Burns, brother of the groom, as best man.

Mr. Burns is one of Charlevoix's local boys who has made good since leaving his home here. He graduated from Charlevoix high school, class of '21, and later from Olivet college. He has made a fine record in southern Michigan schools and next year will be principal at Farmington, Michigan. Mrs. Burns is also an Olivet graduate and has been teaching at Farmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Burns are spending several days here with the former's parents before going on a motor trip to Old Mexico, Yellowstone Park and other points of interest in the West.

BENJ. BROWN HAS NEW DEPARTMENT

CAR GREASING AND WASHING UNITS ARE INSTALLED

New Department Gives Establishment
the Most Complete Garage Service in Region

This week's issue of The Courier carries an advertisement on page four, announcing the opening of Benjamin Brown's new service department.

On his property fronting Mason street, where the work of laying a concrete floor and fencing in has been recently completed, Mr. Brown has installed a complete electrically-powered Alemite greasing equipment, high pressure car washing outfit, drain pit and other necessary appliances for this type of automobile work. The new unit gives the establishment what we believe is the most complete garage service in northern Michigan.

In connection, parking space is made available day or night for a reasonable charge and the lot is policed. The place also is being used to display reconditioned automobiles.

Mr. Brown has long been identified in the automobile and garage business in this section. He maintains an efficient repair department under competent mechanics. A complete electrical department takes care of such work as battery charging and repairing, starter, generator and wiring difficulties, etc. It is a separate unit, as is also the vulcanizing and tire repair department.

Mr. Brown has the agency for several popular makes of automobiles, including the Hudson-Essex line and Dodge and Plymouth cars. His agencies cover Charlevoix county on one line and a district territory on the other. He advertises strongly the fact that his garage services the cars handled and carries a complete line of accessories.

Popular during the summer is the bicycle department maintained. Servicing, sales and rentals are featured. Mr. Brown may be termed a pioneer in his line and Charlevoix is fortunate in having this progressive establishment as one of its business places.

A new county airport committee was chosen to take immediate action on the selection of a county airport site. Harry A. Craig, chairman of the board, William Sanderson, Wm. J. Pearson, C. C. Schaub, Wm. R. Barnett are members of the committee.

An additional $1,700 was authorized to the county poor fund budget (Continued on page 8.)

HISTORIC TOUR HERE SATURDAY

FIVE CARLOADS IN DELEGATION GATHERING EARLY DATA

Met by Officials Here and Presented With Interesting Paper Tracing City's History

Dr. C. J. Winder, president of the Charlevoix Association of Commerce, met members of the Michigan Historical tour when they paid Charlevoix a visit Saturday.

The visiting delegation was told of Charlevoix's interesting places during their brief stop, and a copy of the following very interesting paper, prepared by Miss Marian Tyler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Tyler, was given each member of the group:

Charlevoix, "The Beautiful"

By MARIAN TYLER.

Thousands of years ago, a great glacier covered what is now the region of the Great Lakes. In its gradual, southward course it gouged out deep hollows and piled up rolling, boulder-strewn plateaus over which it pushed its way resistlessly. In the ages which followed, the ice slowly loosened its grip. Streams from the melting rim of the great glacier filled the hollows and the land which was to become Michigan lay silent and dark in the clasp of the Great Lakes.

In the year of our Lord, 1639, Jean Nicolet, passing through the Straits of Mackinac, saw for the first time the territory which became the property of his sovereign majesty, Louis of France, on June 14, 1671, at the falls of St. Mary—now called Sault Ste. Marie. Lake Michigan, known to the Indians as the Lake of the Illinois, was traversed only by an occasional trader or lonely Indian voyageur in his canoe.

Far upon the western shore of Michigan, some 60 miles south of Michillimackinac, a water-filled, glacial hollow—18 miles long and from two to four miles wide—emptied itself into the great lake through the mouth of a pine-shaded little river, choked with snags and ridges of sand. Here, an outpost of fishing Ottawas had established a village.

On August 16, 1721, Pierre Francois Xavier de Charlevoix, a French Jesuit missionary, exploring for the King of France, passed by the obscure little village on his way south to the Mississippi, little imagining that 105 years after his death the inhabitants of this village would look upon his humble name with reverence and take it for their own.

Charlevoix was a man of whom France might be proud. He did not seek for glory, or wealth, or position but gave his life for God and his king in the unexplored wilderness of New France. He lived humbly and, at his death in 1761, he left as a legacy a "History of New France" and his "Journal," in which his character was revealed.

In the early 19th century, a party of white fishermen, headed by Capt. T. D. Smith, established a small settlement on the site of the Indian village which they called Pine River. Among them were two families of former Mormons. This sect had a settlement at St. James, Beaver Island, and caused the Gentile pioneers much trouble by their repeated attempts to drive them out. After one invasion, the Pine River folk decided to avoid further clashes by abandoning the place.

Pine River remained uninhabited until 1854, when a Mormon family from the Beavers arrived and took possession of one of the houses on the river. By 1855 there were three more families, among them the Dixons from Old Mission. Many and annoying were the attempts of the Mormons to oust the Gentile Dixon family but, on the arrival of other settlers, they were forced to remain peaceable.

In 1856 occurred the assassination of "King" Strang, the Mormon leader, and the forcible expulsion of this sect from Pine River. About this time, the counties of western Michigan began to organize. Charlevoix county was then Keshkewau county, named after the head chief of the Saginaw Chippewas who signed the Indian treaty of 1819. The name of the county was subsequently changed to Charlevoix in honor of the great French explorer, Chief Keshkewau having abboted the murder of another Indian and disgraced his name.

The county also included the Beavers, the Mormons, by their superior numbers, having voted themselves in. Pine River was platted as a village in 1866, by Mr. Dixon. In 1867, a mail route and post office were established and, from this time on, the town progressed rapidly. And with reason—"to one having an eye either to beauty or business the banks of Pine river early presented attractions as an eligible site for a town. (Continued on page 2.)

STR. MANITOU IN SERVICE JULY 14

CHICAGO-MACKINAC CRUISES POPULAR FEATURES

Sault Ste. Marie Scenic Trip Included
In Monday to Friday Weekly
Cruise of Big Vessel

The Michigan Transit Corporation serves nearly all of northern Michigan's summer resorts from Ludington to Sault Ste. Marie with an unusually efficient and popular direct steamship service. In addition to their regular schedule several special cruises are made. The July 4th cruise which leaves Chicago July 3rd, touching at all the regular lake ports, arrives in Chicago July 7th. The "Over Labor Day" cruise leaves Chicago August 2nd and arrives in Chicago September 29th. Local passengers and automobiles are accepted at any part of call.

Monday to Friday Cruises

After July 14 the modern steel cruising steamship Manitou will again sail on the delightful and popular "Monday to Friday" vacation lake cruises from Chicago to Sault Ste. Marie and return. . . vacations arranged especially for the enjoyment and health of every member of the family or for a party of friends who plan on enjoying an inexpensive outing together. The good ship Manitou will leave Chicago every Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock; returning to Chicago the following Friday morning at 8:15 o'clock. On the north-bound trip the Manitou will stop at the charming resorts of Glen Haven, Charlevoix, Petoskey, Harbor Springs and allow several hours on shore at Mackinac Island in both directions. Scenic Traverse Bay and beautiful St. Mary's river will be run in daylight. Sufficient time is allowed passengers at Sault Ste. Marie for sight-seeing on both American and Canadian sides and an inspection of the remarkable ship canal and locks, second only in size to the Panama Canal locks.

Chicago-Mackinac Cruise

Throughout the operating season—spring, summer and fall both the S. S. Puritan and the S. S. Manitou will make the Mackinac Island cruise along the scenic shoreline of northern Michigan.

On Monday sailings during mid-summer period, passengers may remain on Mackinac Island from Tuesday evening until Wednesday evening—a full 24-hour stopover. Ample time to enjoy golf, bathing, horse-back riding, etc. The week-end trips "Friday to Monday" are very popular.

FIRE DESTROYS TWO AUTOS AND GARAGE

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a garage and burned two automobiles in the Grant Crandall garage on Petoskey avenue at about 1:30 o'clock Monday morning.

The city fire department answered the alarm promptly, but the fire had gained too much headway to be checked upon their arrival.

FINE SPORTS PRO- GRAM THIS SUMMER

CHARLEVOIX OPEN TENNIS TOURNAMENT JULY 7

Great Lakes Open and Michigan
Amateur Golf Tournaments, Regatta and Michigan Riviera Listed

Aiming to lead the northern Michigan region as a center for tourist entertainment during the 1930 resort season, Charlevoix hotel interests, the association of commerce, golf clubs and city council have planned one of the most complete sports programs ever attempted here.

The initial event, scheduled for the week of July 7th, is the annual Charlevoix open tennis tournament at The Inn clay courts. While purely a regional affair, this tournament has grown in popularity from year to year until it now draws outstanding tennis talent from the entire northern resort region. Play closes July 13th.

Michigan's outstanding golfing event, the Great Lakes Open tournament, opens July 15th at the Belvedere course. Inaugurated in August, 1929, the tournament drew most of the "big guns" of the profession, including Walter Hagen, former British open champion, who won the initial Charlevoix tournament; Horton Smith, professional golf's big cash winner for the past two years; Tommy Armour, Abe Espinoza, Al Watrous, Danny Shute, Bill Melhorn and others of the outstanding pros. This year prize money has been increased substantially and the tournament made an invitational affair. Officials of the Great Lakes Golf association, who have charge of the tourney, promise a more brilliant field this year. Dates of the event are July 15, 16 and 17.

The week of July 20-26 sees another major golfing event at the Belvedere course. The Michigan State Amateur tournament, which draws a field of from one hundred to one hundred fifty wielders of the wood and iron, opens July 23rd and closes the 26th.

Opening the August program is the annual regatta of the Charlevoix Boat club. The dates have not been fixed yet, but will probably be the first week-end in August. This event is sanctioned by the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association. Competition for sailing craft, which brings into action the fleet of six meter boats at the Charlevoix Club of Charlevoix, outboards and runabouts is provided.

Date of the annual Michigan Riviera tennis championships, originally set for the week of August 8th at The Inn courts, has been changed to the week of August 18th in anticipation of the entry of George Lott and Johnny Doeg of the American Davis cup team, who will have returned to this country by that time. Increasing in popularity yearly, the Michigan Riviera in 1929, drew one of the outstanding tennis fields of the summer season. This year's tournament promises to be no exception.

Interspersing the summer program's major attractions are Sunday swimming meets, the Belvedere annual golf and tennis tournaments, the Chicago Club annual regatta and golf tournament and two annual horse shows.

John E. Bowker, executive secretary of the Great Lakes Golf association, will have supervision of the two major golf tournaments and entries may be addressed to him at The Inn. Gerald W. Ash, tennis instructor of Bloomfield Heights school, Detroit, has been engaged to handle the two tennis events. Robert Short of St. Louis, Mo., assistant athletic director of Culver college, has been engaged by the Charlevoix association of commerce as summer sports director and the balance of the program will be under his supervision.

BAND CONCERT AT CITY AUTO CAMP

Thursday Evening Entertainment to Be Held There This Week

John TerWee, director of the city band, announces that the regular weekly band concert will be held Thursday evening in the tourist park on Lake Michigan.

Work on a temporary band stand to be located on the city lot, corner of State and Mason streets, will be started soon and concerts held there when it is completed.

An excellent program is promised for the concert Thursday evening.

NORWOOD

The sunset after the refreshing rain Monday evening, presented a beautiful scene.

The 4-H club girls have organized a canning club with Mrs. Floyd Wagner as their leader.

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Foster of Chicago, are now occupying their summer home in Norwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wagner and family enjoyed Wednesday with Mr. Wagner's parents in Charlevoix, the occasion being Mrs. Wagner's birthday.

Buddie Hallett of St. Joe, Mich., arrived Saturday and will spend the summer with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Penny Genett. His mother and brother will arrive later.

Mr. and Mrs. George Trombley and their grand-daughter, Mildred, of Detroit, visited Mr. and Mrs. Penny Genett last Friday. They also visited relatives in Charlevoix on their trip.

Mrs. George Perry and her daughter, Alta, of Kalamazoo, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richardson. The Perry family were sometime ago residents of Norwood and have many friends here who are always pleased to greet them on their visits.

After making a pleasure trip to the Soo they will return to their home. Miss Alta is graduating in music from the Chicago University next month.

BEAVER ISLAND

Franklin Left spent a few days in Charlevoix last week.

Roland McCann made a business trip to Charlevoix Thursday.

Mrs. A. C. Pischner went to Charlevoix Tuesday to reside for the summer.

Mrs. Otto Kastner of Rapidan, Minn., arrived Thursday for a visit at the home of H. R. Pischner.

Miss Edith Gallagher went to Charlevoix with Mrs. A. C. Pischner to spend a few days with her.

Mrs. Herman C. Pischner returned from a five weeks' visit at Pontiac with her brother, P. C. Allers.

Mrs. Peter Nielsen came over on the boat Wednesday. She will be on Garden Island for the summer.

Mrs. Clarence Bissell went to Charlevoix Wednesday to see her brother, George Stevens, who is ill.

Miss Margaret Gallagher and Evelyn Pischner left Thursday and are in Escanaba visiting at the home of E. Belfy.

Capt. Ingwall of the barge Stuart, while watching loading of logs at the Maple Block company dock, was seriously injured when some logs let go. He was taken to Petoskey hospital in a critical condition. His little son, who was with him, was also seriously injured.

CENTRAL LAKE

Mrs. John Brower and son Donald of Hudsonville, visited at the home of A. Saitzler last week.

Harvey Brower and wife of Eastport, and Mrs. Harry Lewis of Grand Rapids, visited relatives here last week.

The new Standard Oil station on the Thurston corner placed its oil tanks Saturday and work is about completed.

O. R. and G. A. Morse leave this week on a crop inspection trip to southern Michigan for J. B. Rice Seed company.

Candidate for sheriff, Henry Vanderwenter, and George H. Barr, for prosecutor, spoke at Bay View school on citizenship.

Rev. G. A. Weaver, missionary of Petoskey, preached at the Bay View school Sunday. He brought along Rev. Fannee, who went on to Creswell and preached there.

Oris Sisson just returned Saturday from New York City and West Point, where he went to witness the graduation of his son, Winfield Scott Sisson, at West Point. He also stopped enroute and visited the senate at Washington, D. C.

Quite a crowd attended the Old Settlers' picnic at Traverse City last week Wednesday. Mrs. C. B. Clark and Gilbert Clark of Petoskey, and many other from several counties, who were on the program, were absent. Traverse City high school band rendered several fine selections and a stirring address by state senator, Alfred Engel, was given. The oldest person who would go up in the airplane was Rev. Mills of San Bernardino, California. He was 84 years

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the Central Drug Store, the Rexall store.

STOMACH PAINS QUICKLY ENDED BY NEW KONJOLA

Illness of Lifetime Presents No Problem for Famed Compound—Detroit Man Euthusiastic

MR. ERNEST DIONNE

"A plasterer by trade, it is necessary for me to keep feeling fit," said Mr. Ernest Dionne, 498 Verner Highway, West Detroit. "This has been practically impossible for me because I have suffered from stomach trouble for the past twenty years. In fact I have been handicapped by a weak stomach all my life. I have lived in Detroit since 1923 and during those years, and for many years previous, I tried many medicines and treatments but none helped me.

"I read of Konjola and its merits in the local papers. I can truthfully say that it has relieved me of all my stomach disorders. I am glad to tell all my friends about Konjola and I am certainly happy to recommend it to all who suffer."

Konjola is a medicine that, when given in fair trial of from six to eight bottles, will relieve sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Every day of delay means just an added day of suffering.

Konjola is sold in Charlevoix, Mich., at F. J. Fessenden's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

of age, and appeared to enjoy the trip immensely.

ANTRIM CITY

Wallace Harris of Battle Creek, is spending a time at the M. A. Tyrell home.

Karl Meyers of Rogers City, was a visitor at the F. Brooks home over the week-end.

Mrs. John Triplett and daughter, Irene, of Atwood, called on Mrs. Fred Brooks last week.

Grace and Beatrice Baumbach of Norwood, spent a few days with friends in Antrim City.

Mr. Tyrell broke one of the pistons in his truck while on his way to Ellsworth Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Stott and family and Wallace Harris attended the show at Central Lake last Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Lord and children, Margaret and Glen, also Floyd Peck, spent Sunday evening at the Stott home.

Dr. Duffie of Central Lake, was a caller at the Brooks home Friday. He reports Mrs. Brooks' condition is still serious.

George Post and Grace Brooks of Detroit, arrived at the Brooks' home Saturday, where they will spend the summer.

We now have a store at Antrim City, called Tyrell's Vacation camp, so anyone that is stopping can sweeten up or get a smoke. Lunches are served also.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Tyrell of Detroit, spent a few days at the home of his son, M. A. Tyrell. Mr. Tyrell's cousins, Beulah and Pearl Enos, came up with Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Tyrell.

ATWOOD

Everyone is busy in the hay fields. Have you seen the Atwood cherry queen?

They say another wedding will soon take place.

The Fourth of July comes one week this Friday.

Ethan Joliffe sold another piano in Charlevoix last Saturday.

The cement is expected to be all laid on U. S. 31 by July 1st.

BARNARD

Real summer weather.

Celebrate the Fourth in Barnard. Mrs. Edmund Shapton of Flint, spent the first of the week with relatives and old friends in Barnard.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Warner and friend of Grand Rapids motored up last week Wednesday for a visit with Homer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Warner. They returned Friday.

Barnard is to have another home town celebration on the Fourth. Band music, a speech, picnic dinner, races and bull games will furnish amusement for everyone. Don't miss it.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ritter and children returned Thursday to Detroit after a few days' visit at the Clyde Smith home. Dorothy Smith accompanied them for a few weeks' visit in Detroit.

The daily vacation Bible school is proving a very interesting and instructive feature, and has reached an enrollment of 42. They are in charge of Rev. Stanford and the Misses Minnie Gornell and Eleanor Dougherty.

A large crowd gathered at the Grange hall on Wednesday evening in honor of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Chvatal. The evening was spent in dancing and all partook of a pot-luck supper, voting it a very pleasant time.

Next Sunday will be observed as Patriotic Sunday at the church. A special program will be given including numbers by the band, sermon by Rev. Leitch of East Jordan, also other patriotic numbers. Everyone is invited to attend this service.

ROCK ELM

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Danforth have gone for a few weeks' stay at the home of her parents.

The Grange held its regular meeting Saturday night. One new member received, after which a short program was given.

Miss Josie Jensen of this neighborhood and John Hall of Mancelona, were united in marriage at Antrim City by the Methodist minister, on Friday afternoon. Following the ceremony they returned to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Jensen, where a wedding supper was served. Only members of the family were present. Mrs. Ray Gunther and daughter Emily of Fredric, sister and niece of Mrs. Hall, were the only guests from away.

They have the best wishes of their many friends. Their home will be at Mancelona, where Mr. Hall is employed.

A mile back from the shore of Lake Michigan lies Pine Lake, its two arms stretching away to the southwest long distances into the interior. Between it and Lake Michigan lies Round Lake, covering an area of 100 acres or more. Pine River, in its course to Lake Michigan, runs directly through it.

The improvement of the Charlevoix harbor and the opening of the channel were of incalculable advantage to Charlevoix county. In fact, without this great improvement, the county could not have attained its present state of development.

The chief industry was lumbering and Charlevoix soon became an important logging station for the Manitou Islands and Northport. Lumber was taken from the shores of Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix) and cut at the mills on Pine River. Other industries were fishing—especially for lake trout and whitefish—manufacture of cement and rustic furniture and the raising of sugar beets. Now, with its lumber industry gone, the town has become a progressive resort and is making new civic improvements each year.

(The writer is indebted to Miss Minnie Payton, librarian, Charlevoix public library, for her assistance in securing the necessary historical data for this article.)

The party came north from Traverse City where they spent the night, and following their stop here, went on to points north.

The tour is serving several good purposes. It is providing a lot of highly entertaining and instructive news stories in the Grand Rapids Herald and other papers away from northern Michigan; providing the visitors with historic news of much value to them, and is bringing strongly to the attention of the world in general that northwestern Michigan is extremely rich in historic spots and scenes, well worth one's time to visit.

The tour started earlier in the week at Muskegon and moved along up the shore of Lake Michigan from town and city to the next, and the five car loads of history news seekers are reported to have had a busy, enjoyable week.

AND UP, F. O. B. FACTORY

A WOMAN CAN DRIVE ANY CAR BUT SHE ENJOYS DRIVING A DODGE SIX

Motoring pleasure and satisfaction reach their maximum in a car that is easy to handle and one in whose safety you have full confidence. This is the reason why so many thousands of women have selected the new Dodge Six. It is easy to handle because it has a smooth, flexible, alert performance, and because its steering mechanism is perfectly balanced. It is safe because it has positive, easy-acting internal hydraulic brakes, and because its silent Mono-Piece Steel Body affords unusual protection. In addition to these purely mechanical advantages, it is beautiful in design and appointments. Furthermore, it is economical to operate and maintain, and it has fifteen years of Dodge dependability behind it.

STATE FAIR OFFERS BIG PREMIUM LIST

$112,000 IN PRIZES LISTED FOR 1930 WINNERS OF AWARDS

Attractions Offered at Detroit This Year Eclipse Any Previous Exhibition in History

Nearly $112,000 is offered this year by the state of Michigan for the encouragement of agriculture in a record-breaking premium and prize list that is expected to make the 81st Michigan state fair, August 31 to September 6, inclusive, the biggest and most successful in its history. Coupled with this is an entertainment program, headed by the Stampede, with cowboy and cowgirl champions from the famous Cheyenne, Pendleton, Calgary and Fort Worth round-ups performing the hair-raising stunts of the early frontier days. This event, introduced to Michigan last year at the state fair with record smashing attendance, will be presented on a scale far higher than before. Al Sweet's cowboy band will play during the grandstand events.

An additional feature of the fair this year will be the appearance of the famous Creators' concert band, which will present concerts each evening in the auditorium and on the afternoon of the opening day.

The premium list, totaling $111,748, is $9,000 greater than last year, and is especially attractive to the boys and girls of the 4-H clubs, with a total of $11,000 in prizes and premiums. This is $3,000 more than was awarded last year and is in line with the policy of the state to encourage the farm youth and train them in the latest and most successful methods of stock raising and general farming. Another feature for the farm youths is the state fair boys' school. One boy from each county who has the highest average standing on the regular eighth grade examination and on a special agricultural examination, will be given a trip to this school with all expenses paid. During the fair he will be given an intensive course in agriculture. More than 1,500 alumni of this school have been invited to attend.

Many new features have been obtained for this year's state fair, including one of the crack troops of the New York state police, which will present stunts in fancy riding and drilling. A company of infantry from Ft. Wayne will give exhibitions of drilling and army maneuvers.

An Indian village, with a large number of Indians brought direct from the Indian reservations of the west, will be established on the infield, directly in front of the grandstand, where the Indians can be seen going about their daily tasks just as they do on their reservations. They also will take part in some of the events of the Stampede.

Each evening a spectacular display of aerial fireworks will be presented in front of the grandstand at the conclusion of the Stampede performance.

The Midway this year will be bigger than ever, with many new and novel features presented by the Johnny J. Jones Exposition, noted from coast to coast.

The racing program presents $12,300 in prizes with the 2:15 trot for the governor's cup on Wednesday, September 3, the cup to be presented by Governor Fred W. Green in person. This day is set aside as governor's day.

The Canadian government is to take an active part in the fair, with an exhibit in the coliseum. This exhibit will show what crops are raised in Canada and give a comprehensive view of the Dominion's resources. It also will show prospective tourists the points of interest in Canada.

The horse show this year is expected to surpass any past endeavors. As a society event it is expected to take its place in the rank with those at Springfield and Brockton, Mass., with a large number of society exhibitors, who will show their animals in the show ring personally.

Auto races, with the foremost dirt track drivers of the country competing, will be the feature of the closing day.

Special efforts are being made this year to make the fair a "big event" for the children, with free admission on Tuesday; designated children's day. Free tickets are to be distributed to the children throughout the state and many of the events will be free to them, with reduced rates on others.

Thursday will be farmers' day and Friday Detroit day. Plan now to attend Michigan's greatest outdoor event.

Cooling Cream Pays Dairymen Dividends

Cream which is cooled immediately after being separated is of better quality and should bring a higher price than cream which does not receive this inexpensive attention, according to members of the dairy department at Michigan State college.

Cream can best be cooled by placing it in a deep setting can where the temperature can be kept low. When the next cream is ready for cooling, that in the cooling can be transferred to the can used for delivering the cream. The cream in the delivery can should be thoroughly stirred as each batch of cream is added. Both cans can be cooled the most easily by setting them in cold, running water.

Cream can be kept in good condition by placing a tank, barrel, or tub on the pipe line between the well and the stock watering tank. This will furnish a water supply with little expense for piping. The tank for the cream cans should be covered with a roof to keep off the sun's heat.

Cold water cools cream much faster than cold air. When cream is delivered in hot weather, the can should be covered with a wet blanket while being taken to the station.

Well kept cream can be tested for butterfat more easily and more exactly than cream which is in poor condition. High grade butter cannot be made from low quality cream. Cream which is kept properly cooled will add dollars to the cream check.

Oak Trees Damaged by Fungus Disease

Killing of the leaves of the white oak and the sycamore trees which is noticeable in many places in Michigan is caused by a fungus disease which is unusually severe this year because of favorable weather conditions for its development, according to statements made by plant pathologists at Michigan State college.

The tips of diseased leaves first turn brown and then this portion of the leaf has a water-soaked appearance. This area dries out and becomes black, but continued bleaching in the sun may change the color to grayish brown or white. The infected portion of the leaf is usually fan-shaped, with the small end of the fan at the midrib and the large end at the tip of the leaf.

The brownish dots in the diseased leaf tissue are the spores which spread the disease. Rains wash the spores to healthy leaves and, if showers are frequent, the disease spreads rapidly. Fallen leaves should be raked and burned to lessen the spread of spores.

Bordeaux spray made with four pounds of copper sulphate, four pounds of slacked lime, and 50 gallons of water aids in controlling the disease. Large trees can be sprayed only with a power outfit such as used by city park boards.

by severe attacks of the disease can be protected from damaging losses of vitality by applications of fertilizers such as ammonium sulphate. The fertilizer should be placed in holes bored into the ground around the tree some distance from the trunk. New leaves will usually be produced by the tree later in the summer.

Michigan Will Sell Higher Grade
Lambs

Legs of mutton and lamb chops from Michigan will have a greater appeal to the consumer's palate, and the farmers who sell the animals from which these cuts come will receive a better price as a result of a sheep movement contest which is being conducted in 32 counties of this state.

Buyers for meat packers readily detect lambs which will not furnish good cuts for meat, and the buyers refuse to pay within 50 cents to $3.00 a hundredweight of the top market price for such animals. Farmers who do not know that the price discrimination is made against undocked and ram lambs sometimes accuse the commission house which sells the lambs of failing to protect the farmer's interests.

The contest is supervised by members of the animal husbandry department at Michigan State college. Demonstrations of good flock practices have been held in several counties, and personal visits have been made by the animal husbandry specialists to some farms where unusual problems have occurred.

The specialists state that docked lambs can be protected from the attacks of flies by the use of such fly repellants as pine tar; a mixture of turpentine, lard, and a little lodeform powder; a mixture of powdered boracic acid, charcoal, and lime in equal parts; or one of the coal tar products.

Counties which have the greatest number of shepherds using improved practices in their flocks will receive prizes offered by Detroit livestock commission firms.

THE RETURNS OF CRIME.

A 19-year-old boy was arrested in one of the larger cities last week. He was charged with being a member of a gang of burglars, a gang which had committed murder and was in hiding in an isolated street.

This youth had acted as lookout when the gang robbed a factory of valuable machinery. He received ten dollars for his services.

The gang also stole some flour from box cars. He received two sacks of it as his share.

Then the gang sold him an automobile for $50 and that was later stolen.

The life of crime is never promising, even to a young man.

THE OLD RELIABLES

The last week in June or the first week in July will witness the annual invasion of the summer visitors. With the children out of school and recreation plans completed they will visit us in great numbers. Everything possible should be done for their comfort.

The business and patronage of the summer visitors has in late years grown to be of great value. But that is no reason why its importance should be over stressed. We have heard of some communities where this has happened. When the tourist came into the store the merchants neglected their other customers. In order to make money on the summer business prices were advanced and many of the customers went to some other store.

We trust no business place in this community is making such a mistake. The visitors are entitled to all possible service and courtesy. But the business which is to build the community is that of the local residents who buy in the fall, the winter and the spring when customers are hard to get.

The farmers in this country constitute the backbone of the country's retail business. Give them service.

WATCH YOUR LIFE

The automobile is a very convenient but an expensive form of transportation.

Those who compute the cost of the automobile leave out one great element—the cost of accidents.

At a recent conference on street and highway safety facts were brought out that showed that the cost of automobile accidents was over $850,000,000 last year.

The largest item of cost was the loss of over 33,000 human lives.

In 1930 the number killed in automobile accidents was larger than in the corresponding period in 1929 and the rate of the increase in deaths was larger than before.

Be careful when you ride and walk.

"Is the Universe, including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, June 23.

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "And God saw everything that he had made, and behold it was very good. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day" (Gen. 1:31).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man is deathless, spiritual. He is above sin or frailty. He does not cross the barriers of time into the vast forever of life, but he coexists with God and the universe" (p. 266).

PAVING ON NEW ROAD IS STARTED

Route in From Bay Shore Will Soon Be Completed and Ready for Use

Work of pouring the concrete paving on the new cutoff road from Bay Shore east toward Petoskey is being pushed rapidly. Quite a long stretch of cement work has been completed and as weather permits the work will be hurried on with all speed possible. The concrete mixture, ready for the big machine, is hauled from the cement plant to the scene of operations in trucks, which are hurried on the trip with considerable speed.

The new paving was started from a point in front of the old Pere Marquette railroad station in Bay Shore. At the point where it connects with the cement paving on the old road, a Y has been constructed so that the old road may be used by residents of that region. It will be made a township pike. This part of the route will be opened first. Sufficient time will be given for it to set and dry out before the earth covering is removed.

BOYNE CITY TO HOLD CELEBRATION JULY 4

American Legion of That City Is Arranging Big Program.

We learn today that the Legion post has arranged for a merry-go-round for the kiddies for the Fourth and that plans for the celebration generally are moving along. The Post was disappointed in not being able to arrange for a carnival company for the week of the Fourth but are now arranging for a carnival company for a week of Home Coming in August. It should be noted that in the three-city agreement, it is Boyne City's turn to put on the Fourth of July celebration and everything in connection therewith has been turned over to the Legion post of this city, and we are confident that those people who plan to celebrate with us this year will not be disappointed in what they have to offer. Posters telling of the games and contests for the day will soon add interest to the occasion. Look for them.—Boyne Citizen.

BASS SEASON OPENED IN STATE TODAY

Many Anglers Were on Their Favorite Lake Opening Morning

Bass fishermen, the last to be permitted on Michigan's lakes, turned out en masse this morning, armed with their tackle. The season opened nine days later than last year in the lower peninsula, and well too, according to the fish division of the department of conservation, which said that a retarded spring has caused late spawning in many places.

Changed size and creel limits caused the division to issue a condensed list of limits for bass, bluegill, and sunfish anglers, effective now.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hampton returned Sunday to their home in Ann Arbor. Mr. Hampton was a week end visitor in Charlevoix, while Mrs. Hampton had been spending a month here getting her cottages ready for the resort season.

Irving Kleia arrived in Charlevoix Friday for the summer season. He made the trip up on his yacht, Marlin, and was accompanied by Arthur Reinhold. Mrs. Klein came Saturday and the family are now in their cottage on Michigan avenue for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Gibbs and sons, Stanley and Melvin of Mancelona, were guests Sunday evening of Mr. and Mrs. B. Nickerson. Stanley is remaining in Charlevoix for the summer. He has a position in the baggage room at the Pere Marquette station.

Mrs. Margaret Crum and three children, Leslie June, Peggy and Willard of Eliat, are guests for the summer of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Price of Newman street. They brought with them Robert and Vera Crum, sons of Verl Crum, and they will spend the summer with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Crum.

Rev. John E. Lockyer of the Methodist church, officiated Friday at the marriage of Merle Jean Haady of town, and Miss Mae Batton of Bellinre. Sunday, he united Albert Lamb of Detroit, and Miss Irene B. Falcoer of Central Lake, also Leon N. Overholt of Boyne City and Miss Esther N. Adams of Boyne City. The marriages were held at the parsonage on State street.

CENSUS REPORT OF NUMBER UNEMPLOYED

Charlevoix County Had Total of 269
Listed on June 18th

Dated June 18th, a preliminary report from Fred N. Potter, supervisor of census for this district, showed there were 269 persons living in Charlevoix county usually working at a gainful occupation who are reported on the unemployment schedule as without a job, able to work and looking for a job. The figures are preliminary and will be supplemented later in classes such as those who had a job but were sick or temporarily laid off.

In four wards of Boyne City, 114, were unemployed. East Jordan had 67 and Charlevoix 19. Following are the figures by cities and townships: Bay, 2; Boyne City, 114; Boyne Falls, 0; Boyne Valley, 0; Chandler, 8; Charlevoix city, 19; Charlevoix township, 0; East Jordan, 67; Evangeline, 8; Eveline, 4; Hayes, 15; Hudson, 2; Marion, 4; Melrose, 9; Norwood, 7; Peaine, 0; St. James, 0; South Arm, 6; Wilson, 4.

An influx of down-state employment seekers has probably swelled the total for the county and a recount at the present time would show different figures.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to friends and relatives, and especially to the Methodist Literary and Sewing Club and Methodist Ladies' Aid for their kindness and assistance during our recent bereavement. Mrs. Arthur Barnes and other relatives of John J. Clark.—Adv. 26t1pd.

Summer Club Program is Full Swing

We have more boys' and girls' clubs, and a larger enrollment than we have ever had in Charlevoix county. Also, a larger variety of projects, which makes the club program more attractive and of greater value to the members.

There are still, no doubt, many other rural boys and girls who would join this great farm organization, but in some cases we were unable to secure leaders, and in others, not enough members.

With both the summer and winter club enrollment, we will have approximately 300 boys and girls participating in club work. Each member of these groups is keeping accurate cost records, and doing the actual work in connection with their project, and will also show their work at an exhibit at later dates. Then again, each will submit a story covering their work and a final report indicating the net profits secured.

Surely the club program is accomplishing wonders, and is becoming of far greater interest in the rural communities. It is not possible for want of space to publish the names of all club members, but the following will indicate the various clubs and their leaders:

Potato Club

Leader, Russell Eggert, East Jordan. Name of club, "East Jordan Potato Club." Seven members enrolled.

Corn Club

Leader, Russell Eggert, East Jordan. Name of club, "East Jordan Corn Club." Six members enrolled.

Four Bean Clubs

Leader, Milton Richardson, Charlevoix. Name of club, "Norwood Club." Five members enrolled.

Leader, Arthur O'Dell, Bay Shore. Name of club, "Bay Shore Club." Five members enrolled.

Leader, B. C. Mellicamp, Boyne City. Name of club, "Boyne City Club." Six members enrolled.

Leader, Russell Eggert, East Jordan. Name of club, "East Jordan Club." Eight members enrolled.

Two Dairy Clubs

Leader, Carlton Smith, Charlevoix. Name of club, "Barnard Club." Sixteen members enrolled.

Leader, B. C. Mellicamp, Boyne City. Name of club, "Boyne City Club." Nine members enrolled.

One Pig Club

Leader, Carlton Smith, Charlevoix. Name of club, "Barnard Club." Eight members enrolled.

Nine Canning Clubs

Leader, Mrs. John Noble, East Jordan. Name of club, "Advance Canners." Nine members enrolled.

Leaders, Miss Sidney Lumley and Miss Korhase. Name of club, "Deer Lake Workers." Seven members enrolled.

Leader, Mrs. Eva Wagner, Charlevoix. Name of club, "Norwood Club." Eight members enrolled.

Leaders, Miss Dorothy Zipp and Miss Dorothy Willis, Bay Shore. Name of club, "Bay Shore Club." Eight members enrolled.

Leaders, Miss LaVerne McCalmon and Mrs. Orrie Brecheisen, Bay Shore. Name of club, "Murray School Club." Six members enrolled.

Leader, Mrs. L. D. Welshimer, Charlevoix. Name of club, "Ironton Club." Six members enrolled.

Leaders, Miss Minnie Gornell and Miss Smith, Charlevoix. Name of club, "Barnard Club." Six members enrolled.

Leader, Mrs. Robert Russell, Boyne Falls. Name of club, "Boyne Falls Club." Nine members enrolled.

Leader, Miss Bessie Straw. Name of club, "Marion Center." Five members enrolled.

The above list is subject to corrections as some of the clubs do not have their complete membership lists, neither do they all have their selected names, so the above indicates the community more specifically.

Attention Cherry Growers

I have just received announcement that the annual tour to Sturgeon Bay, Wis., will take place this week Saturday, June 28th.

The group will leave Frankfort at 7 o'clock a. m., standard time, and will return by midnight the same day. The round trip fare across Lake Michigan is $3.00.

All cherry growers and persons interested in cherry production are cordially invited to take advantage of this tour. You will enjoy seeing how they raise cherries in the noted Sturgeon Bay area. You will, also, be interested in their canning factory equipment. They have altogether different problems than we have in Michigan.

Make your own plans in so far as getting to Frankfort. See your friends and neighbors, and have the car filled up.

THE RIGHT MAN

Attorney General Mitchell has named in Arthur D. Wood of Michigan a member of the new federal parole board who will serve loyally, intelligently and tirelessly. Michigan never had a more conscientious and able parole commissioner. Every case presented to him has been studied individually with a sympathetic consideration for the prisoner involved, but at the same time with a thorough appreciation of his responsibility to the public. He has not countenanced the wholesale release of prisoners with unexpired terms, nor has he let his emotions get the better of good judgment.

The federal Parole and Pardon board is a new enterprise. It is largely experimental. Under such circumstances the Attorney General is fortunate to be able to command the services of Commissioner Wood. —Grand Rapids Herald.

SETTLERS MEET AT TRAVERSE IN 1931

50TH ANNUAL GATHERING HELD THERE LAST WEDNESDAY

Mayor George Lardie of Traverse City Chosen President of Association for Next Year

So popular was the meeting place at the Northwestern Michigan fairgrounds Wednesday for the annual picnic of the Old Settlers' association of Grand Traverse region that Traverse City was again chosen for the 1931 reunion of the organization. Invitations for next year's meeting were also received from Kalkaska and Charlevoix counties.

At the election of officers Thursday afternoon Mayor George W. Lardie of Traverse City was chosen president. Mrs. Ella Robertson was re-elected secretary. Archie Stuart of Grawn, treasurer, and Mrs. William J. Hobbs, historian. Vice presidents include the following from the various counties: Antrim, Frank Lesher of Manclonia; Benzie, H. B. Woodward of Benzie; Emmet, E. E. Gilbert of Petoskey; Kalkaska, John Gillett of Rapid City; Leelanau, Chas. I. Wiley of Northport; Manistee, John H. Rademaker of Manistee; Missaukee, A. J. Engle of Lake City; Wexford, Rev. A. W. Johnstone of Cadillac; Grand Traverse, Mrs. Fannie Sherman; Charlevoix, Dr. Armstrong of Charlevoix.

With President Elmer E. White presiding the afternoon program was opened with a prayer by Dr. Demas Cochlin and the singing of America by the entire assemblage. Mayor Geo. Lardie of Traverse City followed with the address of welcome and Senator Albert J. Engle of Lake City gave the response. Rev. George A. Weaver of Petoskey read the report of the treasurer and the selection of the 1931 meeting place and election of officers was then held. The address "History in this Region," by Mrs. J. B. Clark of Petoskey was omitted, owing to the absence of the speaker and due to inability of the Indian choir to come this musical number was also cancelled. W. L. Case as a representative of Benzie county, Rev. George Weaver of Emmet county, Simeon Way of Kalkaska county, E. W. Hastings of Grand Traverse and Senator Engle of Missaukee gave interesting talks and Mrs. James J. Burden of Traverse City recited a clever original poem written on the occasion of her 41st wedding anniversary which was Tuesday. Two splendid poems were also given by Mr. Way, one of which concerned the beauties of Grand Traverse region.

President Lauded
There was unanimous sentiment to re-elect Mr. White as president, but he declined, stating he believed the office should be held but one year. Mr. White has given exceptionally close attention to this office and under his leadership the organization has prospered. There were 200 paid memberships, which leaves the association with a substantial balance for next year's work.

The chair given away by the Wilson Furniture company to the oldest settler present from the region was awarded to W. P. Porter of Antrim county while winner of the airplane ride given by the Sheldon Cole Auto company was Rev. H. S. Mills, formerly of Benzie, who later gave an entertaining account of his aerial view of the fairgrounds and beauty spots of the region.

The association passed a resolution of thanks to the supervisors, fair association, hand and all who took part in making this 50th annual picnic such an outstanding success.

A print of the panoramic photograph of the picnic party taken at noon was brought to the fairgrounds just after the crowd dispersed.

A group of camp fire girls led by Miss Eugenia Oole was in attendance throughout the day to give any possible service to the old settlers, an act that was greatly appreciated by the association.

REPORT OF CHARLEVOIX COUNTY D. H. I. A. FOR MONTH OF MAY, 1930

The high herd for the month of May was owned by James Nice of East Jordan. His herd of five grade Guernseys averaged 43.5 pounds of butterfat and 1,163 pounds of milk. Second was a herd of grade Jerseys owned by Dan Swanson, also of East Jordan, 42.4 pounds of butterfat and 868 pounds of milk were produced. The Birchwood Farm of Harbor Springs, rank next with a herd of mixed cows averaging 35.9 pounds of butterfat and 746 pounds of milk.

In the two-year-old class, Earl Danforth ranks first with a grade Holstein that produced a record of 49.1 pounds of butterfat and 1,228 pounds of milk. The Marion Center Dairy of Charlevoix, holds second place with a pure bred Holstein that produced 47.9 pounds of butterfat and 1,169 pounds of milk. Third place was held by George Meggison, also of Charlevoix, with a record of 47.7 pounds of butterfat and 852 pounds of milk.

Frank Russell of Boyne City, owns a grade Jersey that ranks first in the three-year-old class with 52.8 pounds of butterfat and 1,057 pounds of milk. Earl Danforth ranks next with a grade Holstein with a record of 51.1 pounds of butterfat and 1,345 pounds of milk; 47.4 pounds of butterfat and 890 pounds of milk were produced by a grade Jersey owned by Dan Swanson and is entitled to third place in this class.

Frank Russell is also the owner of the high cow in the four-year-old class. A grade Jersey with a record of 55.0 pounds of butterfat and 933 pounds of milk. The next two in this class were owned by the Birchwood Farm. They are both pure bred Jerseys and produced respectively 59.3 pounds of butterfat and 1,162 pounds of milk and 54.1 pounds of butterfat and 1,060 pounds of milk.

The Breezy Point Farm owns the high cow in the mature cow class. She, a pure bred Holstein, produced 81.0 pounds of butterfat and 2,077 pounds of milk. A record such as this requires a retest for verification. Upon retest the record was 74.0 pounds of butterfat and 2,114 pounds of milk. The average of the two tests equaled 77.5 pounds of butterfat and 2,096 pounds of milk. The latter is the record that is put down on the books. The Birchwood Farm ranks next with a grade Jersey that also produced 81.0 pounds of butterfat and 1,373 pounds of milk. The average after the retest was 76.5 pounds of butterfat and 1,380 pounds of milk. The third high cow in this was also owned by the Birchwood Farm, 57.5 pounds of butterfat and 1,228 pounds of milk. Nine of the 17 members are feeding grain and three are weighing the milk.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Charlevoix, Michigan
June 23, 1930
The common council of the city of Charlevoix met on the above date with Mayor Bergeon presiding. Aids, present, Fessenden, Hooker, Kibbe, Smith and Webster.

Minutes of meeting held June 16, 1930, were read and approved.

Enter Ald. Hammond.
Moved by Ald. Webster, seconded by Ald. Hooker that the mayor and clerk be authorized to enter into contract with Mr. Leo Power for two Neon signs to be placed on swing bridge at the price of $400. Motion carried by the following aye and nay vote: Ayes, Aids, Fessenden, Hooker, Hammond, Kibbe, Smith and Webster. Nays—none.

The finance committee having examined the following bills aggregating $6,066.18 find them correct and recommend they be allowed:

This test is an Eye-opener

WE RAN an engine on 50 hour tests under exactly the same conditions with various brands of motor oil, including New Iso-Vis. At the end of each period every bit of carbon was removed and accurately measured.

New Iso-Vis actually deposited 50% less carbon than the average deposit of the better grade oils tested.

But this is only one of the results of the special refining process by which this new type oil is made. It lubricates effectively at low temperatures and all the way up to temperatures far beyond the highest on your gauge.

Moreover, New Iso-Vis is the only motor oil that will not thin out in your crankcase. New Iso-Vis is actually as heavy and oily when you drain it off as when you first put it in.

Any Standard Oil dealer or station attendant will drain your crankcase, flush and refill with New Iso-Vis.

ON THE LEFT is the carbon from New Iso-Vis in a fair comparison with that from other oils. This low carbon formation saves you money.

New ISO-VIS 30's a quart
The New Polarine also is produced by our new refining process giving it an efficiency which is exceeded only by New Iso-Vis. The price is 25¢ a quart.

BIG AIR CIRCUS SUNDAY, JULY 13

EVENT IS SECOND ANNUAL MICHIGAN AIR TOUR

Petoskey-Harbor Springs Committee
Is Arranging to Entertain Passengers and Officials

The greatest air circus in history will pay a visit to the Emmet county airport on Sunday, July 13, remaining 24 hours and giving the most thrilling exhibition of stunt, exhibition flying and passenger carrying ever witnessed there. Assurance of this was given to the Petoskey-Harbor Springs committee at its session at Hotel Wequetonsing. At this meeting plans for entertaining the tour passengers and officials who may want to get away from the field Sunday afternoon and evening, were made.

Most of the hundred pilots and mechanics will remain at the field all day and evening. The sixty or more planes will be on exhibition and the crowds will be allowed to inspect them, and the pilots and mechanics will explain the good points of each. It is expected that there will be no two planes alike. All of them will take the air during the day, giving the crowd thrills such as they never before witnessed. The admission to the field is to be free and automobile parking at the field will be handled by the Michigan state police. A charge for parking the cars will be made to cover cost of the day's program. The parking ticket is for the entire 24 hours and the car may come and go as often as the party desires.

The runways on the field are to be leveled up and the landing circle painted and put in condition for the big day and the rest of the season. The information bureau will be at the field house on the north side of the field. An Indian village also will be installed there as a part of the entertainment program.

Those who want to see the world famous Lake Shore drive will be given that opportunity. It is expected the passengers and tour officials may want to get down for a ground ride and spend a few hours on this great drive. They will be taken to Cross Village and back over the same route, cars being supplied 'h'on free by the Petoskey-Harbor Springs committee.

A barbecue lunch will be served the touring party and pilots at noon at the field, according to plans made last week. The guests will be housed at the hotels of the two places for Sunday night and for their Sunday dinner and Monday breakfast. It appears likely that all of the hotels will have their quota of these guests.

At last week's meeting the committee of business men, headed by Manager Davis of the hotel, discussed for some time permanent improvements at the landing field and the future of aviation. It was agreed the field should receive considerable attention from the county as a whole and that good runways should be constructed soon and other improvements made. The field is now used more extensively than any other airport in northern Michigan.

AT THE MOVIES.

Longest Screen Record Belongs to Cissy Fitzgerald

The honor of being the first woman ever photographed by a motion picture camera goes to Cissy Fitzgerald, popular character actress appearing in support of Billie Dove in "The Painted Angel," coming to the Palace Theatre Saturday and Sunday, June 28 and 29.

Thirty-five years ago, when Miss Fitzgerald was acting for Charles Frohman the rising inventor Thomas A. Edison invited her to come to his laboratory to be photographed by his newly built moving picture camera. The actress did a dance from one of the current musical comedies and Edison captured it on the film, recording the first woman's face on moving negative.

Miss Fitzgerald is thus the film actress with the longest motion picture record in the world. She has played hundreds of roles since she began devoting all of her time to pictures.

Lavish Clothes in Swanson's New Picture

The most interesting picture wardrobe of Gloria Swanson's career—a career in which gorgeous clothes have played an important part traditionally—has been assembled by the producer-star for "The Trespasser," her new United Artists talking and singing picture, coming next Wednesday and Thursday, July 2 and 3, at the Palace Theatre.

Favored with a role which offers exceptional dramatic possibilities and an opportunity to appear again in "fine feathers," Miss Swanson has given the matter of clothes particular attention.

In addition to the interest centering in Miss Swanson's talking and singing debut, feminine fans will find many fashion hints in the new production.

Troopers Troupe Fed By Ex-Mess Sergeant

Sergeant George Palmer, who has retired after 30 years of service with the U. S. cavalry, was employed to act as mess sergeant to feed the small army of players and staff of the Tiffany production, "Troopers Three," a story of the U. S. cavalry by Arthur Guy Empey with most of the scenes produced at the Presidio and at Monterey, Calif.

"Troopers Three," featuring Rex Lease, Dorothy Gulliver, Roscoe Karns and Slim Summerville, attraction July 4th at the Palace Theatre. It is an all-talking production recorded by RCA photophone.

CONG. BOHN IS BACK HOME AGAIN

DISTRICT REP. TO CAMPAIGN FOR COMING ELECTION

Is Influential Member of Lower House—Pier Work is Sample of His Efforts for Charlevoix

The following interesting item regarding Congressman Frank Bohn is from a recent issue of the Newberry News.

Congressman Bohn, accompanied by Mrs. Bohn and daughter, Marvel, arrived home yesterday noon from Washington and they are reopening their home on Newberry avenue after their long absence. The present session is approaching a close and the Congressman does not expect to return unless called back on some important and unforeseen business.

The present session has been a long and arduous one, but, Dr. Bohn has been constantly on the job and is becoming to be recognized as one of the strong and influential members of the lower house. The interests of his district and his constituents has been his constant care, and no request has been too small to gain his instant and painstaking attention. Dr. Bohn is a representative who does not play to the galleries, but is known as an indefatigable worker and possessed of a pleasing personality that enables him to get results. His record is such as to meet with approval throughout the entire district.

Dr. Bohn does not appear to be worrying much about the opposition he is to have in the fall primaries. However, he is taking nothing for granted and plans launching an intensive campaign, making a personal canvass of the voters in his district. Charlevoix county voters will do well to support Congressman Bohn for another term at the coming primary. The excellent repair work now being done on the local piers is just a sample of the effort he has put forth in behalf of Charlevoix during his present term.

CHARLEVOIX NINE LOST SUNDAY GAME

Trimmed at Harbor Springs by 8-3 Score—Return Game Here Sunday

The Charlevoix Indian baseball nine lost to Harbor Springs at Harbor Springs last Sunday by a score of 8 to 3.

Enos Willis pitched in old-time form, striking out 15 batters, but spotty support lost the game. "Sp" Powers caught good ball for four innings until he was forced out by an injury, and "socked" out a two-bagger his first trip to bat. Charlevoix shut Harbor out the first four innings, but a rally in the fifth gave them four runs and a lead they never again lost.

Charlevoix plays Harbor in a return game at the North Side ball park Sunday afternoon. Several new recruits will appear in the line-up. The Charlevoix nine has fifty new suits, presented to them by Messrs. Creamer and Cook.

MANISTEE TO HAVE 2-DAY CELEBRATION

Big Pageant Two Nights and Boat Races Feature Program

Final details for Manistee's great celebration July 3 and 4 are now practically completed, according to Ewald W. Pfeiffer, general chairman in charge, and the many thousands who will attend this gala day observe in Manistee will long remember it as one of the most unusual and stirring they have ever witnessed.

The historical pageant to be presented at Sands park on the evenings of July 3 and 4, in which the crowning of Miss Manistee who will take part in the Traverse City cherry festival, will be a feature; speedboat races by noted drivers on Manistee lake for handsome awards in cash and trophies; plenty of excellent band music provided by the Benzonia, Manistee Iron Works, and Bear Lake bands; stunt flying over the city; these and many other events are among the numerous attractions to be presented for Manisteeans and their guests.

WORK ON LIGHT PLANT ADDITION PROGRESSING

Work is progressing rapidly on the addition being built at the city light plant to accommodate the new Diesel unit recently purchased by the city council.

Brick work is rapidly nearing completion and installation of the new unit will be made soon. The addition conforms nicely to the architectural lines of the older structure and presents a nice appearance.

CHOOSE MOTTO FOR CAMP CHARLEVOIX

Miss Audrey Staley Wins Cash Award Offered by Camp

Lewis Reimann has notified the high school that he and Prof. J. Raleigh Nelson have selected the motto for Camp Charlevoix.

About two months ago the students of the English classes of the high school were asked to submit suitable mottos. The English department then picked the best of these, 20 being submitted to Ann Arbor for selection.

The winning motto was given by Miss Audrey Staley, a member of the graduating class. Her motto was: "Be True—And Play the Game." Miss Staley will receive the five dollars offered for the one selected.

Honorable mention was given to "Nature is God's Handiwork," from Anna Tuhy, and to "A Noble Deed Is a Step Toward God," from Lila Tillotson.

The winning selection will be carved in the fireplace of The Lumberlost, main building of Camp Charlevoix.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY LOSES AGED PIONEER

John J. Clark Died June 16 Following Extended Illness

Charlevoix county lost a pioneer resident in the death on Monday, June 16th, of John J. Clark, who succumbed following an extended illness.

Deceased was born in Canada in 1852. He had resided in Charlevoix county over 50 years, and for three years with his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Barnes.

Surviving are his children, Mrs. Frank Gruler of Petoskey; Mrs. Arthur Barnes, Albert Clark and Mrs. Lawrence Supernaw of Charlevoix; Frank Clark of East Jordan; John Clark of Grand Rapids; Mrs. Herman Russell of Flint. There is also a sister, Mrs. Emil Bremmyr of Petoskey, and three brothers, Mike of Flint; James of Bay City; William of Brutus; 16 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Friday, June 20th, from St. Mary church. Interment was at St. Francis cemetery, Petoskey.

COAST GUARDS TOW IN DISABLED BOAT

Detroit Yacht Experienced Motor Trouble in Monday Storm

Charlevoix coast guards under Capt. Oscar Smith, brought the disabled yacht "Karlinda" of Detroit, to this port Tuesday morning.

The yacht, with its owner, H. D. Foster and Capt. William Moe aboard experienced motor trouble during Monday night's terrific wind and electric storm. Battered by high waves, the boat dragged three hundred pounds of anchor several miles and was in a dangerous position a short distance off the old Cross Village pier when the local coast guard launch reached it.

The "Karlinda" was enroute from Miami, Fla., to Detroit, its home port, via the Mississippi river.

to continue the work for the year. Claims allowed to farmers for loss of sheep from attacks of dogs totaled $414.30.

An authorization of $125 to the Charlevoix county annual picnic at Whiting park will be passed on at the October session.

Dr. C. J. Winder of Charlevoix, was elected a member of the advisory board of the county fair.

Report of the equalization committee showed the valuation of the county to be $10,144,775, as compared to $10,281,365 for 1929, a decrease of $136,590.

Wm. J. Pearson of Boyne Falls, was elected delegate to the meeting of the state tax commission. Harry A. Craig is alternate.

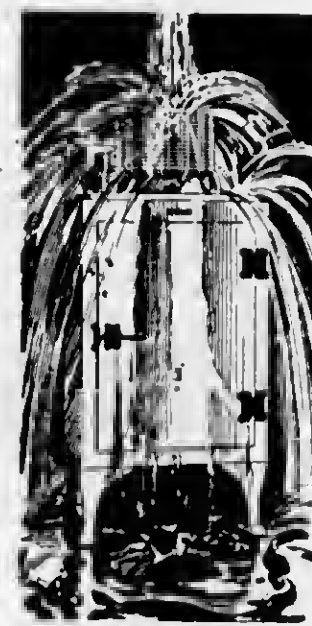

The board instructed the county clerk to draft and send a resolution to the Michigan conservation department, asking that Charlevoix county be closed to deer hunting for five years.

OPEN BRIDGE PARTY AND GOLF TOURNEY

On Friday afternoon, June 27, a get-together meeting will be held at the East Jordan-Boyne City golf grounds on the shore of Lake Charlevoix. There will be contests which will be attractive to both ladies and gentlemen.

Two ball mixed foursomes will be offered, not a few but a half dozen or more. After the golf and bridge games are over a basket picnic supper will finish the afternoon. Coffee will be served on the grounds. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone interested in a get-together meeting at the commencement of the season.—Boyne Citizen.

DEATH CLOSED ACTIVE CAREER

WILLIAM J. WEIKEL VICTIM OF SUDDEN HEART ATTACK

Death Friday Morning Shock to Entire City—Was Pioneer of Region and Led Active Life

Today Charlevoix mourns the death of William J. Weikel and this very fact is the best tribute that may be paid a man who had lived the years of usefulness Mr. Weikel had. His death from heart attack Friday morning was a severe shock to the entire city. When he failed to answer a long distance telephone call, a neighbor, Mrs. L. P. Adams, went to his home on South Bridge street and found him dead on the floor of his bedroom. He had started to dress when death took him.

Mr. Weikel was born in Ohio, April 4th, 1856, and was in his 74th year at the time of death. When a lad, he moved with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Weikel, to Iowa, and in 1867 came with them to Charlevoix county.

Mr. Weikel's father was a pioneer of this county. The territory was a wilderness when he came to Charlevoix and moved on to East Jordan to settle on an 80-acre homestead. Early northern Michigan history relates that he built the Jordan River House at East Jordan in 1877. Following his death, the place was taken over by his son, who operated it successfully, together with other business enterprises for many years.

Mr. Weikel came to Charlevoix 37 years ago. He owned and operated a billiard hall and cigar store for many years. Before leaving East Jordan he served as this county's first deputy sheriff and occupied the position intermittently in future years. He was perhaps best known to Charlevoixans as this city's chief of police, a position he held 15 consecutive years. Popularly known as "Jeff," his acquaintances numbered every man, woman and child in this city, as well as untold hundreds of summer visitors from every point in the United States.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. F. L. Wallace of Albany, N. Y.; a sister, Mrs. Mary Jones of Oakland, Calif.; and a brother, Howard Weikel of Hefkins, Kansas. A niece, Miss Pearl Brown, resides in Charlevoix.

The body laid in state at See's funeral parlors Monday morning and was viewed by many. Huge banks of flowers testified to the esteem in which he was held.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon with Masonic rites, Rev. B. G. Mattson officiating. Interment was at East Jordan cemetery.

The death of Mr. Weikel has brought forth many expressions of real grief, and has caused deep and sincere regret among the many who knew and honored him. The intimate role he played in the business life of Charlevoix is well known. He was active to the moment death overtook him. He will be greatly missed.

NICHOLS COTTAGE DAMAGED BY FIRE

Second Story Destroyed by Bad Blaze Last Friday

Fire of undetermined origin caused several thousand dollars damage at what is known as the Nichols cottage on Dixon avenue last Friday forenoon.

The blaze had gained considerable headway before an alarm was sent in. Those in the house smelled smoke, but thought it was from a fire started in the furnace earlier in the morning.

The upper story was ablaze when the fire department arrived, and it was only after several streams of water had been played upon the house for some time that the fire was extinguished. Water caused considerable damage, but most furniture was removed.

POMONA GRANGE WILL MEET NEXT SATURDAY

Session at Maple Grove—Plan Big Rally in August

Pomona Grange will meet with Maple Grove Grange on Saturday, July 12.

Plans will be perfected at this meeting for a big Grange rally to be held in this county in August. Maple Grove are noted as fine entertainers and a large crowd is expected.

A pot-luck supper will be served.

PLANES CARRY FISH TO CITY CUSTOMERS

Daily Shipments to Grand Rapids Were Started This Week

With daily shipments of fish from Charlevoix air port starting this week, The Michigan Air Express, operating an air line between Grand Rapids, Cadillac, Traverse City, Petoskey, Charlevoix and Harbor Springs, will be carrying approximately a ton of freight daily on regular schedule. This amount represents an increase of 400 per cent in the freight handled since last winter. Representatives of the company declare that up to two tons of freight can be carried by the Air Express each day, without adding to the flying equipment of the company, although the Express is branching out into volume freight service and new special freight planes will be added as the freight increases.

The Michigan Air Express planes are flying 800 miles each day over their present route and schedule of two planes north from Grand Rapids and two south from Petoskey and Harbor Springs daily. A record of 83.5 per cent maintenance of the flying schedule is reported since the Air Express route was started on January 15 of this year.

BIG GOLF TOURNEY STARTS JULY 15TH

BRILLIANT FIELD OF STARS TO COMPETE AT BELVEDERE

Second Annual Great Lakes Invitational Open First of Two Major Golf Tournaments This Summer

The first of two major golfing events to be played on the rolling fairways of the Belvedere golf club course at this popular summer resort is the second annual Great Lakes Invitational Open championship, scheduled for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 15, 16 and 17.

The event is the second big tournament of the 1930 summer golfing season. Coming the week following the National open at Minneapolis, most of the stars will come to Charlevoix to compete for the $3,000 in purses posted by the Great Lakes Golf association, sponsors of the local affair.

Walter Hagen, former British open champion, who won the initial event at Charlevoix last August, made the statement that the Belvedere eighteen was the best resort course he had ever played upon. He has already assured that he will defend his title this year. Supporting Hagen's assertion are Horton Smith, Denny Shute, Al Watrous, Abe Espinoza, Tommy Armour, "Wild" Bill Mehlhorn, Jock Hutchinson and many others of the country's leading pros, who will be numbered among the galaxy of stars at Charlevoix.

The tournament, which is Michigan's banner golfing event, opens Tuesday, July 15th, with an amateur pro best ball competition. First and second cash awards of $100 and $50 are posted for the winning pros and prizes for the amateurs.

Departing from the plan in 1929, the 72 holes of medal play will be on the Belvedere course. Last year the field was split the opening day, with 18 holes at the Charlevoix Golf club course. First round of 36 holes will be played on Wednesday and the championship decided the following day after the second 36 holes of play. The prizes are: First, $1,000; second, $500; third, $300; fourth, $200; fifth, $100. Four prizes of $50 each go to the pros making the low medal rounds for 72 holes and a gold medal to the low scorer. Prizes are also posted for the first and second low amateurs.

Howard L. McGregor, Detroit, is president of the Belvedere Golf club and the Great Lakes Golf association. John W. Bowker, executive secretary of the association, will have supervision of the tournament. Charlevoix hotel interests, golf clubs, the association of commerce and city council have united to contribute to the prize money.

The Michigan state amateur tournament will be played at the Belvedere course the week following, the dates being July 23-26, inclusive. The Great Lakes open will furnish practice for many of Michigan amateur wielders of the wood and iron before competing for the state crown the next week.

CAMP MANITOU IS OPEN FOR SEASON

UNIQUE AS ONLY ADULT VACATION CAMP IN MID-WEST

New Tennis Court, Sanitary System, Water System, Electric Lights Add Touch of Modern

Conscious of its prestige as the only adult camp in the middle west, an institution already popular in eastern resort districts, Camp Manitou comes to add another note of glamor to the rich history of Charlevoix, lake beautiful.

In a region that abounds with Indian lore, where the beauty of both land and water is in itself a challenge to an out-of-door life, the camp has been fitly established. But not only does it offer a host of natural charms, it boasts as well modern luxuries welcome even to those who profess a love of roughing it. The cottages are electrically wired, and hot and cold water are on tap. Shower baths are mute testimony to the inroad that civilization has made upon modern life, for they are no longer deemed a luxury, but a necessity.

To catalogue the other delights of a camp so well situated would be nigh to impossible. Clay courts will mean hours of joy for the enthusiastic racket-wielders, particularly since the athletic director of the camp has already won his laurels both as a champion player—a member of the University of Michigan varsity team—and an excellent instructor. Riding stables, canoes, row-boats, basketball, baseball, all are included in a program of sports that cannot fail to entice each and every camper. One need hardly mention swimming, since the broad blue expanse of Lake Charlevoix is in itself sufficient to make the swimming coach a popular lad. And he merits all honors for he already holds the Michigan A. A. U. high-board title as well as several inter-collegiate records.

A staff, representative of a number of colleges and universities, is on hand, and the glory of one university versus that of another has added spice to the rollicking songs struck up at table. (A judge may yet be needed to determine the relative merits of these institutions of higher education, if their adherents continue to boast so profusely.)

No account of Manitou's activities would be complete without mention of its orchestra, a peppy band of blue-blowers who lure all feet to the social rooms at eveningtide.

In any event, Camp Manitou might well adopt as its motto "Fun for Its Own Sake," and it hereby welcomes you to join its sun-tanned crew on the shores of beautiful Lake Charlevoix.

CANOE RACES, TILTING AT BOYNE CITY

Teams from Camps Charlevoix and Sherwood to Compete

A big feature at the Fourth of July celebration in Boyne City on Friday of this week, will be canoe racing and tilting between teams from Camp Charlevoix and Camp Sherwood.

Three teams have been selected from each camp, and the contests will be quite an innovation in entertainment for northern Michigan people. The sport at one time was extremely popular and its renewal will cause no little interest.

FAMOUS BOYS' CAMP OPEN AT NEW SITE

ENROLLMENT OF 95 IS LARGEST SINCE ORGANIZATION

Camp Charlevoix, Most Unique in Michigan, Is Complete Little City—Has Many Features

Camp Charlevoix, Michigan's most picturesque summer camp, opened Wednesday for its initial season at the new location on Oyster Bay, north shore of Lake Charlevoix.

Coming by special car over the Pere Marquette was a group of 37 youths from the Detroit area. Others from Chicago and scattered points representing districts from California to New York will make up the enrollment of 95 boys, which is a decided increase over the 1929 season.

Over a year of intensive preparation has given the Charlevoix resort region one of the most famous and highly reputed summer camps for boys in the United States. Camp Charlevoix, largely because of its type of leadership, has been chosen one of ten private camps in North America in which a study of character development in boys is being made. It is the only mid-western camp chosen to participate in the work—an honor which is decidedly outstanding.

The 17 log cabins which comprise the group at Camp Charlevoix, mark it as the most unique in the country. The huge club house is the largest log structure in Michigan. Featuring the decorations of both the club house and cabins are a large number of original oil paintings and drawings by artists who contribute to the American Boy. Many are by Charles Livingston Bull, America's most outstanding painter of wild life pictures. Other antique and rustic articles of the most unusual sort, make up the decorations.

Camp Charlevoix is a small city within itself. It has its own lighting plant, a 5,000 watt Kohler unit. An artesian well, approved by the state board of health, has been driven to a depth of 124 feet. An automatic electric unit pumps the water. A refrigerator plant has been installed and a gas system for ranges and oven in the kitchen.

In the line of athletic equipment, a large athletic field is now practically completed. It will have three baseball diamonds, two tennis courts, volleyball and basketball courts and track. Two swimming beaches, one for the senior and intermediate groups and the other for juniors, have been improved. A dock 200 feet long, with "T" 10x20, has just been completed by Franklin Sears and is one of the finest on Lake Charlevoix. Water equipment includes two motor boats, a sail boat, fleet of canoes and four rowboats. Camp Charlevoix has the reputation of teaching every boy to swim. A stable of 17 saddle horses is part of the camp equipment.

Practically all vegetables used are grown in the camp garden, which is under the supervision of Clyde Ogden, who has been with the staff since the camp organized.

Prof. E. V. Jotter, professor of forestry at University of Michigan, who has had 20 years' experience in boys' work, is director of camp activities and will teach forestry. Dr. Bernard Manace of U. of M. hospital, is camp physician, making his headquarters at the camp hospital, Walter P. North, son of Judge Walter North of the Michigan Supreme court, is head counsellor of the intermediate section and director of dramatics. Ira Hirsby, graduate of Jamestown college, North Dakota, and a medical student at U. of M., is head of junior section and director of woodcraft. Earle S. Oldham, senior at U. of M., is in charge of aquatics and head counsellor of senior section. Louis Reimann is camp director, and Mrs. Reimann camp mother.

George A. Alder, who has his Master of Science degree from U. of M., is boy psychologist at the camp and has charge of the personnel work. It is under his direction that the study of character development in the boys is being made. Prof. J. Raleigh Nelson of Ann Arbor, will direct the Hiawatha pageant, an event the last week of camp.

REGULAR SERVICES JULY AND AUGUST

Rev. John K. Coolidge of Glenoe, Ill., will take charge of the services at Christ Episcopal church beginning Sunday, July 6th, at 10:30 a. m., and will continue in charge throughout July and August. Rev. Coolidge has been in charge of these services for several years and has many friends here.

GOOD CATCHES OF BASS LAST WEEK

INLAND LAKES NOW OPEN TO MICHIGAN ANGLERS

Lifting of Ban Brings Increase in Activity to Resorts in District South of Charlevoix

Fishermen who had long waited the opening day—June 25—"struck" the waters last Wednesday morning when the 1030 inland fishing season opened. The opening date had been delayed nine days this year to protect schools of young bass and blue gills.

While lower peninsula anglers have been "fretting" over the delayed opening, upper peninsula fishermen are rejoicing over the earlier opening date. In other years the season did not open upstate until July 1.

Indications are for a good season, according to the state and conservation department, and anglers can go into the waters reasonably sure of not destroying spawning beds. The department, however, has sent out posters to special fish wardens to post on lakes in which fish are not over the spawning period. Lakes where the signs are erected, will be opened as soon as the spawning season warrants.

Cane pole enthusiasts will fare forth under somewhat different regulations this year than in previous years. The length limit remains nearly the same but possession limits are lower on all fish. The regulations are: Black bass 10 inches, calico bass, white bass, crappies and perch, and rock bass 7 inches and bluegill 6 inches. The length limit on wall-eyed pike has been increased to 14 inches and this same limit applies to grass or northern pike, sometimes known as pickerel.

Possession limit: five black bass, five wall-eyes and five pike in one day or in possession at one time. The most sweeping reduction in possession and creel limits affects panfish. It is illegal to have more than 25 of all kinds, including bluegills, sunfish, perch, rock bass, calico bass and crappies in possession at one time.

Charlevoix fishermen report some excellent catches since the opening day. Cunningham, Susan, Lake 26, West Twin, Hurwood and Matchett lakes all had their share of boats during the opening week and many limit hauls of bass and pan fish were brought in.

Opening of the inland fishing season saw a decided increase in activity in the inland lake resorts around Belaire, Central Lake and Ellsworth, favorite fishing grounds for hundreds of down-staters. A run of wall-eyes at Central Lake is proving a great drawing card.

NEWSPAPER LAOS LOCAL ENTERPRISE

COMPARE CHARLEVOIX INITIATIVE WITH THAT OF FLORIDA

Grand Rapids Press Editorial, Captioned "Miami at Charlevoix," a Glowing Tribute

In their editorial column of Thursday, June 24th, the Grand Rapids Press gave recognition to Charlevoix's initiative in promoting itself as a summer entertainment center. They compared this city's enterprise in getting its name in the limelight to that of Florida resorts. The editorial caption, "Miami at Charlevoix," is in itself a glowing tribute. The editorial follows:

MIAMI AT CHARLEVOIX

"Michigan paid advertising in cities throughout the middle west has reached a record point this year. Chicago and many other metropolitan papers have been full of it, column after column, page and half-page spreads. The state and the tourist associations have led the way and individual resorts have followed suit, promising the greatest resorting season in the state's history.

"But there are tricks and knacks in the resort advertising game which Michigan needs to learn and some of Michigan is learning admirably. The news ballyhoo and the dateline are as important as the regular 'ad.' Charlevoix perhaps more than other resorts has grasped the tremendous potentialities of news event publicity, the presence of celebrities, the focusing of interest in sporting events. It has taken a leaf from Miami's book. Its progressive citizens, association of commerce, hotels and city government have united to keep Charlevoix in the current event column.

"For years they have staged their famous 'Michigan Riviera' tennis tourney and drawn ranking stars. Their boat club regatta is sponsored by the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association. Last year the headlines throughout the middle west said that Walter Hagen, Horton Smith, Tommy Armour, Abe Espinoza and Denny Shute were battling par in the first Great Lakes Open tournament on Charlevoix's beautiful Belvedere course. This year Charlevoix is to draw the state's best amateurs to the Michigan amateur golf tournament.

"Of course Charlevoix had to 'have something' in order to win such events and the attendant publicity. But scores of Michigan resorts have this something and tell nobody anything about it. Virtue is rewarded, in a resort, only by making it obvious to the world. Michigan needs more, not of Florida speculation, but of the Florida spirit of enterprise in keeping town and resort names in the lime-light. Charlevoix shows it can be done."

It is indeed a considerable source of satisfaction to those who have worked hard to give Charlevoix the enviable reputation expressed in the above editorial, to have it come unsolicited from one of Michigan's outstanding newspapers.

The Courier takes a lot of pleasure out of re-publishing this editorial. We hope it will open the eyes of those who have been inclined to scoff at the city's action in spending money for entertainment features along sports lines, and teach more respect for the term "publicity" which some have declared insignificant.

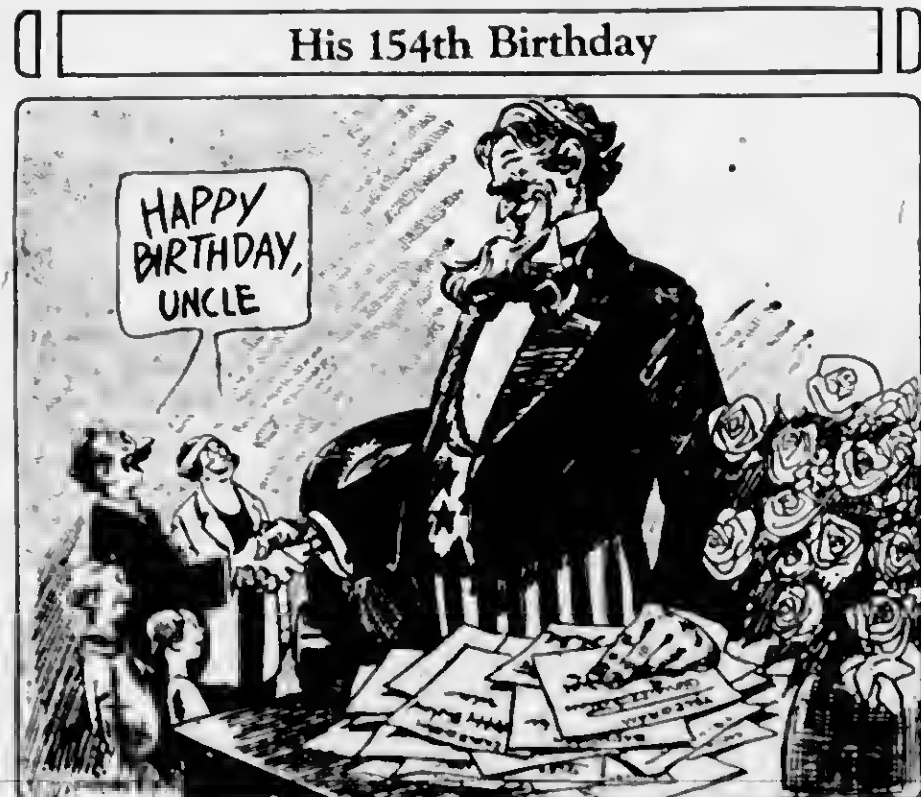

BROKERAGE BRANCHES OPEN IN CHARLEVOIX

Offices Located in Birkkrant Bldg. and Belvedere Hotel

Two brokerage offices are opening in Charlevoix this week for the summer, providing a service to resorters that has not been available for several years.

Henry Henson Company, one of New York's largest and most widely known brokerage firms, have opened a branch office in the Birkkrant building on Bridge street. The office, in charge of Julius Gilbert, for many years a Charlevoix summer visitor, is equipped with quotation board and a direct, private wire to Detroit.

Messrs. L. M. Simon & Co., oldest brokerage house in St. Louis, Mo., have opened a branch office in room 117 Belvedere hotel, and they will work in connection with the Henry Henson Company. This office is under the management of Austin P. Lealand, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Lealand of St. Louis, Mo., who is a popular member of the younger set at the Belvedere.

CORRESPONDENCE

NORWOOD

The Misses Dorothy and Roberta Hull visited relatives in Charlevoix last week.

Miss Geneva Edison of Ellsworth, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Stafford this week.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Wright, also Miss Lottie Teboe of Chicago, are again occupying their cottage in Norwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Rinehart of Detroit, who were visiting relatives in Charlevoix called on Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Holeccheck last week.

Mrs. Kerr and her two sisters, Misses Olive and Berdine Tompson of Chicago, are now occupying their cottage in Norwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jones of Port Huron, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Jones and other relatives for a few days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Boomstra of Grand Rapids, who were enjoying their annual vacation trip, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greeley and family, and Sam Alward, last Wednesday and Thursday.

Members of the L. A. S. are conducting a road side stand in Norwood, where lunches, home baked goods, fresh fruit, ice cream and all sorts of good eats may be purchased. The stand will be open on Wednesday all day of this week.

At an early hour Monday morning a very severe electric storm passed through this locality, which done much damage to the telephone lines. Three poles were demolished and several hundred feet of wire burned out. Walls in homes where telephones were installed are blackened and the plaster torn off. Sam Alward received quite a shock, being tossed from his bed, and still has a lame arm. Mr. Stafford is busy at work repairing the line.

ANTRIM CITY.

Bernice and Viola Stott were callers at the State home Sunday.

Fred Brooks, who is working in Charlevoix, spent Sunday at his home here.

Glen Lord of Atwood, spent Saturday at the home of his friend, Joe Stott.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown of Lansing, and Mr. and Mrs. Carr, spent a few days at the home of the former's daughter, Mrs. M. Tyrrell.

The Clam lake Ladies' Aid society, near Bellaire, called on Mrs. A. Brooks Thursday. They enjoyed a picnic dinner, 26 guests being present. All reported a fine time.

Mrs. A. Brooks' mother, Mrs. Sarah Gardner, and grandchildren, George and Ruth; Mrs. Brooks' sister, Mrs. Harold Petrie, and baby, of Bellaire; also, another sister, Mrs. Dwight Smith and daughter Dorothy of Flint, called on Mrs. A. Brooks Wednesday.

ATWOOD

Too wet for haying.

Lots of strawberry shortcake now. The days are getting noticeably shorter.

Plenny Genett and Sam Alward went to Bellaire Monday.

Many are sorry to learn of the sudden death of Jeff Welkel of Charlevoix.

Mrs. Walter Chamberlain of Alberta, Canada, is here visiting old friends and relatives.

How many more friends have you than a year ago. They tell us there is a smile behind every tear. Is it so?

Rev. John Lockyer, pastor of the M. E. church of Charlevoix, was a business caller at Ethan Joliffe's last Friday.

We forgot to mention in last week's items that Peter Visser of Grand Rapids, was here visiting relatives and friends.

John Boss and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boss, and others, drove over to Walloon lake last Tuesday evening, for an outing.

Miss Geneva Edison of Ellsworth, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Joliffe, and aunt, Mrs. R. E. Stafford, of Norwood.

WHO'S WHO IN CHARLEVOIXRELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c to 10c at the Central Drug Store, the Rexall store.

KONJOLA ENDED
17 YEAR SIEGE
OF RHEUMATISM

Lady Thought She Was Hopeless Invalid Before Master Medicine Gave New Health

MRS. ALMIRA ATTENBERGER

"I suffered from rheumatism for 17 years," said Mrs. Almira Attenberger, route No. 4, Birmingham, Michigan. "The pains in my limbs were terrible. My right limb was almost paralyzed and it became impossible for me to walk. My liver, also, was in bad condition. In fact, it had bothered me since I was a young girl. I had frequent dizzy spells and was unable to stoop, which hindered me greatly in my housework."

"Konjola gave me the first relief I have experienced in years. In a few weeks' time my rheumatism was entirely banished. I have no more pain or aches of any kind. My appetite is good. I have no more dizzy spells or specks before my eyes, because my kidneys are now in fine condition. Konjola gave me this wonderful health."

Many express amazement at the speed with which Konjola works. It does, but a course of from six to eight bottles is strongly recommended. Konjola is both a medicine and a tonic, rich in up-building powers. Konjola is sold in Charlevoix, Mich., at F. J. Fessenden's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

About 50 young folks met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown one evening of last week. They say it was a real house-warming in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown. After songs and playing of different games, lunch was served, with plenty of ice cream, etc.

BARNARD

Cherry picking has begun at Longview cherry orchards.

Don't forget the Barnard celebration on July 4th. Come out and have some fun.

Robert Bolhuis returned home on Wednesday after a few months' stay in Grand Rapids.

Mrs. George Ball and son, George, also, son Calvin and family, all of Levering, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Cummings.

The Barnard band went to Atwood on Tuesday evening to play at the hall in connection with the play, "Mrs. Tubbs of Shanty Town," given by the young people of the church.

The funeral of Mrs. Ingalls was held at the home of her son, J. M. Ingalls, on Thursday afternoon, and interment was held in the Barnard cemetery. The bereaved family have the sympathy of Barnard friends.

Thirty-seven people, members of the Maurice Chew, Arthur and Albert Beattie families, gathered at the Louis Shapton home Sunday and enjoyed a picnic dinner together. The happy occasion was in honor of the home-coming of Leslie Beattie, U. S. N., after an absence of 12 years. Mr. Beattie, accompanied by his wife and three daughters, motored through from Bremerton, Wash., where he is stationed at present, stopping off at Yellowstone Park and other points of interest enroute from the Pacific coast.

BAY SHORE

The new pavement at Bay Shore is finished, so we do not have to use the detour.

Jack McCalmon left Monday for Big Rapids where he will attend summer school.

Mrs. Fred Zipp and Miss Ethel Zipp of Petoskey, were Bay Shore callers one day last week.

Miss Clara Ross returned home Tuesday, June 24th, from Ypsilanti, where she has been attending normal school.

Mrs. A. G. Tillotson returned home Saturday last from Saginaw, where she had spent two weeks visiting her daughter, Mrs. Harold Voice.

ST. JAMES

Mrs. C. Bissell, who spent the week in Charlevoix, returned to her home Friday.

Walter Grill arrived home to spend the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Grill.

Dr. Russell Palmer and wife, who have spent a few days in Lansing, returned home Saturday.

Mrs. A. Larsen and daughter Doris, went to Charlevoix Friday to spend a few days with relatives and friends.

Mrs. T. Bonner arrived Saturday to spend the summer with her husband at the light house at the head of the island.

J. Hall and sister, Bess Hall, with their mother, left on the Puritan after spending a couple of days at the McCrea summer cottage.

About 35 passengers left for Chicago on the S. S. Puritan last Wednesday. Among the passengers were 30 of the brothers from the seminary.

Gus Mielke's new mill begins to look like business. He has one part almost complete and the cement work all finished. He expects to cut box lumber soon.

Ed. Deuell, district conservation officer, and Mr. Emerson, assistant fire warden, spent two days here this week looking over state land. They also spent a few hours on Garden Island.

Mr. Davis, county road commissioner, and Mr. Waffle, assistant road commissioner, came over this week to look over the roads and have several trucks busy re-graveling the roads. Mr. Waffle remained to oversee the work.

ROCK ELM

Mrs. Bert Danforth called at the Lawton home Tuesday afternoon.

The storm of last Monday night did some damage to crops in this neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark and family of East Jordan were Sunday afternoon callers at the L. Jensen home.

Jesse Lawton went to Tustin Friday for a week-end visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Thomas. He reports less rain there than here, but crops seem to be in good condition.

Crops Clubs Hold Demonstration

G. A. Thorpe, assistant state club leader, spent Thursday, June 26th, in giving a judging demonstration to the members of the potato, bean, and corn clubs.

The judging work covered beans, potatoes, corn, and leucum seeds. These four crops will be used at the Gaylord club camp for the boys to work on, and these meetings were aimed to give the boys some experience.

Later on another demonstration will be given so that Charlevoix county can be represented by a high class team. The winning team at Gaylord receives a free trip to the state fair, which makes the work much more attractive.

The members of the Charlevoix dairy calf club have an all day meeting Saturday, July 5th, at Barnard. Nevels Pearson, another club leader, will meet with us and give a demonstration on fitting and showing calves at the fair, as well as considerable work on dairy cattle judging. All members are invited to be at the Barnard church at 10 o'clock fast time, and to bring their lunch with them so that we may have an all day meeting.

Beef Truck Attracts Large Attendance

One of the most interesting demonstrations, as well as instructive, conducted this year was the visit of the beef truck last Monday, June 23rd.

The 45 people in attendance, in the majority of cases, had their first opportunity of seeing high class representatives of the different beef breeds. No doubt, the highest quality bull was Aberdeen Angus, and was good enough to show at any fair. A large number of charts and other illustrated material was used by Mr. LaVoi, the main speaker, in bringing out the many points in his talk on the beef situation.

Of great interest to all was the weight guessing contest, which everyone was eligible to try their luck at. A $2.00 prize was awarded the person guessing most closely the correct weight of the five animals on the truck, and a $1.00 prize to those who came the nearest to the actual weight of the four bulls. Earl Ruhling, East Jordan, was the lucky one to receive the $2.00 prize. John Struthers, Charlevoix, won a dollar on the Aberdeen Angus, T. J. Smith, Boyne City, on the shorthorn bull. William Shapton, Charlevoix, won on both the Hereford and milking shorthorn.

Several farmers are highly interested in buying good representatives of the beef breeds, and as a result of this demonstration we expect to have three or four bulls in use in the county, which will go a long way toward improving the beef cattle.

DODGE EIGHT MILEAGE MARATHON AND DODGE NATIONAL DEMONSTRATION MONTH

Thousands of owners of the Dodge Eight-In-Line are acclaiming it the greatest performer and the finest example of Dodge dependability ever produced by Dodge Brothers.

To get an accurate measure of the dependability of this car—its stamina—its economy—just what total mileage it can achieve—Dodge Brothers announce a Dodge Eight Mileage Marathon.

A Dodge Eight-In-Line sedan selected from stock starts from Detroit. It will be driven back and forth across the country from coast to coast—over all sorts of roads in every part of the continent—until it literally can be driven no longer. We confidently expect that the total mileage attained will startle the world.

To give every motorist a first-hand acquaintance with the luxury and sparkling performance of the Dodge Eight-In-Line, a Dodge National Demonstration Month will be held during July.

You are cordially invited to come in and drive the Dodge Eight-In-Line. Thrill to its flashing acceleration—its sureness and steadiness on the road—its ability to do the difficult without effort. Test its internal hydraulic brakes. Experience the luxury of its beautiful, safe and silent Mono-Piece Steel Bodies.

Here is a car that is going to be driven across the continent as no car has ever been driven before. Learn from that what a sound car it is—learn from your own experience what a glorious performer it is.

CHERRY FESTIVAL IS JULY 9 TO 11

REGION TO CELEBRATE BIG EVENT AT TRAVERSE CITY

Most Colorful Program of Pageantry in History to Feature Two-day Festivities There

Harold Titus, famous Michigan novelist, combined two of his chief interests, when he consented to write the episodes for "The Legend of the Cherry," a great spectacular pageant to be presented in connection with the Michigan cherry festival at Traverse July 9 to 11th. For in addition to being a writer of international reputation, Mr. Titus is probably the first authority on the history of the cherry belt of northwestern Michigan, and is himself the owner and manager of one of the largest cherry farms in the region.

The festival, an annual celebration, this year is a spontaneous outpouring of joy on the part of the cherry farmers, for never before in the history of the belt has there been a crop even approaching the present one. As a result the program this year will be much more spectacular than ever before.

Five hundred persons, residents of Traverse City and the surrounding towns in the cherry region, are staging this immense historical pageant the first two nights of the festival. Mr. Titus, delving deep into the history and the lore of the country, has produced a pageant of five historical scenes. He went to the original sources for his material, the Indian legends, the scraps of correspondence and diaries that remain, the early recorded history, and his own boyhood memories.

The opening scene presents an Indian village on the present site of Traverse City, and the gathering of the tribes. Runners appear, telling of the approach of the white man, and Father Marquette comes into the camp.

The second has to do with the fur trade era, on which Mr. Titus is an authority. As the lights are brightened the traders sit about their campfires bemoaning the fact that the fur is disappearing. In a few more years Michigan will be a vast wilderness of no value. Someone suggests that here is lumber to be cut from the forests.

The third scene shows the lumbermen at work, and near the end of the cut. The country which the trapper had stripped of its furs will soon be stripped of lumber. Again the question is what to do.

A wedding takes place in this act, and as a gift, the bride couple receive a small cherry tree.

This is the beginning of the cherry industry. Not the industry, exactly, for the growing of cherries commercially did not start until years after lumber ceased to be a power in Michigan. The final scenes of the pageant depict these years and their growing prosperity.

Dances and ballets have been prepared by Pageantmaster Jack Bricks, who is directing the production. The "Legend of the Cherry" will be presented two nights, July 9th and 10th, at the Traverse City fair grounds. It is probable that Governor Fred W. Green will attend the second performance, and Miss Signe Holmer of Manistee, this year's Michigan Cherry Queen, will take a prominent part in the production.

UNLAWFUL TO USE TRAPS FOR TURTLE

Otherwise No Limit to Catch or Open Season Ban

While there is no law or regulation in this state protecting turtles, the use of traps that might injure fish life is forbidden, according to the division of fisheries of the department of conservation.

Turtles may be killed in any manner, in any numbers at any time of the year, with the exception of that one method of capture, it was said.

The division has received several inquiries relative to the edibility of the various kinds of turtles found in Michigan, the habits of those turtles and as to the market for them.

The soft shelled turtle and the snapper are the best known forms of edible turtles found in this state.

"The soft shelled turtle is highly esteemed as food, and is easily taken in traps," according to the fish division.

"The common snapping turtle is also used as food although only the smaller specimens are desired as the older turtles have a disagreeable odor and the flesh is tough. This turtle feeds on frogs, fishes, crawfish, young water birds and such other forms of life as it can capture. The snapping turtle is vicious. The oil made from the turtle is said to be valued for medicinal properties.

An investigation is now being conducted by the department of conservation to determine the destructiveness of turtles to fish life, especially as pertains to fish hatchery operations. It is believed, however, that turtles' diet is composed largely of vegetable matter, mollusks, insect larvae, etc.

Turtles are desirable in inland lakes as they are also scavengers and feed on dead fish.

"Evangeline" Trebles Best Seller Figures

A book which reaches 500,000 copies in circulation is a best seller of the first rank, according to publishers and dealers and the volume that is printed to the extent of a million copies has a niche all to itself in the literary hall of fame.

"Evangeline," which Edwin Carver has recently produced and directed for United Artists with Dolores Del Rio as the star, has, according to a detailed survey, been printed countless millions of times and has in addition been taught to more than 150,000,000 children in English speaking schools alone, during the past 50 years. As a screen play "Evangeline" will be seen at the Palace Theatre Monday and Tuesday, July 7 and 8.

Film Within a Film in Picture Showing the Real Hollywood

When you go to see "Show Girl in Hollywood" you will really be seeing two pictures.

The First National and Vitaphone screen tale of life in the cinema city, which opens July 9-10 at the Palace Theatre, contains a picture within a picture. The name of it is "The Rainbow Girl," and the audience sees it as it is made on the "set."

There are two directors, sets of players, cameramen, electricians, Vitaphone crews, and assistant directors during the filming of "Show Girl in Hollywood."

"Show Girl in Hollywood" is the story of a girl who goes through the hard struggle for film fame and fortune. Its sets are the buildings and offices at the First National Studio and the celebrated spots in Hollywood which all the world reads about but has had no opportunity to see till now.

Prominent in the huge cast are Ford Sterling, Virginia Sale, Lee Shumway and Herman Bing. Hervey Thew wrote the screen version of "Show Girl in Hollywood" and Jack Maskell staged the dances.

Experience and Youth Combined in Movie Group

Youth and experience is the rare combination that Paramount has assembled for Charles (Buddy) Rogers' new starring picture, the all-talking romantic-melodrama "Half Way to Heaven," which will show at the Palace Theatre soon. "Half Way to Heaven" is an adaptation of Henry L. Gates' best-selling novel, "Here Comes the Bandwagon," and, in it, Rogers has Jean Arthur, lovely heroine of "The Greene Murder Case" and "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," for his partner.

Earn Hellebore and Borax Treatment for the Barn Fly

Treatment with borax or hellebore will destroy many of the stable fly and house fly larvae that breed in manure. Use the powdered form of borax at the rate of one pound to each 16 cubic feet of manure, scattering it over the pile and then sprinkling it with water. Hellebore costs more than borax. If it is used, soak one-half pound of the material in 10 gallons of water for 24 hours and use this quantity to treat about eight bushels of manure. Neither borax nor hellebore will injure the fertilizing value of manure if applied in these quantities and if not more than 15 tons of the treated manure is applied per acre.

THE RIGHT OF WAY

Motorists who are finicky about the right of way at intersections and are inclined to "bawl out" the other driver are invited by the National Safety Council to read the latest decision of the Supreme Court in Washington on the case involving this point.

The court decided that the right of preference at a crossing does not arise except when drivers are approaching at the same time and approximately the same speed. Then the one on the right has the right of way. It is no excuse to say that trees obscured the way, for this should only increase the vigilance.

When a driver approaches a street intersection, and sees another approaching from the right, and near enough so that there is reasonable danger of collision if both proceed, then it is his duty to yield the right of way.

THE SUSPICIOUS MAN

One of the saddest and most ineffective figures in our midst is the suspicious man. Suggest anything to the abnormally suspicious person—and there are many in every town—and he thinks you are trying to "put something over on him." Present him with the best constructive idea of which you are capable and he immediately suspects you of playing a game.

He wonders who is behind it and what you are up to. He cannot keep clogs friends, even if he can make them, because they soon become sick and tired of his suspicious attitude. Perhaps such a frame of mind is brought on by a man's uncertainty of himself. He lacks self assurance. He is usually the kind of a man who lacks the power to act and he is full of fears.—Harvard (Ill.) Herald.

MICHIGAN WEATHER

We still talk about the weather. Although the subject may be worn threadbare its many changing varieties makes it a topic of conversation wherever humans meet.

There were many cold and rainy days in May and early June and gardens and flowers and crops seemed to have a backward appearance. Lately we have enjoyed a number of warm days, and there have been occasional showers needed to supply the moisture. The result has been rapid growth.

We don't hear much complaint now about a late season. Long days and warm days, with now and then a rain, and Michigan becomes the garden spot of the world. We have much to be thankful for.

Many a spirited young fellow declares he will never take orders from anybody. And then he gets married.

INTERLOCHEN MUSIC CAMP OPENS SEASON

Three Hundred Arrived Sunday Morning by Special Train

A special train shunted to the Interlochen siding Sunday morning brought nearly 300 students for a summer at the National High School Orchestra camp, opening the third season of the great institution conceived by Joseph E. Maddy. A few of the students and several of the faculty members arrived before Sunday.

When the camp opened Sunday morning, everything was ready to proceed in an orderly manner, for the minutest details had been arranged and the camp was ready for the opening day. Cnabins had been assigned and uniforms were passed out Sunday. In all the camp will have a personnel of more than 400, with the students numbering between 275 and 300 and the counsellors, faculty members and their families adding another 150.

The first concert by the band and orchestra will come Fourth of July, but at three o'clock Sunday many heard a welcoming program.

HAD FAMILY REUNION AT A. NOVOTNY HOME

Seven Brothers and Sister Joined Parents Monday Evening

A very pleasant family reunion was enjoyed Monday evening when seven brothers and one sister met at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Novotny, Sr., on Petoskey avenue.

Everyone enjoyed an evening of music, dancing and "swapping yarns." Those present were Mr. and Mrs. James Novotny of Battle Creek, Mr. and Mrs. William Novotny of Bonanza, Ore.; Mr. and Mrs. Tony Novotny, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Novotny, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Novotny, Albert, Charles and Helen Novotny, all of Charlevoix.

ST. IGNACE TO GET DOCK WORK

Cribs for Mackinaw City Structure Built There and Floated Across

St. Ignace will reap considerable benefits from the construction of the extension to the Mackinaw City state dock. The cribs will be built at St. Ignace and floated to place at Mackinaw. Timber for the cribs is arriving from Oregon, and work will begin in a week or two.

The state engineers who have been engaged in boring at the site of the new proposed dock at the furnace site of St. Ignace, finished this work last week and are now taking soundings in order to ascertain what amount of material will have to be removed to allow the cribs to rest on bedrock. The soundings are taken every ten feet over the ground where the dock will be placed.

The plan for loading cars on the second deck of the ferries via ramps has been discarded; elevators capable of lifting two cars are to take the place of ramps.

Construction of the dock will begin on or about August 1, according to the plans of the state highway department.

MOONLIGHT GARDENS OPERATING NIGHTLY

Went on Summer Schedule Tuesday Evening of This Week

Charlevoix's popular dancing place, the Moonlight Gardens, owned and operated by A. T. Jeffery, went on summer schedule Tuesday evening of this week.

Starting that night and continuing throughout the summer, dances will be held every evening except Sunday. A big carnival party has been arranged for the evening of July 4th, with novelties and favors. Throughout the season so far, crowds numbering 300 and over have enjoyed themselves at this popular entertainment place.

Wexstaff's orchestra, augmented by several additional musicians, will furnish music throughout the season.

Encounters Severe Storm

William Hicken, accompanied by his daughter, Charlotte, and Walter Alexander, motored to Portage, Wis., on Saturday and returned Sunday. Miss Charlotte will remain for an extended visit with Rev. J. V. Berger and family. On their return trip, Messrs. Hicken and Alexander run into a hurricane. The highways were strewn with fallen trees, tables, furniture and other debris which the wind had blown around at random. The trip was quite an experience.

Announcement

Mrs. Robert Withers announces an exhibit of hooked rugs and painting at her home at 210 Mason, July 9 and 10, from 2 to 5. An admission of 10 cents will be charged. A favor will be presented to each visitor. —Adv. 2711.

MICH. TRANSIT LINE ON SUMMER SCHEDULE

Steamer Puritan and S. S. Manitou
Call at This Port

The summer schedule of the Michigan Transit corporation was placed in operation last week as it effects Charlevoix and northern Michigan ports, and the steamer Puritan made her first call on the new schedule. She brought passengers and freight for Charlevoix and ports on north to the island.

The steamer Manitou started her trips to this port on Saturday of last week, landing here at noon. Each steamer will make one round trip a week from Chicago to the upper lake ports on this schedule, which continues until July 13.

The mid-summer schedule opens on July 14 and continues through August. Under this schedule the Manitou will make two more trips to this port. On her trip out of Chicago on Monday she will run through to the Soo, and on her Friday sailing will go only as far as Mackinac Island. The Puritan will continue to make one run a week to the upper lakes during the second half of the summer.

JUILLERET'S OPENED FOR SEASON SUNDAY

Juilleret's dancing place, formerly Thorman's, north of this city, opened Sunday evening, June 29, with Emerson Brown and his band of six pieces. "Brownie" is the popular saxophonist and singer who has held forth with the Tunesters during the past several seasons. His band will play nightly, assisted on Sunday evenings by four members of the Tunesters, thus forming a ten-piece band including two pianos. The personnel of Brown's band has not as yet been ascertained, but he is highly enthusiastic regarding the caliber of his organization and assures his friends that his men are all set to start in mid-season form.

Ford Offers New De Luxe Sedan

Ford De Luxe Sedan

THE De Luxe Sedan, recently added to the Ford line, is designed for those who desire distinctiveness and unusual comfort in an automobile. The interior is inviting and roomy with wide doors to both compartments. Absence of rear quarter windows gives the car a striking individuality and affords privacy to the occupants.

Interior trimmings and appointments are luxurious. Upholstery is either in brown mohair or a deep tan Bedford cord patterned after that used in high-priced cars.

Other refinements include arm rests for the rear seat, mahogany finished garnish moldings on the windows and beneath the windshield, flexible robe rail and hardware in an attractive pattern.

The front seat is adjustable within a range of four inches to suit the convenience and comfort of the driver. It is moved quickly and easily by a small, inconspicuous handle in the front center of the seat just above the floor.

The De Luxe Sedan, like other Ford body types, can be obtained in any one of several color combinations.

Resolved further that the amount of said special assessment be and the same is hereby divided in five equal installments, the first installment to be collected on or before sixty days from confirmation of said special assessment roll and the balance of said installments to be collected once each year at the time fixed by law for the collection of taxes together with the annual interest at the rate of six per centum per annum upon all unpaid installments.

Resolved further that the city clerk shall report to the city assessor a description of said lots and premises as are contained in said special assessment roll with the amount of the assessment levied upon each and the name of the owner or occupant against whom the assessment is levied and direct said assessor to levy upon the several lots and premises to which they were assessed respectively. Provided, however, that the first installment of said assessment shall be collected direct from the said special assessment roll and in accordance with the provisions of Act No. 215 of the Public Acts of 1895, as amended being "An Act to provide for the incorporation of cities of the fourth class."

Resolved further that the city of Charlevoix shall borrow the sum of five hundred and twenty dollars in anticipation of the receipts from the said special assessment for the purpose of defraying the cost of the improvement for which said assessment was levied and that the bonds of the city of Charlevoix shall be issued therefor to draw interest at the rate of not exceeding six per centum per annum, payable annually on the 26th day of June of each year and that the mayor and clerk be and they are hereby directed and empowered to issue bonds, pledging the full faith and credit of the said city for the payment of said issue.

Resolved further that the denomination of said bonds shall be as follows: There shall be five bonds, numbered from one to five both inclusive each for $154, one of said bonds shall be paid each year commencing the 26th day of June, A. D. 1931, all of which is in accordance with the provisions of Act No. 215 of the public acts of 1895, as amended, being "An act to provide for the incorporation of cities of the fourth class."

And be it further resolved that any party against whom the said assessment is made shall have the option of paying the whole of said assessment at any time, in full, with proportionate interest thereon after said assessment shall have been confirmed. And whereas the common council has decided that the amount to be paid and borne by the city of Charlevoix out of its general funds is the sum of $150; therefore be it further resolved that the mayor and clerk be and they are hereby directed and empowered to issue general bonds for the city of Charlevoix for the said sum of $150 to defray said expenses and that the same shall bear interest at the rate of not exceeding six per centum per annum, payable annually on the 26th day of June of each year.

Resolved further that the denomination of said general bonds shall be as follows: There shall be five general bonds, numbered from one to five both inclusive; each for $30, and one of said bonds shall be paid each year, commencing June 26th, A. D. 1931.

Adopted this 26th day of June, A. D. 1930, by the following yeas and nays vote:

Yeas, Fessenden, Hooker, Kibbe, Smith, Webster. Nays, none. Absent, Hammond. Members of the board of assessors present and sitting on board of review with the common council.

Attest Arthur Bergeon, Mayor.
D. S. Payton, Deputy Clerk.

On motion duly made the council adjourned.

D. S. Payton, Deputy City Clerk.

Sunday services 10:45 a. m.

Subject, "God."

Wednesday evening at 7:45, first

Wednesday of month only.

Reading room Tuesday and Saturday, 3:00 to 5:00 p. m.

The public is cordially invited to all services.

"Christian Science" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, June 29.

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever;" (John 14:16.)

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The time for the reappearing of the divine healing is throughout all time; and whosoever layeth his earthly all on the altar of divine Science, drinketh of Christ's cup now, and is endued with the spirit and power of Christian healing;" (p. 55.)

 TARIFF BILL NEARS COMPLETION.

After months of almost endless debate and wrangling in which selfish interests sought to dominate certain schedules, it begins to look as if the long-pending tariff measure will soon be ready for President Hoover's signature.

Unless the debenture plan is retained, or the elastic provisions wholly unsatisfactory, it is generally believed the bill will be given approval at the White House, rather than have it subjected to another session of Congress and consequent uncertainty in the industrial world.

House and Senate conferees last week agreed upon the flexible provisions of the bill. Briefly stated the conferees purpose that the Tariff Commission shall, on investigation of any particular rate of duty recommend adjustments to the President to approximate the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad of the particular article affected, within a 50 per cent limit, up or down.

The conference report, if approved, would allow the Tariff Commission latitude in determining the differential in the cost of production at home and abroad by permitting it to consider the price at which foreign articles are offered for sale in the domestic markets as a factor in determining adjustment of rates of duty.

Undoubtedly, flexible adjustment of tariff rates within statutory limits is a long step forward in tariff making, in large measure obviating the necessity of frequent legislative revisions, by enabling the Tariff Commission an expert body, to recommend changes to keep rates of duty current with ever-changing factors of competition and production and labor costs.

DEATH TO THE FLY.

The pesky, seemingly irrepressible house-fly, is with us again, brought by the first signs of warm weather. Small at present in numbers, the buzzing fly army can soon be expected to attain the countless proportions of other summers—unless organized efforts are made to keep the species in its place.

Lifelong familiarity with the fly tends to develop a contempt for its dangers. Yet of all the insects that afflict us there are none more deadly than the ordinary house-fly. It contaminates food, spoils milk, and, states the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, spreads the germs of tuberculosis, typhoid fever, pink eye, and skin infection. A high percentage of the diseases of childhood are disorders of the digestive tract, and the house-fly is most efficiently equipped to carry the germs causing diseases.

The campaign to eradicate the fly always meets one big obstacle, namely, the enormous rapidity with which the insects breed. But there is the compensating fact that flies live upon filth and can breed only in filth. They are short lived and if prevented from breeding will quickly disappear.

Screening the windows and porches and swatting the adult flies are only makeshifts. They will help, but the really effective measure against flies is to prevent their breeding. Filth should never be allowed to accumulate anywhere. One unclean and uncovered garbage pail will furnish enough flies for an entire city block, and a neglected stable will do the same for the farm.

Start exterminating the fly now—don't wait until he has developed several million descendants in August.

PREVENT FOREST FIRES

The proposal that airplanes be used for patrol and inspection of the timbered areas in this state in which forest fires are likely to occur is a timely one. It appears that the necessary planes available belong to the federal government and that authority will have to be obtained for their use; but the federal government is reasonable, and the authority should not be hard to get.

There is very much tied up with the prevention and extinction of forest fires. They are found to occur, despite the posting of the woods with warnings against their causes. Forest fires have been started by the concentration of the sun's rays through the butt ends of discarded bottles, and from other equally curious causes. Apart from the destruction of potential timber, forest fires destroy hunting facilities. By the destruction of insect life, they harm both birds and fish, the food sources of the latter being in some degree dependent upon foliage. If there is to be game conservation in the state there cannot be many forest fires. In addition, tourist values are damaged materially by the destruction of the woods and the brush. All these things have a money value and are worth conserving. The airplane control would be a useful means of conservation. — Michigan Manufacturer & Financial Record.

PATENTS FOR PLANTS.

The protection of the patent law is now being extended to plants. Those who would create a new plant may have the same protection that the inventor of a new mechanical device now receives. There are limitations as to methods of production which strictly limit the application of the patent law.

Time will prove whether such a policy is wise.

The nation has secured wonderful wealth in new plants from scientists who have labored without any hope of compensation except the salary that was paid to them by educational institutions. The history of the development of new kinds of plants, from corn to flowers, is very much like the history of medicine, sacrifice and effort for the accomplishment of something of real value for humanity. More beautiful flowers have come, apples have been larger and sweeter, corn has been made to ripen. Back of all of these efforts, so many of which concern our own university and its schools of agriculture, are high and creditable motives.

To add the touch of the commercial may stimulate the work of some men but most of those who deal with such activities have motives which reach far beyond the commercial. They are men of science, they are friends of mankind. Most of them would not patent a plant if the opportunity were theirs. Their name to an apple or a new berry is the highest honor which may be paid them.

And it is an honor.—Grand Rapids (Minn.) Herald-Review.

THE ROSE IS THE FLOWER.

The wild rose is the official flower of the United States. In about a million votes cast in the selection of a national flower, this beautiful modest flower received nearly half.

It is a good selection. It is found in so many parts of the United States—north or south, east or west. It is hearty. It possesses color. It has most of the beauty of the hot house plant, but it grows upon the hillsides. It is a good selection.

In the vote for a national flower the columbine stood second. The violet got a hundred thousand votes and the goldenrod received 84,000 ballots.

The goldenrod deserves all that it received. We cannot imagine that many who suffer from hay fever approve the goldenrod. Its pollen does not bring happiness, but this yellow flower is always beautiful and many times, magnificent.

THE FUTURE.

We in this country have come out of a past in which individualism has been the dominant keynote, in which each one has shifted for himself, has been suspicious of his competitor, and close-mouthed about the news and plans of his own business.

But the truth is that that period of extreme individualism is now history. We have conquered the whole vast expanse of this country. We have built business institutions to the limit of any one man's intellectual and executive powers.

What we do to make this country greater in the next 25 years must be by way of coordination, and in that direction lie unmeasured empires to conquer.—Craig B. Hazlewood.

INDIVIDUAL RESPONSIBILITY

It begins to look as if Michigan will not have a statewide car test during the summer months. In some cities this work is being done independent of the state. In the rest of the state the work of inspecting brakes, horn, lights, etc., will rest with the individual motorist.

Faulty brakes and lights are the cause of thousands of accidents. Unless the motorist shows a willingness to step in and take this work over it is likely the state will demand a car test before issuing a license each spring. Such a law has already been proposed. And once the state demands such a test there is reason to believe that several tests will be made mandatory during the course of a year. Something must be done to cut down the accident toll.

THE GOSSIP

Whenever a campaign year comes along the gossip dusts off his supply of stories and gets busy. The gossip is as old as politics itself and whenever one drops out there is another to take his place. It doesn't matter how many times the stories have been used in other campaigns there is always someone ready to believe them. Occasionally an old story in a new setting appears, but this is an exception. Like the seven original jokes there are only a few in the bag and these have to be worked overtime.

That's why it is getting hard to persuade many high grade men to seek public office. They prefer to keep at their own jobs and leave the

THE VALUE OF SOUND DESIGN

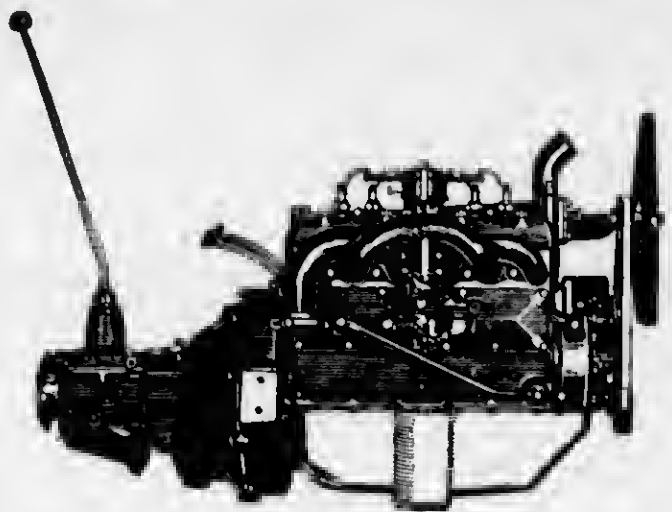

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy

THE good performance of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance. Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, the simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.

FOURTH OF JULY AT BOYNE CITY

CITIES OF COUNTY WILL UNITE FOR CELEBRATION

Fine Program of Sports and Other Attractions Arranged by Boyne City American Legion

The July Fourth celebration for Charlevoix county this year will be at Boyne City and under the management of the American Legion of that city. The Fourth of July committee of the Legion have outlined the program for the day as follows:

At 9:00 a. m., they plan a parade to start at the corner of Lake and Main streets and proceed thence north on Lake to Water east on Water and Boyne avenue to Main and back on Main to the place of beginning. They offer a first and second cash prize for the best decorated float in the parade.

At 9:30 a. m., the usual foot races will be run on Water street between Lake and Park. These will consist of boys' 100-yard dash; girls' 50-yard dash; potato race; three-legged race; sack race; hand walking race and bicycle race; all first and second place winners to receive cash prizes.

At 10:45 a. m., a base ball throwing contest, tug of war and round robin boxing exhibition will be held in the park north of the round house, with cash prizes for such events.

At 11:30 a. m., they plan a water battle on Lake street between Water street and the bridge, between the fire departments of Boyne City and Charlevoix, which will close the entertainment for the forenoon.

After dinner at 1:00 p. m., the Post will bury alive, to a depth of six feet, in a rough box from the Stacks funeral home, the great Harry Vero, magician, and leave him underground for the balance of the afternoon. This will take place in the lot at the corner of Lake and Water streets known as Watson's corner. Arrangements will be made for spectators to see him underground at any time during the afternoon in order to satisfy themselves that he is still alive.

At 2:00 p. m. the band will lead the way to Maple Park for the base ball game between Boyne City and Alpena.

At 4:00 p. m., the water sports will be held at the foot of Water street at the old city dock. They will consist of swimming races, tub races, log rolling contest, greased pole, all winners of such events to receive cash prizes. Following these events a canoe race and canoe tilt will be staged between teams of boys from Camp Sherwood and Camp Charlevoix if the present plans materialize. This will be followed by outboard motor races for county owned boats in the amateur class. That is, those not engaged in professional racing. The above should bring the day to supper time.

Following supper at 7:00 p. m. Harry Vero will be dug up and raised to the surface of the ground after his six hours rest.

The next two hours will be spent in pavement dancing and band concert until about 9:00 when fireworks display will be given on the Water front.

It is hoped that a speed boat will be on hand to take passengers for rides on Lake Charlevoix. There will be dancing all day at the Keuka and the theatre is running a special feature of talking pictures from 2:00 p. m. until 12:00, continuously. A merry-go-round will be on hand for the kiddies.

TEA GARDENS OPENED

MONDAY FOR SEASON

Many Improvements Made at This

Popular Summer Place

The Tea Gardens on Clinton street, one of Charlevoix's most popular summer places, opened Monday for the 1930 season.

Miss Edith Blair of Alton, Ill., owner and operator of The Tea Gardens, has made many improvements in preparation for the present season. The interior has been attractively redecorated, a new hard wood floor put down in the tea room, new drapes, etc.

The same efficient kitchen staff has returned for this year to uphold the Garden's reputation for its fine cuisine. Meals are served under the trees or by the tea room fireside.

In connection a very unique line of imported novelties, children's apparel, scarfs, handbags, bath mats, quilts, etc., are carried.

LOCAL PEOPLE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

BANKS TOWNSHIP PIONEER DIED THURSDAY

Mrs. Augusta Ingalls Had Been a Resident There Sixty-four Years

Mrs. Augusta Ingalls, a resident of Banks township for 64 years, passed away June 24, 1930, at the age of 81 years, 9 months and 19 days after an illness of several weeks, at the homestead.

Augusta Himebauch was born in Batavia, N. Y., September 5, 1848, and was married to Henry Ingalls February 11, 1866, coming to Antrim City May 10th of that year, taking the homestead where she has always resided. Her husband died May 22, 1886.

Four children were born to this union, Elmer and Delbert of Charlevoix, J. M. of Banks township, and Ada, their only daughter, who passed away at the age of 17 years.

She became a member of the Congregational church of Atwood in the year of 1887.

At the time of her death she was the oldest living pioneer resident of Banks township, Antrim county.

Besides her three sons she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Flora Dagerman of Phelps and Mrs. Loretta Thomas of Petoskey; two brothers, Carlos Himebauch of McMillan, Mich., and Harmon of Phelps; and seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held Thursday from the home. Rev. Harris of Ellsworth officiated. Interment at Barnard cemetery.

OPEN TENNIS TOURNAMENT IS POSTPONED

Will Be Held Last Week of July or Early in August

The 4th annual Charlevoix open tennis tournament, sponsored by the Charlevoix Tennis Club, has been postponed from the week of July 7th, the date set by the club at their annual meeting.

It is thought likely the tourney will be held either the last week of July or the first week in August. The date will be set at a meeting of the tennis club to be held the latter part of this week.

The first week of August would bring the event the week prior to the Bay View annual tournament, a date when plenty of good talent is in the region. Following the Bay View event is the Michigan Riviera at The Inn courts, and the Michigan State tourney at Harbor Point.

Gerald Ash arrived this week from Detroit to take charge of The Inn courts for the season. He will have supervision of the two local tournaments besides giving tennis instruction.

PLANT TROUT AND BASS FINGERLINGS

Consignments from Oden and Northville Received This Week

Twenty cans of fingerling brook trout from the Oden state hatchery were received here Tuesday and planted that afternoon in the headquarters of Horton Creek.

Another consignment of small-mouth black bass from Northville hatchery, were planted in Lake Charlevoix near Holy Island and at another point on the north shore.

The shipments are part of the quota asked by the fish and game committee of the Charlevoix association of commerce for the 1930 season.

NEW GROCERY STORE WILL OPEN SATURDAY

C. J. Withers Sells Novelty Stock

BIG GOLF TOURNEY OPEN NEXT TUESDAY

SECOND GREAT LAKES OPEN WILL ATTRACT BIG FIELD

Many of Nation's Foremost Golfers
Coming—Play Will be on Both Local Golf Courses

While the eyes of the golfing world are focused this week at Minneapolis, where Bobby Jones, the British amateur and open champion, is defending his National open title, preparations are going forward at Charlevoix for the second annual Great Lakes Invitation open golf championship.

Competing against Bobby Jones are Walter Hagen, former British open title holder; Horton Smith, Riviera champion and professional golfer's big money winner for two years; Tommy Armour, Western open champ; Leo Diegel, George Von Elm, Al Espinoza, Al Watrous and many others of the professional and amateur notables.

Play will close there Saturday of this week, and then the contingent of golf celebrities will entrain for Charlevoix to battle par for a share in the $3,000 prize money posted by the Great Lakes Golf association, sponsors of the local tournament. Coming as it does the week following the National open, America's major golf attraction, the Great Lakes Open will attract most of the stars playing at Minneapolis. Many of the leaders have already sent in their entries and the field at Charlevoix promises to be greater than at the initial tournament held last August.

The Charlevoix event opens Tuesday, July 15th, with a pro four ball best ball tournament at the Charlevoix golf club course. The pros choose their own partners to compete for the first and second prizes of $100 and $50 posted for the event, which will be a warming up round for the 72 holes of medal play which follows Wednesday and Thursday on the now famous fairways of the picturesque Belvedere golf club course.

Prizes listed for winners of the medal play are: First, $1,000; second, $500; third, $300; fourth, $200; fifth, $100. Four prizes of $50 each go to the pros making the low medal round for 72 holes, and a gold medal to the low scorer.

The "big shots" of golfdom like Charlevoix, and especially the beautiful Belvedere golf club layout. Walter Hagen acclaimed the Belvedere eighteen the best resort course he had ever played upon and others of the profession uphold his contention. The Great Lakes open is one of the few big money tournaments of the 1930 summer golfing season and a large entry can be expected.

John R. Bowker, who is executive secretary of the Great Lakes Golf association, is at Charlevoix supervising preparations for the big tournament next week. Other interests are also active in promoting the event. Prize money is being furnished by Charlevoix hotel interests, golf clubs, association of commerce and city council.

The week following the Great Lakes Open, Michigan amateur golfers will compete for the state title at the Belvedere club course. It will be the first time the tournament has been held in northern Michigan and it is expected a field of between one and two hundred players will battle for the crown.

NEW BEGINNERS' BAND HAS TWELVE MEMBERS

Holding Regular Practice Tuesday and Friday Afternoons

With a membership of 12 enrolled and two or three others pending, the new beginners' school band is organized and are practicing every Tuesday and Friday afternoons in the band room.

The much needed flute and piccolo instruments have been added this year and it is probable another flute player will be available soon. The membership of the beginners' band is as follows:

Clarinet — Douglas Knudsen, Hagb Bolhuis, Lillian Novotny, Lula Mitchell and Cora Matchett; cornet, Leslie Shapton; flute, Edna Knudsen; piccolo, Jimmy Hiller; mellophone, Frank Novotny; alto, David Matchett, John Kerehak; snare drum, Arthur Elliott.

The ladies of the Church of God will hold a bake goods sale at the Charlevoix Hardware Co., Saturday, July 12.—Adv. 2811.

MACKINAW-ST. IGNACE HAVE HOURLY SERVICE

Carferry Mackinaw City Added to Boats Plying Between Towns

On Monday, hourly service between Mackinaw and St. Ignace was inaugurated with the addition of the car ferry, Mackinaw City, to the two boats put on early in the season. Sunday the two car ferries were unable to care for the cars fast enough and there was a line waiting all day long.

The Mackinaw City has recently been fitted out with a second deck by J. B. Lundsorp, Cheboygan, and with the Straits of Mackinac and the St. Ignace, should be able to care for the increased traffic.

The state highway department has purchased the land along the beach between the breakers and the state dock and the wooden buildings along the entrance are being torn down or moved as fast as the bids are let. A new office is to be built at St. Ignace soon and the improvements on the dock will be started soon. Among these is a camp for loading cars directly on the second deck of the boat.

RESORT SEASON WELL STARTED

PRINCIPAL HOTELS HAVE OPENED FOR SUMMER

Cottagers Arriving Daily by Auto, Train and Boat—Business
Generally Good

Despite occasional lamentation about the prevailing industrial depression and effect it is apt to have on the northern Michigan's summer season, the Lake Charlevoix resorts are making preparations for the largest influx of summer visitors in their history. Already large numbers of cottagers have arrived and more are reaching here daily.

No day passes that does not witness the arrival by automobile, train or boat of several families to add to the rapidly growing list. Both the Pennsylvania and Pere Marquette railroads have placed their summer schedules in effect and the northern Michigan Transit company boats are making regular stops here each week.

Many of the large resort hotels opened late in June and are already doing a thriving business. One hotel manager reports the arriving of 20 guests one day last week while others are entertaining large groups of early arrivals. All of the Charlevoix hostilities have their organizations completed and are operating at mid-summer efficiency. Reservations on file at the various hotels would indicate that the 1930 season will equal, if not exceed, any season in the history of northern Michigan resorts.

With the arrival of several dance orchestras and entertainers, the amusement places catering to the resort population are operating in full swing and playing nightly to what are regarded as record crowds for this season of the year.

In fact, all business depending on resort patronage is reported to be on the upswing and in view of the fact that northern Michigan's resorts have never experienced a failure, it is believed that the summer of 1930 will average up with the best.

FUNERAL OF EVELINE PIONEER WEDNESDAY

Mrs. Soren Lyngklip Died at Advanced Age Last Sunday

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. W. H. Rauch of the Baptist church, for Mrs. Lyngklip, pioneer of Eveline township, who died Sunday. Services were at the family home.

Deceased was born December 12, 1852, in Denmark. She was married in her native country on March 27, 1874, to Soren Lyngklip, and the couple came to this country 42 years ago.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Anna Anderson, at home; Mrs. John Mitchell and Mrs. Peter Larson, Boyne City; two sons, Chris Lyngklip of Eveline township and Walter Lyngklip, at home. Six children preceded their mother in death.

July Meeting Friday

The July meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held Friday at 2:30 p. m. in the community club room. The leaders will be Mrs. John Burns and Mrs. Arnold. This is the flower mission.

EIGHT INJURED IN CAR CRASH FRIDAY

CARS COLLIDED ON U.S. 31 NEAR PERE MARQUETTE TRACKS

Vernon Gimble Still in Local Hospital;
Others Slightly Hurt—Grand Rapids Man Injured Sunday

Eight persons were injured, one seriously, in an automobile crash Friday afternoon on U. S. 31 north of Charlevoix.

Traveling at a rate of speed said by several witnesses to have been in excess of 60 miles per hour, Vernon Gimble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emery Gimble of this city, drove his light runabout into a sedan owned by Richard Shapton and driven by his son-in-law, Walter Taylor.

The accident occurred during a rain storm on the narrow stretch of road just across the Pere Marquette tracks beyond the John Martin farm. The highway is narrow there, and rough, with guard fences on each side.

The impact of the collision threw Gimble's car through the fence into the ditch, where it overturned several times. The running board of Shapton's machine was torn away and the car otherwise damaged.

Gimble was hurt seriously. He suffered a fractured skull and numerous deep cuts about his face and head. His condition is regarded as satisfactory now and he will be out of danger soon if complications do not set in. His companion, Miss Roxie Hastings of Petoskey, received only minor bruises.

All occupants of the Shapton car were injured, but none seriously. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Taylor and their two daughters, Elaine and Dorothy, received bad cuts, as did also Mr. and Mrs. Shapton. All of the victims of the crash were taken to the local hospital following the accident.

Ralph Edwards of Grand Rapids, brakeman on the Pere Marquette special, Chicago division, received several broken ribs Sunday afternoon when his car crashed into a telephone pole near Marion Center. Edwards was said to have lost control of the car in loose gravel when the accident occurred. In company with his wife, Mr. Edwards was enroute from Charlevoix to Petoskey to join his train for the evening run. Mrs. Edwards was only slightly injured.

Mr. Edwards was taken to the local hospital, where it is said his condition is not serious.

PANHELLENIC ASSN. MEETS AT PETOSKEY

Evening of Entertainment at Perry
Hotel July 15

The Northern Michigan Panhellenic association will meet at the Hotel Perry, Petoskey, Saturday evening, July 12, for dinner at 6:30 o'clock, followed by bridge.

Women belonging to college women's fraternities of the National Panhellenic Congress are eligible and invited to attend. The association meets every Saturday during the season for either a luncheon or a dinner.

Reservations may be made by Friday noon by calling the president, Mrs. R. D. Engle of Petoskey, telephone number 278-F 2, or at the information bureau in Bay View.

NUMEROUS ARRESTS OVER THE WEEK END

SIX ARRESTED FOR VARIOUS LIQUOR LAW VIOLATIONS

Two Boyne City Men Jailed for Having Undersized Bass in Their Possession—Others Bound Over

Charlevoix county law enforcement officers had a bagful of troubles over the week-end. Many were apprehended for various violations and this week the county jail has quite a registry.

Arnold Tillotson of Boyne City, was arrested for breaking and entering. He waived examination in justice court and has been bound over to the circuit court. Upon failure to furnish bond, he is being held in jail.

E. B. Clover and Paul Kreitner of Petoskey, were arrested on a charge of transporting liquor. They were alleged to have been driving while drunk near Boyne Falls, and when taken had a quantity of liquor in their car. They waived examination and were bound over to circuit court, which convenes July 14.

The place of John Newville in Boyne City was raided by officers on Thursday, July 3rd. In the cellar of Newville's home, an improvised cooler, consisting of two boxes sunk in a spring, was found. It contained two cases of beer. Mr. Newville is in the county jail here and will be brought into court July 14.

Frank Vosburg of this city, and Elmer Rounds of Battle Creek, were arrested last Friday for driving while drunk. They were taken by Deputy Charles Marshall after they had crashed into another car following an all-night party. A flat tire on their car hindered their attempted escape. Vosburg and Rounds both waived examination and are in jail. Bond was set at $500 and has not been furnished. Both have police records.

The residence of Bert Sharrow on Alice street was raided by officers Saturday and a quantity of alleged home brew found. Sharrow waived examination in justice court and was bound over. He was released to appear July 14 after furnishing cash bond of $500.

William and Charles Phillips of Boyne City are being detained at the county jail. The former was given sentence of 30 days and the latter 15 days for having undersized bass in their possession.

MINIATURE GOLF COURSES POPULAR

Large Crowds Enjoying Sport There
Day-Time and Evenings

True to early-season predictions, Charlevoix's miniature golf courses—the Pee Wee outfit, corner Bridge and River, and the Lilli-Put-Lan layout, corner of Dixon and Michigan and on Belvedere avenue—are proving extremely popular.

They are being used daily by not only local citizens and summer resorters, but by tourists as they pass through. Night play seems to be much more popular than day-time, and every evening finds a large number enjoying the sport.

Spiritualist Camp Opens

The Snowflake Spiritualist camp meetings will begin July 13th and close August 17th. Rev. Darling of Grand Rapids, will have charge from July 13-26, and Rev. Parent of Saginaw, will serve the remainder of the period with the assistance of Rev. Darling. Everyone is welcome.

CHARLEVOIX FISH FLY TO CONSUMER

Reach Grand Rapids in Few Hours
by Plane Shipments

Mackinaw trout and whitefish will grace the tables of Grand Rapids homes within a few hours after leaving Charlevoix through a new fast air express service inaugurated by the Michigan Air Express this week.

Special arrangements to deliver daily shipments of fresh fish from the northern airport to George Reader, Grand Rapids wholesale fish dealer, have been made. Whitefish are being carried at the present time with two and one-half hours required for transit. This service is an all-year arrangement, and besides the advantage of quick delivery insuring fresh fish, it is estimated that 80 per cent less ice than used in train transportation of fish will be required for air shipments.

The fish are packed in specially constructed thermo-vacuum aluminum containers, insuring perfect condition for the fish upon arrival at Grand Rapids. Retail dealers will receive the fish in the original shipping cases.

LEGION TO STAGE BOXING MATCHES

OPENING BILL THURSDAY EVENING, JULY 17TH

Wilbur Chavaleir and Jimmy Russo, Flyweights, in Main Go—Show at School Gymnasium

The first of two mid-summer boxing shows to be staged in Charlevoix under the auspices of Leslie T. Shapton Post, American Legion, will be held Thursday evening, July 17th.

Leo Powers is promoting the shows for the Legion. They have been granted the privilege of using the school gymnasium, which is ideal for the purpose. This indoor arena has a seating capacity of well over 2,000 and standing room for at least a thousand more. With the gymnasium available, the threat of rainy weather which marred previous programs, will be completely eliminated.

For the opening show next Thursday evening an excellent bill has been arranged. Two ten-round bouts feature the card, which, in addition, will have either three or four four-round preliminaries.

For one of the main bouts, Matchmaker Powers has secured Wilbur Chavaleir of Bay City, and Jimmy Russo of Pontiac, two of Michigan's outstanding flyweights. Chavaleir has been meeting some of the best boys in his class during the past year and has stacked up a creditable list of victories. Russo is a veteran of many ring encounters and a boy that always pleased a house of fans. They will go ten rounds in the final.

For the other ten-rounder, Sailor Deshone of Saginaw, who is well known to northern Michigan fistie fans, has been matched with Jack December of Detroit, a fast-stepping lightweight. Deshone, who has appeared in almost every previous boxing show staged in Charlevoix, is known as a fighter who never backs up. He carries the battle to his opponent all the time and is popular with boxing fans of this region.

Cecil Yettaw and Young Winnick of Charlevoix are slated for one of the prelims, but others have not been announced. Yettaw has pleased the fans here on several previous occasions with his performances and is popular. Winnick is a new-comer.

INDIANS PLAY CENTRAL LAKE SUNDAY

Dropped Fast Game Here Last Week to Alden Team

Charlevoix's Indian baseball nine dropped a close game to Alden independents at the North Side hall park last Sunday afternoon by a 3 to 2 score.

Alden scored their three runs in the first inning and knocked Enos Willis out of the box. Amos John, southpaw hurler, held Alden scoreless during the remainder of the game.

A good contest is scheduled here for Sunday. The Indians meet the crack Central Lake Cannons in what will be one of the feature games of the season. Another outstanding game scheduled is with the Traverse City Red Hats on August 24th. Several new players have been secured for the line-up Sunday.

SEE GROESBECK SURE CANDIDATE

FRIENDS OFFORMER GOVERNOR EXPECT HIM TO ENTER RACE

Local Politics Still Quiet But Activities Are Expected Before
Present Week is Over

Former Gov. Alex. J. Groesbeck gave out the word Monday night that he would announce Wednesday whether he will be a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the fall campaign. Pending that announcement, he declined to indicate what his plans will be.

Persons close to the former governor said that the announcement, when it is forthcoming, would be that he will run for governor.

Forms New Aspect

Such an announcement, according to political observers, would put an entirely different aspect on the gubernatorial situation, for; they assert, the administration forces may be expected to align definitely upon one man in an effort to defeat Groesbeck.

That one man, they believe, will be either Gov. Fred W. Green or John S. Haggerty, secretary of state. The final day for filing petitions is July 22, two weeks from last Tuesday, and Groesbeck's petitions are said to have been printed over the week-end and to be ready for distribution.

The announcement by George W. Welsh that he is not a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor and the resultant relief that Alex. J. Groesbeck will run, was followed by two distinct developments.

John S. Haggerty, secretary of state, said that petitions which will be circulated in case he decides to run, have been ordered printed.

Friends of Gov. Fred W. Green renewed their "draft" attempt in an effort to induce him to run for a third term and a hasty check of petitions already signed for the governor, to determine whether they are accurate and legal, was ordered.

Local Politics Quiet

Charlevoix county politics still remain quiet. With the exception of Arthur L. Fitch's formal announcement that he would seek the nomination for representative in the state legislature from the Charlevoix-Leelanau district, no others have publicly stated their intention. However, petitions are in circulation for Attorney Lisle Shanahan as circuit court commissioner, and E. A. Robinson of Boyne City for county surveyor.

From other quarters we learn that most of the present county office holders will get into the race before the present week is past. It is understood that Fenton R. Bulow will seek re-election for clerk; Joseph William Flanders for treasurer; Rollie L. Lewis for prosecuting attorney; Frank F. Bird for register of deeds; David Vaughan for sheriff. Ervan A. Ruessger, who was appointed judge of probate to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Servetus A. Correll, will seek the nomination for that office.

Whether present incumbents in county offices will have opposition is still unknown. To the voters generally, however, there should be no hesitation as to choice. County affairs have been running smoothly under the present officers and it should be a matter of "leaving well enough alone."

Outside the county there is one change that would not be amiss. A representative in the state legislature from our own section of the district should be sought. In Congress, Frank P. Bohn of Newberry, has our hearty endorsement. He has done a lot for the Charlevoix region, and, in fact, for his entire district. A change now would be a great mistake.

LARGE GROCERY VAN UPSET MONDAY NIGHT

Turned Turtle on Charlevoix-Ellsworth Road—None Injured

Groceries came down Monday night—not in price, but in quantity—when a large A. & P. Tea company truck overturned at the corner of the cross road between the Charlevoix-Ellsworth road and U. S. 31.

Crackers and cheese, coffee, and what have you, were scattered high and wide. The driver, John Room, of Grand Rapids, was uninjured.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c to-day at the Central Drug Store, the... call store.

ANN ARBOR MAN ENTHUSIASTIC OVER KONJOLA

Victim of Stomach and Kidney Troubles Found New Medicine First One to Help Him.

MR. WILLIAM HALLEN

"I had tried everything recommended, but not a medicine or treatment touched my case of stomach and kidney troubles," said Mr. William Hallen, 612 North Main street, Ann Arbor, Michigan. "Everything I ate lay in my stomach undigested, creating gas. Bloating and pain followed every meal. My kidneys caused intense pains across my back, and at night I had to rise frequently. I became weaker daily."

"But Konjola changed everything and did it quickly. Daily my stomach returned to more normal condition, and the kidneys responded just as steadily. In three weeks I found that I could eat anything and that I could sleep all night. Since then, my system, free of poisons, I have been gaining weight, vitality and energy. Konjola proved a life-saver to me."

Konjola is designed to give thorough and lasting relief. Like any worth-while treatment Konjola should be taken from six to eight weeks, giving it a chance to produce the best results. And the results will amaze you—as they have countless thousands of men and women.

Konjola is sold in Charlevoix, Mich., at F. J. Fessenden's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Gus Mielke's gas boat "Bremen," with Leroy Allers in charge, went to Cozy Point Wednesday after Mrs. E. Belfy, who will spend a couple of weeks with relatives.

INSIDE INFORMATION.

Print or varnish spatters on glass may be dissolved with turpentine or alcohol or may be rubbed off with a dull knife.

Has your dustpan a firm straight edge which fits the floor so that part of the dust is not brushed underneath? A long-handled dustpan saves much stooping.

Strong soap or soap powder should not be used on dishes decorated with gilt, because these cleaning materials may contain substances which are injurious to gilt.

Do you ever cook cucumbers? They are delicious when peeled, cut in halves or quarters and steamed; or cut in lengthwise sections, stuffed with a vegetable mixture, and baked.

Vary the tartness of your French dressing occasionally by using in place of plain vinegar lemon or grapefruit juice, or tarragon vinegar, or spiced vinegar from pickles.

A few grains of pop corn on top of a plate of corn soup gives an attractive appearance. A spoonful of whipped cream is a good garnish for clear and cream soups, and adds to the food value.

Designs for small boys' suits originated by the home economics specialists of the U. S. department of agriculture combine self-help features with smart style. A free leaflet pictures and describes these suits and suggests fabrics for summer and winter wear.

Prepare spring onions this way: Trim off the green tops and cook the onions in lightly salted boiling water in an uncovered vessel until tender. This will take about 20 minutes for fresh young onions. Drain, add more salt if necessary, and pepper, arrange on toast like asparagus, add melted butter, and serve at once.

Select the Best Gilt

Every hog raiser should look over his pig crop each year and pick out a few gilts to improve the breeding herd. Sometimes there is an outstanding animal that may be chosen soon after weaning, but it is usually better to wait until the pigs are five or six months old, as by that time their faults are evident. Gilts selected for breeding should be put in a good pasture by themselves and should have a liberal ration. Corn should be fed only in limited quantities—from one-fourth to one-third the total feed. Shorts or middlings, to which is added a little tankage or fish meal, fed either dry or in a thick slop, together with pasture, makes a very good ration. Mineral mixture, salt, and water should of course be supplied. If a gilt does not develop well she should be discarded from the breeding herd and fattened for market.

CHANGES MADE IN FALL GAME RULES

PARTRIDGE SEASON EXTENDED DAY IN LOWER PENINSULA

Raccoon Hunting Season Shortened Fifteen Days—Several Other Changes Are Listed

Shortening of the raccoon hunting season by 15 days; and increasing the partridge and prairie chicken open seasons in the lower peninsula by one day, were the principal changes made in the 1930 hunting and trapping seasons by the conservation commission at its July meeting.

The open seasons for the coming fall in which changes have been made are as follows:

Partridge, closed in upper peninsula, lower peninsula, October 15-20, inclusive.

Prairie chicken, closed in upper peninsula, lower peninsula, October 15-20, inclusive.

Raccoon, trapping and hunting prohibited in upper peninsula. Lower peninsula, hunting November 1-15 inclusive. Trapping, north of townline 16 and west of Saginaw Bay, November 15 to December 15, inclusive; south of north line of townline 16 and east of Saginaw Bay (thumb), December 1 to December 15, inclusive.

Seasons on all other animals and birds remain the same as during 1929.

The partridge season will be opened this year to coincide with the opening of the rabbit and woodcock seasons. Through this change a six days open season including a weekend is permitted instead of five days as it was last year. According to a report from the game division of the department of conservation, deer and rabbit hunters last year found many birds had survived the open season and during the winter and spring favorable reports as to the supply of partridges have reached the Lansing office. Of a total of 35 upper peninsula officers who sent in partridge reports, 25 reported "more birds" than last year, but with one exception, favored a continued closed season this fall. In spite of an open season and a hard winter, 15 lower peninsula counties above townline 16 report "more birds" than last year.

The prairie chicken open season is changed to coincide with the open partridge season. Reports from local and district officers, both last year and this, indicate that prairie chickens are still comparatively scarce in their usual ranges of the upper peninsula, but locally abundant in the eastern part of the lower peninsula, especially in the counties west of Saginaw Bay. Reports show that this bird increased quite steadily in Clare, Roscommon, Ogemaw and other neighboring counties, especially during the last few years.

The trapping season for raccoon in the lower peninsula remains the same as last year, corresponding as far as possible with the muskrat trapping seasons. Although raccoon are reported to be less abundant in many places of the lower peninsula than last year, reports indicate there are enough for a short open season this year, and so the hunting of raccoons was limited November 1 to November 15, inclusive. Last year the hunting season was from November 1 to November 30 inclusive in the lower peninsula.

Raccoons are scarce or absent in all upper peninsula counties except small areas in Menominee and Delta counties and there has been no decided increase after the closed season last year. This is probably a permanent condition, but the season will remain closed in the upper peninsula to protect the few raccoons there and to see whether there is any possibility of their increasing or extending their range.

Mink may be trapped this year only during the open muskrat trapping season, under an order of the commission. This was done to give better protection to muskrats during the closed season and to avoid the trouble caused in catching rats and raccoons in mink sets. Mink may be taken or killed by other methods than traps during the entire year.

Muskrat trapping season, unchanged from 1929, is as follows: Upper peninsula, November 1 to 30, inclusive. Lower peninsula, north of north line of townline 16 and west of Saginaw Bay, November 15 to December 15, inclusive; south of north line of townline 16 and East of Saginaw Bay, December 1 to December 31, inclusive.

Subject, "Sacrament."

Wednesday evening at 7:45.

Reading room Tuesday and Saturday, 3:00 to 5:00 p. m.

The public is cordially invited to all services.

"God" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, July 6.

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "And I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings, saying, Alleluia: for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth" (Rev. 19:6).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "We shall obey and adore in proportion as we apprehend the divine nature and love Him understandingly, warring no more over the corporeality, but rejoicing in the affluence of our God" (p. 140).

To the Taxpayers of the City of Charlevoix

Notice is hereby given, that the July tax roll of the city of Charlevoix has been delivered to me, and that the taxes therein levied are payable at my office in the Carnegie library, at any time on or before the 15th day of September, 1930, without charges for collection.

On all taxes remaining unpaid after the 15th day of September, 1930, a collection fee of four cents on the dollar will be charged and collected.

CHAIN LETTERS

The chain letter is reported to be with us once again, to the annoyance of many recipients of such letters. A chain letter is one which demands that the recipient copy it a number of times, and mail the copies to his friends. It suggests that unless the recipient do this thing, he may run into hard luck, while if he does not break the chain blessings will accrue.

Inasmuch as the original chain letter was sent out many years ago it is obvious that if all recipients had followed directions the postoffice would today be engaged in the chain letter business exclusively, with several hundred times its present staff of employees. The fact that it is not in proof that the great majority of people are sensible, and throw away chain letters, regardless of consequences.

The suggestion has been made many times that the government make chain letters illegal. The chain letter on which the authorities act is the one which demands money in a way that contravenes the laws against lottery matter in the mails. But the other kind, while it does no good and is a nuisance, does little real harm, and it helps to swell the revenue.—Detroit News.

TIMELY HEALTH TIPS

Health is a matter of small things. It's the little breaks in one's health armor that pave the way for the big troubles. Likewise, it's through attention to small details that serious illnesses may be avoided.

Several health tips, given by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association as illustrative of the minor ways in which health can be protected, are: As hot weather comes on, it is advisable to eat more fresh fruits and vegetables, and less meat and eggs.

The diet, if underweight, should include plenty of bread, butter, cereals, sugars, fats, fresh fruit, milk and cream. Slow eating aids digestion.

Although curves are once again in vogue, health rules do not change in style. Weigh enough but don't get fat.

Air should be fresh but not raw. Breathing through the nose takes away the rawness, and also prevents entrance of foreign particles into the lungs.

For persistent coughs, headaches, insomnia, stomach troubles, etc., a doctor should be depended upon rather than patent medicines. Self-medication frequently has dire consequences.

Government is really a big business.

The federal government has an interest in oil wells which have come to it by lease or as part of the federal domain.

Sometimes this oil is taken by private companies which have wells near to the government property such as the great operations which surround Teapot Dome.

Atlee Pomerene, prominent Ohio lawyer, was engaged to look after the government's interests. He has so far collected about $30,000,000 from companies which have taken Uncle Sam's oil.

That is quite a bit of money to pick up.

Americanism: Senate millionaires investigating fellow-citizens who are trying to get that way.

ANNUAL AIR CIRCUS AT EMMET CO. AIRPORT

Charlevoix Citizens Invited to Big Event Next Sunday

A. J. Usher of the Courier has been asked to head the delegation from this city and region to Petoskey next Sunday for the annual air circus at the Emmet county airport, the event being the program for the day of the Second Annual Michigan Air tour. The entire city has been invited to be at the Emmet county airport, which is located just half way between Petoskey and Harbor Springs, for the occasion.

The 60 planes, each one different, will land at the airport at 9:30 in the forenoon and remain until the same hour Monday. All day Sunday will be given over to stunt flying, exhibitions, airplane rides, inspection of the 50 kinds of planes, the band music and tours for the tour officials and passengers.

This occasion is an annual one for our northern neighbors who are extending a special invitation to the people of this city to attend. There is no admission charge, but a parking charge of 50 cents per car is made and tags issued. Each tag entitles the car to come and go as often as liked all the time the planes are at the airport Sunday, July 13, and Monday, July 14.

KELLY PLAYERS WILL OFFER WEEK OF DRAMA

To Show in Charlevoix Commencing Monday, July 14th

About this time of the year residents of Charlevoix and vicinity look for a visit from the Kelly players. This organization, headed by Bill Kelly, will open a week's engagement in Charlevoix, commencing Monday, July 14th, in the big tent theatre.

No doubt many of the play-goers of this vicinity who are familiar with the names of the latest stage successes will recognize some of the titles in the line-up of plays.

Monday night's play, "The IT Girl," is a comedy drama of New York suburban life. An ambitious mother trying to break into society and finding her carefully-laid plans thwarted by the unexpected arrival of a poor relative, schemes and plans to—but the poor relatives takes a hand at scheming and planning also, and the play comes to a happy ending and in an unexpected manner.

"Mary's Other Husband," Larry Johnson's successful play, which ran for several seasons on Broadway, will be the mid-week feature comedy. "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," "Virtue Awakened," "Marrying for Money" and "The Only Road," are other plays that will be presented during the week.

A feature of the show this year will be the excellent standard of vaudeville to be presented between the acts, says Mr. Kelly. Singing, dancing, comedy and magic.

CONCERT AT TOURIST PARK THURSDAY NIGHT

Program Announced for City Band Weekly Musical Entertainment

The Charlevoix city band, under the leadership of John Ter Wee, will give another of their popular concerts in the band stand at the tourist park Thursday evening.

The following program has been announced:

TYRELL'S VACATION CAMP POPULAR PLACE

Facilities at Antrim City Make Hit With Tourists and Vacationists

Proving a popular place with vacationists in northern Michigan is Tyrell's Vacation Camps, located on Grand Traverse Bay west of Atwood, at the old Antrim City site.

Several log tourists cabins have been constructed and many other improvements made. A store in which marshmallows and other necessities for beach parties are kept in readiness, is proving very popular with picnic groups.

M. A. Tyrell, owner of the camp, has extended a cordial invitation to anyone desiring to use the site for picnic purposes.

MORE SUMMER VISITORS
This is the year when the politicians will make you a visit. You should be nice to them. They are a very good bunch of fellows, and in modern times ladies are included in this biennial pilgrimage. These boys and girls are spending good money in an effort to see you. They are not trying to take anything away from you and they are not asking for money. All they wish is your vote.

MANY BIG YACHTS VISIT OUR HARBOR

Activity on Lakes Has Increased Largely in Past Week

Charlevoix harbor took on a mid-summer appearance last Friday when the palatial yacht "Mispaw," owned by Commander Gene McDonald of Chicago, and the "Marg III," Joseph Oberfelder's yacht, put into Round lake.

Welcoming salutes were prolonged and many. The McDonald yacht remained in the harbor but a short time and continued its trip, while the Oberfelder boat was here a couple of days.

Activity on the lakes has heightened within the past week. Each day sees the six meter fleet from the Chicago club on Lake Charlevoix, and motor boating is coming into its own again.

JUILLERET'S OPEN- ED SUNDAY EVENING

Record Attendance at Initial Party of Summer Season

Juilleret's Charlevoix establishment opened Sunday evening, June 29th, with Emerson Brown's six-piece band augmented by five members of the Tunesters, featuring two pianos.

This arrangement will be continued every Sunday evening during the summer. Sunday night's opening was a record breaker from the standpoint of attendance. The crowd was delighted with the music and Mr. Juilleret believes that the Sunday evening parties at the Charlevoix place will prove a most popular attraction.

Brown's six-piece band will provide music and entertainment on all nights except Sunday, when the combined hands will officiate.

ST. LOUIS WOMAN VIC- TIM OF HEART ATTACK

Found Dead at R. Vernon Clark Cottage Sunday Morning

Mrs. Mary Schnurr, aged 65 years, an employe for many years in the family of R. Vernon Clark, Belvedere summer resorters, died at the Clark cottage Sunday morning from heart attack.

She had started to prepare breakfast. When members of the family came down from upstairs, they found her dead on the kitchen floor. The discovery was a severe shock, as Mrs. Schnurr had been connected with the household over a long period and was held in high esteem by the family.

The body was taken to her home in St. Louis, Mo., for burial Sunday evening.

CALLA TRAVIS DANC- ING CLASSES OPEN

Widely Known Instructor to be at Belvedere Casino Again

Miss Calla Travis of Grand Rapids, cottager at the Belvedere club for many years, has announced that the opening of her summer dancing classes at the Belvedere casino will be Thursday morning of this week.

Miss Travis is widely known as an instructor of the dancing art, not only through her activity at Charlevoix, but also throughout the entire country. In Grand Rapids she has large classes during the winter months, and in the summer at the Belvedere, where she also directs social activities.

Miss Travis will be assisted by Miss Jane Slater, one of her Grand Rapids instructors, who last year was a member of the staff at Kamp Kairphree.

Returns to The Inn

Mrs. Virginia Tubbs of Chicago, for many years bridge instructor at The Inn, has returned to Charlevoix for the season. Mrs. Tubbs is widely known in her winter home and at Charlevoix, and enjoys a large patronage for Charlevoix summer folks.

STATE TO CONTINUE NIGHT FERRY TRIPS

Service at Straits Will Remain Until After Labor Day

Continuance through the summer of the night ferry service across the Straits of Mackinac, which was given to holiday traffic last week, was announced Monday by Grover C. Dillman, state highway commissioner. The boats will be operated on a night schedule until after Labor day.

Four additional trips will be made each night, the boats leaving Mackinaw City at 10, midnight, 3 and 5, and leaving St. Ignace at 11:30, 1:30, 4:30 and 5:30.

Until last week service was closed at 9 p. m. and not resumed until 6 a. m.

A report submitted to Dillman Monday reveals that on July 4 this year 275 more cars were carried than last year and the revenue was $914 in excess of the 1929 figure.

ANNUAL SCHOOL MEET- ING MONDAY EVENING

Trustees to be Elected and Other Important Business

Attention of taxpayers of Charlevoix school district No. 1, city and township, is called to the annual school meeting to be held at the high school auditorium the evening of Monday, July 14th, at 8 o'clock.

In addition to regular routine business which comes before this meeting, three school trustees will be elected, two for three years and one for two years. Those elected for the three-year term will succeed Ernest L. Dawson and Harry A. Craig, and for the two-year term Allen Campbell, who is serving the unexpired term of Mrs. Harley Ochs, resigned.

Matters of importance to every taxpayer come before this annual meeting and it should not be necessary to urge attendance.

Miles of Conveyors in Ford Plant

This picture shows two types of conveyors in use in the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company.

AN ENDLESS chain conveyor, three and a half to four miles long, said to be the longest in the world, has just been completed at the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn, Michigan. On it parts of Ford cars in the process of manufacture are transported from one building to another and completed parts are carried direct to railroad cars for shipment to branch assembly plants.

The conveyor, which carries its cargo on suspended hooks, has a daily capacity for 300,000 parts weighing over 2,000,000 pounds. It supplies freight cars and trucks which have been used for the transfer of many parts from one point to another in the Ford plant.

This longest conveyor of them all is a development of the Ford policy that nothing should be done by manual labor that could better be done by machine.

In the early days of his manufacturing career, Mr. Ford devised the assembly line—a moving track on which cars in the process of assembly went to the workmen instead of the workmen carrying parts to the car. The assembly line, perfected in many ways, is now used by automobile manufacturers generally.

The value of the conveyor in reducing physical labor, in saving time, in preserving system and in cutting costs soon became apparent and its use was extended to other purposes about the plant. Now there are literally miles of conveyors of various types in the Ford plant. Some of them carry parts from one building to another and are carefully synchronized so that the parts arrive at precisely the right moment and in the exact spot where they are needed. Others transport red hot iron parts of steel weighing nearly a ton each. Still others move outgoing ship masts.

If it were not for the conveyors, according to officials of the Ford Company, mass production would not be possible on its present scale.

or driven from the corrals to the arena. At the starter's gun cowboys desperately endeavor to saddle the snorting bronchos. After a thrilling struggle, one of the cowboys manages to buckle his cinch and mounts. But the bucking horse starts on a stampede in the wrong direction. Then another mounts and off they go, pitching, rearing and whirling until they come to the first turn of the oval track. Here one of the horses refused to follow the course and crashed into the fence. Here, skill only can save the rider from injury. In the fraction of a second, he is either going to stick or "eat dust." Broken necks and world champions are made so fast that the eye is unable to catch the events. "Ride 'em cowboys!" "Let 'er buck!"—re-echoes the cry. Whether it be in Cheyenne, Calgary, Pendleton or at the great western stampede on the fair grounds, followers of frontier sports will be there to boost the cowmen to success—or the hospital.

Plenty of entertainment and lots of real thrills await those who take in the stampede while visiting the fair—and a record crowd from all over the state is expected at the 81st annual exposition this year. The stampede will be seen each week day afternoon and evening. The fair will open Sunday, August 31, with a sacred concert by Creator's hand, and continue through September 6.

BITS OF INFORMATION FOR FARMERS.

Cattle should not be fed within 24 hours before slaughter, though they may have access to fresh water.

To get the greatest yield and best quality of clover seed, cure and store the crop with as little wetting as possible, says the U. S. department of agriculture. Rotting clover in the field or stack, or sweating it in the mow before hulling, is unnecessary. Let it become as ripe as possible without loss from shelling, cut it in good, bright weather, and protect it from the rain.

Range where growing poultry has been kept continuously is likely to be in poor condition in late summer. If the range or yard is bare, the chickens should be changed to fresh land, or the soil should be spaded up or cultivated. Equipment such as feed hoppers and drinking vessels should be moved if the space around them has become bare. Land to be used for raising the pullets should not be fertilized with poultry manure, as this may spread worms or diseases to the growing stock.

The type of house best suited for rabbits depends principally on the climate, but the essential features of any rabbit house, wherever located, are light and fresh air. A moderate-sized house is preferable to a very large one, as rabbits kept in small units are less likely to contract disease. The United States department of agriculture will send on request leaflet 15-L, containing drawings and bills for material for a rabbit house, two types of hutches, a portable nest box, and a colony-growing house.

Many brick masons say that all flues leak, but agricultural engineers of the U. S. department of agriculture assert that a flue can be made tight and that it should be subjected to a smoke test before a heater is connected to it. Build a paper, straw, or wood fire at the base of the flue and when the smoke makes a dense column, tightly block the outlet at the top by laying a wet blanket over it. The blanket must be kept wet as long as it is in place. Flues tested in this way often reveal serious leaks into adjoining flues, directly through the walls, or between the linings and the walls.

"Farming is not only a business but a mode of living," says a recent U. S. department of agriculture publication, "Rural Buildings for Business and Social Uses," "and in recognition of this idea modern farm business organizations are erecting rural buildings to relate the economic and social factors of agriculture." This publication, which can be obtained by sending to the department of agriculture for farmers' bulletins 1622-F, contains descriptions, plans, and photographs of rural community buildings in different parts of the country.

For stockmen in the southwest, silage made from grain sorghums is good insurance against drought in summer. These crops make good silage which will keep for several years without deterioration. When cut at the proper time—when the seeds are in the stiff-dough stage—grain-sorghum silage has a feeding value about equal to that of corn silage. Usually some supplementary feed rich in protein is desirable, especially for breeding cattle. For growing and fattening cattle and sheep, and for high-producing cows, it should be fed with a liberal ration of concentrates.

Beavers Are Workers
Beavers are good woodsmen. In one case they are known to have cut through a balsam poplar 46 inches across the stump. A remarkable part of the work of beavers is the carrying of logs, says the U. S. biological survey. On land they will drag heavy poles or good-sized branches, holding them with their strong incisor teeth. To carry stones they use their paws and arms, and often bring up from the bottom of a pond stones weighing eight or ten pounds.

Barley Scab Control
Crop rotation and a clean-up of cornstalks or similar debris, supplemented by fall plowing, will control barley scab. The scab parasite lives over winter on old cornstalks and other crop residues left on the surface of the ground or only partly turned under. In 1928 scab infection averaged 17 per cent in 52 barley fields in northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin where barley was sown in disked or poorly plowed cornland with stalks left on the surface of the ground. In contrast, the infection in 102 fields in this area where corn was removed and the land well plowed was less than two per cent, with little damage to the feeding value of the barley. Fields of barley showing scab infection should be allowed to become fully ripe and dry before cutting, to prevent spread of the disease in the bundle and shock.

VARIED PROGRAM FOR STATE FAIR

WILD WEST, INDIANS, ETC. FEATURES OF ATTRACTIONS

Annual Exhibit August 31 to September 6 at Detroit to be the Best Ever Held

Indian racing bareback, cowboys and cowgirls riding untamed and bucking bronchos, cowpunchers leaping from speeding ponies to twist a plunging steer to the ground, daring cowboys gulling around the track atop a charging, maddened steer. All of these thrilling, hair-raising stunts of the western frontier will be seen again at the Michigan State fair, Michigam's greatest outdoor event, August 31 to September 6, when the stampede is staged as a feature of the fair. It will be shown each week day afternoon and evening and will be on a bigger and more elaborate scale than when it was shown to Detroit the first time at the fair last year.

Cowboys and cowgirls who have won championships at the big round-ups of the West will be seen competing for the many thousands of dollars that are offered in prizes during fair week and already entries are pouring in for the events. Until the entry lists close it will not be known just who will compete. The contests are open to the world and will be under the direction of that veteran of western sports, "California" Frank Haffley.

Making the events even more realistic of early frontier days, an Indian village will be established at the fair grounds and the "Wahoo" of the redskins will mingle with the "yip, yip e-e-e-yah" of the cowboys. These Indians, brought from the reservations of the West through special arrangements with the government, will be augmented by representatives from the Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota tribes, all forming a great Indian congress. Mounted on their fleetest ponies, the bucks and the squaws will compete in bareback races and in the picturesque travois races, in which papooses in their baskets ride the bouncing boughs of the Indian drags. The Indian camp will be open to the public.

Steer wrestling, probably the most dangerous of western sports, will be the feature of the stampede, an event with a thrill for every second. Out of the corral starts an angry steer. Two daring riders start in pursuit. At full gallop, our cowboy reaches out, seizes the steer's horns, slips from his saddle and halts the animal. In the next few seconds follows the most interesting contest between man and beast anywhere offered, usually resulting in the steer toppling on its side. The starter's red flag is lowered and the announcer states that a new record has been made. There, covered with sweat and dust, stands your world's champion steer wrestler.

But it is not quite so easy as it sounds. First, the steer is no parlor pet, but a long-horned fighter, weighing from 800 to 1,000 pounds, and selected for his ferocity. The long-horn has a 30-foot start. The cowboy slips up on the "off side," and rushes up close to the steer's head. At just the right moment, he lunges from his broncho and grasps the beast's horns. In another split second, a half a ton of beef and a cowboy have landed amid a cloud of dust. Trained steer wrestlers tip the horns at just the right angle to throw all four feet off the ground, keeping the steer down until the timekeeper records the time.

Riding wild Brahma steers is dangerous and thrilling. These beasts are a cross between the Mexican longhorns and the sacred cattle of India. All efforts to tame them have failed. Although the cattle may be herded without difficulty, the moment one is "cut out" from the herd he is ready to fight at the drop of the hat. To keep on the deck of such an animal calls for a high degree of daring and skill.

Broncho busting, another sport to be seen, provides a thrill a second. Ten plunging outlaw horses are led

WHO'S WHO IN CHARLEVOIX

ANNOUNCEMENT

On this page are articles concerning some of the leading business houses of Charlevoix. At the conclusion of each article some questions will be found. To the three readers of the Charlevoix Courier, who bring to this office the most complete and neat answers the following prizes will be given:

FIRST PRIZE—A No. 2 A. Folding Cartridge, Hawk-Eye Camera, from the Central Drug Store.

SECOND PRIZE—An artistic Vantine's Toilet Set, consisting of Orange Blossom Toilet Water and Perfume, Double Vanity Case and a Lip Stick in a beautiful Japanese Case, from the Holley Novelty Shop.

THIRD PRIZE—A ladies beautiful genuine calf skin purse, from the Holley Novelty Shop.

Remember, there is no guess work. Simply go personally, to the business mentioned and ask the questions and they will give you the answers and the three most neat and complete answers win the prizes. All answers must be in the Charlevoix Courier office by 6 o'clock p. m. Monday evening, July 14th, 1930.

Central Drug Store

When the Rexall Drug company selects an agency to handle their products they select the best that can be found and in Charlevoix they selected the Central Drug Store to represent them. This is a certain recommendation, and home folks can be assured that they are safe when they bring their drug needs to this store. Drugs that are fresh and of the highest quality are stocked. This means that when the doctor gives you a prescription the chemists at this drug store can follow directions and compound the right medicine. This store also carries a full line of toilet goods, stationery and kodaks. Their stock includes everything that will be found in a first class drug store. Both Mr. Harley Ochs and Mr. Barker Kirby are boosters for Charlevoix and help in all things for its progress. How long have they been business partners? What is the phone number of this drug store? What cosmetics do they feature?

McCann's Bakery

There is no need for the housewives of Charlevoix to spend their time in a hot kitchen baking when they can buy cakes, pies and whole some bread from McCann's bakery for less than the cost of home production. Nothing but the best materials are used in this bakery and the finished product leaves nothing to be desired. In fact, once you have been served with this bakery's goods you will continue to patronize him. Mr. McCann has succeeded in putting into his cakes and pastry a home taste that pleases all who use them. He can be proud of the reputation he has established for quality and flavoring of his bakery goods. The courtesy and service which Mrs. McCann sees that the patrons of this bakery receive, has done much to add to its progress. How long have Mr. and Mrs. McCann been in the bakery business? How long in Charlevoix? What is the phone number of this bakery?

Marion Center Dairy

Milk is one of the important foods of the nation and much upon it depends the health and growth of the children. The Marion Center Dairy is one of the leading distributors in this section. Milk bought from them is sanitary and contains the body building ingredients so necessary to the young. Mr. William Withers, proprietor of the Marion Center Dairy, is careful that nothing goes from his place that is not of the best. His equipment is the most modern in this section of the country. His cows are given minute care and he feeds them scientifically, so that they will give milk that is rich in butterfat. He is a substantial citizen of Charlevoix, who is making a success of his dairy because he attends closely to it and sells grade A products. How long has Mr. Withers been in this business? How long has he had the Marion Center Dairy? Has his barns concrete floors, steel stalls and up-to-date cooler?

Mont's Cafe

Clean, pleasant surroundings have much to add to the enjoyment of a meal and when these are joined to the knowledge that the food is tastefully cooked and prepared from nothing but the finest materials, eating becomes a pleasure. In Charlevoix one can find this combination at Mont's Cafe. Here no one takes a chance. No matter what you order you know you are getting the best the market affords and the flavor will be just right. Mr. and Mrs. Withers are the proprietors of Mont's Cafe. They understand their business and have made a favorable reputation for their Cafe and themselves and in this way have built up one of the leading places of business in this section. Their prices are modest and the stranger is as welcome in Mont's Cafe, as the old timer. How long has Mr. Withers lived in Charlevoix? How long has he and Mrs. Withers had this cafe? What hours is it open during the season?

Benjamin Brown

The name of Benjamin Brown ranks at the very top in the commercial life of Charlevoix. His garage, located at 405 Bridge street, is well prepared to give his customers the very best in automobile service. Mr. Brown has the agency throughout this section for the Dodge, Plymouth, Hudson and Essex cars, and when you buy from him you will find that every car he sells is exactly as he represents it. This garage has made for themselves a reputation for good workmanship and for honesty in business dealings that mean much to their business. Mr. Brown also has a Men's Furnishing store where one can purchase the latest in shirt patterns, neck wear and everything that will be found in a modern store of this kind. Benjamin Brown is a progressive business man and a believer in civic progress. How long has he lived in Charlevoix? What tires and battery does he recommend? What is the price of the new Plymouth, delivered?

Martin Block

A good housewife insists on good food for her family and the women of Charlevoix know that at the Martin Block grocery they get nothing but the best. This store is home owned and operated and every cent spent in it goes to building up a local enterprise. Martin Block is a neighbor to his customers. In days of stress he is not a stranger but one of them. He has taken care to stock only the best grades of groceries and meats and does not buy inferior quality goods in order to appear that he is underselling his competitor, yet he is able to meet prices and offer the best goods at a fair cost. This takes keen merchandising, but Mr. Block studies the markets and grasps every opportunity to save his patrons extra expense. Martin Block is one of the most prominent citizens of Charlevoix. Does this grocery store deliver? What canned goods do they feature? What teas and coffees?

Robert R. Bonthron Plumber

Your health and your home comfort depends in great part upon your plumbing and sheet metal engineer. If the job is placed in the hands of Mr. Bonthron, then it is sure of being done in the manner in which it should be. He has studied his work and to this he adds experience. He has made a wide reputation in his line and his reputation necessitates that he give care and attention to every job placed with him. He is a man who uses honest business methods. Mr. Bonthron does not overcharge his customers and fills his contracts in a prompt manner. His ability has made him a leader in his line. As a citizen he stands high in the community and as a business man he enjoys the trust and confidence of his business associates. What plumbing fixtures does Mr. Bonthron recommend? What heating plant? How long has he been in the plumbing business here?

Shell Service Station

Courtesy and service are the features that make an auto service station a popular one and the Shell Service station has built its business on these principles. Mr. Kahler and Mr. Friend, the proprietors, know what the motorist needs. When they tell you at this station that your car needs oil, you can rest assured that it is so, and that you will get the very best lubricant on the market. They do expert power greasing, spring spraying and give complete lubrication. They realize that the public demands the best and they see that they get it. Fred Friend, who manages this station, has the respect of this community for the capable manner in which he conducts the business of the Shell Service station. He is highly regarded as both a business man and citizen. How long has this station been established? Are they the only Shell gas station in town? What hours are they open?

Charlevoix Co-operative Association

The Charlevoix Co-operative Association is an institution that is saving money for those who patronize it. It is a home organization, dealing in Feed, Grain, Coal, Tires, Gasoline and many other products. Everything they handle is staple and standard. You get the best at the lowest price when buying from this Association. Mr. Clarence N. Meggison, who is the manager, is a man of business experience, which enables him to buy and sell, at prices which mean financial profit to both the buyer and seller. Those who deal with the Association, benefit by it. They are courteous and see that their customers get the best of service. These traits make it a pleasure to do business here. This is a home institution, with home people operating it. Business places of this kind, help build a community. How long has been organized? What brand of feed do they feature? How long has Mr. Meggison been the manager?

Charlevoix Insurance & Abstract Office

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Sloan have the above mentioned place of business in this city. Mrs. Sloan can be depended upon to solve your insurance problems and always has the interest of her clients at heart. Mr. Sloan is in the abstract and engineering business and has gained a reputation for understanding his business thoroughly. Abstracts are of great importance and precaution should be taken in having this work done by a reliable firm in this line of business. Mr. Sloan deals with his clients pertaining to his line. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sloan rank second to none in their professional standing in this community and can always be relied upon to help boost any cause for its progress. How long has Mr. Sloan lived in Charlevoix? How long has he been in his present business location? How many insurance companies does Mr. Sloan represent?

Holley Novelty Shop

The Holley Novelty Shop has a display of merchandise that proves interesting to one and all. Miss Adeline Holley, the proprietor, shows an artistic taste in buying her stock, which makes her shop the very center for those who really want the best in the lines she sells. Here you will find many suggestions for gifts, which are artistic as well as practical. Shopping here always proves a pleasant experience as Miss Holley takes a personal interest in waiting upon her patrons and showing them the latest of novelties, which she always has artistically arranged. She pays close attention to her business and is proving herself a good executive in commercial life. Miss Holley is a loyal citizen of Charlevoix and encourages all movements that are progressive. How long has Miss Holley had this shop? Is business the year round? Does she carry a stock of children's toys?

Priest's Studio

Pictures live forever and tell the story. They are Memory Insurance. The art of photography is practiced by many but understood by few. Therefore it is necessary to employ the services of an artist if lifelike pictures are desired. Geo. W. Priest is an artist in his line and gives as much attention to a small order as he does to a large one. He has not gained ascendancy in this business in a day, but experience added to his natural ability has placed him in the foreground as an excellent photographer. In his years of experience he has learned that pictures prove to be priceless treasures in time to come when the Grim Reaper has entered the household and loved ones have passed beyond. Mr. Priest is an outstanding figure in business and is always willing to lend a helping hand to his fellow man. How long has he been in this business? How long in Charlevoix? Does he develop kodak films?

C. J. Withers, Radio

Since the air has been harnessed the radio has become a necessity in the homes of the American people. Business man or idler, society woman or the lady who presides over the kitchen, all appreciate them. In this city Mr. Withers has the agency for the famous ZENITH RADIO. When a radio is purchased from him the customer can be assured it will be serviced in an expert manner, as Mr. Withers has twenty-five years experience as a radio specialist. He has made a deep study of this subject, and is constantly keeping abreast of the times. This fact alone is an assurance of his ability. RADIO TROUBLES and his customers take this into consideration when a radio is purchased. Any one can sell a radio, but not all can give the service so necessary if best results are to be obtained. Mr. Withers is an enterprising citizen. How long has he had the ZENITH AGENCY? Does he sell accessories? What is the phone number?

Northern Creamery Co.

All foods that have a milk basis are recognized as body builders. Purity of the milk and cream, however, is a feature on which rests this value. The Northern Creamery Company is a home concern and Mr. Charles H. Lamphear, the local manager, uses utmost care in all the products that he places on the market. There are many factors concerned in the manufacture of Butter and Ice Cream, mainly best ingredients, sanitation and skillful preparation. Every pound of Gold Coin Butter and every pint of McCool's Ice Cream are prepared in this way and can be depended upon as the purest, richest, and most wholesome that can be produced. Mr. Lamphear has made a study of his business and gives it his personal attention. He is a loyal citizen of Charlevoix and willingly helps in any movement for its betterment. How long has his company been established in Charlevoix? What is the phone number? How long has Mr. Lamphear lived here?

Charlevoix Hardware Company

Hardware that stands hard wear is the kind that is featured in the Charlevoix Hardware store. Selling goods that bear the trademarks of quality, at prices as low as any store can, with attention to good business judgment, this store has forged its way to the very front rank in commercial circles in this city. It carries a complete stock of furniture and sporting goods as well as hardware. Mr. Charles B. Gale, who is the manager of this store, sees that their patrons receive excellent service, which makes them feel their patronage is appreciated. No matter whether the article you purchase is large or small, the same courteous treatment is bestowed on one and all. Although Mr. Gale has only been here a short time, he is an enthusiastic booster for this community. How long has this store been established? What is the phone number? Do they handle garden supplies?

Glen S. See Funeral Director

When sorrow strikes the home it is good to know a man in the city to whom one can turn to take over the necessary details and carry them through in a dignified manner and with a sympathy which does not interfere with the bereaved's feelings. In Charlevoix, Mr. Glen S. See is well known and his courteous ways and gentlemanly demeanor have won for him many friends. His undertaking service is complete and he is always ready to answer the call of duty day or night. His service is modern and impressive and his charges are moderate. Mr. Glen S. See stands high in the regard of the community and he is always ready to work toward the advancement of the city's welfare in every way. He is known among all classes as a friend and can be proud of his standing among his fellow townsmen. How long has he been in this business in Charlevoix? What is his residence phone number? What make of ambulance does he use?

R. J. Madill, Contractor

The reliability, knowledge and ability to live up to his contracts has brought to Mr. Madill business from a wide territory. In his line there is perhaps no better man to be found in this section of the state. No matter if the job he undertakes is large or small, he gives it close attention and does it thoroughly. This means that it is done in such a way that it will stand the test of time and wear. His word is his bond and when he accepts a contract it is filled to the letter. He has a thorough understanding of his business and this, combined with the honest business methods he uses, has gained for him the implicit confidence of the people of this section. Mr. Madill will always be found working for the civic welfare of this community. How long has he been in this business? How long in it, in Charlevoix? What is Mr. Madill's business phone number?

H. D. Marshall

If a city, town or community is to be a healthy place to live, one thing is absolutely necessary and that is a perfected sewage system. In this city the skill and services of Mr. H. D. Marshall are invaluable as an expert when the question of laying sewer, sewer piping, cesspools, drainage and tile are mentioned. His knowledge of these lines, also his understanding of the water mains, is a valuable asset. Throughout the years Mr. Marshall has taken a great interest in the welfare of Charlevoix and incidentally the citizens of this city appreciate his loyalty and reciprocate by giving him the great share of their business along this line of work. His knowledge of the water system here is a great benefit to him as chief of the Charlevoix fire department. How long has Mr. Marshall lived in Charlevoix? How long has he been fire chief? Did he lay the first public sewer system in Charlevoix?

F. J. Fessenden's Drug Store

One of the most popular places of business in Charlevoix is Fessenden's Drug Store. Here accuracy, service and friendliness are paramount. This drug store has a prescription department where you are given just what the doctor orders and all ingredients are of the highest quality. There is not only a full line of drugs here, but there are also those drug accessories that go with the modern drug store. This store has a soda fountain, where they serve delicious ice cream in many combinations. Mr. F. J. Fessenden, the proprietor, is always courteous and pleasant and has the respect of this community, for his admirable business methods. He is a booster for Charlevoix and always does his share in any movement that means its progress. How long has Mr. Fessenden been in the drug business in Charlevoix? What is his slogan? What cosmetics are his leaders?

Albert E. Edwards Florist and Vegetable Grower

When a woman wants cut flowers to brighten her home, she wants to know that they are freshly cut and will last. Or, if she wants a potted plant, she wants to know that it will bloom and thrive. In Charlevoix, the women know that Mr. Edwards sells just that kind. They also know that he can be depended upon to arrange their bouquets in an artistic manner and add to them that touch that marks the difference between a bouquet and just a bunch of flowers. For any occasion Mr. Albert E. Edwards, the proprietor, and his sons, can be depended upon to provide the right touch in the decoration line. They have always given first class service and careful attention to details. Mr. Edwards and his sons are among the most progressive citizens of this community. How long has Mr. Edwards been in the floral business? Where is his place of business located? Do they belong to the Florist Telegraph Delivery association?

Hamilton & Son Boats

Scientific boat building and repair, requires the services of a skilled artisan. The discriminating buyer of a boat, realizes the importance of having one built by men who have mastered the art. In this city, Mr. Hamilton and his son, Ray Hamilton, have earned an enviable reputation in this line of work. Best materials, clever workmanship and reasonable prices, have been the foundation upon which they have built their business. Every boat built by them and every repair job they turn out, is just another "floating advertisement" which signifies "value received." This no doubt explains why they hold their old customers and continually gain new ones. Both of these gentlemen are substantial citizens of Charlevoix. How long has Mr. Sam Hamilton been in the boat building business? How long in it, in Charlevoix? What is the phone number of this firm?

Kohler Machine Shop

In this modern age, when a person is in need of a machine work, they go to someone who specializes in this line of work, for they have learned through experience that it pays to patronize the man that is most capable. Mr. Carl F. Kohler of this city has gained a reputation as an expert machinist, especially in marine work. He also specializes in acetylene welding, which has in recent years become so necessary in the repairing of machinery. Satisfied customers who return to Mr. Kohler year after year, for their wants in this line, are his strongest advertisers. Their confidence has been won through his capability and his square business dealings. Mr. Kohler is the type of citizen who believes in being a booster for his home community and helps on all cases that are beneficial to it. How long has he been in this business? How long in this business in Charlevoix? What hours is his shop open?

Sunoco Oil Station

Gas that lubricates the miles and oil that really gives it is what the motorist wants and the Sunoco Oil station, on U. S. highway 31, features these things. Mr. A. C. Hansen, the proprietor, gives personal attention to his business, which assures his trade the best the market affords. It seems here like it is a pleasure for them to serve you. They greet you with a smile and a pleasant word when you drive in. Your wants are their first consideration, and they show you many little courtesies that one does not receive in most stations. Mr. Hansen is a live, wide awake business man, who gives you first class products at all times. Every day is a new day for him and he tries to serve your wants a little quicker than he did the day before. He is one of the most progressive citizens of Charlevoix. What hours is this station open? What is the lowest priced oil, per quart, sold here? What tires are sold here?

Argo Milling Company

Flour, feed, fuel and building materials are necessary to the development of a community. In Charlevoix the Argo Milling company is the recognized headquarters for quality in flour, poultry, dairy, horse and hog feeds. Besides making flour and feeds under their own brand, they are jobbers of "Occident," the flour that "Costs More and Worth It." They also handle nation-famous Blatchford feeds, for all kinds of stock. Quality, service and fair prices is the motto of the Argo Milling company. The reputation of this firm is behind the customer's purchase and they will not allow goods that are not up to standard to be sold from their warehouses. The customer here is given courteous and excellent service. What coal is featured here? Who are the present owners of the Argo Milling company? Name the managers of this company since organization.

M. A. Levinson & Company

The M. A. Levinson & Co. store is a vital part of Charlevoix, having served the people here for many years in a manner that has brought to them the continued patronage of their customers. This store has always been a leader in the commercial circles of this district. The well dressed men and women of this community know that when they buy their clothing at this store, they are dressed as well as though they had purchased them from any of the large city stores. Mr. M. A. Levinson, who is the proprietor, is a capable business man. He believes in selling quality merchandise, at fair prices, and is one of the most progressive merchants in this section. Mr. Levinson is a booster for Charlevoix and has proven that he is the type of citizen who helps to build up a community. What ladies' hosiery does Mr. Levinson feature? What shirts? What bathing suits?

W. H. Wallace

Mr. W. H. Wallace, who is the sole distributor in this section, for the Johnson Gas and Oil products, believes in the company he represents and the product he sells. Mr. Wallace has not acquired his knowledge in the oil business in a few days or months but has made a study of it. When he sells oil and gasoline it must rank high. His method of doing business is beyond question. He has built his reputation on a solid foundation and has made many friends and customers by his sincere dealings. Mr. Wallace also has a service station where the motoring public can secure Johnson products and receive the best of service. Here they treat you in such a way that you feel sure your patronage is appreciated. Mr. Wallace is the type of citizen who helps boost any cause, beneficial to this community. Hotel Noble and Coffee Shop

The Hotel Noble is one of the best known in this section. Mrs. Cora Noble, who is the proprietor and oversees both the hotel and coffee shop, knows her business. She makes her guests feel perfectly at home. Her rooms are always spotless, the linen clean and the prices are reasonable. The Coffee Shop in this hotel serves the best of food the market has to offer regardless of prices and it is prepared under the personal supervision of Mrs. Noble. This Coffee Shop is comfortably arranged and the food served in it is real home cooking. It is one that enjoys a large patronage due to its splendidly prepared food and the fact that Mrs. Noble gives personal attention to her business. She is a lady who has a distinct place in the hearts of the people of this community. How long has she had this place of business? What is the phone number of this hotel? How many rooms in it?

MANY ARE ATTENDING CAMP DAGGETT

Fine Program of Sports and Other Camp Routine Enjoyed

Boys and girls from eight towns in the northern district have been enjoying the privilege of camp life and the opportunity of making new friends at Camp Daggett during the last few weeks.

The first section of girls' camp opened Monday and the camp is overflowing with the largest number of girls that has ever attended, some having to be turned away because of lack of space. The new cabin and every tent is filled and part of the club house has had to be turned into sleeping quarters to accommodate the more than 60 that are now at camp. Some new cabins have been promised by interested men, but cannot be built in time to take care of all this year.

The campers are enjoying a program of nature study, devotional services, athletics, aquatics, and some exceptionally fine campfire programs that include talks on travel, astronomy, health, sex-information, life-planning and other subjects vital to the life of youth.

Applications for the next two sections are being received. The girls' seven-day camp beginning July 12, will be followed by two sections for boys. These last two sections are of two weeks each, one running from July 21 to August 2, and the other from August 4 to August 16. Any parents wishing their boys or girls in these camps should fill in the application blank and mail to the district Y. M. C. A. office, Petoskey, at once.

DR. GERVER TAKEN TO MAYO BROTHERS

Will Receive Treatment for Wound from Famous Doctors

Dr. J. H. R. Gerver, Bellaire physician wounded in the Mancelona bank robbery chase, has been taken to the Mayo brothers hospital at Rochester where it is hoped the clinic will locate some means of overcoming the paralysis caused by the bullet wound.

The bullet fired by another posse member, struck him in the neck, coursing downward through his shoulder, where it is lodged. The bullet crushed the spinal cord, causing paralysis from the hips down.

WEEKLY PAPER BACK-BONE OF JOURNALISM

Serve the Community in a Manner Rendered by No Other Agency

Country newspapers are remarkably free from the taint, and little of it comes in from the outside for the reason that the people of these soundly American communities prefer the less sensational journals when they get a newspaper from the metropolitan field.

If the smaller newspapers of the country are what their public makes them, then they are appealing to a pretty sound public. For they are for the most part sound newspapers well edited, suitable for the home and family. And after all they form the backbone of American journalism.

The home newspaper deals largely with events of the community, the school, the church, civic organizations, local government and general news events of the community in which nearly the entire citizenship has an interest. Such matters constitute wholesome news and are educational as well as being of especial interest to the readers of the local paper. The local paper serves the community in a manner rendered by no other agency.

The ladies of the Methodist church will have a baked goods sale on Saturday, July 13. The place will be announced later.—Adv. 281.

AT THE MOVIES.

Beautiful Model Success in Films
Olive Shea will never forget the masquerade ball given by the A. M. P. A., the association of moving picture advertising men, for it marked the beginning of her Cinderella-like career.

She won the prize as the most beautiful non-theatrical girl at the ball. Just seven weeks after the ball Olive was working at Paramount's Long Island studio in the feminine role next to Mary Eaton in importance in "Glorifying the American Girl," the Florenz Ziegfeld production which comes to the Palace theater on Sunday and Monday.

"Condemned!" Characters Out of Touch With World

Fifteen thousand civilized white people have never listened to the radio!

This was one of the curious facts unearthed by Samuel Goldwyn's investigators during the search for authentic material for the filming of "Condemned," the new Ronald Coleman starring picture which comes to the Palace theater on July 15-16.

The men in question are the inhabitants in Devil's Island, the notorious French prison colony off the coast of South America, where the scene of "Condemned" is laid. Radios are forbidden in the colony to prevent any possibility of communication with the prisoners by friends on the outside. Since most of the prisoners are in on long sentences, being the incorrigibles of French prisons, they entered the colony before the advent of radio as a popular pastime. The inhabitants of the island outside the prison are under the same ban.

"Paris," Talking Film from Stage Play, is Coming

Successful stage plays, with music and dancing, can now be brought to millions who would not see them otherwise, through the medium of the talking screen.

One of the first to be transported from the footlights to the silver sheet is "Paris," the musical play which starred Irene Bordoni on the stage last season.

It has been made into a First National and Vitaphone picture, with Miss Bordoni starred, and it marks the first appearance of this popular stage favorite in motion pictures. "Paris" comes to the Palace theater July 17-18.

Playing opposite the star in this gay, luring comedy of the French capital is Jack Buchanan, English stage star who has been featured in New York and London musical shows, and especially in the famous Charlot's revue, which has played successfully on both sides of the water.

EXHIBIT AT BARRON CALLEN STUDIO NOW

Works of Well Known Lansing Painters Shown—Open to Public

The Barron Callen Studio announces for their first exhibition of the season the paintings of Mr. Quarmby and Clifford L. Warner, both of Lansing.

Mr. Quarmby is the executive vice-president of the Lansing Art club and, while his work is better known in England, where he was born, he has been well represented in the exhibitions of Lansing and Detroit. His paintings depict the beauties around Lansing and many quaint scenes from Beaver Island.

Clifford L. Warner, instructor of the Lansing, Mich. Art Club and a graduate of the Chicago Art Institute, is an outstanding artist. He believes in the inspiration of natural scenes and feels that there is tone and rhythm in every landscape.

His paintings show the beauties of the country side around Lansing, also many views from Florida, and some very recent views of picturesque Beaver Island.

The exhibition is the more interesting in that the paintings are all framed in hand carved frames which are the work and design of Mr. Warner.

CAMP MANITOU ACTIVITIES

The Fourth of July week-end ushered in a round of activities and gaieties at Camp Manitou that were not dampened by several spells of stormy weather. Popular on the program was a prolonged baseball game between the guests and the staff members in which the former triumphed the latter soundly. Dances in the evening were varied by impromptu skits, which afforded many of the visitors a position in the spotlight.

Competition for songs to be published in the Camp Manitou song book was begun, a particularly fine original waltz, "The Sweetheart of Manitou," being composed by Morris Goodman of Cleveland, Ohio, who also wrote the lyrics to the song.

An initiation campfire, in which the rich Indian mythological lore was utilized, climaxed the week-end, the whole ceremony presenting a picturesque scene as the flames rose and fell, lighting the vivid Indian blankets in which the officials of the staff were garbed.

Among the week-end guests were the Misses Sylvia and Rebecca Schuster, Ida Hubert, Selma Ross, Hinde and Naomi Goldstein, Ruth Gottfried, Jean Rosen, Ruth Kaufar, Anne Green, Celia J. Schostak and Edna Tobin; Messrs. Dr. John Slavson, Samuel Levine, Dr. Fred M. Barbes, Samuel Schuster, Billie Klein, J. B. Forman and Jack Little, all of Detroit.

Other guests at Manitou for the week-end included Julius Zeckhauser, Toledo, Ohio; Albert Bloom, Ann Arbor; Lillian Moss, Ironton; Sayde Harris, Cleveland, Ohio; Samuel Shulkin, Akron, Ohio. A number of the holiday guests have remained at the camp for the coming week.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Mr. and Mrs. Reno Hamilton returned Monday from a three weeks' boat trip to New York City. Accompanied by H. A. Patterson, they took the yacht "Dacia," owned by Paul Johnson, to its owner in New York. The route followed was through Georgian Bay and the Erie canal. Thirty-eight locks were passed before reaching the Erie canal, and 18 more from there on. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton report a very enjoyable trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas LaLonde of Detroit, entertained with a delightful week-end house party at their Pine Point cottage over the Fourth of July holidays. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stefanowski and children. Mr. and Mrs. Casimir Plagens and children and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Neron, all of Detroit. Messrs. LaLonde, Stefanowski, Plagens and Neron have returned to Detroit, while others of the party are remaining at the cottage.

OPEN FOR SUMMER AT INTERLOCHEN SCHOOL

Summer Music Camp Has Enrollment of Nearly 300 Students

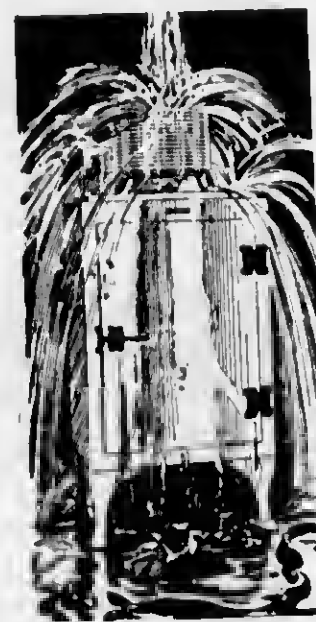

The National high school orchestra camp began its operations Monday with the first rehearsals and school sessions for the talented young musicians from 36 states.

A total of 290 students had enrolled in the school of music. Both orchestra and band practices were held last Tuesday, the opening day for the camp, which is now in its third season. Joseph E. Maddy is in charge of the orchestra and A. A. Harding, of the University of Illinois, in charge of the band.

DETROIT PAIR WON BEST BALL TOURNAMENT TUESDAY P. M.

Walter Hagen, Defending Champ, Heads Brilliant Field Competing in Medal Rounds Today

Clarence Gamber, the long range Detroit pro, and Wilfred Reid, his fellow townsman of International golfing fame, walked off with the four ball best ball tournament staged at the Charlevoix course Tuesday afternoon. They were rewarded for their efforts with the first prize of one hundred fifty dollars.

In second place were Emmet French, professional at Southern Pines, N. C., and James D. Standish, Jr., Detroit, who is president of the Michigan State Golf League, and an amateur.

The Gamber-Reid combination shot a 66, five better than perfect figures to win. They clipped one off par in the first nine, with a 34, and on the home stretch scored a 31, four better than par figures. To win second money, French and Standish brought in a best ball card of 67, just one stroke behind the leaders.

Eddie Kirk and Doug Orr, another pair of Detroit pros, finished in third place with a score of 68, just one stroke better than the card brought in by the Detroit combination of B. Pautke and J. Baupre, who were two under perfect figures with a card of 69.

All Entries Are on Hand

With the exception of Walter Hagen and several Chicago pros who played in the Sunset Valley tournament at Chicago Monday and Tuesday, all entries were on hand Tuesday for the second annual Great Lakes open championship which got under way at the Belvedere club course Wednesday morning.

Hagen, defending champion, and the others, arrived early Wednesday morning. Tommy Armour and Al Watrous of Detroit, western open champion, and Michigan open champion, respectively, were among the late arrivals.

Among those entered are four former national champions, Hagen, American and British open; Jack Hutchinson, British open; Tommy Armour, American open and George Von Elm, who once defeated Bobby Jones for the U. S. amateur crown. Alec Ross, Detroit, who won the U. S. open at Philadelphia Cricket club 23 years ago, is also here, but announced that he did not intend to compete.

Other Stars to Compete

Among the others in the field are the long-hitting Clarence Gamber, who, with Cyril Walker, won the international four-ball championship at Miami last winter; Densmore Shute, winner of the Los Angeles open; Johnny Dawson, well-known Chicago amateur; William Trovinger, Detroit, former Canadian open champion, and Wilfred Reid, Detroit, famous international player.

All matches are being played on the Belvedere course instead of using both the Belvedere and Charlevoix courses as was done last year.

The winner will receive $750, and $2,000 will be divided among nine others. Previous plans were to have but five prizes, but tournament officials today made a change in the division to cover the first 10 best scores. In addition, there will be a $50 prize for low medalist each round and a gold medal to the low scorer.

Pairings for Wednesday:
Douglas Orr, Blake Miller, Mike Tansey.
Charles Dansbury, Eddie Kirk, Curley Shinnman.
Bod Richards, George Tuttle, Bay Green.

Principals for the American Legion boxing show scheduled for Thursday night at the school gymnasium arrived here today. They will work out at the gym tomorrow to put on finishing touches for the go.

Owing to an injury, Wilbur Chevalier of Bay City, who was matched for a ten-round bout with Jimmy Russo, Pontiac hatter, was forced to cancel his engagement. However, match-makers Powers and Stout have secured a worthy opponent for Russo. Substituting for Chevalier will be Jimmy Harvey of Lansing, former Michigan fly-weight champion.

Harvey is well known to local boxing fans. He will be remembered as the lad who put on the sensational battle here two years ago with Frankie Young of Detroit, in the first open air show staged by the Legion. Since that time he has made a mighty good record. Just last week he won the decision from Pee Wee Wilson, Michigan bantam weight champion, in the semi-finals of a Detroit show. Word filters through that Russo has been dodging Harvey for some time and that when these two boys get into the ring there is going to be plenty of action.

In the other half of the double ten-round wind-up, Sailor Deshone of Saginaw, and Martin Houck of Detroit, will furnish the entertainment. Deshone is the best known of the two to northern Michigan fans. He has appeared in practically every program put on by the Legion, and has always given the crowd their money's worth. He is an aggressive type of fighter, the kind that always makes a hit. Houck, his opponent, is rated as one of the best in his class in Michigan. They will fight at 138 pounds.

The three four-round preliminaries will bring together six local boys. Cecil Yettaw meets Young Winnick at 138 pounds; Ted Gravelin and Kid Nelsen tangle four rounds at 138 pounds; and Marvin Dixon and Ted Browe, who performed on the charity program last winter to the satisfaction of all concerned, go in at 100 pounds. There will be plenty of action in all the above bouts.

George McMullin of Midland, has been appointed referee of Thursday night's show. Leo Powers and B. B. Stout handling the Legion's end of the bill.

Next show will be August 29th.

DANCING CLASSES OPEN AT BELVEDERE

Many Local Children and Those of Resort Colonies Are Enrolled

Miss Calla Travis of Grand Rapids, who each year conducts social activities and dance instruction at the Belvedere casino, opened her classes on Monday of last week.

A large group of children, both local and from the summer colonies, have enrolled for the season. Starting this week, the children are being divided into groups according to age.

The classes are open to all children who wish to join. Miss Jane Sliter of Grand Rapids, who last season was instructor of dancing at Kamp Kairphree, will assist Miss Travis.

On Saturday, the two survivors of Thursday and Friday rounds will battle 36 holes for the title.

James D. Standish, Jr., of Detroit, president of the Michigan Golf League, will have charge of the tournament. He arrived in Charlevoix Monday afternoon of this week to look over the course where the amateur battle will be fought, and incidentally take in the Great Lakes open.

Following one round at the Belvedere club course, Mr. Standish expressed his complete satisfaction of the layout where the tournament will be held.

From a standpoint of state interest, the amateur event will be the banner event of the year. A large field of amateurs is expected, and many will bring their families with them for the week.

YOUNG MEN'S CAMP OPENS ON SATURDAY

Between 50 and 60 Expected at Tyrell's Vacation Camp This Week

Saturday, July 19th, the Grand Rapids League of Young Men's Societies, an organization of the Christian Reformed church, open a two weeks' camp at Tyrell's Vacation camp on Grand Traverse Bay. The camp will remain in session until August 2nd, and it is expected between 50 and 60 will be in attendance.

Professor H. Dekker of Calvin college, Grand Rapids, will be the camp executive again, and Curley Botema returns as camp cook. Camp fires will be held on Tuesday, and Thursday evenings, at which the men of the region are invited.

COMPLETED WORK LAST THURSDAY

NEW U. S. 31 CONCRETE TO BE OPENED JULY 18TH

Cement Ribbon Now Runs from Charlevoix to Chicago—Region Protests Against Other Delays

The last concrete which connects the cement south of Charlevoix to the state-built macadam south of Attwood, was poured on Thursday of last week.

With the completion of this link, U. S. 31 presents a solid ribbon of concrete and excellent macadam from Charlevoix to Chicago with the exception of a short strip below Beulah.

The new road, built by Robert Sloan, Jr., of this city, is 3.9 miles in length. Work was started on September 11, 1929, and of the total, 2.32 miles were built this summer. The road will be open for traffic next Thursday, July 18th, thus eliminating detours which have proven an obstacle for the past year. The work of shouldering and other finishing touches will continue for several weeks.

While the completion of this job removes the necessity of one detour, another obstacle has reared up between Benzonia and Honor, occasioning sharp protests from every town in the northern Michigan resort region served by U. S. 31. Word that the viaduct across the Ann Arbor railroad must stand a year before further filling is made and concrete completed has aroused considerable indignation.

The Charlevoix association of commerce has sent the following protest, along with other communities, to the state highway department:

"We, the Charlevoix association of commerce, having received information to the effect that the viaduct across the Ann Arbor railroad, between Benzonia and Honor on U. S. trunk line highway No. 31, is now completed, and

"Whereas, there will need to be a fill at the said viaduct of twenty feet or more, which must stand one year before the pavement can be placed, and

"Whereas, this said viaduct is a link in the pavement of one of the most important north and south arteries of travel in the lower peninsula of Michigan and the most important to the welfare and prosperity of the resort communities of the Grand Traverse region, who depend mainly upon the tourist trade for their very existence, and

"Whereas, any greater delay than that of one year in the completion of this said paving would work a very great hardship upon the aforesaid communities in the diversion of the tourist traffic from U. S. highway No. 31 to other routes.

"Now, therefore, we respectfully petition your honorable body and strongly urge that you proceed to the making of this said fill within the current year."

ANNUAL ELKS' PICNIC DATE IS AUGUST 17TH

The annual Elks' picnic has been arranged for and will be held as usual at Whiting park, Boyne City, on Sunday, August 17. Arrangements are now going forward for this event, with committee to be named to handle the affair. The annual Elks' fair dates have been fixed for August 21, 22 and 23, and will be at the Elks temple, Petoskey.

HARBOR SPRINGS TO HAVE BIG WATER FETE

Are Now Making Plans for Their Fourth Annual Regatta

Plans for the fourth Harbor Springs water carnival to be held on Saturday and Sunday, August 16 and 17, are well under way and this year's affair, according to indications, is slated to be the biggest water event Harbor Springs has ever staged. The water carnival since its inception three years ago has been a highly successful annual affair and has attracted entries from all parts of the middle west.

With the return to popularity during the past few years of water sports, there has been a lively and widespread interest in this yearly event which draws thousands of people to Harbor Springs and makes the carnival well worth the time and effort expended upon it. Each year more and faster speed craft make their appearance on the harbor and resulting in better races and increased interest in the carnival program.

Records made are official and accepted by the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association. This feature adds interest to the races and attracts some of the fastest boats on the Great Lakes.—Emmet County Graphic.

The dates of Saturday and Sunday, August 16 and 17, were definitely set for the regatta. This brings the event a week in advance of the annual regatta at Harbor Springs. The Charlevoix Boat Club's affiliation with the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association and the National Outboard association, brings the regatta under the official sanction of these two organizations, lending much to its prestige. A sanctioned event means the entry of drivers from all sections of the country, who will seek to establish new records on the measured course in Lake Charlevoix. Incidentally, Charlevoix's regatta site has been acclaimed one of the most ideal for racing on the Great Lakes and is recognized as such among the many drivers who have taken part in the local event for several years.

The program arranged Wednesday evening is a distinct departure from that staged in previous years and promises to make the 1930 regatta the most outstanding in history.

Opening Saturday afternoon, August 16th, the first events on the two-day program will be a series of runabout races. Class divisions are 75 to 125 h. p., 150 h. p., and 170 to 225 h. p. The races will be run in heats. This radical change in the program was made in order to have the runabout races out of the way on Saturday to leave the coast clear for Sunday's events. Also, runabouts and outboards do not mix well on the same program. With the heavier boats on the course, the danger of swells while they are running has always been a menace to the lighter craft and the cause of many spills.

Sunday's events should bring the largest field of outboard drivers ever assembled in a Charlevoix regatta. The program will be divided in three divisions—one, two and three—classifying drivers as amateur, boat-builders and professional. Under each division there will be four classes of boats—B, C, D and E, allowing entry of the smallest to the largest and latest types of motors. Under this arrangement there will be at least 12 races for outboards and if run in heats, many more.

Two other important races are scheduled for the Sunday program. A free-for-all runabout event will draw the fastest craft in northern Michigan and interest in this race promises to be very keen. A new innovation will be a special race for runabout type outboards carrying two passengers in addition to the driver.

Prizes to winners of races in the various classes will approximate $1,000 in cash and trophies, and this fact alone will make the Charlevoix regatta one of the outstanding in Michigan for 1930. With generous cash prizes posted for outboard winners, a large field of the fastest craft of this type can be expected to compete.

Members of the Club worked out an excellent scheme for handling the races of the Sunday program at their meeting Wednesday evening. Anchored nearby the judge's boat they will have a large scow where outboard entrants may tie up, change motors, etc. In previous years it has been necessary to use a dock near shore for this purpose, and there was subsequently a long delay between each race while the entrants were coming back and forth. Because of the difficulty of communicating with the drivers, they were not on hand promptly to start. With the plan

AUGUST 8-10 ARE DATES FOR REGATTA

TIME SET AT ANNUAL MEETING LAST WEDNESDAY

Officers Elected and Program Outlined—Event Promises to Be the Best Ever Held

Preliminary steps in preparation for Charlevoix's 5th annual regatta were taken at the annual meeting of the Charlevoix Boat club, held Wednesday evening of last week at the Gilbert brokerage office on Bridge street.

Julius Gilbert of Detroit, well known Charlevoix summer resort, was honored with the office of commodore of the Club at the annual election. Other officers chosen were: vice-commodore, John Knight, Kalamazoo; treasurer, Robert Bridge, Charlevoix; secretary, Vane Smith, Charlevoix; first rear commodore, Charles Fox, Jr., St. Louis, Mo.; second rear commodore, George A. Shwab, Jr., Nashville, Tenn.

The dates of Saturday and Sunday, August 16 and 17, were definitely set for the regatta. This brings the event a week in advance of the annual regatta at Harbor Springs. The Charlevoix Boat Club's affiliation with the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association and the National Outboard association, brings the regatta under the official sanction of these two organizations, lending much to its prestige. A sanctioned event means the entry of drivers from all sections of the country, who will seek to establish new records on the measured course in Lake Charlevoix. Incidentally, Charlevoix's regatta site has been acclaimed one of the most ideal for racing on the Great Lakes and is recognized as such among the many drivers who have taken part in the local event for several years.

CAMP CHARLEVOIX ANNUAL CARNIVAL

EVENT TO BE STAGED ON SATURDAY OF THIS WEEK

Big Parade Friday—Displays of Horsemanship, Side Shows, Etc., Are Attractions Offered

The first big event along the line of special features at Camp Charlevoix, character camp for boys located on Oyster Bay, Lake Charlevoix, will be the 4th annual carnival, scheduled at the Lumberlost on Saturday, July 19th, at 2:30 p. m.

Walter North, head of the arts department, is in charge of preparations. The cabins, each accommodating seven boys and their counselors, will combine in groups of two's and three's to put on the side shows, among which will be the "House of Fun," "Hit the Nigger Baby," "Freaks" and others.

"The program this year will be somewhat of a departure from former seasons and will be very similar to that of 1929. In other years the events have largely depicted camp activities and have been more of a serious endeavor as far as preparation was concerned. Saturday's events however, are for entertainment of the boys and guests, with a view of getting as much fun out of the affair as possible.

The carnival starts at 2:30 o'clock. A special program will be given in the big club house and an exhibition of horsemanship will be held on the beach.

As in preceding years, Kamp Kairphree, a girl's camp down the lake, will be guests and will present some form of entertainment.

The usual big parade will take place in Charlevoix on Friday, the day preceding the carnival.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public. As this feature at Camp Charlevoix has repeatedly attracted hundreds from miles around and always proven high successful, a very enjoyable time is assured everyone. General admission is free.

INDIANS TRIM CENTRAL LAKE CANNERS

Took Long End of 9 to 6 Score at Local Park Last Sunday

In the best played game of the present season, Charlevoix's Indian baseball team defeated the Central Lake Cannery 9 to 6 at the North Side park Sunday afternoon.

With the exception of the second inning, when Central Lake scored four runs, Amos John held the visitors to very few well scattered hits. The Cannery, aided by a home run by Wilson and faulty fielding by the locals, marked up four counters in the second frame. Their best efforts from then on brought in a score in the seventh and another in the ninth, while the local lads were piling up nine runs.

Charlevoix plays a return game at Central Lake next Sunday afternoon and will play at home again the evening of July 23rd against the California Owls.

Relief in Sight

CORRESPONDENCE

BAY SHORE

Miss Dorothy Zipp spent a day in Petoskey last week.

Eight car loads of gypsies passed through Bay Shore Monday morning. Misses Opal and Ruby Gregory of Burgess, spent the week-end visiting friends here.

Resorters are coming our way fast at present. The Shin Tangle has all the rooms full.

The electric and wind storm Saturday evening did quite a lot of damage to crops.

The airport at Petoskey called a large number from here Sunday. There were 28 planes on the field.

Mrs. Jack McCalmon spent the Fourth at Big Rapids visiting her husband, who is attending summer school.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Gimble, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Shindler of Charlevoix, were callers at the McCalmon home Sunday evening.

BARNARD

Several of our citizens attended the Kelly stock show Monday night.

N. H. Smith of Detroit, is visiting his brother, John Smith, for a few days.

Only a few attended school meeting and the usual business was transacted.

Mrs. Karson of Chicago, visited her sister, Mrs. Clyde Demick, a few days last week.

Dorothy Smith returned Sunday after a three-weeks' visit with relatives in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. DeNise, and Mrs. Robert Biscow of Northport, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gregory on Sunday.

A bunch of 32 Grangers attended Pomona Grange on Saturday night at Maple Grove. They report a fine supper and an excellent program.

CENTRAL LAKE

Albert Snitsler had a horse gored and killed by a cow Friday.

Neumans of Flint have been visiting at the Ona Vanderberg home.

Stanley Robertson and family are up from Flint and visiting with his parents north of Eastport.

Derezy school, six miles southeast of here, voted Monday night to transport to Bellaire, by a vote of 12 to 14.

James Ikon, supervisor of Torch Lake township, was elected moderator at the Eastport school meeting Monday.

Mrs. Beer, a former visitor here, is visiting friends near here and in Central Lake. Her home is now in Portland, Oregon.

Art Knowles was elected president of the school board to succeed himself, Monday night, and Mrs. Ona Vanderberg, as trustee.

Lambert DeVries, wife and son, Laurence, of Zealand, arrived here Friday, and will resort on their farm for the summer. They will help with the Sunday school which will be organized at Bay View, north of town, next Sunday.

Harold Lamb of Detroit, has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Olive Hamilton, and grandfather, Elkanah Mudree, here the past few weeks. Mr. Mudree and daughter, Olive, reside here in the summer, but in the winter live in Detroit.

A daily vacation Bible school is being conducted at the Swedish church at Mancelona by Mrs. Lynn Mathewson and others. Mrs. Mathewson is leader of the children's division. Diplomas will be granted after three years' work have been completed.

Theodore Boals, brother of Evelyn Boals, who was run down by a car last winter, went in bathing before he had recovered entirely from the flu, and was taken seriously ill. His limbs and head were drawn back; something like spinal meningitis.

Dr. Dan Haddock has returned to Detroit after a short visit with his wife here, who works in the telephone office. He says times are hard in Detroit, and he may return soon. It is reported that Henry Ford has discharged 47,000 workers in his automobile plant.

Duncan Crawford held a sale of farm and household articles last Tuesday. William Byers of Charlevoix was auctioneer. Mr. Crawford and family will leave soon for Oregon where they will reside in the future.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c at any Central Drug Store, the Rexall store.

NILES LADY IS GRATEFUL TO KONJOLA!

Years of Suffering from Complication of Ailments Quickly Ended By New Medicine

MRS. ALBERT COFFINGER

"For a long time I suffered from the disordered condition of my stomach," said Mrs. Albert Coffinger, 619 North Second street, Niles, Michigan. "My food refused to digest, but lay like a rock in my stomach. I was always constipated, and strong laxatives gave me only temporary relief. My kidneys and bladder caused lots of trouble. My back constantly pained me, and I had to get up four or five times every night due to bladder actions."

"Konjola proved to be just the medicine I needed. In a remarkably short time, my stomach was restored to a normal, healthy condition, and my food digests, and all the distress that used to follow my meals is gone. My bowels are regular and my kidneys and bladder are in first-class condition, and the back pains are gone. I never have to get up nights, sleep well, and benefit from the rest I get."

Quickly Konjola goes to the source of the ailments and, if taken with regularity for six or eight weeks, it brings new, glorious and abundant health.

Konjola is sold in Charlevoix, Michigan, at F. J. Fessenden's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Quite a few people from here have moved to the coast.

Mrs. Philip Ohman of Creswell, met with quite a serious accident last week when she went out to disentangle a calf from some barbed wire. The calf became frightened and ran around her, winding the wire round her limbs above the knee, cutting bad gashes. Dr. Hastings at Elk Rapids, had to take several stitches in the cuts. She was unable to walk for several days.

ANGLERS COOPERATING WITH DEPARTMENT

Large Return of Census Cards Indicates Interest of Sportsmen

Increased interest in angling and in the work of the division of fisheries of the department of conservation in its fish planting program is indicated through the return of large numbers of creel census cards.

To July 1, 3,642 of these cards had been returned to the division offices at Lansing, and it is expected that the number returned for the 1930 season will be far in excess of the number received last year.

Creel census cards are returned by anglers, Isaac Walton League officers and by conservation officers who obtain the information from fishermen along the lakes and streams.

The cards list the number of fish caught, the number of hours fished, species, length, the number thrown back because of their small size, the place fished, and other information of a like nature. Those returning cards are also privileged to make any remarks concerning fishing conditions, etc., that they may care to make.

Information obtained from the cards is considered in making up the annual fish planting program and in drawing up designations for lakes and streams.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp.

Soils Laboratory Truck Will Visit County

There is no longer any need to guess as to lime or fertilizer requirements. A simple, reliable test can now be used to tell accurately the amount of lime required for the soil and the amount and kind of fertilizer to apply.

Visit the soils doctor who will be in Charlevoix county with the soils laboratory truck from the Michigan State college on Monday, July 21st. The following two stops will be made:

Monday forenoon, July 21st, at 10 o'clock fast time, at Chandler Hill school house.

Monday afternoon, July 21st, at 2:30 o'clock fast time, next to Herman Meyers' store in Boyne Falls.

The truck will be at each place for two hours. The program will be on the informal order with no set speeches. Each farmer is urged to bring in several samples of soil or marl to be tested for lime and fertilizer requirements. An individual prescription will then be written showing just what and how much lime or fertilizer is required for the various crops to be grown.

In addition to the soil testing, there will be several exhibits showing the results obtained from the use of lime or fertilizer or both. Charts and posters will be used as illustrative material.

Your soil samples should be dry, and should be taken from various parts of the field, and from the different kinds of soil. Both surface and sub-soil samples should be taken. Keep samples separate, and be sure to label each sample.

Space does not permit any additional particulars, but in any case, plan to visit the soils doctor on July 21st.

MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE

WEEKLY BULLETIN

State Leaders Name 4-H Club Champions

Michigan boys and girls who have been awarded championships in 4-H club work were announced by state club leaders during the visit of 640 of the boys and girls to Michigan State college for the annual club week held for southern Michigan members.

Sectional champions chosen to compete at the state fair against winners from the Gaylord and Chatham club camps to be held in August are Anna Strong, Hillsdale; and Frances Hayes, Wixom, health champions; and Alma Wall, Oakland county; Verna Dalke, Bay; Margaret Brown, Washtenaw; and Marjorie Rogers, Hillsdale, clothing style champions.

State champions chosen for the work done in the seven divisions of handicraft club work are Moody A. Larsen, Prescott; Harry Wortz, Coldwater; Harry A. Ferris, Cathro; Leslie C. Jones, Cathro; Albert Lott, Prescott; Hilbert Benson, Beechwood; Gordon Snyder, McMillan; and Lyle Tobin, Nahma.

The clothing club champions are June Esseltine, Pinconning; Mina Hohn, Coopersville; Sylvia Hertler, Saline; Lawain Churchill, New Era; and Frances Fry, North Adams.

The handicraft and clothing club champions are awarded a scholarship at Michigan State college by the state board of agriculture.

Plan Many Contests During Farmers Day

All arrangements have been made by Michigan State college for a group of contests to try the skill of the thousands of guests who will visit the campus for Summer Farmers day, Friday, August 1st.

Farmers or members of their families who have excellent judgment in estimating the production records of cows or poultry or who can compute the weights of beef cattle, horses, hogs, or sheep, will have an opportunity to win prizes of pure bred livestock in the contests which will be conducted from 8:00 a. m. until 11:00.

In the production contests, visitors will estimate the amount of milk which a group of cows, to be exhibited, produce in one year. The winner of the contest will receive a purebred bull calf. A prize of purebred poultry is offered for winning the production judging contest of hens.

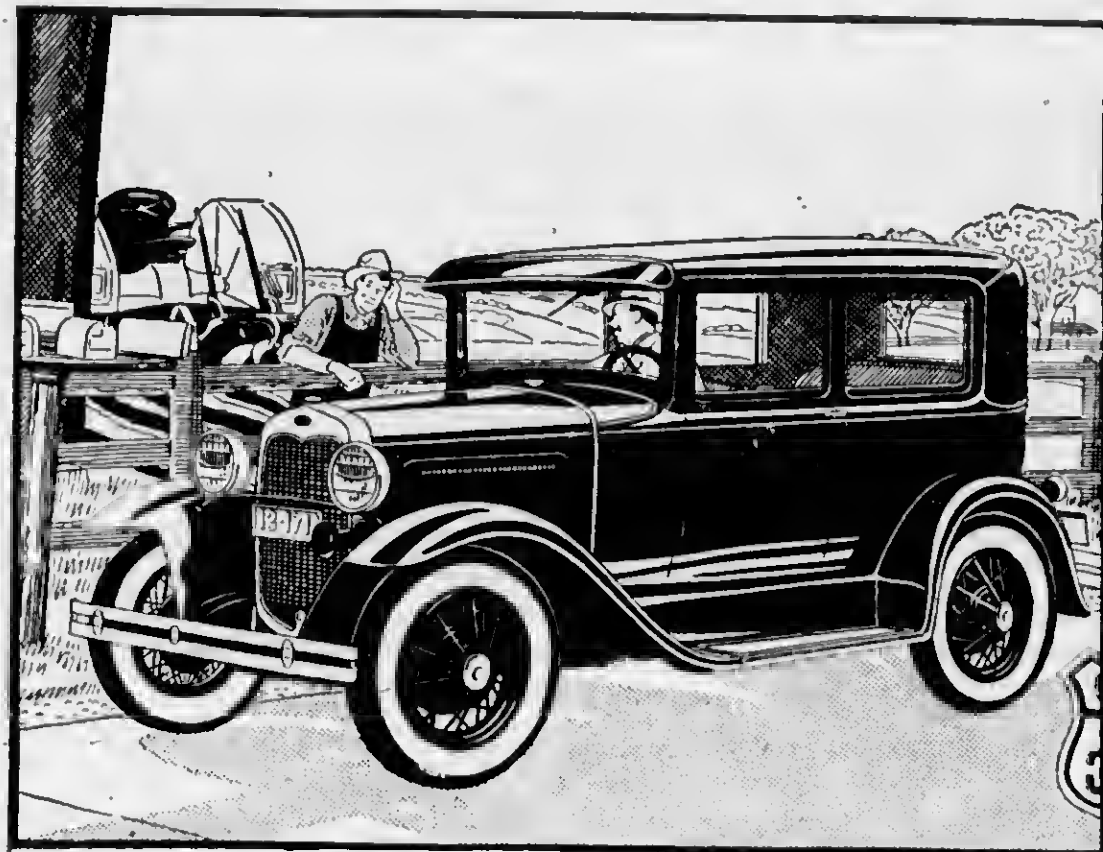

A purebred colt will be given to the winner of the weight judging contest on horses. The best estimators of the weights of groups of beef cattle, hogs, and sheep will get purebred animals as awards.

Visitors who doubt their ability to judge livestock will be given a chance to show their skill in identifying grain for a prize of enough Spartan seed barley to sow 10 acres.

Only farmers or members of their families are eligible to enter the contests.

RELIABILITY ECONOMY Good PERFORMANCE

THE NEW FORD TUDOR SEDAN

YOU are buying proved performance when you buy a Ford. You know it has been built for many thousands of miles of satisfactory, economical service.

Letters from users in every part of the world show the value of the sound design of the car, good materials and accuracy in manufacturing. You sense a feeling of sincere pride in the oft-repeated phrase—"Let me tell you what my new Ford did."

Further tribute to the sturdiness, reliability and general all-round performance of the new Ford is shown in the repeated and growing purchases by government bureaus, by police departments, and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most cases, the new Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests covering speed and power, safety, comfort, ease of control, oil and gas consumption, low yearly depreciation, and low cost of up-keep.

They have found, as you will find, that the Ford embodies every feature you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

This little rack has a mighty interesting story to tell you

You may see for yourself that New Iso-Vis does not thin out. Ask to see the Ball and Bottle Test at any Standard Oil Service Station.

THAT New Iso-Vis Motor Oil will not thin out in your crankcase is almost unbelievable. Yet it is a fact.

In each of four small bottles of oil is a tiny metal ball. The speed with which these balls drop to the bottom of the bottles shows you the heaviness of the oils. If the oil is thinned out, the ball falls more quickly.

This test enables you to compare "used" New Iso-Vis with fresh New Iso-Vis—also "used" New Iso-Vis with other kinds of used oil. New Iso-Vis is the only motor oil that will not thin out.

The carbon deposit from New Iso-Vis has been shown by tests to be 50% less than the average deposit of various better grade oils.

Also this new oil lubricates at high temperatures, yet flows in icicle weather.

Never before has one oil rated so high on so many important points... points that are vital to the long life of your engine. You will find New Iso-Vis at all Standard Oil dealers or service stations.

Napoleon's First Wife

Josephine, the first wife of Napoleon Bonaparte, was born in the island of Martinique, a French possession in the West Indies. Her first husband was Viscount Beauharnais, by whom she had two children, Eugene, who became viceroy of Italy, and Hortense, wife of Napoleon's brother and mother of Louis Napoleon or Napoleon III. Napoleon divorced Josephine in 1809 in order that he might marry Maria Louisa, daughter of the emperor of Austria. Josephine died in 1814.

Tested and Labeled

"How old are you?" inquired the visitor of his host's little son. "That is a difficult question," answered the young man, removing his spectacles and wiping them reflectively. "The latest personal survey available shows my psychological age to be twelve, my moral age four, my anatomical age seven, and my physiological age six. I suppose, however, that you refer to my chronological age, which is eight. That is so old-fashioned that I seldom think of it any more."—Success Magazine.

CHARLEVOIX WELCOMED NEW YACHT

Citizens and Band Out to Greet Thomson Party Tuesday Noon

Charlevoix assumed the welcoming role Tuesday noon, hailing to its home port the palatial new yacht "Sylvia," recently completed at Bath, Maine, for Logan Thomson of Cincinnati, well known Charlevoix summer resort.

Long before it was time for the boat to arrive, a large crowd was on hand for the welcoming. Quite a fleet of smaller craft including the coast guard launch, waited outside the harbor in Lake Michigan and later formed an escort into the harbor.

The Charlevoix city band, recruited when word was received that the yacht was coming, were at the bridge. They played many stirring selections, and later gave additional numbers at the wharf in Round lake. Saluting guns and whistles were mingled with the cheers of those on hand for the reception. It was a welcome hefting a king and, according to Mr. Thomson, was unexpected and greatly appreciated by himself and party.

The "Sylvia" left Bath, Me., on Wednesday, July 2nd, for her home journey. The route followed was up the Atlantic coast and through the St. Lawrence river to the Great Lakes. Mr. and Mrs. Thomson had as guests on the trip Mr. and Mrs. Collier Akin of Toledo, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Traer of Minneapolis, Minn.; and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Foster of Louisville, Ky.

LAWRENCE PREVOST DIED LAST MONDAY

Victim of Heart Attack at Waller farm—Burial Thursday

Funeral services were held last Thursday for the late John H. Bugbee residence on State street for Lawrence Prevost, who died last Monday at the Waller farm from heart attack. Rev. W. H. Rauch of the Baptist church officiated, and interment was at East Jordan cemetery.

Deceased was born July 15, 1894, at East Jordan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prevost. He had been a resident of Charlevoix for three years, being employed until just recently at the Boulder farm.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Miss Ellen Vennema; a daughter, age 17 days; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prevost, Lansing; two brothers, Milburn of East Jordan and Will of Lansing; two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Hyatt of Grant, and Mrs. Carl McKinney of East Jordan.

NIGHT BASEBALL HERE JULY 23RD

Indians to Meet The California Owls at North Side Park

Charlevoix baseball fans will have an opportunity to witness their first night baseball game here on Wednesday evening, July 23rd.

Charlevoix Indians have scheduled a game with The California Owls, a team which is now on a tour of the country. They play in Traverse City the evening of the 22nd and come on to Charlevoix for the following night.

The visiting team bring with them the illuminating equipment of many thousand candle power, which lights the field as brightly as it would be in the day time. The playing field will be enclosed by a huge canvas fence.

Night baseball is one of the world's greatest innovations and is now being watched by thousands throughout the country. Undoubtedly a large crowd will take advantage of the opportunity to see the coming night game at Charlevoix.

After this date I will not be responsible for any debt contracted by anyone other than myself. Mrs. Pheobe Schaffer.—Adv. 2941.

CAMP MANITOU GUEST DAY ON THURSDAY

Visitors Will Have Opportunity to Enjoy Camp Activities

Camp Manitou, the adult camp at Ironton, inaugurates the first of its series of guest days Thursday, July 17, by inviting a number of friends to spend the day at camp.

This will include participation in athletic events, tennis, horseback riding and swimming, eating meals at camp, and remaining for the social program in the evening. Sidney Raika, swimming director and intercollegiate champion, will give an exhibition of fancy diving. Manitou's dance band will provide music for dancing. An original sketch will be presented.

It is hoped that these days may be continued throughout the season, so that the friends of Camp Manitou may have a taste of actual camp life.

TOURISTS COME FROM NEARLY EVERY STATE

Check-up of License Plates Show Popularity of This Region

An observant Charlevoix citizen, while passing down Bridge street Monday forenoon, reports seeing automobile licenses on cars parked along the street representing the states of Florida, Tennessee, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Indiana, North Carolina, Ohio, Georgia, Texas and Wisconsin, and another from Cuba.

A check-up of guest registers in Charlevoix's summer hostels will give the same result. Practically every state in the union is represented among the thousands who visit this northern Michigan region during the summer months.

SUPPLEMENT COVERS PRESS CONVENTION

Describes Blaney Park, Resort Reclamation in Upper Peninsula

In this week's issue, the Courier is carrying a supplement on the Michigan Press Association convention held at Blaney Park, Schoolcraft county, in the upper peninsula.

The supplement describes in detail this wonderful resort development, which within the past few years sprang out of the cut-over lands of northern Michigan.

Editor A. J. Usher and wife of the Courier, were in attendance at the convention, which was held the last week-end in June.

MORE STATE POLICE IN NORTH MICHIGAN

Northern Michigan's state police force has been increased to seven men for the summer season by addition of two more men, Corp. R. Shields and Trooper Carl Seim. Sgt. George Aldrich has now working under him the corporal and Troopers Seim, Robert McGuire, Harry Kozowitz, Howard Barton and Black. Corporal Shields was formerly a safety educational officer, but he has been detached from that work to duty here. These men have a territory of 14 northern counties to police.—Petoskey Evening News.

TWO NEW MEMBERS ON SCHOOL BOARD

Mrs. E. J. Miller, William Hicken Elected Monday Night

Eighty-three taxpayers of Charlevoix school district No. 1, city and township, were present at the annual meeting held at the high school assembly Monday evening.

Two new board members were elected. Mrs. E. J. Miller succeeds

Allen Campbell for a period of two years. The other retiring member is Harry A. Craig, who will be succeeded for a three-year period by William Hicken. Ernest L. Dawson was re-elected for a similar term. Other members of the board are Mrs. B. Saltonstall and Clarence N. Wood.

After considerable discussion, it was voted to hold nine and a half months of school starting with the 1930 term. In previous years, the term has been nine months.

Star Is "Cook" in Musical Play
Nancy Carroll, in her various activities before the camera and microphone, has been a show-girl, a lady's maid, a member of a ladies' orchestra and a sales clerk—but now she is a "kitchen mechanic."

In "Honey," which comes to the Palace theatre for two days beginning on Wednesday next, Miss Carroll plays the role of Olivia Dangerfield, a southern girl who is forced by circumstances to rent her family's plantation mansion to a wealthy woman from the east. Due to unforeseen events Nancy is forced to assume an Irish brogue and fulfill the duties of cook in the kitchen of the mansion. She finally saves the home-stand from financial disaster after a series of amusing and romantic episodes.

"Honey" is based on "Come Out of the Kitchen," famous Broadway stage success of several years ago. The play was written by A. E. Thomas from the original novel by Alice Duer Miller. The music was written by Harling and Coslow.

Songs Old and New Will Be Heard in "No, No, Nanette"

The screen production of "No, No, Nanette," which opens at the Palace theatre next Saturday and Sunday, July 19 and 20, will contain song hits from the original stage show as well as many new numbers which have already attained great popularity since the recent release of this colorful First National picture.

"Tea for Two" and "I Want to Be Happy" from the footlight production will be heard in the Vitaphone edition, sung by a chorus of 150 and the two featured leads, Bernice Claire and Alexander Gray. These two songs were among the country's best sellers when "No, No, Nanette" was having its sensational success on Broadway.

"No, No, Nanette" is one of the most lavish pictures ever produced at the First National Studios. Four of the big sequences—the Holland, Japan, New York, and Mars episodes—each cost more than the entire original stage production.

The cast of noted players includes Lucien Littlefield, Louise Fazenda, Lilyan Tashman, Bert Roach, Zasu Pitts, Mildred Harris, Henry Stockbridge and Jocelyn Lee. Clarence Badger directed and Larry Ceballos was in charge of the dances.

"The Locked Door"

The unlimited opportunities now awaiting unknown aspirants to screen fame with the advent of the talking picture are apparent in "The Locked Door," George Fitzmaurice's United Artists production which comes to the Palace theatre on Monday and Tuesday, July 21 and 22. As it was filmed with dialogue from start to finish, Director Fitzmaurice insisted that every member of the cast have a voice with good tonal qualities and a full emotional range.

In combining the lists of screen notables suitable for parts in the production it was soon apparent that the search would have to be carried on outside the field of the motion picture. Some of the parts could have been cast perfectly as to type and appearance but the players had no voices. Other film players with ideal recording voices were unsuited to any role in the picture.

"The Locked Door" with its story about a brave young wife who finds her happiness menaced by a society wolf masquerading in sheep's clothing, has been declared by critics to be ideal material for talking pictures.

Unusual Prizes Offered in Contest on Plymouth Cars

One thousand and eleven prizes will be given in a nation-wide contest to learn the public's opinion of the Plymouth car!

This car is Chrysler Motors' leader in the low-priced field.

A short essay contest on "Why I'd Buy a Plymouth" was announced today by the Plymouth Motor Corporation, a division of Chrysler Motors.

Everyone over legal driving age of his or her state will be eligible to participate. First award will be a thousand dollars a year for life. A trip around the world with all expenses paid, will go to the next five winners. Twenty-five Plymouth Motor cars, and cash prizes of from a thousand dollars down, will complete the list of over a thousand prizes.

Full details of this contest will be announced over the air, on what is believed to be the greatest net work ever used.

Hudson in Another European Victory

The Hudson Motor Car company has received cable notification to the effect that three Hudson's great eight cars finished equal firsts in the important annual International eight-day reliability trial sponsored by the Polish Automobile club. This victory over the largest field ever entered in the classic, gave Hudson the City of Warsaw trophy, the silver cup, the bronze cup, the automobile club cup and a cup offered by the Vacuum Oil company in addition to three gold badges.

Each of the three Hudsons entered completed the grind without a single penalty, making 17 days in all in open European competition this year that Hudson cars have won without a single penalty. This according to the judges, denotes the highest possible degree of automotive perfection.

The International trial in Poland ranks with the Tour de France, famous road classic, in importance, annually attracting entries from American and European manufacturers. The Tour de France was also won by a Hudson when the car completed the nine day series of tests without a penalization and won the Ansaldo trophy, the Spido trophy, the Dunlop trophy and the gold award.

Hudson's Great Eight was the largest selling eight cylinder car in this country, according to official registrations, during the first six months of this year. Benjamin Brown is the local agent.

Buckwheat Has Feeding Value for Dairy Cows

Buckwheat has a fair feeding value for cattle. The woody hulls of the buckwheat kernels have little feeding value for calves, but may be used to add bulk to a ration of other grains. Buckwheat hulls, which are separated from the hull in milling, contain 28 per cent crude protein and a fair amount of fat. Buckwheat bran is, of course, less valuable than buckwheat hulls, and when the bran does not contain more than half hulls it is regarded as about four-fifths as valuable as when bran. Such bran has about 16 per cent protein and 24 per cent fiber. Buckwheat products help to produce a large flow of milk when fed intelligently to dairy cows. If buckwheat is not given in excessive amounts it is not injurious to the quality of the butter produced by a herd.

Specialist Tells Why Goose Eggs Don't Hatch

(By J. G. HALPIN, Wisconsin Experiment Station)

Poor hatches often are received from goose eggs due to the way geese are wintered. Often geese do not get enough hay chaff during the winter. It is a tendency also to feed too much corn, and this tends to poor hatches. Geese should be allowed out during the winter so that they get plenty of sunshine.

Another important thing is care to keep eggs laid during cold weather from getting chilled. Geese frequently lay their eggs at eight or nine o'clock at night and such eggs become chilled before morning. One can help out by giving geese nesting places with plenty of material for litter. Some geese if given plenty of litter will cover up their eggs so well that a hard freeze will not damage them.

LIQUOR LAW VIOLATORS IN COURT

THREE SENTENCED TO PAY COURT COSTS OF $200 EACH

All Violators Placed on Probation Under $500 Bond — Special Session Cleaned Up Criminal Cases

Three liquor law violators were sentenced to pay court costs of $200 each by Judge Parm C. Gilbert at a special session of circuit court Monday afternoon.

Paul Kreitmer of Petoskey, who was arrested on charge of possession and transportation of liquor and driving while drunk near Boyne Falls last week, pleaded guilty to possession and transportation. He was ordered to pay costs of $200 and was placed on probation for one year under $500 bond. E. C. Clover of Grand Rapids, arrested with Kreitmer, is being held for further questioning.

Frank Vosburg of Charlevoix, and Elmer Rounds of Battle Creek, arrested July 4th for violation of the liquor law, were assessed court costs of $200 each, and were placed on probation until the October term of court under $500 bond. John Newville of Boyne City, pleaded guilty to a wet law violation. He furnished bond of $500 following his arrest and this bond has been continued and he is on probation until October.

Arnold Tillotson of Boyne City, arrested for breaking and entering, pleaded guilty to entering. He was put on probation until the August, 1930 court term.

Sentence on Bert Sharrow of this city, another wet law violator, was deferred until the August term of court. He is out under $500 bond.

Benjamin Warren of Bay Shore, arrested on a statutory charge, was placed on probation until the October term of court.

The special session Monday afternoon cleaned up practically all criminal cases before the court and, in addition, several divorce actions were heard.

PAY THREE MILLION TWO HUNDRED TWENTY SEVEN THOUSAND NINE HUNDRED FORTY THREE 37/100 $3,227,943.37
TO THE ORDER OF State Treasurer Lansing, Michigan
MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

The net earnings from 217,000 telephones were required to pay the Michigan Bell Telephone company's total 1929 tax bill of $3,966,000, it was indicated when the state of Michigan received its portion, $3,227,943.37 on June 30. The company's state tax was paid in the form of a check to Auditor General C. H. Fuller, and goes into the Michigan primary school fund. The total tax payment represents $6.02 for each telephone in service during 1929.

Since 1911, the Michigan Bell Telephone company has paid into the state treasury more than $20,250,000, of which $12,254,000 has been paid during the last five years, the records show. The tax paid the state by the telephone company this year was $428,570.27 larger than that paid a year ago.

In addition to the state tax, federal taxes paid by the company this year amounted to more than $700,000, and miscellaneous local taxes totaled approximately $10,000.

Assessed valuation of the company was set at $102,017,500, an increase of $10,017,500 over the 1928 assessment. Of that total, $17,500 represents the assessment on three small companies purchased by the Michigan Bell company this year. The tax rate was $31.64 per $1,000, the highest ever levied.

The state tax paid this year is the largest in the telephone company's history. The total tax paid by the company for 1929 amounts to $10,866 per day.

Red propaganda would be striking a blow at the heart of industrial America.

We have known about Red activities in this country for a long time. We have been inclined to view their efforts with more or less compassion, feeling that most of it was being wasted upon sensible Americans. Now that we know the truth what are we going to do about it?

THE PRICE OF BUTTER

We are quite sure the investigator who said that in some rural communities nine pounds of butter substitutes were used to one pound of butter was not referring to this county. However, one does not need to inquire very far to find that a considerable amount of butter substitutes is used in this county, and there may be cases where producers sell their butter or cream and use the substitutes. It doesn't take an expert to figure out that the use of butter substitutes reduces the market for butter, and that it is due to the under consumption of butter that there is a big surplus. It is clear, too, that a big surplus means a lower price. It would not take long to remove the butter surplus and increase the price of butter and cream, if the "Eat More Butter" campaign instituted by farm organizations were successful. Those who have made a study of the situation claim the solution of the difficulty lies in the hands of the farmers themselves who use more butter substitutes than butter. M. S. Winder, executive secretary of the American Farm Bureau Federation, recently said, "The condition of the dairy industry largely affects and determines the prosperity of other branches of agriculture. Just as the price of steel is the determining factor in the industrial world, so is the price of butter in the agricultural world. Grain, live stock and other farm commodities are directly affected by the price of butterfat." This being true, all in this county should enter enthusiastically into the "Eat More Butter" campaign.

THE TOLL OF THE FOURTH

Michigan's observance of the great National holiday exacted a toll of 18 lives. Of this number eight were attributed to drowning and an equal number lost their lives in motor mishaps.

For the first time in modern years not a single death was caused by fire-works. At Detroit an exploding bomb during a supervised display seriously injured three persons and slightly burned several others. It was the only accident of this kind reported in the state.

For the first time this year the children were spared the serious after effects of the Fourth. The usual long list of tetanus victims, children with torn limbs, burned bodies, destroyed or impaired eyesight are missing from the accident list. Governor Green's fight through two legislatures to prevent this unnecessary loss of life and suffering has been fully vindicated. Such a victory alone should suffice for many of the disappointing things he has encountered during his stay at Lansing. Michigan should be happy in the thought that it no longer sees the spectre of torn and bleeding children—victims of the greed of fireworks manufacturers.

I AM CARELESS

Michigan has wonderful lakes and streams, beautiful wooded hills and green growing valleys, a splendid interlocking paved highway system, summer days and nights that sing of health and comfort. No other state offers more in the way of clean, wholesome and healthful diversion for those who wish to spend the day afield.

And yet over one single holiday period 18 lives were sacrificed to carelessness. Lakes and streams that mirrored back the blue of heaven became the temporary tombs of nine pleasure-seeking persons; beautiful stretches of highways the shambles where as many more, three of them innocent children, were thrown to death because somebody refused to exercise even ordinary judgment.

We admit our inability to fathom the mind of the motorist who dashes headlong to destruction, who throws caution to the winds and rides in death's head into the midst of happiness; we cannot understand those who venture from the shore and carelessly beckon to the dangers of the deep as if it were a mantle to cover their forms; sometimes it seems as if they deliberately chose the wild rush of human emotions in which to begin the great adventure. It leaves us mystified and full of wonderment.

A SIGN OF CIVILIZATION.

All of these matters and propositions which have to do with public health are mighty important.

During the last quarter of a century there have been splendid developments in looking after disease before it occurs. Typhoid fever and diphtheria have been virtually stamped out. Many of the diseases of childhood have been brought under control. A few years ago the clinic for children was considered an interference with the business of the family. Now it is a recognized institution. Society has an important interest in those who are sick.

Such an attitude should be at the basis of encouragement for every possible effort which means better health. It should encourage the work of nurses and physicians. This interest by the public in public health is a sign of a real civilization.

Even the government is getting efficient.

To tabulate the census returns machines have been made which punch cards and assemble, in an automatic way, the results.

This new method hastens the work and saves labor.

In fact, the saving has been in the employment of 9,000 people in the census department. A thousand now do the work that would ordinarily require ten thousand.

We presume that some people will complain of this.

WEEKLY CAMP CHARLEVOIX

NEWS COLUMN

Edited by Gahm Kinnison

One of the features of Camp Charlevoix's camping season is overnight hikes. Each week two cabins go out to spend the night and cook their own meals. The day they get back they tell their experiences to the rest of the camp, in the club house.

Camp Charlevoix prides herself on her neatness, and every day a rigid inspection of all the cabins is held. At the end of four weeks the cabin having the highest rating receives a special honor trip. This year, the new cabins are so light and airy and easy to clean, that competition is very close. In the senior section three of the four cabins have won daily inspection three times apiece, and the other, twice, this year.

Care Kafer, photographer for the "Fireside Industries" at Adrian, has been visiting at camp for two weeks, and during that time has done some fine work with the boys along that line. Each day he has taken groups into the woods and around the campus, helping them to obtain interesting pictures and giving them valuable pointers. He has worked with us on interior photography as well. Mr. Kafer is a real out-door man.

and we are sorry to have him leave us.

CAMP CHARLEVOIX

Colonel Gillespie, director of athletics, has negotiated a contract with Camp Algonquin, arranging for a home-and-home series of baseball games between the two camps. There will be soft ball games, open to boys from the ages of 10 to 12 inclusive, and hard ball for boys from 13 through 15 years. A friendly rivalry has grown up between Charlevoix and Algonquin during the last few years, and these are sure to be well-played, hard-fought games.

Monday night at campfire, Carl Oldham, head counsellor of the senior section, described the system of awards. A small "C" is awarded for mediocre efficiency, a big "C" for average ability, the arrow "C" for outstanding efficiency, and the monogram, available only to second-year campers, for remarkable ability and qualities in leadership and character. In each section also, five awards are given out for efficiency in woodcraft, handicraft, arts, athletics, and all-around character development. Winners of the character award in previous years have been Robert Uter, Walter Hoyt, and John Browne.

SCHOOL BANDS GIVE JOINT CONCERT SOON

Charlevoix-East Jordan Bands Play Here Next Wednesday Eve

John TerWee, leader of the East Jordan and Charlevoix school bands, announces a joint band concert here next Wednesday evening, July 23rd, by the two school organizations.

Among the selections on the program will be marches to be played at Interlochen Bowl, where the two bands will appear July 27th. A return concert will be given at East Jordan in the near future.

A few cars will be needed to transport the band to East Jordan and Traverse City. People who will take a few band members are asked to leave word at Wood Bros.

FOREST FIRES LESS

— IN MONTH OF JULY

Less Hazardous Weather Accounts for Decided Decline

Less hazardous weather brought a decrease during the past week in the number of forest fires through Michigan.

While for the past month the number of reported fires averaged more than 100 a week, only 63 fires were reported last week, bringing the total to date for the season to 1,409. Of the fires reported last week, 36 were in the lower peninsula and 27 were in the upper peninsula.

MRS. A. BUTTARS DIED LAST WEEK

PASSED AWAY AT HER APARTMENT IN SAN DIEGO, CALIF.

Remains Will Be Brought to Charlevoix for Burial—Member Prominent Local Family

While not entirely unexpected, taking into consideration her advanced age and poor health, news of the death of Mrs. Emma E. Buttars, widow of the late Archibald Buttars, banker and ex-lieutenant governor of Michigan, came as a distinct shock to her many friends in this city, of which she was so long a resident.

Mrs. Buttars, who had been living in her apartment in San Diego, California, to be near her grandchildren by marriage, since her husband's death in 1926, had been ill for several months, but thought she was improving and would soon be up and around. Her age, however, was against her and her heart did not grow stronger and on July 9, 1930, she passed quietly away as she slept, at the hour of 6:35 p. m.

No word has at this time been received as to the date of the funeral in California, but the remains will be brought to this city some time next month to be interred in the family plot at Brookside cemetery. Archie Buttars of Pellston, nephew of the deceased, will go from here to return with the body to Charlevoix.

Emmeline Caroline Blinn was born in Shelburn, Vermont, on March 1, 1845, the daughter of James S. and Nancy Saxton Blinn. She was one of a family of 13 children, of whom she had been the sole survivor since the death of her sister, Mrs. Mary A. Tyler, at Charlevoix, in 1925. She was brought up on a farm of 700 acres, which had been the family home since long before the Revolutionary war, and adjoined that of Ethan Allen of Ticonderoga fame. Her father, who operated this farm and conducted a produce commission business in the city of Boston, Massachusetts, was prominent in Vermont politics and associated therein with the late Senator Jacob A. Collamer of the Dutch patron family of Watertown, N. Y., that took a prominent part in the Revolution during the early days of the struggle in New York state, and she was connected with other old New England families. The genealogical records of her own family in the archives of the New York Historical Society show descent from the Scotch Stuarts and the family coat of arms is quartered with the royal lion rampant of Scotland, which seems to substantiate this claim.

Land of Hiawatha Extends Unbounded Hospitality to State Press Association

Michigan Editors and Friends Spend Four Never to be Forgotten Days Amid Charms of Upper Peninsula

Blaney Park, Converted From Old Lumber Camp To Modern Hotels and Comfortable Homes, Is Headquarters for 1930 Outing

Unbounded hospitality seemed to be the key-note of the Northland's welcome to the Pilgrims of the Michigan Press Association on the occasion of the 1930 summer outing. Hands were outstretched from every quarter in glad greeting on our arrival and clung in sorrowful parting as we started for home.

This 1930 outing was held at Blaney Park, Schoolcraft County, in the Upper Peninsula, on the urgent invitation of the owners of Blaney Park and of the newspaper fraternity of the northern region.

A few of the members of the M. P. A. put in their appearance as early as Wednesday. Thursday morning many more registered and were given hotel and cottage assignments, and by Thursday noon the place was fairly dotted with newspaper folks renewing old friendships and making new ones. Golfers picked partners and hied away to fairway and greens. Bridge enthusiasts formed groups and started bidding, while many others just rested and enjoyed the peaceful quiet and beauty of their surroundings.

Our first association visit for many years to the Upper Peninsula of the wondrous Wolverine state will linger long in the memory of every man, woman and child who was so fortunate as to be able to make the trip and the marvelous tales they will have to tell of the beauties and delights of the trip will be but poor solace to the forlorn, benighted fraters who couldn't or wouldn't "come along up."

He would be a Stewart Edward White or a James Oliver Curwood who could do justice in one brief story to the pleasures and delights of a visit in June to the land of Hiawatha, but between half a dozen of us we can give our readers at least a sort of an idea of the many joys of this most enchanting outing.

The weather was not quite as cordial as the people, but gave us samples of all sorts, there being ample time between showers for many rounds of golf, for special trips by plane, for visits to Paul Bunyan's unique camp and to other points of interest, which were many. Cool evenings gave the huge fireplaces, with their crackling flames, opportunity to add their cordiality to the occasion and keep the bridge games from getting chilly.

And so everybody and everything joined to give us glad welcome to the North country, to make us happy to come and sorry to go, and to leave with us the hope that it may not again be so many years between our trips to the land of the Tahquamenon, the Porcupines, and of Hiawatha. Only we shall hope that the next time we may be able to extend the trip to all sections of the Upper Peninsula and see it from St. Ignace to the Soo, from Detroit to Ironwood, from Menominee to Fort Wilkins, and that's taking in some territory.

Blaney Park is an entirely new sort of development. It is more of a reclamation project than a summer resort, which probably makes it all the more attractive to the real lover of nature who enjoys the wilderness. And here is the wilderness just a step from his door, while he lives in all the comfort and luxury of urban life at its best.

Recreation and reforestation, conservation and recreation—these words and phrases are all applied, and with justification, to the 22,000 acre tract in the northern peninsula of Michigan that is called Blaney Park.

In 1925 this large parcel of land was a serious problem confronting the Wisconsin Land & Lumber Company. The timber had been logged and there seemed to be no other possible use for the property. It was, and still is, best suited for growing trees, but years must pass before trees are full grown for marketing. One possibility was to stop paying taxes and let the land revert to the state. Instead of that the 22,000 acres were made into Blaney Park. It now bears but slight resemblance to the same township of even a few years ago. It is still to be considered an experiment, but one, nevertheless, that is proving well.

This land in Schoolcraft county is almost an entire township. A few forties were sold a number of years ago for farming purposes. The property was acquired by its present owners from the William Mueller Company in 1909. The Wisconsin Land & Lumber Company finished the vestiges of what had been the golden era, of the time when the upper peninsula was crowned with pine and hardwood.

This material plus three years work has wrought the Blaney that exists today. There is but slight resemblance to the old lumbering town. The small houses that were in fairly good repair were rebuilt, the boarding house was converted into a modern hotel that is now open all the year 'round, the large home was changed into what is known as Cellbeth Tavern, the store was modernized, etc., etc. Bathrooms, fireplaces and furnaces are but a few of the conveniences. A modern power plant provided electricity until a high tension line was completed. Without being lavish, nothing was spared in the work of creating an attractive community out of the dilapidated town.

When these activities were well under way it was conceived that Blaney should have a golf course, so a large crew of men went to work clearing a sufficient acreage for the course planned by a golf architect. The next idea was for an airport, so another crew cleared more land and Blaney now has a beautiful landing field that is a credit to the entire northern peninsula. In much the same way, the large swamp at the base of the hill on which the community is situated was converted into a sizeable artificial lake and stocked with fish. These projects required time and resources.

E. G. AMOS

Last year, 1929, saw Blaney Park operating in all departments. More than 3,000 people were entertained at the hotels and cottages for periods ranging from a few hours to six weeks. At this writing in 1930 the business has been fifty per cent better than a year ago with every indication that the summer will be even better. There are accommodations for 175 people at Blaney.

Among the many outside attractions and facilities for sports may be listed the following: a nine hole golf course that has had time to set and is now in excellent shape, an airport, a stable of riding horses in charge of an experienced teacher, ski and toboggan slides, many miles of trails through the woods that serve the double duty of bridle paths and fire lines, a game refuge of 7,000 acres on which there has been no hunting for three years and an additional 7,000 acres posted with "No Trespass" signs, trout streams, lakes, boats, beaver and muskrat colonies where the animals are protected, etc., etc.

A feature at Blaney that has had considerable attention is the Paul Bunyan camp. So far as known, this is the only Paul Bunyan museum in the country. Located on a trail about five miles from the town, the camp is fitted and adorned with relics of the "roarin' thirties" that are explained with references to the mighty Paul. There is Babe's ox yoke, a pole railroad truck, Paul's adjustable gait hook, Big Ole's fishing line, the original hot dog sled, etc. This place is frequently visited during the summer and during the winter is the objective for sleigh rides.

Blaney Park, so well has the thought been carried out, is now complete even to a gasoline and service station and a farm that provides milk and fresh vegetables.

The while that all of this is going on and folks from various parts of the country are enjoying the northern air and the comforts of the hotels and cottages, playing on the golf course, fishing the lakes and streams, the trees on the 22,000 acres are growing. A tree thinning experiment is being conducted by the University of Michigan, several thousand seedlings and transplants have been set out as a starter for a large program of planting and the Forestry Department of Michigan State College is experimenting at Blaney in assisting tree seeds to get started. Blaney is growing and so are the forests.

CHARM OF BLANEY PARK

It is difficult to describe the "charm" of Blaney Park—or to make one who has never visited it understand why it is so alluring and delightful. Here in the heart of the Great North Woods, far removed from the noise, smoke and nerve strain of city life, the cool, pure air is invigorating, the sunshine restores the depleted energy, the healthful outdoor life stimulates the jaded appetite, and in the cool of the evening, gentle breezes laden with the perfume of pine, balsam, spruce and tamarack lull one to dreamless, refreshing sleep. The days spent at Blaney Park will stand out in your memory as "Golden Days" full of happiness and enjoyment, and nothing but a visit to Blaney Park itself will enable you to understand why this delightful spot in "The Happy Land" gives those who visit it so much pleasure and keen enjoyment.

BEAR CREEK GOLF COURSE

Bear Creek Golf Course was designed by Mr. John P. Barr, who is recognized as an authority in his profession, and no expense has been spared in its construction, equipment and development, which includes a specially constructed water hazard. The rolling ground, backed, flanked and divided by woods, and crossed by two spring creeks, is as though Nature had planned it for the purpose. A feature of Bear Creek Golf Course is that the links run north and south, thus obviating the discomforts of sun in the eyes of the players at any time of the day.

BLANEY SERVES SPLENDID BANQUET

M. P. A. Guests of Upper Michigan Development Bureau

By J. P. HASKINS
Howard City Record

One of the most pleasurable occasions incidental to the visit of the Michigan Press Association at Blaney Park during the closing days in June was the opening banquet tendered the Association by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau at Bear Creek Lodge, Thursday evening, June 26.

Claude D. Riley of the Ontonagon Herald presided. He introduced E. G. Amos, manager of the Blaney Park development, who explained the purposes motivating this unique project, the largest single reforestation project under private ownership in the country. The Wisconsin Land and Lumber Company owns a solid township, 22,000 acres of virgin timber and cutover, 7,000 acres of which constitute a game refuge. Another 7,000 acres is a hunting preserve and almost any day visitors here may see from one to twenty wild deer. Ten thousand acres of the tract have never been burned over. They annually replant a certain acreage to young timber and as the years go on the second growth hardwoods keep growing into money. It is the belief of the principal owners, the Messrs. Earl, that their mammoth reforestation project will pay its own way and furnish much that is attractive to all nature lovers in the bargain. They maintain two hotels, a garage, a store, an airport, twenty or thirty modern cottages, a golf course, many scenic attractions, and Lake Anne Louise, a "made" lake, is a memorial to their foresight. Over 100 varieties of bird life is found in this Paradise.

The Building of Blaney Park

On this tract they have five lakes, several streams, and thirty years after much of the original timber was taken off, one marvels at the "come back" that has been staged. The company started in 1927 this gigantic land utilization scheme. The great problem they have to solve is how best to protect their holdings from fire. They have cut bridle paths thru their woods which may also be used to take their own fire fighting equipment to the places needed. They have built no new buildings, merely converted and made modern the original buildings and adapted them to their present needs. The land has been owned by the present company since 1909. In 1926 the company quit logging. As there are nearly three million acres of tax delinquent lands in the Upper Peninsula or nearly one-third the land area of the Upper Peninsula one may judge how important this experiment is. Mr. Amos also described a happy inspiration—the one and only "Paul Bunyan camp" where every imaginable kind of antique logging or lumbering implement is housed in an old lumber camp several miles down an old logging tote-road from Blaney.

The U. P. Development Bureau

George E. Elshop, secretary of the U. P. Development Bureau was next introduced and made an illuminating address concerning the activities of his association of which G. Harold Earl of Blaney Park is president. The association is the outgrowth of a meeting held 20 years ago at Menominee, attended by 216 of the business leaders of the peninsula. Of the present contributing members, Mr. Elshop said he was most proud of about 30 of the 35 upper peninsula newspaper publishers, who besides giving unstinted newspaper support to the development association, each pay $25 per year dues as practical evidence of their interest. There are now three national forest reserves in the U. P., comprising 743,000 acres and the bureau puts out 165,000 copies of their year book, maintains offices in Chicago as well as at Marquette and is each year

Beautiful Tahquamenon Falls, Near Newberry

WONDERFUL TAHQUAMENON FALLS

Fascinating Spectacle, Reached by Inspiring River Journey

By BOB HUMPHREY
Of the Cheboygan Observer

The Climax or Grand Finale—that ultimate eventuality of all planned trips, came Sunday, June 29th, when the members of the Michigan Press Association, their families and friends were the guests of the City of Newberry and the Lions Club of that city on a trip to the famous Tahquamenon Falls, about 40 miles east and north of that hospitable little shore of a little over two thousand inhabitants.

The trip came as the windup of a most successful three day meet at Blaney Park, and is one of the members of the "family" will not soon forget. How could one forget anything that was so well engineered and so successfully carried out? Much of the credit of the little detail work should hereby be given Editor Fretz of Newberry. To him fell the arranging and the starting of the "big noise" of the day and it was most aptly handled by him. And did it rain? But start a crowd of editors and their better halves out in the morning to see something that proved to be as beautiful as the Tahquamenon Falls and it's going to take dynamite to stop them.

The Famous "Toonerville Trolley"
Five miles from the city limits of Newberry over a good county gravel road one finds a dock on the shore of Tahquamenon to which is tied the "Minnehaha," a 30 foot, gasoline powered yacht with a seating capacity of 35 passengers; fifteen miles out of the same city at the Soo Junction one finds waiting for them the "Toonerville Trolley," two cars with a gas driven motor that is there for the purpose of taking you to the Soo Junction Landing on the shores of the same river but about 15 miles down while members made new acquaintances that the landing came before it was expected.

At just two in the afternoon the boats and the grub wagon docked to the shore about a half mile up stream from the Falls. Being nearly famished, all three boat loads of hungry news hounds boarded the scow and almost cleaned the kitchen out of everything on board. But the providing for the gang was looked after by the Lion's Club and the spread prepared showed that they liked to eat. 460 sandwiches and barrels of coffee were consumed, ice cream was dished out lavishly and cookies of all kinds with feminine came last. And eat; that pack of wolves devoured everything passed them and the looks on Congressman Bohn's and Sheriff Turnbull's faces showed that their efforts were more than being rewarded.

Luncheon Was a Regular Feast
Right now, before we step off the boat and hike for the Falls, in behalf of the gang, let's express our deepest appreciation to the Newberry Lion's club for the eats, for without a full stomach what can even an editor do? It fell to Mrs. W. McMahon, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Redman, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rahilly, Miss Hanna Jensen, Congressman Frank Bohn and Sheriff Turnbull, all of Newberry, to see that no one went away hungry, and we'll vouch by the way the libe string out on the way to the Falls that some felt worse than before they had eaten.

A half hour's walk through the woods, on a narrow path, and there stretched before the gang the famous, never to be forgotten Tahquamenon Falls. The weather was still against us but kodaks clicked and eyes took in sights that will forever register and will be stored away stream from the Newberry Landing. At this dock was moored the Betty B, another cabin covered yacht of about the same capacity as the above mentioned craft. These two boats are the property of Joe Beach, and what a host Joe is, a friend of all and with time and the faculty of answering any of the numerous questions that an inquisitive editor can shoot at one to find something out. Joe was pilot, chief engineer and the whole works of the Betty B, while Jerry Skellina was likewise for the Minnehaha. At the latter landing place a grub scow had been built and into this was loaded the cats for the Sunday outing, and which was towed by both boats and which carried about 60 of the group.

Rain and More of It

With 35 aboard, the Minnehaha pulled away from its mooring at about ten o'clock in a regular cloud-burst, and in about two hours rounded one of the many crooks and came in sight of the rest of the party. A quick hook-up with Skipper Joe's boat and once more the party headed for the Falls. Sandwiches were devoured with the voraciousness of starved folk, and except for the yelling at the sight of a deer there were not many pauses. Mile after mile of forest vastness was slowly slipping behind when Jerry shouted out the landing for the boats was near at hand. Distances meant nothing to either Joe or Jerry and the time flew so fast among our souvenirs. Past President "Fike" and Mrs. "Fike" tired out before they got there and returned ahead of the crowd, which spent about half an hour at the Falls.

Getting back to the boats the grub wagon was again attacked and the trip was started up stream, leaving the landing spot at about three in the afternoon. The wind being in our favor we were advised that more deer would be seen on the way home, and pulses ran high as deer after deer was seen on exhibition along the river bank in the marshes. In all, twenty-two were counted, all still in their "red-coat." Heaver were seen and the resounding whack of their tails could be plainly heard above the roar of the motors. Ducks were out in countless numbers, and muskrats could be seen anywhere on the river. Fish were jumping for flies and the Conservation Officer slipped by in his little launch with his ready eye peeled for violators.

The End of a "Perfect Day"
The Soo Junction landing was reached about six in the evening and here the crowd divided after handshakes and "I'll see you in church" and the Minnehaha slipped on up stream to deliver her 35 passengers in their autos which were parked along side the river at the Newberry Landing. In a rain storm that just literally opened the skies she landed at ten after eight and the remainder of the gang split and biked for home over a slippery road.

So ended a happy day of friendly association, an education that is superior to anything else. For what finer thing can a man do than to make more friends?

A register was passed around and an endeavor was made to get everyone aboard sign and we have compiled them as they were handed us. If yours is left out just drop in at the "old home paper" and the "old man" will be only too glad to set her up in a separate item for you because we want none left out.

Blaney Park is unexcelled for the natural beauty of its scenery, and here one may enjoy the pleasure of "Life in the Woods" without any of the unpleasant and annoying features which usually accompany it. The elevation on which Blaney itself is situated, and the constant breeze, would assure freedom from flies and mosquitoes, even if every door and window were not screened.

Comfortable cottages have been provided on Lake Anne Louise for overnight accommodation of tourists, with ample parking space and a modern, well-equipped service station and well stocked store conveniently located to supply all ordinary needs of motorists.

SHANTY MAN

By Marlon Huotson Morrill
(In The Northern Sportsman)

Water whirled and whistled
And a tug-boat tows—
I see a lanky shanty-man
In tall top boots.

His eyes are bright and glancing
And his head held high,
And the thunders get to dancing
As the bays pull by.

He hails me with his peevy
And his shoulders away,
And his smile is brightly flashing
As the wind-swept spray.

He is drifting down the river
Nor a thought to spare,
The sun upon his neck-knaw
And bright black hair.

Shanty-man, shanty-man,
On that far day
You drifted through the settlement
And took my heart away!

Water whirled and whistled
And a tug-boat tows;
I see a lanky shanty-man
In tall top boots.

JOHN OLNEY WINS FLAG TOURNAMENT

Among the major attractions at a summer meeting of the MPA is a golf course, and at Blaney the high hopes of the addlets of this game were realized on the beautiful nine-hole course there which is the first thing seen as one approached Blaney Park.

Eighteen golfers reported for the qualifying round Thursday afternoon, for the flag tournament to be played on Friday. Chet Howell, the Senator from Saginaw, won the four balls offered for low score, with a qualifying round of 81. "Bill" Panzer lined up second and won two balls.

In the eighteen hole match Thursday John Olney of American Type Founders Co. won the match, which entitled him to six balls. Paul McDonald was second with four balls, and "Bill" Panzer, being off his game, won the Booby of two balls.

There was a little discussion regarding the championship, for John has been traveling over the state for the past two years with his clubs, and everywhere he went, where possible, he pulled out the country editors with the excuse that he needed some practice. In reality it looked like he was out for pointers, for he seemed to know just what to do to take advantage of every break of the game.

Regarding the course at Blaney, it is one of the finest in the north country. Six of the nine holes are on one side of the road, with the other three on the other side.

Starting opposite the Lodge the course, with its natural and artificial bunkers, water hazards, etc., invigorated the player onward. The natural lay of the land is ideal for golf, and the greens were something to rave about—solid German bent makes a soft carpet which promotes accurate putting and good judgment.

It was a grand outing for the golfers, and to those who play golf and were not at the meeting, we have simply to say they missed a grand game.

AIRPORTS IN UPPER PENINSULA

There are now twelve Miawatha Land airports, safe and adequate for the taking off and landing of large planes. They are located at Munising, Wemure, Crystal Falls, Manistique, Houghton-Hancock, Iron Mountain-Kingsford, Sault Ste. Marie, Blaney Park, Ishpeming, Negaunee-Marquette, Escanaba, Menominee, and St. Ignace. Iron River, Newberry, Ontonagon, Ironwood, Laurium, Bessemer and several other localities are either building or making preliminary surveys.

Golf Courses in U. P.
Golf courses are available to the public at Mackinac Island (2), St. Ignace, Manistique, Blaney Park, Escanaba, Menominee (2), Iron Mountain, Houghton-Hancock, Crystal Falls, Ontonagon, Newberry, Marquette, Munising, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario (3).

A Silver Fox Farm is one of the many attractions of Blaney Park, a branch of the successful Delta Silver Fox Farm, as the country is ideal for the raising of Silver Foxes.

In Houghton County are the richest and deepest copper mines in the world, with shafts 14,000 feet deep, and the Michigan College of Mines, one of the three leading mining schools in the world.

THE NEWBERRY STATE HOSPITAL

An Interesting Institution, Splendidly Managed, But Badly Overcrowded

By Marjorie H. Morrill

"Many cases of mental diseases can be cured as easily as tuberculosis if they are gotten early enough." It was Dr. E. H. Campbell of the Newberry State Hospital speaking as he sat in his office in the great Upper Peninsula Institution. "Many Jones with the beginning of a delusion can be helped but Mary Jones with a fixed delusion is a different story. The problem of the mental specialist is to get Mary when her trouble is new and to convince her and her family that there is no disgrace in being a patient in a hospital for mental cases."

This quiet and friendly man is very much in earnest about his problems. "Then after we get her we must try and give her the type of treatment which is indicated by her trouble."

The care of mental cases is the greatest medical problem which the United States has to face as there are more beds provided for this type of illness than for all of the others put together. And even now we have not nearly enough. Just why this is so is not easily answered. It may be that the swiftness of the present mode of life has something to do with it. It may be that the type of person who has been allowed to come to this country from other lands and who find conditions here so different from their old homes or are broken by homesickness has a large share in the breakdowns. It may be that more cases are recognized as mental troubles now than in former years. "The village 'simple' with the freedom of the locality is a thing of the past. He is now in an institution. What ever the cause, mental cases are increasing in every state in the union."

Hospital Grounds Cover 760 Acres
The Newberry State Hospital was authorized under Act 216 P. A. 1893 and a tract of land comprising 560 acres was donated for its location in Luce County on a sandy row of hills overlooking the great Tahquamenon valley. In the fall of 1895 the first patient was admitted on November 1st. She was Rebecca Norton who lived until June 25 of 1929. The first man patient was accepted on the same day. He was Frank Ackerman who died April 18 of 1903. The institution now has 760 acres of land with fully equipped farm where fruit, vegetables and grains for its own use are raised and a fine dairy department which furnishes milk, cream and butter. There are 20 cottages all connected with a covered cloister making it easy to pass from one cottage to another even during the winter when the snow is deep. Planned to care for 950 patients the institution is now caring for 1,160 patients of whom 664 are men and 514 are women.

DR. E. H. CAMPBELL
Supt. Newberry State Hospital

Hospital Seriously Overcrowded
This overcrowding leads to many evils. The beds are so close together that much efficiency is lost in caring for the bed cases. Also in many instances the special treatment needed for recovery is impossible. Dr. Campbell has a heart large enough and interest wide enough to take in all of his patients. It is remarkable to hear him talk of them, with a personal interest in each and with a remarkable memory for so many. He told of one case in which the crowded conditions worked special harm.

This was a man from an U. P. city. He was a factory foreman, with a wife and family, considerable education and culture. Through his own illness, an automobile accident to his daughter and the attending costs he became worried about finances and the future appeared dark. He became depressed and wished to do away with himself. After some weeks in the hospital he appeared some better. Doctor Campbell visited him frequently. One day he found him polishing the floor in one of the cottages. He asked the physician if he could not be allowed to go into the work shop "where he could make something and finish it up." Doctor asked him if he still wanted to harm himself. He answered that there seemed no other way out of his trouble. He then went on to complain that he never could get well unless he could have a quiet place to sleep, that a poor fellow on one side of him sang and pounded his bedposts and that the warden habits of another kept him up. Dr. Campbell said that what that man needed was a quiet room by himself or with a few others like himself, where he could have books to read, quiet and intelligent conversation, and do some sort of interesting and productive work.

Receiving Hospital Needed
A receiving hospital needs the lists of "excessed needs" for this institution, Dr. Campbell believes. He is of the opinion that such a unit would have a large share in preventing many of the cases from becoming fixed mental distortions. "It is very unfortunate," he states, "that the public has come to look upon a hospital for mental cases, an 'insane asylum' as a disgraceful place in which to be placed. That a man has once been a patient in such a place marks him for life, a condition which is utterly wrong and which does untold harm. It is no more of a stigma to have been ill with some mental trouble than to have had pneumonia. But as long as people continue to believe that, harm will come from that belief. We should have a hospital here into which patients can be received and their troubles studied. Many of them would recover before they ever became conscious that they were mental cases. Also it would give our staff better practice in the care of all types of illness as now such general practice is small."

The lower peninsula of Michigan has hospital facilities for 250 beds for mental cases per one hundred thousand people and the U. P. hospital is planned on the ratio of 300 beds for each hundred thousand. However, even that is not nearly enough because of the type of people served. At any rate the need is here. Even should the state plan and build other institutions south of the Straits this part of the country would not be served as to move these people a long ways from their friends and homes is but to add to their troubles. Exiling them is, in many cases, to damn them. Home contacts have a large share in their recovery.

There should be better quarters for attendants and for physicians. There should be fireproof cottages as many are now firetraps. There should be a modern power plant and more wells. Also proper storage for water as at present there is only a few-hours' water supply, available which would mean a tragedy in the case of a big fire.

Able Staff of Assistants

Dr. Campbell has an able staff to assist him. Dr. J. T. Redwine is the assistant superintendent with Doctors C. H. Toms, M. Morrissey and Jean H. Christie completing the medical staff. Superintendent of nurses is May Harbinger, R. N., and Mrs. C. A. Burns is her assistant. Dr. J. Markay is the dentist for the institution, Miss Ida Anderson is technician and Mrs. Lida Smith is dietitian. The pharmacist is J. A. Huett, druggist J. L. Guntan. Hugh Campbell has charge of the farm.

Two of the important features of treatment are the industrial and recreational activities. These are in charge of Rose Goudraut, working with the women and E. A. Smith supervising the men patients. Mrs. Roy Young directs the recreational work. The business of the hospital such as all buying of supplies for the tables, farm and so on constitute an important part of the administrative program and W. J. Garrett as chief steward manages this department. Mrs. Anna I. Anton is the welfare worker and assistant to the physicians who conduct the clinics throughout the peninsula.

The hospital is a slightly place. Overlooking the great swamp of the Tahquamenon with its ever-changing moods and aspects, planted about with beautiful trees among which the red maple is featured, and with beautiful lawns and gardens, one can well imagine the quietness and beauty doing their share of the curing of the sick minds.

MANISTIQUE ENTERTAINS EDITORS

Banquet Addressed by Governor Chase S. Osborn and Attorney General Wilbur M. Brucker

By Elmer J. Hanna, Harbor Springs

The Michigan Press Association members were guests on Friday night of the summer outing, of the Manistique Chamber of Commerce.

An elaborate banquet was spread in the high school gymnasium. About one hundred citizens of Manistique attended the banquet as a sort of welcoming committee to the State Press. A whitewashed dinner displaying excellent cuisine was efficiently served by some of Manistique's fine looking young ladies.

The gymnasium was artistically and patriotically decorated with flowers in variegated colors, all gathered from the environs of Manistique. Lilies and spruce dominated among the flowers, and many large American flags hung from the balcony.

Flowers for the Guests

Following the repast, Benjamin Gorow of the Manistique Chamber of Commerce opened the meeting and introduced Joe Herbert, who presided as toastmaster during the program which followed. The Association was presented with an immense bouquet of snap dragons in a pretty basket. The gift was from the Manistique Knights of Columbus. It was received with much appreciation.

President VanKoeveering of the Michigan Press Association, acknowledged the address of welcome in a very fitting and pleasing manner. He acclaimed the warm hospitality which had been manifested by the people of Manistique and spoke very highly of the town and its vicinity.

Attorney General of Michigan, Wilbur M. Brucker, candidate for nomination for governor on the Republican ticket, was introduced and gave a splendid address on government and the application of business principles to the successful operation of a republican government. His talk did not savor of politics in any way. His aggressiveness and youthful vigor were very apparent, both in his carriage and in his delivery. He, too, praised the upper peninsula and Manistique for its natural beauty and warm-hearted citizens.

The guest of honor for the evening was the last speaker, the Honorable Chase S. Osborn, ex-governor of Michigan, writer, historian, pioneer, newspaper publisher; and, at present, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator.

Splendid Address by Osborn

No ordinary scribe could intelligently report the splendid address given by Mr. Osborn. Deep rooted in the hearts of the people in both penin-sulas, Mr. Osborn stands for something that is rapidly passing from existence. He is one of the most outstanding figures in America today. He is one of the original builders of Michigan and has always stood for right, progressiveness, and advancement along educational lines, regardless of the obstacles which might beset his path.

He delivered one of the most fiery, one of the most intelligent, and one of the most educational addresses on early Michigan history that was ever the privilege of any member of the Michigan Press Association to hear. He told of the early struggle in the stockade days of the upper peninsula when men had to be men in order to exist. He told how the upper peninsula newspaper men fought crime, liquor, and white slavery, not only through the columns of their newspapers, but with guns and knives, whenever the occasion justified such measures. He told of the long warfare waged by the crusaders seeking to make a clean country out of one of the most beautiful spots with which God ever graced the earth.

His silver tongued oratory, which on thousands of occasions has held spell-bound, audiences all over the United States, did not fall on this occasion and every person in the room listened with intense interest to all of his utterings. It was a rare privilege and a treat well worth the time spent in visiting the upper peninsula to hear Honorable Chase S. Osborn make this speech which he, alone, could have done.

Manistique a Progressive City

It was exceedingly nice of the Manistique Chamber of Commerce to entertain the Michigan Press Association and to provide the excellent program which they did. Quite a lot could be said about Manistique with its cool summers, invigorating climate, pure air, water and sunshine. There are over two hundred clear lakes within two hours ride of Manistique and many trout streams, much wild animal and plant life.

Manistique has all kinds of facilities for summer sports, including golf, bathing, motor-boating, sailing, canoeing, fishing, etc.

It was at Manistique that Longfellow secured material for his immortal poem, "Hiawatha." The city of Manistique has progressive institutions, hotels, garages, churches, theatres, and schools, as well as many summer resort hotels and boarding houses.

We all enjoyed our visit to Manistique and will all go back again sometime. We thank you.

THE HIGHWAYS TO HAPPINESS

Enticing Information for Blase Tourists Searching for New Beauties

Hidden away in the Great North Woods—and inaccessible, until recently, by good roads—one of America's most beautiful regions has awaited the coming of those who love the forests, lakes and rivers, the surging surf that heats on the shore, and the delight of driving through the silent aisles of virgin and second growth forests, along well kept County, State and U. S. Highways, through valleys and over hilltops, from which a constantly changing panorama of scenic beauty is unfolded to the view. Here in the Great North Woods the cares of life vanish away, while the quietude and peace of the forests pour their soothing balm into the weary hearts of those who come up out of the great cities to find rest, recreation and happiness. In the long ago, this beautiful country was revered by the Indians as the dwelling place of Ma-Ni-To—the good spirit. For countless centuries, it was known to them as "The Happy Land" where the good Manitou ruled over the destinies of men.

Indian Legends Hallow Region

Enshrouded in the mystery of the ages, this legendary land of the Indian tribes was the sacred place where Manitou abode, in majesty and power—in the Great White House.

From countless council fires, the inventions of the widely scattered tribes ascended to the Great Spirit in "The Happy Land" by the shores of the "Big Sea Water."

The story of its past has been lost in the mists of time, yet this beautiful region is remarkably rich in legends and historical places. Here history was made! Here the destiny of nations has been decided! Here America was born!

At the gateway to "The Happy Land" the Indian tribes contended fiercely for supremacy, to be conquered successively by the French and British, until finally American conquest ruled Old Glory aloft on the ramparts of the citadel which guarded the gateway of the Great Lakes.

Nature seems to have dowered this "Happy Land" most richly with beauty. Along its northern shores, the waves of Lake Superior dash and surge. At its eastern extremity are Chequamegon Islands, Sault Ste. Marie, Les Cheneaux Islands, Bois Blanc Island, Drummond, Cochrane, Manitoulin, Beaver, Fox, North Manitou, and South Manitou Islands.

Names Famous in History

Among its historical places are old Fort Mackinac, St. Ignace (the burial place of Father James Marquette), John Jacob Astor House, the old Mission House, Fort Holmes, Fort Brady and Fort Wilkins.

To the south the waters of Lake Michigan extend for three hundred miles. Along its shores are many remarkably fine bathing beaches and the wonderful Delta Land, which is one of the most beautiful regions in America.

Strung like jewels through the green virgin forests, thousands of lakes are threaded on silver streams as if nature designed with reckless prodigality a glorious ornament for this "Happy Land"—the abiding place of Manitou.

Invigorating winds that sweep across the vast expanse of Lake Superior waft the soothing, healing perfumes of pine and cedar, tamarack, birch and maple, to relax the tense nerves of world-weary men and women and restore the energy, health and vitality which have been sapped away by their strenuous life in the bustling, restless, noisy cities. Peace reigns throughout its forests, and along its winding highways are countless beautiful panoramas.

A Picturesque Country

No other section of the United States is now so easily accessible or so noteworthy for its beautiful scenery and interesting historical places. Here the traveler will find a treasure house of beauty to give delight and inspiration, scenes which compare favorably with the world's most famous beauty spots.

Presque Isle, Grand Island and Mackinac, Pictured Rocks, Sugar Loaf, Les Cheneaux Islands, Arch Rock, Gorge Lake, Castle Rock, Leaning Rock and Tahquamenon Falls are world famous, but there are many places equally beautiful which are but little known, such as Finger Falls, Kitchikippi (the Big Spring), one of the wonders of America, Osseo's Mirror (the Whirling Spring), the Menominee River, the Delta Land, Keweenaw Bay, Montreal River, St. Mary's River, Ontonagon Falls, L'Anse (Chippewa Indian Village), Michigamme Lake, Munising Falls, AuTrain Falls, Au Sable Falls, Bond Falls, Wagner Falls, Hungarian Falls, the White Pine Mountains, the Porcupine Mountains, the lumber camps, copper mines, iron mines, the great ore docks at Escanaba, and the remarkable government locks at the Soo.

Accessibility of Blaney Park

Whether you travel the Yellowstone Trail, Dixie Highway, Lincoln Highway, or Roosevelt Highway; whether you travel by automobile, motor bus, steam railway, or airplane, all the pathways of land and air lead to Blaney Park, a haven of rest and recreation, located in the heart of twenty-two thousand acres of forest and woodland, in the center of the eastern part of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. Situated on the highest point between Lake Michigan and Lake Superior, it is noted for its healthfulness, pure air, pure water, and good sanitation. Its climate is ideal. The cool winds purified and recharged with ozone as they sweep across the vast expanse of Lake Superior, are tempered by the breezes which come across the warmer waters of Lake Michigan, so that the pure, clean air is healthful and invigorating.

Ashtabua and bay fever sufferers especially find this a perfect climate for them. It is near enough to Lake Michigan to have a mild climate and far enough away from Lake Superior to be comfortable.

Located at the junction of U. S. Highway No. 2 (a part of the Dixie Highway) extending from Sault Ste. Marie to Miami, Florida) and Michigan State Highway No. 77, which connects Blaney Park with the historic and beautiful Grand Marais district, it is the center of a network of County, State and Federal Highways that give access to every part of the Upper Peninsula.

One hundred thousand automobiles cross the ferries at St. Ignace annually, and scores of thousands of other motorists travel the picturesque highways that run north from Chicago, along the western shore of beautiful Green Bay and Lake Michigan. The well constructed and carefully maintained concrete, macadam, gravel and gravel roads, through the operation of powerful snow removal equipment, operated by well organized crews, are kept open for travel in the winter as well as in summer.

Blaney Park is located ten miles from Lake Michigan, and forty-five miles from Lake Superior. It is ap-

LEGENDARY LAND OF HIAWATHA

Michigan Editorial Tourists Hunger for Longer Visit in Haunts of the Ojibways

The song of Hiawatha was first published in November, 1855. The purpose to weave together the beautiful traditions of the Indians in a poem had been in Longfellow's mind for some time. For the measure he chose that of the Finnish epic Kalevala as the most suitable.

His authority for the legends and the material was, in the main, Schoolcraft's work, "The Indian Tribes of the United States." Alice Rosencrans and The Myth of Hiawatha, by the same author, also proved fruitful sources, as well as several others of lesser importance.

Henry Rowe Schoolcraft first came to Sault Ste. Marie, in the Upper peninsula of Michigan, with Governor Lewis Cass in 1820. He was present when Cass handed down the last British flag flying over American territory, on the banks of St. Mary's river and the rapids. He proceeded on Lake Superior with the Cass party to the headwaters of the Mississippi, and Lake Itasca was named by him from the initials of the party's officials.

Schoolcraft Inspired Longfellow

Afterward Schoolcraft returned to Sault Ste. Marie as Michigan's first Indian agent and married the granddaughter of Wabigoon, Ojibway chieftain. Several of his works on the Indians were written there and at Mackinac Island. While Michigan Territorial Indian agent at Detroit he was one of the founders of the Michigan Pioneer and Historical society. He became the first U. S. Commissioner at Washington, and his works were published by the national government at a cost of $650,000.

Schoolcraft's knowledge, experiences, researches, and records compiled in Northern Michigan accordingly form the major background for The Song of Hiawatha. They account for the opening lines of the poem—Should you ask me whence these stories,

Whence these legends and traditions, I should answer, I should tell you, "From the great lakes of the Northland, from the land of the Ojibways."

The "Big-Sea-Water" of the poem is, of course, Lake Superior; "Pauwung" is the rapids of St. Mary's at Sault Ste. Marie; "Nagow Wudjoo," the sand dunes of Grand Marais, and so on. Many of the place-names of the poem are still in use. Some are altered, as for instance, "Tahquamenaw," which is now the Tahquamenon river, rising in Alger County and flowing through Leco and Chippewa Counties to the bay of Tahquamenaw, now Whitefish Bay.

Hiawatha An Ojibway Legend

Longfellow follows closely in the poem the adventures of Manabozho, the mythical hero whose exploits loom largely in Ojibway legends. The corresponding figure in Iroquois mythology is Hiawatha, whose more euphonious name was selected for the title.

The play of "Hiawatha" has been enacted at irregular intervals for some years during the summer season by the Ojibway Indians at Garden River near Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario. The daughters of Longfellow came from Boston for the event in 1901, and were entertained on an island in the channel since known as Longfellow Island. The play has also been staged by the Ojibways of Northern Michigan on the shores of St. Mary's river.

According to Alice Longfellow, daughter of the poet, the pronunciation used by her father was "He-aw-tha," the accent on the first syllable being somewhat lighter than on the third. The vowels in the last three syllables have the value of "a" in "mar," not "war," as often used.

LAKES RESTOCKED WITH FISH

Michigan has reduced the cost of its non-resident fishing license. For a $3 fee, non-residents may now fish for trout, bass, and all of the other famous game fish of the state, in its 5,000 inland lakes, and along its 16,000 miles of streams.

Michigan itself is making good fishing for the thousands of non-residents who annually seek to fill their creels. It has 16 hatcheries that are producing at capacity and for several years the annual plant has been more than 200,000,000 fish. Last year 59,000,000 perch, more than 9,000,000 brook trout and more than 9,000,000 white-eyed pike, a large percentage of them fingerlings, were placed in the lakes and streams.

At Thompson, Schoolcraft county, in the land of Hiawatha, is the largest hatchery of its kind in the country. From its troughs three and a half million young brook trout were placed in the rivers this spring. Through the state are 15 big feeding stations where the baby fish are nourished until they can be safely planted. There are a score of rearing ponds you may visit. You may see them for yourself by following the black and white metal signs that you will find at intervals along the highways.

ONTONAGON AND THE PORCUPINES

Michigan Mountains Attract Many Tourists
Looking for Grandeur of Scenery

The Ontonagon country has a long and romantic history, including even an early attempt to set it off as a separate state of the Union. Once the largest town on Lake Superior, the present village of Ontonagon, situated at the mouth of the river Ontonagon, is a thriving, progressive community which is steadily growing as the latest census figures reveal.

The three great natural features of the Ontonagon country are the Ontonagon river and its vast valley, the Porcupine Mountains with their foothills and lesser ranges, and Lake Gogebic which is a part of the Ontonagon river drainage system. The past, present and future of the Ontonagon area center about these great geographical features. The river furnished access to the early copper mines, supplies upstream and red metal down, with hulk vessels in the harbor formed by the mouth of the stream. The river has formed a gigantic valley back-country and this once heavily timbered area has proven itself remarkably fertile farm land. Now that same river that formed the earliest commercial avenue for copper mining, and down which the vast products of the early pineries were floated to market, and whose valley is already an extensive dairy farming area—now that river is being harnessed to provide enormous hydro-electric power for the whole western part of the northern peninsula. Thus the great red river has and is proving itself to be the very life stream of the Ontonagon country.

The Porcupine Mountains

The second great natural feature of this area is the Porcupine Mountain range. The Chippewa Indians gave this name to these mountains west of the town of Ontonagon, for viewed from the mouth of the river, the range resembles in every aspect a crouching porcupine. The Porcupine Mountains form the highest ground in the entire middle West. The area is still in virgin forest, dotted with clear inland lakes and threaded by cold spring creeks and rivers. Probably no other area in mid-continent has so many of the requisites of a national park. Made romantic by its many old and abandoned copper mines, and characterized by innumerable Chippewa legends, the range has been made accessible by a good motor road from Ontonagon. The old town of Silver City and the broad white beach of Union Bay prepare the traveler somewhat for the marvelous scenic beauties of the mountains themselves. Thus, this second great natural feature of the Ontonagon country is an inseparable part of its past, present and future. For it may be safely predicted that the rapidly increasing numbers of tourists who seek the Porcupine Mountains will presently swell to gigantic proportions.

Lake Gogebic Sixteen Miles Long

The third great natural feature of the Ontonagon country is Lake Gogebic. Here is an inland body of water more than sixteen miles long, every foot of its shores available for summer homes. The State Department of Conservation has just announced a special program to make Lake Gogebic the bass fisherman's paradise that it deserves to be again as it originally was. Lake Gogebic is already a noted summer resort with hundreds of summer homes along its beaches. State highway M-28 edges its whole north shore.

The Ontonagon country was originally the home of Chippewa Indians. While men were first attracted by rich copper deposits. The famous Ontonagon Copper Boulder is in the National Museum at Washington. Many of the mines furnished large quantities of native silver as well as native copper. Large development plans are now under way by some of the strongest copper mining corporations looking forward to increased output when hydro-electric power is available in the near future.

That hydro-electric power enterprise is the present outstanding development of the vast resources of the Ontonagon area. A concrete dam, one of seven to be built on the upper reaches of the river, is nearing completion. It is located at the old Victoria Mine site near Rockland. This dam is seven hundred feet long and about one hundred fifty feet high. Power will be transmitted over a wide territory both for industrial and domestic uses.

Hardwood Forests Still Abound

Lumbering is still a large business in the Ontonagon country. Much of the valley was a vast pinery harvested years ago. Present activities are mostly in hardwood forests whose resources while not inexhaustible are yet sufficient for many years to come. Two large sawmills operate under the Weldman management, one at Trout Creek and the other at Bergland. Hemlock is largely utilized by the Ontonagon Fibre Company at Ontonagon.

Agriculture, especially the dairy farming phase, is a long established industry of the Ontonagon Valley. Outside users of dairy farm products have found it advisable to locate plants near their sources of raw material. Among these the Stella Cheese Co., makers of fine Italian cheeses, has a plant at Mass City. A large co-operative organization operates a very profitable plant at Bruce Crossing. American cheese is made by factories near Lake Superior surrounding the town of Ontonagon and the whole south half of the county, centered about the towns of Ewen, Matchwood, Bruce Crossing, Paynesville and Trout Creek is developed as a premier dairy farming area.

The Charm of Ontonagon

Busy as its people are in their present prosperity and with all their big plans for the future, the Ontonagon country welcomes and finds time to entertain its tourists. Many fine camping sites have been provided and the Ontonagon Township Park at the county seat is an outstanding attempt to put the visitor into such a vacation atmosphere as only the north country can furnish. Visitors are welcomed at the Ontonagon Golf Club course.

James K. Jamison, in his book entitled "This Ontonagon Country," has caught the spirit of the north in all seasons: "Why do men who know it yearn for it? Why, there is something. You look up against the mountains and out upon the sea, and the sun goes down in golden fire where sky-blue and sea-blue blend; or you stand and listen while the storm gods ride overhead and this Ontonagon Country is laid in a winter pall. Or a tree creaks in the wind, or the odor of wood smoke comes faintly, or a partridge drums in upland cover, or a deer comes down to drink at the creek at dusk. Aye, there is something!"

One can readily believe that the alert, happy people who live in the Ontonagon country have long ago found that "something" and those vacationists who visit it will not be long in discovering it.

Blaney Serves Splendid Banquet

attracting thousands of nature lovers and tourists and the recreational advantages of the U. P. is being stressed. Last year twenty millions of dollars was left in the upper peninsula by American tourists. One hundred and twenty five thousand autos crossed the straits last year into the U. P. and the bureau is now engaged in selling to the people the idea that this vast empire is a great place in which to play. Progressive farm practices, creameries and cheese factories that are now evident, prove the correctness of the bureau's present policies. In 20 years the bureau has spent a half million dollars, and operates each year with a budget of $50,000, most of which is spent for advertising.

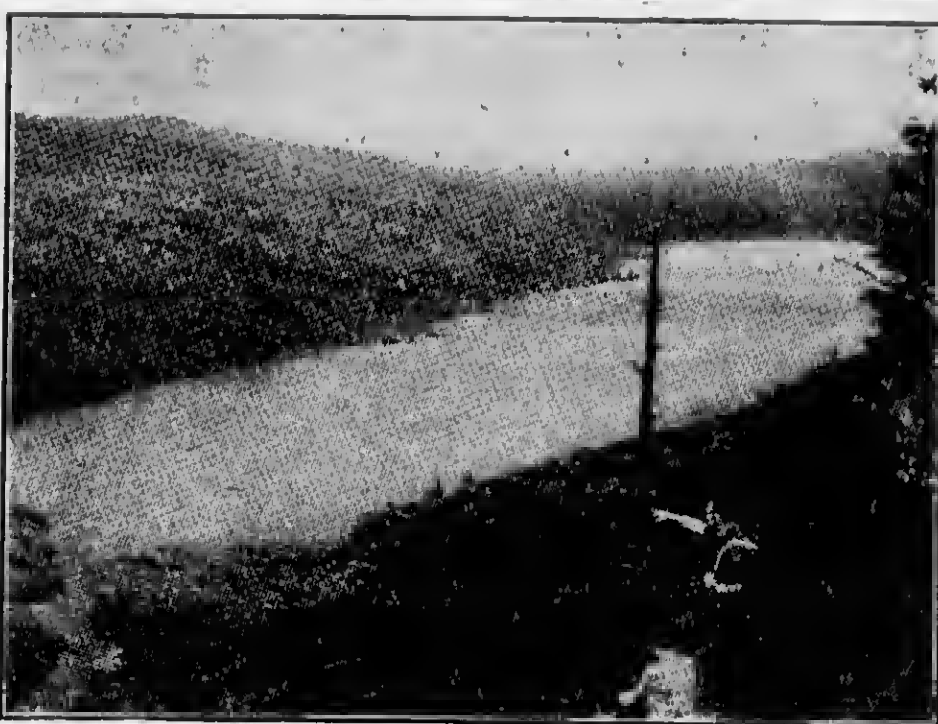

Elton R. Eaton of the Northville Record thanked the upper peninsula hosts for the splendid entertainment provided, the M. P. A. and John W. Hannen, publisher of Michigan Roads and Airports, also responded briefly, referring to highway and other matters.

Osborne Describes Pioneers

The climax to the banquet program came with the eloquent address of Ex-Governor Chase S. Osborne, of the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News, who described as only he can the habits and practices and importance of the timber cruiser who packs his outfit on his forehead and sleeps wherever night befalls, cooking his own "grub" and making up reports on his trips of great use to humanity. Gov. Osborne said some might wonder why he was an early timber cruiser. "Well," he

CELIBETH TAVERN

Celibeth Tavern, with its attractive cottages, is a restful place where you can really enjoy life. An ample steam heating plant removes the possibility of even the slightest discomfort on a chilly autumn morning or evening, and the tourists, golfer, or traveler is greeted by comfort and cheer radiated by fireplaces, as only fireplaces can. It is equipped with electric lights, telephone service, hot and cold water, bathrooms, shower baths, dressing rooms, and all modern conveniences. Every room is not only comfortably but attractively furnished. Fresh milk, butter, cream, eggs, chickens, and vegetables are provided by the IXL dairy farm, chicken farm and gardens. The menus are planned as carefully as in the most exclusive country clubs—the delicious fresh food is skillfully prepared by expert chefs and served by well trained maids. A number of the cottages are also provided with fireplaces, bath, and all modern conveniences. Each has its lounge and all of the sleeping rooms are unusually large, airy, light and well furnished, and have ample closet space.

EXPENSIVE ROADS BLOWN AWAY

Dust Is Costly as Well as Dangerous

The hot summer season is once more with us, and our merchants and housewives are again faced with the dust nuisance. Any storekeeper, and every housewife will tell you how to sweep a long, dusty expanse of uncovered floor. The age old method is to sprinkle water over the dusty surface, dampen the broom and roll the moistened dust before you as you go along. Dry sweeping merely distributes clouds of germ-laden dust to other, and more delicate surfaces, from whence they must be removed after time. The same kind of common sense applies to maintenance of roads whose surfaces are capable of crumbling into particles small enough to form dust.

Everyone has driven down gravel or macadam roads after a long hot, dry spell of summer weather. If there is any kind of breeze blowing, a cloud sweeps across the fields behind your car, billowing into the open windows of homes, powdering the fields with an ash-gray mantle of filth, and completely obscuring the view of every driver for a half mile behind. In this case the road bed is the dusty floor, and your car is the broom, but there is no saving moisture to keep the dust where it belongs, save for a short time after infrequent showers. In other words, this stretch of country is like a badly kept house, managed by a slovenly housekeeper. Who cares where the dust goes as long as it's stirred around a bit?

From a practical side, it seems a shame to huddle roads at a good many thousands of dollars a mile, and then permit them to blow away at the passage of every car. This form of crooked shortens the useful life of the road, wastes the taxpayer's money, increases the manifold dangers of travel, menaces health, and hampers business. There are several ways of preventing dust clouds along highways, but the most generally accepted is the Dowflake Calcium Chloride treatment. This is a colorless, odorless, non-tracking chemical of flat crystalline structure which attracts moisture from the air. When it has been sprinkled on the surface of a road, that road presents the fresh appearance that follows a gentle shower, and maintains it for weeks. There is no dust—the road surface lays as it was built, in spite of constant traffic, storms, or other assaults upon its surface.

Many communities have found that the absence of dust along the highways has not only served as a great personal convenience, but has actually increased tourist traffic, and the trade of merchants and stores in general. This community can be dust-free this summer at a very small cost if public officials and citizens will agree, like the soldier who found pebbles in his stew, that we don't have to eat our country in order to prove that we love it.

Sidelights of the Outing

Was it Herman Millerwise who slipped on the woods path Sunday and sat down in the slimy mud? Seems as though it was.

Everybody missed "Pa and Ma" Kelster of the Ionia County News. Fred is recovering from a long illness but didn't feel well enough to under take the long trip.

Joe Sturgeon of the Gladstone Delta Reporter, secretary of the U. P. committee, was everywhere and looked after everything, but didn't let it worry him or affect his golf or bridge.

The trip north was a glowing success for Major E. R. Eaton of the Northville Record. Senator Chet Howell took the Major out fishing on "Manistick" lake and they landed several big pike.

George and Frank Brown of the Bellevue Gazette and their wives couldn't get enough of the north in four days, leaving Sunday morning for the copper and iron country for another week or two before returning home.

Several of the gang took an extended air trip of more than an hour. They found the air so "humpy" that two of the party had an uncomfortable period of "seasickness," but as both of them were pretty tough birds they soon recovered.

Two girls riding on the upper deck of the Betty B. on the way down the river to the Falls sighted a bear quietly drinking at the water's edge, but Bruin slipped out of sight in the brush before anybody else got a view of him.

"Bill" Fretz of the Newberry News must be given credit for being a competent generalissimo. He shouldered all the responsibility and detail work of the Newberry visit of Saturday, and of the Tahquamenon trip Sunday and got away with it all without a bit of friction.

Let Rogers of the Camden Advance and O. V. LeDoyeux of the Reading Hustler keep the wheels of their car turning nearly all the time. They and their ladies saw about as much of the U. P. as anybody in the gang, but they missed out on the Falls trip Sunday, liked for home Sunday morning to get back to the grind.

Those of the party who crossed from St. Ignace to Mackinaw City Monday morning had the pleasure of seeing what is now a rarity on the Great Lakes—an old-time three-masted schooner, with all sails set, making a strikingly beautiful picture. Half a century ago most of the freight traffic of the Great Lakes was handled by these sailing vessels, which gradually became tramps as they were supplanted by the steam barges.

Claude Riley of the Ontonagon Herald was one of the busy boys helping to keep everybody happy, and his smile helped.

The trip gave B. A. Erduin of the Coopersville Observer, and his family an opportunity for a farewell visit with the gang. They have sold the Observer and are going to California to live.

Tom Conlin of the Crystal Falls Diamond Drill, is now the only member of the family who has not ridden in an airplane, and Mrs. Conlin says Tom is all up in the air about it. "Frank?"

Herbert Case of the Munising News demonstrated the fact that there are real printers in the north country by showing many samples of the work of his shop, including the programs for the meeting—a work of art and a literary gem as well.

Of the dozens of pictures of the "Toonerville Trolley" taken by various members, not one came to us in time to get into this special edition. The trolley trip through five and a half miles of buckberry marsh and wilderness was one of the most enjoyable features of the outing.

No words of praise seem adequate to express the appreciation due the unselfish and tireless committee of Upper Peninsula boys who so freely gave their time and resources to make the 1920 outing one of the most enjoyable in the history of the M.P.A. Nothing that would add to the comfort of the guests was overlooked.

Visits to Paul Bunyan's Camp served to awaken memories of former days in the minds of many of the older members, recalling the days of the call of "Timber," of the peavey and the cant-hook, of the rollways, the river drive, the booming grounds and the yawning maw of the hungry gang-saw transforming an entire log into lumber at one cut, but making nearly as much sawdust as lumber.

A dead deer is only meat, but a live deer in the woods is a joy and a delight to every visitor who sees one. This was evident from the many "Ah's" and "Oh's" which greeted every glimpse of one of the beautiful animals along the road or the river. On the return trip from Tahquamenon Falls Sunday evening three young deer were sighted out in the open and the hundred passengers on the "Toonerville Trolley" had an opportunity to witness the beautiful sight before the deer finally scampered unconcernedly away, only to come loping back to their feeding grounds before the car was well past them. This was within eighty rods of Soo Junction, the terminal of the trolley line.

There's an Easy Way to Prevent Road Dust!

ROAD DUST, like many other dangerous, annoying afflictions, can be controlled with a simple, easy remedy. Tiny flakes, called Dowflake Calcium Chloride, spread upon the road surface, end road dust effectively. Many thousands of residents now enjoying freedom from dust are amazed at the ease with which dust is controlled with Dowflake.

Ask your officials for relief from dust. Get your friends and neighbors to petition for clean, efficient, inexpensive dust control. Auto clubs, civic organizations and others, are all vitally interested because dust is so wasteful. They almost invariably lend their support to any movement to end the dust nuisance.

Dowflake Calcium Chloride is a clean, odorless, non-tracking material that prevents dust by absorbing moisture from the air. As soon as applied, it melts itself into the road surface—leaves no detrimental after effects. It simply gives the appearance of a light rainfall—keeps the road moist, firm, well-bound.

In asking for dust control specify the clean Dowflake method. You don't want a cure as bad as the trouble, as is often the case when messy, sticky, easily tracked preparations are used. If you want clean dust prevention ask for it. A neighborhood petition is almost always successful.

AL WATROUS WINS GREAT LAKES OPEN

DISPLAYED STEADY BRAND OF GOLF IN TURNING IN TOTAL OF 283 FOR 72 HOLES

Walter Hagen, 1929 Champion, Finished in Second Place;
Tommy Armour, Detroit, Al Espinoza, Chicago, Shared Third Money; Gamber Fifth

Al Watrous, Detroit, last Thursday won the second annual Great Lakes open golf championship here. The Michigan State open title-holder shot a score of 283 for 72 holes, three strokes out in front of the field.

Walter Hagen, who finished in second place with a total of 286, lost the only title he has held in the past year or more. Tied in third place were Tommy Armour, Detroit, the master iron shot, and Al Espinoza, the dark-haired Chicago shot-maker. Their cards for the 72 holes were 289.

Clarence Gamber, known as golf's longest hitter, brought up in fifth place with 295. Trailing him by three strokes for the next 60 seconds was Emmitt French, veteran pro from Southern Pines, North Carolina. The four others who finished in the money were: R. Croslin, Chicago; Jake Fessesse, Owosso; Mike Tansey, George Hamlin, Mackinaw Island, and Eddie Kirk, Detroit.

Displays Steady Game
Watrous, displaying a good brand of steady golf, was in front of the field from the opening day. At the close of Tuesday's round he led Hagen, the champion, by two strokes. His morning round that day showed a 73, one over par, and in the afternoon he breezed in with a 69, three below perfect figures.

At the opening of Thursday's play, it looked like a toss-up between Watrous, Hagen and Armour. Armour scored a 31 for the lowest first nine ever carded on the Belvedere course Thursday morning, his card showing four birdies and one eagle for a total of 69. But for a six on the par-four thirteenth, Tommy would have broken the course record. In the afternoon he faltered badly, finishing with a 75, three over par.

Francis Ryan of Detroit, former Oakland Hills club champion, and one of the favored entries to win the state amateur crown here this week, finished low among the simon-pures with a card of 304.

A Welcome Arrival

FIGHT CARD WAS FULL OF ACTION

FIVE BOUTS WENT TO DRAW
LAST THURSDAY NIGHT

Small Crowd Out for American Legion Program—Dates of Next Show Still Indefinite

With the exception of attendance, the American Legion boxing show staged last Thursday evening at the gymnasium was all and more than expected.

Jimmy Harvey of Lansing, and Jimmy Russo of Pontiac, two of Michigan's outstanding fly-weights, put on a whirlwind finish in the final ten-round bout of the double wind-up. The two boys were very evenly matched. Probably Russo was slightly the more aggressive, but the veteran Harvey's experience and defense more than evened things up. Both boys landed often and hard, and Referee McMullin's draw decision was popular.

The other ten-rounder was full of action. For the first five frames the two boys battled on practically equal terms. Martin Houck of Detroit, did most of the leading, but Deshonne's defense was baffling, making the Detroit boy look foolish at times. The tough Sailor managed to get under Houck's punches for the first five rounds, but from then on he took plenty of hard ones. Houck's advantage of height and reach began to tell and had it not been that Deshonne was a tough one, the fight might have finished before going the entire route. The referee's score card gave Houck the advantage.

In the last prelim, Cecil Yettaw got in the way of so many of Frank Winnick's punches that State Commissioner Dave Gudelsky stopped the fight in the third frame. Yettaw went down for a count of nine in the first and in the second took a wallop that put him through the ropes. Yettaw came back fighting every time, but was apparently no match for Winnick, who had a weight advantage and looked the more experienced.

Ted Gravelin, local fighter, and Eugene Nelson, Cicero, Ill., fought four snappy rounds to a draw. It was a good contest. In the curtain-opener, Marvin Dixon and Young Browne were more than willing. They received a big hand for their efforts.

The next American Legion show will feature all-amateur boxers from Charlevoix and vicinity. The date announced by Promoters Powers and Stout is Thursday evening, July 31.

PLANS FOR REGATTA SHOWING PROGRESS

Present Interest Indicates Best Event in History of Club

Plans are going forward for the annual Charlevoix regatta, to be staged August 9 and 10 under the auspices of the Charlevoix Boat Club.

Present interest being manifest in the event would indicate the largest entry of boats in its history. Many new fast runabouts have been added to the fleet here this summer and competition in this division will be keen.

Final arrangements will be made during the coming week, and complete announcements will soon be available.

FISH HATCHERY INTEREST SPOT

ACQUARIUM THERE GREAT ATTRACTION TO TOURISTS

Many Species of Local Fish Life On Display—Lake Michigan Bathing Beach Popular Place

One of the most interesting spots to tourists visiting Charlevoix and the northern Michigan region this summer, is the U. S. Fish hatchery on Lake Michigan. Visiting closely for popularity honors is the city maintained bathing beach, where playground equipment has been installed for entertainment of visitors.

Supt. Hoofnagle of the government hatchery has gathered an interesting group of fish for the hatchery aquarium, which has been opened for public inspection for several weeks. Each of the several tanks contains some specimen of fish life native of this region. In one are steelhead trout. In another are several bass and huck-heads. When not disturbed, these fish lie in the water upside-down, creating great interest. Other tanks contain specimens of goldfish and albino brook trout. Another tank containing several albino trout of fingerling size is a great attraction.

In the main hatchery is a trough containing 27,000 fingerling steelhead trout. The spawn was sent here from the Pacific coast. They now have reached the fingerling stage and will be planted in adjacent waters late in the summer. The Charlevoix Association of Commerce is providing funds to buy food for the fish until they are ready to plant.

Visitors are invited to the hatchery at any time, and it is well worth the time to look over the exhibit. However, because of trouble in previous years, children must be accompanied when they visit the hatchery. Tanks have been broken and otherwise tampered with in the past. Local youth have proven the greatest trouble makers and have caused this stringent rule to be insisted upon.

Playground equipment, which includes slides, swings, teeter boards, etc., are proving extremely popular with local and summer people alike at the Lake Michigan bathing beach. The city park commission has kept this equipment in good shape and their efforts are being well repaid.

STATE AMATEUR GOLF BATTLE ON

STRONGEST FIELD IN HISTORY TEED OFF THIS MORNING IN CHASE FOR JOHNNY MALLOY'S VACANT TITLE

James D. Standish, L. L. Bredin, Dave Ward, Three Former Champions, Listed in Strong Entry—Qualifying Round Today and Match Play Thursday and Friday—Finals Saturday

One of the strongest fields in the history of the tournament teed off Wednesday morning at the Belvedere course in the qualifying round of the 23rd annual Michigan state amateur golf championship battle.

Actual entries in the hands of James D. Standish numbered 146 Tuesday afternoon and before the play got under way Wednesday morning were expected to reach the 160 mark. In addition to the regular field when the tournament is held in the metropolitan area, many amateurs from northern Michigan resort clubs have entered, swelling the total considerably.

No less than three former champions are listed in the field who will battle it out for the title vacated by Johnny Malloy, Ann Arbor star, who was thrice winner. James D. Standish, who first won the title back in 1909 and repeated in 1912, 1913 and 1924, is entered, also L. L. Bredin of Detroit, champion in 1919-21, and Dave Ward of Big Rapids, title holder in 1926. Other outstanding contenders are William Courtney, Detroit district title holder; Francis Ryan, runner-up a year ago; Frank Connolly, for two years Detroit district champ; Chris Brinke, former Kentucky amateur champion and last year's Detroit district titleist; Harry Allen, Grand Rapids veteran and Johnny Bergelin, former U. of M. star.

Judging from the quality of the field and golf shot during practice rounds Monday and Tuesday, the 32 who qualify for the championship flight will have to shoot under 80. Chris Brinke carded a 68 Monday, four better than perfect figures for the 72-par course. Other scores near par figures were brought in.

43 Clubs Represented.
Represented in the field are 43 clubs as follows:

Detroit District Clubs—Western, Lechmoor, Barton Hills, Washtenaw, Detroit golf club, Oakland hills, Brooklands, Bloomfield Hills, Birmingham, Dearborn, Indianwood, Meadowbrook, Detroit Country club, Thorncliffe, Red Run, Forest Lake, Plum Hollow, Plymouth Country club, Pine Lake Country club.

OFFICERS RAID SUMMER COTTAGE

LARGE QUANTITY BEER AND WHISKEY TAKEN SUNDAY

John Knight Arrested on Possession Charge—Fined $1,000 at Special Court Session Tuesday

Following the issuance of a search warrant Sunday by Prosecuting Attorney Rollie L. Lewis, Sheriff Dave Vaughan, Deputies Henry Cook and Charles Marshall, and State Troopers Black and Kozowicz of Cheboygan, raided the John Knight summer home on Belvedere avenue late that afternoon.

Twenty-six cases of beer, 10 gallons of gin, eight sacks containing an assortment of whiskeys in quarts and pints and a number of other small containers filled with bottled whiskey were seized. Officers made three trips each with two cars, transferring the liquor to the county jail.

Knight was arrested and charged with possession of liquor. He waived examination before Justice Robert Withers and furnished $1,000 cash bond for his release after being bound over to circuit court.

The raid and subsequent arrest came after numerous complaints had been lodged by local citizens. Neighbors protested being kept awake all night while wild orgies were in progress. Others complained of Knight speeding with his car while intoxicated and still others protested his manipulation of a speed boat at all hours of night.

At a special session of court Tuesday afternoon, Judge Parm C. Gilbert of Traverse City, sentenced Knight to pay a fine of $1,000. In addition he was placed under probation for a period of two years and requested to sign a search warrant allowing officers to search his place at any time.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c to try at the Central Drug Store, the Rexall store.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hensel for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Holeccheck and two children of Detroit, arrived here last Friday, where they are enjoying a vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Holeccheck and other relatives.

Mrs. William Alward and her niece, Mrs. E. W. Publou, were joint hostesses at an afternoon tea at the Publou cottage last Thursday. Proceeds were given to the Norwood L. A. S.

FREE OF STOMACH TROUBLE THANKS TO NEW KONJOLA

Astounded At Quick and Complete Relief New and Different Medicine Gave Him

MR. D. W. GOUGH

"Before I tried Konjola, my stomach was in such poor shape that food did me no good," said Mr. D. W. Gough, 354 Ferry avenue, Pontiac, Michigan. "It did not digest properly, and I had pains in the pit of my stomach all the time. Terrible headaches made it almost impossible for me to do my work. I tried different medicines, but could not get the slightest relief."

"I heard and read a great deal about this new medicine, Konjola, and thought I would give it a trial. The first bottle did me no more good than any other medicine tried. Four bottles relieved every pain in my stomach and the headaches are a thing of the past. I am going on with this wonderful medicine, knowing that new and glorious health will be my reward."

That's the kind of medicine Konjola is... one that keeps the faith; that brings results; that makes good. From six to eight bottles are recommended as a complete treatment.

Konjola is sold in Charlevoix, Michena, at F. J. Fessenden's drug store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section.

ATWOOD

Haying is about over. Nice rain Sunday night. Lots of wild raspberries.

Ralph VanHouten had a horse killed by lightning Sunday night. Seth VanHouten and wife of Detroit, are here visiting relatives and friends.

A baby boy at the Christian Reform parsonage, so we hear. Congratulations.

Glenn LaPres and Ethan Joliffe were estimating the radish and pea crops last week for the Leonard Seed Co., of Chicago.

Charles Brush has sold his farm to a party in Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Brush have not decided as to where they will make their future home.

We hear that Mrs. Hannah Blow has sold her farm to a party near Chicago. The same man purchased the George Lord farm. Come on you city boys, some more good bargains yet.

Surely the Harwood lake is well visited. Mrs. George Parsons prepared supper for 18 last Friday. Time for a summer hotel. Dar Meech of Charlevoix made the statement last year, "A club house next year near the Harwood lake."

Harry Nash, editor of the Ellsworth Tradesman, has sold out to a party in East Jordan, and the paper will be continued the same as before, with the exception that the paper will be printed in East Jordan. Mr. Nash will do job printing in Traverse City. May success attend him.

The Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church have been holding their meetings of late in the Ethan Joliffe home, formerly the old John Joliffe home. About 5 o'clock lunch is served, and one of the members went to get their dishes, which had been placed in a basket. Nothing was to be found. Entrance was made by forcing open the back door. About a year ago Mr. Joliffe had 15 gallons of paint stolen.

BARNARD

Mrs. Hartung and family are moving to the Harkness house this week, from the Ball farm.

William McCormick of Indiana, has bought the Walter Ball farm and is moving onto it this week.

Several from Barnard attended the benefit dance at South Arm Grange hall on Saturday night.

Rev. Stanford was back in the pulpit Sunday after spending two weeks in summer school at East Lansing.

Mrs. Henry Vance and two children of Grand Rapids, visited their cousins, the Clyde Smith family, over Sunday.

EVELINE NEWS

Join the thousands who spend their vacations each year in SOUTHERN MICHIGAN

There is an unending variety of pleasures awaiting the vacationist in Southern Michigan. Hundreds of secluded lakes lie near the many busy industrial centers. The great, new Ambassador bridge—the beautiful University of Michigan campus—large industries that have made Michigan famous—hotels and shops that compare with the finest—tennis, golf, riding, baseball. And always beaches close by. You'll enjoy spending part of your vacation in Southern Michigan.

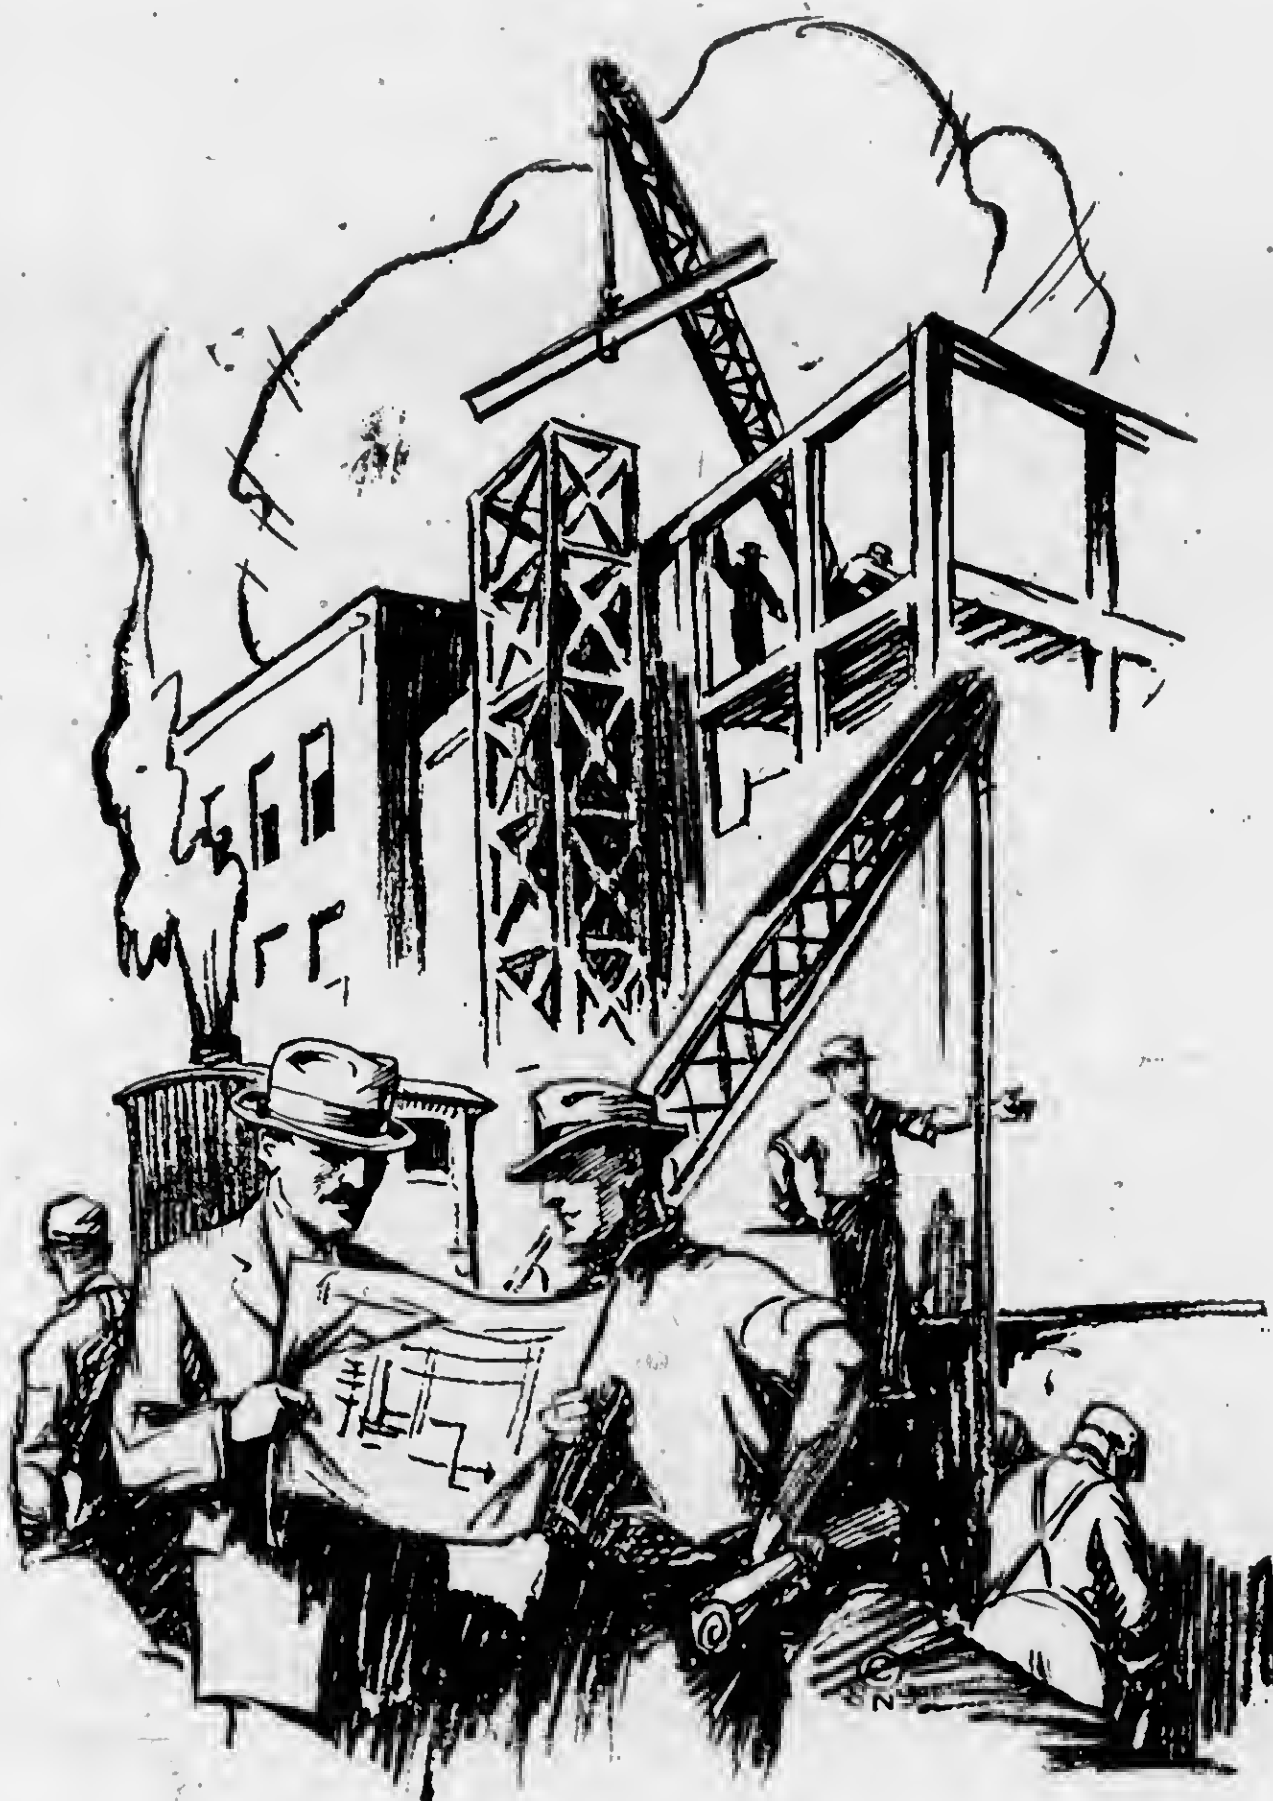

Long Distance telephone service reaches every point in Michigan, enabling you to keep in touch with home and office while away. An occasional call home will banish any uneasiness you may have about family or business and add to the pleasure of your vacation.

SPEND YOUR VACATION IN MICHIGAN

Charlevoix Will Grow

It is only natural that our community should aspire to greater progress. And to move forward on the Road to Progress, Charlevoix must have:

MORE POPULATION
CAPITAL
TRADE
PROSPERITY

Getting these things takes more than mere "boosting" by word of mouth. It takes definite action on the part of every loyal citizen in this community.

More population will come when we have convinced desirable outsiders that we have a morally and physically clean town, good churches and schools, efficient stores and opportunities for themselves and their children.

More industries and more capital will be glad to locate here if we show them that Charlevoix offers, them natural, commercial and civic advantages favorable to their businesses.

More trade and prosperity will come with increased population and added industries as well as by our present citizens being loyal in patronizing home merchants and professional people.

Only when every man, woman and child here gives active co-operation to our campaign of building a better community—will Charlevoix realize its civic ambitions.

We, the undersigned, Believers in Charlevoix, heartily endorse the above:

FROM HOURS TO MINUTES
Industry may boast of its efficiency but it has nothing on agriculture. When wheat was cut with a sickle and threshed by hand an acre required from 25 to 50 hours of labor for the harvesting of the crop. The introduction of the cradle cut about 10 hours from this previous requirement.

When the binder had been perfected the requirement for cutting and threshing from shock or stack was between four and five hours an acre.

When wheat was harvested with a header and threshed in a stationary machine another hour was cut from the time.

Today on the larger fields of the west a combination harvester and thresher is used.

Forty-five minutes is all the time that is required to make the grain from an acre of land ready for the elevator.

All of this change has come about in approximately 50 years.—Grand Rapids (Minn.) Herald-Review.

ASK CHILDREN TO GET INTO PARADE

Mothers Are Urged to Register for Annual Children's Event

Petoskey and northern Michigan mothers, and the summer folks in the surrounding resorts are urged to enroll their children for the annual Michigan Children's parade at Petoskey on Thursday, July 31. Mrs. C. J. Gray, head of the welfare work for which the funds from this parade go, said today that many mothers have apparently confused the annual Children's parade with the coming August pageant.

Hundreds of children are wanted for the Children's parade, the big event in Michigan in summer for the children. The parade is open to all children, whether they be from Petoskey, northern Michigan or the nearby summer resorts. All are wanted. They will appear in costume with their pets, dolls, on floats and on foot. Handsome prizes are offered to the best in each division of the parade.

Mothers are urged to phone Mrs. Henry Kilborn, parade chairman, and enter the names of their children. The names also may be left at the community rooms.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Charlevoix will be interested in the announcement that Charles J. Siminow, son of Mrs. Alice Siminow, this city, who has been in the coast guard service at Keweenaw since 1903, has been promoted to acting officer in charge of the station there. Before his promotion, Mr. Siminow was chief boatswain's mate.

T. M. Shaw of Grand Rapids, left this harbor Sunday on a cruise of northern waters. His yacht, "Half Moon," had been undergoing repairs at Hamilton's yards in preparation for the trip. In addition to George Turner, Mr. Shaw had three other guests from Grand Rapids who accompanied him on the cruise.

OSBORN APPEARS A POPULAR CANDIDATE

Press Reports Reveal Former Governor Has Strong Support

Press reports from all over the state lean so strongly in favor of Ex-Governor Chase S. Osborn's candidacy for the U. S. senatorship, there cannot help but be a decided surprise in store for those that had come to believe that Senator Couzens was unbeatable.

The farther Mr. Osborn gets into this race the more dangerous a contender he seems to be. Republican leaders all over the state are flocking to his support, because there has long been a feeling among those people that Senator Couzens could not be depended upon to back party principles and party practices in state and national affairs.

It is recognized that the primaries have seriously wrecked party platforms and party solidarity in state, county and local politics, and Mr. Couzens' independence has caused him to line up so many times with men opposed to long established party leadership no dependence can be placed upon him as a party representative.

FARMERS DAY AT M. S. C. ON AUG. 1

NEW LIVESTOCK BARN ARE TO BE DEDICATED

Thousands of Farmers and Their Families Expected to Attend—
Announce Contest Winners

Featured with the dedication of new livestock and poultry barns, the program for the 13th annual Farmers' day to be held at Lansing August 1, has been announced from Michigan State college. More than 6,500 farmers from every part of the state attended last year's activities.

Farmers or members of their families who have excellent judgment in estimating the production records of cows, poultry or who can compute the weights of beef cattle, horses, hogs and sheep will have an opportunity to win prizes of pure-bred livestock in the contests.

In the production contests, visitors will estimate the amount of milk which a group of cows, to be exhibited, produce in an hour. The winner of the contest will receive a pure-bred bull calf. A prize of pure-bred poultry is offered for winning the production judging contest for hens.

A pure-bred colt will be given to the winner of the weight judging contest on horses. The best estimators of the weights of groups of beef cattle, hogs and sheep will receive pure-bred animals as awards.

Those who doubt their ability to judge livestock will be given a chance to show their skill in identifying grain for a prize of enough Spartan seed barley to sow ten acres.

Only farmers or members of their families are eligible to enter the contests.

Charles S. Wilson, of the Federal Farm board, is scheduled as main speaker. He will explain some of the aims of the board and what they plan to accomplish in assisting farmers in bettering marketing conditions.

C. A. Beamer, Blissfield, president of the National Livestock Shipping association, will deliver an address of dedication for the six new units of livestock buildings which are completed or under construction.

Three barns are built for experimental work with beef cattle, sheep and horses. Another will house the college beef cattle herd, and the fifth will house the breeding horse herd. The college poultry plant completes the list of new buildings.

ARBITERS SET PRICE ON DEFUNCT RAILROAD

Boyer City, Gaylord & Alpena Properties Are Appraised

A board of three arbiters selected to fix a price that the New York Central Railroad company is to pay for the Boyer City, Gaylord and Alpena railroad and properties, have set the value of the property at $1,031,017. Just about $1,313,000 more than the line of rust and ruin is worth.

The road was originally begun in 1903 and was at first only 7.3 miles long, but it gradually reached across the state as new timber tracts were harvested until now it boasts of 91 miles of track, and it has not made enough money for years to pay its taxes.

By some hokus pokus or curious construction of interstate commerce laws the powers that have decreed that someone that has invested money in those lines must get his money back and to do that, the New York Central railway company has been selected as the goat. Just how far that goat proposes to be ridden and milked remains to be seen, and that won't be long, now that a price has been fixed.

People living and owning property along that line "throw" various kinds of fits when word trickles through that the road will be abandoned. However, why continue it as a losing venture? Why attempt to continue a line that cannot possibly attract enough business to warrant a dependable service. Already the automobiles and the trucking service established between towns along the line are depended upon more than the railroad. —Cheboygan Observer.

TRANSIT CO. OFFERS ATTRACTIVE CRUISES

Schedules of "Manitou" and "Puritan" Arranged for Excursions

The Michigan Transit Corporation of Chicago announces for the summer of 1930 a series of lake excursions aboard the steamers "Manitou" and "Puritan," the most interesting of which, for residents of Charlevoix and its environs is the Mackinac Island trip.

Leaving from Charlevoix, Petoskey or Harbor Springs on Saturday aboard the "Manitou" and returning Sunday by the same ship, this excursion should prove a popular one, since it offers a week-end trip through the Straits of Mackinac to the scenic Isle at a price, including meals and berth, well within the reach of every one.

A one day continuous excursion from Harbor Springs or Petoskey to Charlevoix and return is also listed. The excursionist desiring to make this trip may leave either Petoskey or Harbor Springs on each Thursday morning throughout the summer on the Manitou, returning from Charlevoix on the Puritan the same day.

Another cruise opportunity for tourists and resorters, offering what is thought to be the best side trip on the Great Lakes, is the excursion to Sault Ste. Marie and return. On this trip the traveller may leave here on Tuesday and return Thursday. Meals and berth are included in a very attractive price.

B. J. Kennedy of Chicago is the passenger traffic manager for the company. Capt. O. E. Wilbur of this place is in charge of the dock at Charlevoix and is the local agent.

ST. MARY CHURCH Fr. R. E. Fitzpatrick, Pastor

Low mass at 8:00 a. m., and high mass at 10:00 a. m. on first, third and fifth Sundays at Charlevoix. Mass every week day except Saturday at 8:00 a. m. at Charlevoix. The pastor goes to Bay Shore on the second and fourth Sundays and on all Saturdays.

No Time Wasted On Farmers Day

Demonstrations and exhibits will fill in any spare moments left by the contests and speaking program which has been arranged for farmers' day, Friday, August 1.

Baling alfalfa from the field will be one of the demonstrations arranged by the agricultural engineering department. This department will also exhibit grain elevating machinery and farm electrical equipment.

The college experimental plots will be ready for inspection and guides from the various departments will be along the route to explain the purposes of the various experiments. A new poultry plant and five barns, now being constructed, will also be points of interest for campus visitors. These buildings are all south of the Red Cedar river.

Contests begin early in the morning and continue until noon. Prizes of money, seed grain, and livestock will be awarded to the winners.

Charles S. Wilson, member of the Federal farm board; C. A. Beamer, president of the National Livestock Shipping association, and members of the college staff will appear on the afternoon program.

Beekeepers Plan Tour for August
Michigan and Ohio beekeepers have planned a four-day auto tour starting August 5 at the Adrian court house and finishing August 8 at Sault Ste. Marie. Over night stops will be made in East Lansing, Manistee, Petoskey, and Sault Ste. Marie.

Specialists in apiculture at Michigan State college state that advance inquiries concerning the tour indicate an attendance which will exceed last year's record of 250. Members of the tour can camp, obtain rooms in private homes or in hotels at each of the towns in which night stops are made.

The yards of prominent beekeepers along the route will be inspected and authorities in apiculture will give talks at some of the stops. Visits will be made to some commercial orchards where the use of bees to increase the set of fruit is now a regular practice.

At one point in the upper peninsula, a set of experimental plots where tests are being made of the effect of the work of bees upon the crop of clover seed will be shown to the beekeepers.

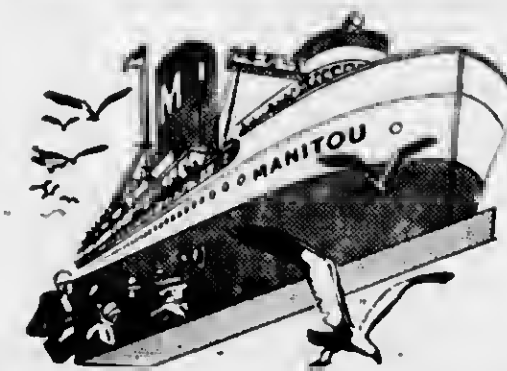

TO MUCH SUN

As the first hot days of summer come there is real danger for some susceptible individuals who are obliged to work in the fierce rays of the sun. Persons who have suffered sunstroke or heat prostration, or those having a high blood pressure are especially sensitive. Even the one in normal health does well to take his dose of summer sun by degrees.

The Michigan Tuberculosis association advises the worker to take a little rest in the hottest part of the day. Seek some jobs that can be done in the shade. Get a little more sleep than usual. Eat less meat and substitute green vegetables and fresh fruit. Drink cold water as required but be careful as to ice cold drinks. Let the man in poor health be especially careful. Deaths from sunstroke and heatstroke are very commonly those of people whose health was below par to begin with.

WEEKLY CAMP CHARLEVOIX NEWS COLUMN

Edited by Gahn Kinnison

Camp Charlevoix's 4th annual carnival, held at the Lumberlost last Saturday, went off without a hitch and was thoroughly enjoyed by a large crowd. Visitors from all over the state were present. Kamp Kairphree's attractive girl campers attended en masse, contributing two numbers to the program.

At 2:30 o'clock the side shows opened for business and a profitable business it was, too. The various booths were: "Hit the Nigger Baby," "House of Fun," "Freaks," "Ring-Toss," "Fish Pond," "Bingo," a form of lotto.

At 3:30 o'clock the side shows closed and the crowd adjourned to the club house for an interesting program. The performance was opened with a comic skit, "Lost, But Found" by eight of the campers. Next, a pretty little vocal selection, "The Wind," was rendered by one of Kairphree's women counselors. This was followed by several witty musical numbers played and sung by George Alder, John Olwin, Fred Morris and Don Wheeler, counselors, and Pete Morris, a camper. David Lning, another camper, sang an entertaining little Scotch ditty, in dialect. The concluding number on the indoor program was a clever little play, "The Fatal Quest," enacted by a cast of Kairphree girls. The audience then retired to the bank in front of the club-house, where the outdoor portion of the entertainment was held.

John Olwin, head of the horse department, first demonstrated the performing abilities of Black Beauty, one of the animals. She "shook hands" with any hoof, and stood on her hind legs. While the rest of the horses were being lined up preparatory to the exhibition, Don Wheeler and Clare Kafer, visiting photographer, shot a few rounds with the bow and arrow. In conclusion, 15 campers demonstrated some snappy maneuvers in horsemanship. A total of $104 was taken in, of which "Ring Toss" drew $10; "Fun House" $9.50; "Fish Pond" $9. The refreshment stand amassed over $69 of the total receipts. The total profit has not yet been ascertained.

The 20 luck campers who enrolled before January 1st are looking eagerly forward to what is known as the Canadian trip. Each year Lewis C. Reimann, camp director, takes this group of boys for a six-day trip into the wilds of Canada. They specialize in trout fishing. This trip will start the latter part of this week and at the same time, the three cabins having the highest rating in daily inspection will be leaving for a stay at Beaver Island, one of Michigan's beauty spots. The rest of the camp will go in various directions on four or five-day hikes.

DEDICATED TORCH LAKE CAMP SUNDAY

Large Crowd Present to Hear Prominent State Speakers

Sunday, July 20, was the date of the dedication of the new lodge and other new equipment at Camp Hayo-Went-Ha on Torch lake, the state Y. M. C. A. camp for boys.

The morning chapel service, conducted by the boys themselves, was intensely interesting with a timely address by F. B. Freeman, state executive secretary.

The dedicatory service of the afternoon was impressive. Charles E. Allinger of Detroit, chairman of the state committee, was chairman for the afternoon. He first introduced Dr. A. G. Studer, the Detroit secretary, who offered the invocation. One of the camp leaders led in a unique Hayo-Went-Ha song in which all the campers, past and present, joined heartily. J. A. VanDis of Akron, Ohio, who was the first boys' work secretary of Michigan and first camp director of Hayo-Went-Ha, gave an interesting account of some "Memories" of the beginnings of the camp.

Miss Hathaway, whose father wrote the poems containing the legends about the unselfish Indian character, Hayo-Went-Ha, after whom the camp is named, was present and paid tribute to him.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bonbright of Flint, donors of the funds which made the new lodge and equipment possible, were present and after a fitting talk by Mr. Bonbright, he presented the keys which were received by C. W. Wagner of Ann Arbor on behalf of the state association and the boys of the camp.

The center of the whole program was the address by C. A. Nyman of Detroit, state Y. M. C. A. treasurer. It was an exceedingly warm afternoon and not easy to sit and listen, yet Mr. Nyman held the attention of his audience without difficulty. He spoke of the various rooms and departments of the new lodge, showing us the purpose on the part of the donor in including them and the benefit to the boys who will be privileged to make use of them. Some of the advantages offered by the new lodge are equipment for work in nature study, air plane modeling, aviation motors, brass modeling, leather work, bow and arrow making, and taxidermy. Competent leaders are provided to instruct in each of these branches.

L. E. Buell, former state secretary, in whose mind the possibilities and ideals of Camp Hayo-Went-Ha originated, to a great extent, gave the dedicatory prayer.

After the service, the representatives of the northern district had the privilege of meeting representatives of the state staff and to hear short talks by Mr. Allinger, Mr. Buell, Mr. Freeman and Doctor Studer.

IRONTON TO HAVE ELECTRIC POWER SOON

Ironton, according to reports, will in the near future have electric service, this to be supplied by the Public Service corporation.

The promotion work for the project is practically finished satisfactory to patrons and the company. The latter will at once proceed with construction work and possibly will deliver current to patrons before the close of the resort season for both light, heat and power purposes.

SCHOOL BAND WILL GO TO INTERLOCHEN

Take Part in Massed Band Concert There Next Sunday

On Sunday morning, July 27th, at 11 o'clock, the Charlevoix school band and their leader, John TerWee, will leave for Interlochen to take part in a joint concert of northern Michigan school bands.

They will be at Interlochen for rehearsal at one o'clock and for the concert at 3 o'clock. It is expected a large group of music lovers and band boosters will go along to hear the two concerts, one by the National school band at 3 o'clock, and by the orchestra at 7:30 in the evening.

A panoramic photograph will be taken of the massed bands with Sousa directing.

A few more cars are needed to transfer band members. Those making the trip are asked to leave word at Wood Bros., and be at the high school at 11 o'clock sharp.

HORSE RACES LISTED SATURDAY, AUGUST 2

Afternoon Program at East Jordan Fair Grounds—Twenty Entered

The race committee of the Charlevoix County Agricultural society announced Wednesday morning through C. J. Winder, local member of the committee, that a program of horse races would be given Saturday afternoon, August 2, at the East Jordan fair grounds.

While events for the afternoon program have not been completed as yet, a line-up of 20 horses is assured. A full program will be available for publication next week.

ity of importance. A glance at hotel registers, which are far ahead of the 1929 figures for this date, shows business to be excellent. There is no doubt but what the city's entertainment features are the drawing card. Incidentally, there will be no idle weeks for the balance of the season and Charlevoix may look ahead with confidence to a continuance of present conditions.

At the close of the golf tourney last Thursday, officials of the Great Lakes Golf association were not sure that a professional tournament would be repeated in 1931. There is talk of staging a championship for women, which would bring such stars as Glenna Collett, Maurine Orcutt, Virginia VanWie and others of note. It would be a great event.

Speaking of golf tournaments, there is a very good possibility that the state amateur will be repeated here next summer, also the state women's championships. Whatever course is taken, there will be some fine attractions.

METHODIST CHURCH

On Sunday morning at 10:30 we are to have the special privilege of hearing Evelyn Riley Nicholson, wife of Bishop Thomas Nicholson.

Mrs. Nicholson is National Woman's Missionary president, and a prominent author on world peace. She was a special delegate to the World Christian Council at Jerusalem and will probably speak on that subject next Sunday. It promises to be a decidedly interesting topic and should have a large hearing by all Christian people.

Church school is at 9:30. Epworth League is at 8:30 with special program for youth.

Evening worship at 7:30 and is an opportune hour for those who are hindered from the morning service.

On Friday evening at 8:00 the Kitchen Kraft company invites the public to an interesting talk on health and natural foods, to be given in the basement of the church. A free lunch will be served. No charges, nothing sold. Fathers and mothers are especially requested to be present.

MICHIGAN AIR EX- PRESS CONNECTIONS

Offer Four-Hour Service Between Grand Rapids and Chicago

From Chicago and Detroit in four hours is the service offered to resorters who are spending their vacations in northern Michigan by the Michigan Air Express, operating an air route between Grand Rapids, Cadillac, Traverse City, Charlevoix, Petoskey and Harbor Springs. Excellent air-rail connections are also made by the air express, enabling the busy resorter to spend his spare moments in the region, no matter how far distant his place of business may be.

With two planes leaving and returning to Grand Rapids daily on morning and afternoon service, the Stinson-Detrolter cabin planes of the Michigan Air Express provide comfortable service over a route made delightful by silver lakes, winding rivers, and green-tinted woods and fields over which the planes make their course.

Connections with the Köhler aviation corporation at the Grand Rapids airport allows through service to Milwaukee and other Wisconsin localities, as well as air ports of southern and eastern United States since the Grand Rapids port is a regular stop for planes that reach Chicago, Indianapolis, Columbus, and Pennsylvania cities.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN ANSWERS LAST CALL

John Miller Died Thursday Following An Extended Illness

John Miller, one of Charlevoix's three remaining Civil war veterans, answered the last call Thursday when he passed away at his home on South State street. He had been in ill health for several years and for the past nine weeks was confined to his bed.

Deceased was born June 10th, 1846, at Ogdensburg, N. Y. At the age of 18 years he joined the Union army, serving with Co. D, 39th New York volunteers from September 5, 1864, until mustered out at Alexandria, Va., June 10, 1865. He saw action in the battle of Five Forks just before Lee's surrender.

Mr. Miller came to Michigan nearly 60 years ago. He lived on a farm in Eveline township until moving to Charlevoix in 1900.

On June 2nd, 1902, Mr. Miller married Elizabeth Dougherty, whom together with a daughter, Mrs. Bert Jones, survive.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon from the Methodist church, Rev. John E. Lockyer officiating. Members of Leslie T. Shapton Post, American Legion, acted as pall bearers, and Baxter Relief Corp conducted services at the grave in Brookside cemetery.

SHRINERS COMING HERE ON SATURDAY

Grand Rapids Temple Has Own Band and Thirty-Man Patrol

The annual vacation tour of the members of the Grand Rapids Shriner will bring to Charlevoix on Saturday, July 26, a group of from 100 to 150 members of Saladin Temple, in the Furniture City. The band will number 50 pieces while the patrol will have about 30 members, and will be headed by Potentate C. C. Slemons.

C. H. Hoffman, assistant chairman of the entertainment of the Temple, was in the city conferring with local representatives relative to the plans for their stay here and at Petoskey, their next stop.

The party will arrive Saturday forenoon at 10 o'clock from Traverse City. The patrol will give drills on Clinton street in front of Northern Auto Co. The trip is a three-day one, covering western Michigan cities and towns.

ANNUAL HOSPITAL TAG DAY AUG. 9TH

Miss Caroline Geiken Will Be in Charge of Annual Drive

The board of trustees of the Charlevoix hospital, have announced that the annual tag day drive will be held this year on Saturday, August 9th.

The drive will be in charge of Miss Caroline Geiken, who will make all the necessary plans. She will be assisted by the board of trustees of the hospital and the auxiliary board.

Charlevoix citizens and summer resorters will be asked to donate liberally as they always have in previous years. Further announcements will be made as plans progress.

Card of Thanks
We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to the W. R. C., the American Legion, also to our friends who sent beautiful flowers, and other ways that sympathy was shown. Mrs. Elizabeth Miller and family.—Adv.

PLAN HAVEN FOR HAY FEVER CLAN

CAMP MANITOU TO OFFER FACILITIES DURING FALL

Care of Patients and Their Recreation Will Be Features—Many Improvements Being Made

To follow up the success of their initial season, B. D'Amico, owner, and Saul Rose, director, of Camp Manitou, the new adult summer camp on Lake Charlevoix near Ironton, are making plans for a continuance of operations throughout the early fall months.

Summer vacationists have found Camp Manitou a pleasant recreation spot so far this season. The round of activities, together with its natural resources and added conveniences have won loud praise from all who have taken advantage of the camp. Some who came for only a few days are staying on week after week. Others have spent a week there and then returned and many are coming back for the month of August.

The supervised program of activities has been a great success. Facilities at the camp include tennis, volleyball, swimming, boating, etc., together with the evening entertainment features of dancing, dramas and social functions sponsored by the camp staff.

Mr. D'Amico's plans for the fall months are to establish a haven for hay fever patients who annually come to this region of water-washed air seeking relief. He plans to turn the camp facilities over to these people. A camp physician and dietician will be on hand to care for the guests and a social director will have charge of their entertainment. Full, busy days of recreation, with the view of keeping the patients' mind off his affliction, will be the routine.

An extensive advertising campaign in leading dailies of the middle west is being launched at once. A nominal fee, which will be within reach of all, is planned.

Improvements at Camp Manitou are being continued. Mr. D'Amico is contemplating landscaping the property south to the ferry road and will soon have under construction a number of cabins for use as a family camp where vacationists may come with their children. The scheme is to have the whole layout built from a landscaping design and it will be some little time before all is completed.

A camp garden is also promised another year to furnish vegetables, fruit, etc.

WARD BENNETT STOOD HIGH IN EXAMINATION

Stands in Line for Commander in Grand Haven District

Ward W. Bennett, a noncommissioned officer of the 10th district United States coast guard, stood first among 25 aspirants in examinations for the position of commander of that district, with headquarters in Grand Haven, it was announced Monday at the commandant's office, Washington.

It is probable that when recommendations are made for filling the position, Bennett will be recommended, coast guard officials stated. Bennett, who was born in Glen Haven, Mich., June 21, 1879, has been in the coast guard service for 26 years. He first served at Charlevoix. In 1927 he was commended for creditable work in the Mississippi flood, where he had charge of a squadron of small boats which brought medicine and food supplies to the stricken sufferers.

Bennett's present rating is that of warrant officer, chief boatswain, by the president's commission.

LANSING WOMAN DIED AT LOCAL HOSPITAL

Funeral Wednesday at M. E. Church for Mrs. Helen Dunn

Funeral services were held Wednesday at the Methodist church for Mrs. Helen May Dunn of Lansing, who died Monday at the Charlevoix hospital following an illness of several weeks. Rev. John E. Lockyer officiated and interment was at Lake-side cemetery, Ironton.

Mrs. Dunn was brought to the local hospital about a month ago for treatment. She was 21 years of age. Her mother, Mrs. Blanche Wilhelm, and an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley King, all of Lansing, are survivors.

VISITORS DAY AT BIOLOGICAL CAMP

Public Invited to Spend Afternoon of August 3 on Douglas Lake

The third annual visitors day of the Biological station of the University of Michigan will be held on Sunday, August 3, from 2 to 5 p. m. fast time. The general public is cordially invited to come and bring their friends.

Since the last visitors day in 1928 the physical plant has been greatly enlarged and improved and this is now the largest fresh-water biological station in the world. The entire plant, except living quarters, will be open for inspection. Educational exhibits illustrating the animals and plants of northern Michigan and investigations now in progress upon them will be displayed in the laboratories.

The biological station is located on the south shore of Douglas lake near the old Cheboygan-Petoskey state road. For the convenience of the public, the roads from Pellston, Cheboygan, Topinabee, will be posted with biological station signs, and ample parking space will be provided for cars.

"Come and bring your friends. Remember the date and hours—Sunday, August 3, from 2 to 5 p. m. fast time. Everything is free," reads the announcement.

OPEN TENNIS TOURNAMENT UNDER WAY

PLAY STARTED MONDAY AFTER-NOON AT THE INN COURTS

Strong Field in Men's Singles Division and Play Had Reached Third Round Wednesday

The 5th annual Charlevoix open tennis tournament, sponsored by the Charlevoix Tennis club at The Inn clay courts, got under way on Monday afternoon of this week.

Entries in all divisions of play are somewhat smaller than in former years, but in spite of this fact, the talent is more than up to the standard.

Play in the second round of men's singles had been completed by Wednesday noon. Several third round matches had also been played and the remainder scheduled in the afternoon. Those who have successfully entered the third round are William Witherspoon of St. Louis, Mo., and B. Buttrick of Sequanota resort. These two players, along with V. Goldsmith of Detroit, 2nd player on the University of Michigan team, are favored to reach the semi-finals.

A good entry is competing in the junior boys' division. Ages in this class are between 15 and 18 years, and competition between the younger players is quite keen. First round and several second round matches have been completed in this division.

Play in the division for boys 13 years of age has reached the semi-finals in the upper half of the bracket. Dick Sider of Detroit, has entered the semi-finals and today's play will decide the winner in the lower bracket.

Other divisions of play are men's doubles, junior girls' singles and singles for girls of 13. Some few of the matches have been completed.

On account of the small entry, play is being confined largely to the afternoon and good galleries are on hand each day to watch the progress of the tournament. It is probable that all matches will be completed by Friday and finals held the following day.

WILD LIFE EXHIBIT LOCAL COUNTY FAIR

Directors Cooperate With Conservation Department

Wild life exhibits will be shown by the department of conservation at 27 of Michigan's fairs during the coming fall, it has been announced by the educational division.

The conservation commission, in selecting the fairs at which exhibits will be shown was guided not only by the applications for these exhibits, but by the aggregate attendance at these fairs, the agreement of the fair boards to pay half of the cost, and the limited departmental funds available for the purpose.

Among places at which department exhibits will be shown this fall is the Charlevoix county fair.

DETROIT YOUTH AMATEUR CHAMP

SHOT UNDER PAR IN 36 HOLE FINAL ROUND SATURDAY TO WIN 9 AND 7 FROM FOUR-TIMES FORMER CHAMP

Was One Over Par Figures at End of Morning Round and Slaughtered Old Man Par on Second Eighteen for One of Best Scores Ever Carded on Belvedere Golf Club Course

Finishing with four successive birdies, Charles Kocis, 17-year-old Redford high school student playing from the Lochaven Country club, became the twenty-third amateur golf champion of Michigan at the Belvedere golf course Saturday afternoon. He defeated James D. Standish, Jr., of Country Club of Detroit, four times state champion, 9 and 7, in the final at Belvedere golf club.

Kocis was four under par for the 29 holes and was five under par for the 11 holes played in the afternoon.

Standish was four over par for the morning round and two over par in the afternoon. After a nervous start, Kocis settled to his task and left his veteran opponent few chances to win holes.

Standish played almost perfect golf for the first 14 holes of the match, but began pressing after Kocis took the lead on the fifteenth. In the afternoon Kocis made only one mistake, and Standish immediately took advantage of it to win a hole. He only won one other and had to score an eagle to do that, as Kocis was down for a birdie.

Short Game Superb

Hitting the longer ball off the tees gave Kocis a big advantage in playing his second shots. However, his short game was the determining factor. After the first nine holes his putting was deadly and his chip shots left him few putts of more than two feet. Whenever his second shots didn't reach the green, he chipped so close that Standish had no chance to do more than gain a half.

Standish putted well and with a better break on the greens would have carried his youthful opponent several holes further. In the afternoon round three of his putts failed to drop by an inch. He was seldom off the line on the greens, but could not get the ball to drop when it would either have won or halved a hole.

Kocis won his way to the finals for the first time by defeating in turn R. S. Montague, Jr., of Saginaw, Lewis L. Bredin, of Detroit Country club, William Courtney, of Western and George Craig, of Birmingham. Standish scored his victories over Eugene Hand, of Bay City, Ludwig Ludwigson, of Manistee, Warren Pease, Jr., of Brooklands, and Chris Brinke, of Plum Hollow.

Kocis Nervous at Start

Kocis, playing in his first major match play final, was nervous at the start. After both had reached the first green with fine second shots the youngster took three putts and lost the hole, missing a second putt of two feet.

Standish drove to the rough on the second hole and needed four shots to reach the green. Kocis was on with his second to win with a par four and square the match. They halved the third in par fours. Standish's seven foot putt for a birdie hit the cup and twisted out.

Neither reached the green off the tee on the 242-yard fourth. Standish pitched within four feet of the cup and dropped his putt. Kocis was two feet closer with his chip shot but missed his putt and was one down again. After slicing his second to the rough and taking four shots to reach the green Standish ran down his first putt for a par five to halve the fifth.

Kocis again evened the match on the sixth when he holed a 20-foot putt for a birdie three. The next two holes were halved in par figures. Kocis played a spectacular second shot to the ninth green while Standish couldn't get home with his second. Two putts gave Kocis a birdie four and a lead of one up at the turn.

Both Slice Around Dodgier

Another birdie four on the tenth ran his lead to two up. When Standish took a spoon to reach the eleventh green with his second shot Kocis thought he would need all the distance he could get from his No. 3 iron. His shot carried over the green. He pitched back and took three putts for six while Standish was down in a par four. They halved the twelfth in par.

After skying his tee shot and being short with his second, Standish pulled back on even terms on the thirteenth green. Kocis was on the green with his second but again three putted while Standish dropped his first one for a par four. The fourteenth was another halve in par threes.

The veteran's troubles began on the fifteenth. Both made remarkable sliced drives around the bend of the dogleg and reached the green with their second. Then Standish took three putts for the only time in the round and lost to a birdie four.

Inches from Pin

Playing into a strong head wind, neither reached the sixteenth green with a second shot. Kocis chipped within three inches of the pin but Standish rolled 10 feet beyond, rimmed the cup, and had to take a second putt.

Kocis ran his lead to three up on the seventeenth. His tee shot was on the green. Standish played badly for the pin and the wind hooked his ball to the side hill at the left of the green and the ball rolled 50 yards from the flag. Kocis played safely for his par three to win.

Both reached the edge of the eighteenth green with a second shot. (Continued on page 6.)

DROWNING IN LAKE CHARLEVOIX AVERTED

Raymond York Pushed from Pier—"Tubby" Gill Rescued Lad

Albert "Tubby" Gill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gill, was the hero of a near-drowning in Lake Charlevoix last Thursday.

In some manner Raymond York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon York, was pushed from The Inn pier while watching the swimmers. In his struggle, Raymond grabbed hold of young Gill, who managed after much effort to push him up onto the pier again. He had gone down twice and had a narrow escape from drowning.

PARADE BRINGS IN CLINIC FUND

Coming Event Will Give Needed Money to Aid Child Welfare Work

Northern Michigan folk and summer visitors interested in the coming annual children's parade, held for Thursday, July 31, at Petoskey, will be interested to know that the money raised through contributions that day will go toward child welfare work and the baby clinic maintained there.

The effort is seven years, having been started in 1923, and has grown constantly since then, until now the clinic is known as a northern Michigan affair. It attracts mothers and babies from Harbor Springs; Gaylord, Cheboygan, Onaway, Charlevoix, Boyne City, East Jordan, Alanson, Levering, Pellston and other cities around.

The child welfare work includes the supplying of milk and medicines, clothing, etc., to needy mothers and babies, and the visits of nurses, etc. Petoskey doctors and nurses give their time for the clinics. Dr. M. M. Kellogg handles the work in the summer and the other physicians take it over in the winter.

The county health nurse, Miss Katherine Warner, and the Petoskey school nurse, Miss Inez Barton, assist.

WORK ON PIERS IS PROGRESSING

POURING OF CONCRETE WAS STARTED THIS WEEK

Two Outfits With Mixers Working from Both Ends of Job—Improvement Is a Fine One

Charlevoix citizens who have been watching the progress of repairs on the piers between Round lake and Lake Michigan are now having an opportunity to see what the improvement will be like when completed.

The work of tearing out the old timbers has been completed for some time. New piles were driven along the outer edge of the channel where necessary and most of the anchor piling on the inside has been put in now. In place of former timber supports and cross pieces, the inside and outside rows of piles have been secured with long iron trusses and sheet piling on the outer section has been secured in the same manner, only using shorter trusses.

This week two large barges with cement mixer are engaged in the work of pouring concrete. Beyond the coast guard station, the new concrete piers have been started. They are divided into sections and the width will be sufficient for three four-foot sidewalks. This width of pier will be built from where the work has now started to a point several hundred feet east of the coast guard slip. From that point up the channel to the bridge, a narrow concrete pier will be built. Some of the sections are already in, and the work at both ends is progressing nicely.

Old timbers on the north side of the channel have been removed, but it is doubtful if any rebuilding will be done on that section this year. Much work has also been done on the upper channel between Round lake and Lake Charlevoix.

Col. A. P. Christophel of the U. S. engineering department, Milwaukee, is in charge of operations here and also at Petoskey, where breakwater repairs are being made. Other officials of the engineering department are paying visits here frequently to see how the work is progressing.

When completed the improvement will certainly be a credit to Charlevoix, and one that has been needed for some time.

ORGANIZE PATROL FOR DEER SHINERS

CONSERVATION DEPARTMENT OUT AFTER VIOLATORS

Shiners Use Automobile and Spot Lights as Latest Method of Illegal Night Operations

War has been declared by the department of conservation against deer shiners and Hugh E. Green, chief conservation officer, has returned from the upper peninsula after organizing deer shiner squads, groups of conservation officers working nights, and who will continuously patrol the entire deer area of the peninsula.

Modernized methods of deer shinning has forced his men to adopt better means of apprehension. Mr. Green said, following his investigation of the upper peninsula situation. The department is using organized and mobile squads to combat the "shiners," and it is hoped that by fall the "shiners" will be cleaned out of the woods.

"The squads we have organized will work entirely at night and will have no other duties but than to spot and catch deer shiners," Mr. Green said. "The squads will be properly equipped and will carry the authority of regular conservation officers. If the number of men we now have organized does not prove large enough, we will add more."

As in all other forms of law violations, conservation law breakers have adopted modern methods. Mr. Green said. A few years ago the deer shiner walked to the woods. On his head he carried a miner's lamp held fast with a strap. In his pocket he carried a can of carbide. Apprehension was relatively simple. If seen, the violator was easily caught, and the officer had the "goods" on him.

Today the deer shiner rides to some isolated road in an automobile. He stands in the car or beside it, using the spotlight of the car to find the deer. He not only sees the eyes, but the entire deer. He uses huck shot. The deer is thrown into the car and he drives away. If he is chased by a conservation officer the carcass and gun are dumped out of the car and it is difficult to prove a case in court.

Scores of deer shiners are known to be operating through the upper peninsula. A few years ago the "shiners" were squatters and isolated farmers. Today it is frequently the case, Mr. Green said, that some so-called respectable people of the smaller towns consider it smart to run out to the woods at night to "shine a deer."

The necessity of organized special squads for combatting deer shiners but illustrates a problem that is confronting all phases of conservation law enforcement, he said.

Beaver poachers have learned to better conceal traps from the eyes of enforcement officers by arranging apparatus that draws the traps into the water when beaver are caught. As a result more careful inspection is made by officers at all beaver colonies and dams. Races between automobiles driven by poachers and conservation officers, are almost commonplace, and frequently the poacher wins the race. The automobile has changed the complexion of the entire situation.

Through the use of a competitive examination system in hiring conservation officers, the quality and efficiency of the enforcement force is increasing constantly and is resulting in a better cooperation between the public and the division. This has proved to be one effective means of increasing the success of the force, it was said.

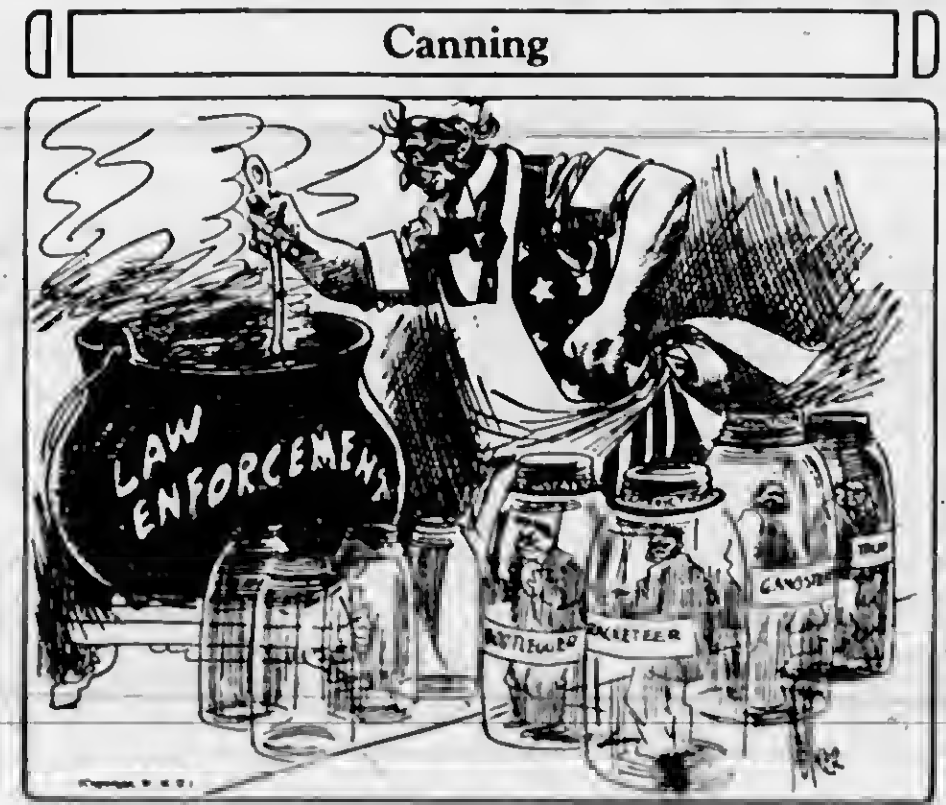

REV. JOHN LOCKYER INVITED TO REMAIN

Methodist Church Official Board Extended Invitation to Pastor

At their meeting Monday evening, the official board of the First Methodist church extended an invitation to Rev. John E. Lockyer to continue as pastor another year.

Affairs of the society have been very satisfactory during Rev. Lockyer's pastorate here and the action of the board Monday night confirms the confidence its members have in him.

Official action by the Methodist conference in the fall is still necessary.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c at the Central Drug Store, the mail store.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday services 10:45 a. m.

Subject, "Love."

Wednesday evening at 7:45.

Reading room Tuesday and Saturday, 3:00 to 5:00 p. m.

The public is cordially invited to all services.

"Truth" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, July 27.

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "God is not a man that he should lie; neither the son of man, that he should repent: hath he said, and shall he not do it? or hath he spoken, and shall he not make it good?" (Num. 23:19).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Thought is borrowed from a higher source than matter, and by reversal, errors serve as waymarks to the one Mind, in which all error disappears in celestial Truth" (p. 267).

Report Of the CHARLEVOIX CO. D. H. I. A. for Month of April, 1930

The high herd for the month of June was owned by Dan Swanson of East Jordan. His six grade Jerseys produced an average of 41.3 pounds of butterfat and 819 pounds of milk. James Nice, also of East Jordan, and owner of six grade Guernseys, ranks next with an average of 39.5 pounds of butterfat and 929 pounds of milk. Ed Potter of Charlevoix, ranks next with 10 grade Holsteins that averaged 37.5 pounds of butterfat and 1,070 pounds of milk.

In the two-year-old class the Marion Center dairy of Charlevoix, holds first place with a purebred Holstein that produced 60.9 pounds of butterfat and 1,416 pounds of milk. Next in this class is a grade Holstein owned by Earl Danforth of East Jordan, that produced 51.2 pounds of butterfat and 1,146 pounds of milk. Ecklund Bros., of Charlevoix, rank next with a grade Holstein that produced 47.1 pounds of butterfat and 1,473 pounds of milk.

Enrl Danforth owns another grade Holstein that is high cow in the three-year-old class; 56.4 pounds of butterfat and 1,374 pounds of milk were produced. Next is a grade Jersey owned by Frank Russell of Boyne City; 50.3 pounds of butterfat and 852 pounds of milk being the record produced. Dan Swanson owns another grade Jersey that ranks third in this class with a record of 47.4 pounds of butterfat and 831 pounds of milk.

The Birchwood farm of Harbor Springs, rank first in the four-year-old class with a purebred Guernsey that produced 52.9 pounds of butterfat and 1,038 pounds of milk. A grade Holstein owned by Earl Danforth ranks next with a record of 47.8 pounds of butterfat and 1,104 pounds of milk. The record of a purebred Jersey owned by the Birchwood farm is 46.1 pounds of butterfat and 921 pounds of milk, which entitles her to third place.

The high cow in the mature class is a grade Holstein owned by Ecklund Bros., that produced 63.5 pounds of butterfat and 1,323 pounds of milk. The next two in this class are both mixed cows owned by the Harbor Springs farm and produced respectively: 59.0 pounds of butterfat and 1,179 pounds of milk, and 58.1 pounds of butterfat and 1,559 pounds of milk.

CAMP MANITOU ACTIVITIES

July's sunny skies, sending the city's inhabitants to lake and countryside, have brought many a new guest to Camp Manitou, Michigan's unique adult camp on beautiful Lake Charlevoix.

Among the recent arrivals at the camp are the Misses Sadie Waldorf, Marjorie Schwartz, Selma Ross, Sylvia and Rebecca Schuster, Samuel Schuster, Dr. John Agins, Sally Mindel, Daniel Rose, Samuel R. Greenbaum and Golda Greenbaum, Harold Schakne, Goldie Steinberg, Dorothy Snyder, Rose Kadasnow, Goldie Silk, Belle and Rose Chesluk, Mrs. Samuel C. Meyers, Mr. and Mrs. I. Galloway, and the Misses Pearl and Edith Galloway, Evelyn Ecker, Irma Rosmann, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Asherson, Melitta Linick, Boris Cohn, all of Detroit.

From New York City come the Misses Rose Roe and Elaine Bnsil, while Pittsburgh is represented by Miss Edith Lazarus, Miss Mildred Nathan, and Cleveland has sent Miss Helen Lazarus, Miss Lillian Granovitz, and the Misses Eleanor and Bea Greenberg.

J. G. Goldsmith, the camp tennis coach, has entered the open tournament now under way at the Charlevoix Inn hotel, playing in the doubles tourney with Dr. Agins.

Outstanding on the program of the week was an open-house entertainment at which a large number of outside guests were present, a lively water-sports carnival preceding the indoor program of dramatic skits and dancing. A masquerade ball also proved a popular diversion, Miss Goldie Silk of Detroit, and Reginald Oake, Detroit, winning prizes for the originality of their costumes.

CHEVROLET Six-Cylinder Trucks

Bigger, Faster, Sturdier and more economical

In size, speed and durability, the Chevrolet Six-Cylinder Truck is superior to any haulage unit ever built by Chevrolet. Yet, for all these decided advantages, it shows (according to many prominent fleet users) a lower maintenance cost than any other low-priced truck of similar capacity!

These basic facts should be borne in mind by everyone considering the purchase of an inexpensive haulage unit—in these days, when business men are watching transportation costs.

Many important features of the Chevrolet Six-Cylinder Truck are given below. Study them. Use them as a basis of comparison—to prove quality—modern design—and EXTRA VALUE!

Special Features of the Chevrolet Six-Cylinder Truck

PROCEEDINGS OF ANNUAL MEETING OF SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 1, CHARLEVOIX CITY AND TOWNSHIP, HELD JULY 14, 1930; WITH ITEMIZED FINANCIAL REPORT.

Secretary's Report

The meeting was called to order by President E. L. Dawson.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved.

Mrs. B. Saltonstall read the financial report for the school year 1929-30; also making a special report relative to the cost of the new school building and grounds.

It was moved by H. A. Craig, seconded by W. C. Palmer, that the report of the treasurer be accepted and placed on file. Carried.

Allan Campbell read the annual report of the librarian. It was moved by John Bugbee, and seconded by Mrs. B. Saltonstall, that the librarian's report be accepted and placed on file. Carried.

The following tellers were then appointed by the chairman, E. L. Dawson: Clarence McKrisson, R. F. Sloan, Dr. McMillan, William Hicken, Robert Bridge. The tellers were duly sworn by Lyman Benton.

The chairman then received the following nominations to fill Allan Campbell's place as trustee, for a period of two years. The following were the nominations: Allan Campbell, Mrs. Ernie Hiller.

There being no further nominations, the chairman declared the nominations closed.

The vote was then taken, and the tellers announced the result of the ballot: Allan Campbell 24, Mrs. Ernie Hiller 62. Mrs. Hiller having received the majority of the votes cast was declared elected as trustee, for a period of two years.

The chairman then received the following nominations, to fill H. A. Craig's place as trustee, his time having expired. The following were the nominations: William Hicken and Dr. McMillan.

The chairman declared the nominations closed, and the vote was taken.

The tellers announced the result of the ballot: William Hicken 50, Dr. McMillan 32. William Hicken having received a majority of the votes cast was declared elected.

The chairman received nominations for trustee, to fill E. L. Dawson's place whose time expired.

The following were the nominations: E. L. Dawson, Robert Bridge, Dr. McMillan, Fred Bergman, Mrs. Lela Simmons.

The vote was then cast and the tellers announced the result of the ballot: E. L. Dawson 44, Robert Bridge 13, Dr. McMillan 18, Fred Bergman 3, Lela Simmons 5.

E. L. Dawson having received the majority of all votes cast was declared elected as a trustee for a period of three years.

William Cook made a motion, seconded by John Curtis, that the school district advise the school board to put in operation, one school bus, for the northward pupils, and one school bus for the southward pupils. This motion was discussed, but William Cook finally withdrew the motion, having the consent of John Curtis.

R. F. Sloan moved, seconded by Rev. Lockyer, that the school board investigate the problem of transportation of pupils to school, a report to be made to the electors at a meeting some time in November. Carried.

Rev. Lockyer moved, seconded by Mrs. B. Saltonstall, that the length of the school year be increased by two weeks. Carried.

Moved by Mrs. B. Saltonstall, that we adjourn. Carried. Signed: H. A. Craig, Secretary.

WOMEN ASK PROHIBITION REFORM

The announcement was made a few days ago that a branch of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform had been established in Detroit and was receiving the support of a number of prominent women in the metropolis.

Out in the agricultural sections of the state such a movement would receive but very little sympathy and practically no support at the present time. This is because the women of the farms and smaller communities have not had an opportunity to view prohibition in the same light as their city sisters. They cannot understand women being allied in any way on the side of prohibition reform.

But will such conditions always prevail? Is there not danger that the time is coming when such a movement might find support in unexpected places? Denouncing those Detroit ladies and calling them women of low moral standards is not going to put an end to their activities. Is the time not ripe for the friends of prohibition to listen to somebody besides its fanatical leaders?

In his write-up of a home talent play an Oklahoma editor commended a neighbor for his "clever impersonation of a gentleman."

TRIDENT CAPTURES MACKINAC RACE

Fast Sailing Yawl Crosses Finish Line Monday Evening

Weathering a ripping gale and stripping her mainsail to avoid foundering, the new syndicate yawl, Trident of the Bay View Yacht club crossed the finish line at Mackinac Island last Monday night, first of a fleet of 13 boats, to win the sixth annual Mackinac race. The Trident, owned by Alger Sheldon, Warren S. Booth and Cleveland Thurber, crossed the line at 10:00 p. m. Monday, eight hours and 18 seconds ahead of the second boat to finish. The second boat was Howard M. Grant's schooner, Suez II of the Detroit Yacht club.

Beside the owners, the Trident's crew consisted of Paul Maxon, Neil C. McMath, J. Frazer Whitehead, H. L. Pierson, Burdette Gibson, V. W. Smith and Andrew Arnesen.

The new yawl, raced only a few times on Lake St. Clair this summer, proved herself an excellent light-weather hound and on Sunday night she stood up to as fierce a squall as has marked any of the previous Mackinac events. Her time failed of the record set by the Barbette last year, 40 hours and 3 minutes, by more than 14 hours.

The Trident won because she is a fast sailing yawl and also because her crew stood up gamely to a heavy blow Sunday night off Thunder Bay Island. The Trident took one knockdown and then lowered her mainsail, keeping up her head canvass and mizzen to use to the weather.

When Monday broke and the storm was over she was opposite Presque Isle light. She encountered head winds all day Monday against which she had to beat to make the finish line. She did this in a satisfactory manner.

BOYNE SAYS THEY ARE BEING GIVEN "SQUEEZE"

Lament Lack of Interest Shown by Public Service Co.

Boyne City citizens have grown restless over the indifference of the Michigan Public Service Co., towards the city's interests.

The resort business for the west end of Lake Charlevoix has been the dream of the populace round about, and to further that project a strong effort has been made to that opulent company to extend their lines to Horton Bay and along the south shore of the lake to Whiting park, Hayden Point, Pine Lake Golf club and Iron-ton. In every case some subaltern of the company has submitted an array of figures showing the company's demand in the way of not only tolls, but the initial cost of construction in addition to tolls, before they would be able to accede to the request. This position is nothing more or less than a refusal to lend a hand and is used to discourage anyone and everyone that seeks to develop the fine natural situations similar to Horton Bay.

The Public Service company believe, no doubt, they are quite safe in buffering the two or three hundred people who live at and enjoy Horton Bay, but the officers may find that an organized effort on the part of the county may bear fruit. Anyway, a movement is on foot to see what help can be had from the state authorities.—Boyne Citizen.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS
Dodge District Managers Confer at Factory
Fifty-four Dodge Brothers district managers, passenger car and truck sales representatives from all over the United States attended a two-day sales conference at the Dodge factory in Detroit this week.

Outside of a luncheon at the factory on both days, the sessions of the conference were devoted entirely to a review of business conditions in all sections of the country during the first half of the year and to the shaping of plans for the last six months of 1930.

Plymouth Cars Now Equipped for Transitone Installation
Transitone radio equipment, manufactured by the Automobile Radio corporation, is now available for installation on all new Plymouth closed body styles, it is announced by F. L. Rockelman, president and general manager of Plymouth Motor corporation.

Some months ago Transitone radio equipment was made available to owners of cars in a much higher price range. Plymouth is the only one of the lowest-price group of cars to include Transitone wiring as optional equipment.

Transitone radio, is a six-tube, single-dial set. It is built directly into the car without external aerial or visible attachments. It has quality tone and ample volume. The motor noise suppressor, basic patents for which are controlled by Transitone, makes the set unaffected by the engine. It functions as well with the motor turning over at any speed as it does when the motor is not running.

Plymouth purchasers on special orders, without extra cost may obtain their cars wired for the instantaneous installation of Transitone from any Chrysler, Dodge Brothers or De Soto dealer.

Transitone automobile radios are serviced by the net-work of 42,000 Willard service stations throughout the United States in addition to the dealers handling Plymouth.

MURDERER CAPTURED NEAR OLD MISSION
After a search of over four years George Roscoe, who was wanted on a charge of murder at Fremont, Ohio, was captured by Sheriff Johnson of Grand Traverse county in company with Deputy J. Sterner of the Ohio town.

Sterner, who like the average desperate criminal has a string of aliases, is an expert cherry picker and had worked in this capacity for a number of years. He was thought to be in the Old Mission district and the officers, acting on this theory, got their man last Monday night, taking him completely by surprise so that he did not have the opportunity to put up resistance. Tuesday the Ohio officer took his man to Ohio, where he will stand trial.

NEXT LEGION BOXING SHOW FRIDAY, AUG. 8

Series of Four and Six Round Bouts at Local Gymnasium

A change in date, announced this week by Leo Powers, match-maker for the American Legion, will bring the next boxing show at the gymnasium on the evening of Friday, August 9th, instead of Thursday evening of this week as previously announced.

Present plans are to put on a series of four and six round bouts between a bunch of northern Michigan boys. A return bout between Frank Winick and Cecil Yettaw has been arranged, and among the other performers will be "Bugs" Clute of Boyne City; Kid Bodie of Cheboygan; Ted Gravelin, Bill Woods, Gay John and Amos Hall, the colored sensation.

Tickets for the show will be put on sale soon. A straight admission of $1.00 will be charged.

Story and songs by Irving Berlin.

Sequences in Technicolor

The Al Jolson who first electrified the amusement world on the talking, singing screen, now tops all previous performances in the kind of a role that the world has been waiting for. The genius of Irving Berlin creates this masterpiece of melody and humor for the world's greatest minstrel. Here he is as the singing, jesting Mr. Bones of the minstrel troupe. The King of Entertainers in his greatest picture. "You ain't seen nothin' so funny" till you see and hear Jolson in this rollicking hit.

Standish was too strong with his chip while Kocis ran his within six inches of the pin and won another hole, ending the round four up. Their cards:

Par (out) ... 4 4 3 5 4 4 3 5—36
Kocis ... 5 4 4 4 5 3 4 3—36
Standish ... 4 5 4 3 5 4 4 3—37

Kocis ... 4 6 4 5 3 4 4 3—37—73
Standish ... 5 4 4 3 5 5 4 5—39—76

Birdie Shooting
Kocis started his birdie shooting on the first hole of the afternoon round. Standish hooked his drive to the rough, failed to get out with his second and pitched his third over the green. Kocis dropped his second 10 feet from the pin and ran down the putt for a birdie three.

Each holed a curving putt of about five feet on the second for par fours. Standish played his second too strong on the third and was over the green. He pitched back, but his putt hung on the lip of the cup and Kocis curved his in for a par four to become six up.

After slicing his tee shot 50 feet from the green on the fourth Standish dubbed his second only six feet, finishing with a five while Kocis missed his first putt by two inches and took a par three.

Kocis holed a seven-foot putt for a birdie four to win the fifth. Again Standish saw his first putt twist two inches away from the cup. They halved the sixth in par figures. The seventh marked Kocis' only mistake of the round. His second was too strong and rolled off the back of the green. He chipped back three feet from the pin, but missed the putt, and Standish sank his second putt for a par four to cut Kocis' lead to six up.

Inspired Golf
Then the youngsters started the string of four successive birdies that quickly carried him to his first state championship. His tee shot on the eighth was 10 feet from the pin and he made certain of the putt for a birdie two. He hit a fine midiron to the ninth green and was down in two putts for a birdie four and was down nine. Standish played both the eighth and ninth in par, but could do nothing with the Lochaven player who was playing inspired golf.

Standish delayed the finish for another hole by scoring an eagle three on the tenth. He reached the green with his spoon second while Kocis was 15 feet to the left of the green. Kocis pitched within two feet of the cup, but Standish dropped his six-foot putt for the eagle.

After a short tee shot Standish almost reached the eleventh green with a fine second shot. Kocis was on the edge and stroked a 20-foot putt squarely into the cup.

Standish Presents Cup
As he was five under par for the 11 holes, many in the gallery wanted Kocis to play out the round to try for a course record. The youngster was too happy over winning the championship and too anxious to get back home with the state cup to play any more golf.

Standish, being the only officer of the Michigan State Golf League present, made the official presentation. He told Kocis he expected to see him win many more state championships and assured him that it had been a pleasure to lose to a player who shot such remarkable golf. In fact, Standish said he was happy that he could play well enough not to be beaten in double figures in the face of so fine an exhibition.

Their cards:
Kocis ... 3 4 3 4 4 5 2 4—33
Standish ... 5 4 5 5 4 4 3 5—40

Ed Shurly, of Detroit Country Club, won the first flight championship, defeating B. K. Brouwer, of Muskegon, 3 and 2. In the second flight Ed Yates, of Lochmoor, won from Johnny Addison, of Jackson, 1 up. Howard Parker, of Orchard Lake, turned back A. B. Dietrich, of Lochmoor, by the same score in the third flight. G. R. Cartwright, of Wequetonsing, defeated Richard Lyon, 4 and 3 in the fourth flight. C. J. Farley, of Grand Rapids, topped the fifth flight by downing E. W. Moreau, of Lochmoor, 3 and 2. Geo. Haggerty, former Michigan basket ball star, of Washtenaw, won from A. J. Xoumans, of Western, 4 and 2, in the sixth flight.

Codling Moth Date

Apple growers will insure themselves against probable loss from wormy fruit during the coming season if they will keep in close touch with their state experiment stations to determine the actual date of codling moth emergence. The grower can establish breeding cages in his own orchard and determine the proper time to spray. When the date is actually known, the regular series of high pressure sprays applied at the customary intervals will insure a crop of worm-free apples.

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale
Notice is hereby given that default has occurred in the conditions of that certain mortgage, dated the 30th day of November, 1918, executed by Arthur Van Amburg and Nellie S. Van Amburg, his wife, as mortgagors, to the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, a body corporate, of the city of St. Paul, County of Ramsey, state of Minnesota, as mortgagee, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 26th day of December, A. D. 1918, at 10 o'clock a. m., recorded in Liber 62 of mortgages on page 258 thereof, in that certain installment of forty-two and 25-100 dollars ($42.25), principal and interest due November 30, 1929, remains unpaid; and further, that the taxes were not paid by the mortgagors, and were permitted to become delinquent, that on the failure of said mortgagors to pay such taxes, The Federal Land Bank of Saint Paul did elect to pay the same, and on June 27, 1930, paid the sum of One Hundred Forty-seven and 67-100 dollars ($147.67), as taxes for the years 1928 and 1929, that pursuant to the provisions of said mortgage, said mortgagee has elected to declare the whole debt secured thereby to be now due and payable at the date of this notice upon the sum of One Thousand Three Hundred Forty and 49-100 dollars ($1,340.49); and that no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof, that, by virtue of a power of sale therein contained, said mortgage will be foreclosed and the land and premises therein described lying and being in the county of Charlevoix, state of Michigan, as follows, to-wit:

The North Half of the Southeast Quarter (N½SE¼) of Section Thirty (30), Township Thirty-four (34) North, Range Six (6) West, containing Eighty (80) acres, more or less, according to the Government survey thereof, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash by the sheriff of Charlevoix county, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Charlevoix, in said county and state, on Tuesday, October 28, 1930, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon, to pay and satisfy the debt secured by said mortgage and the costs and disbursements allowed by law upon said foreclosure sale.

Dated this 26th day of July, 1930. The Federal Land Bank of Saint Paul, mortgagee.

BITS OF INFORMATION FOR FARMERS.

It will be easier to break the cold if he is taught the meaning of "gid-dap" and "whon" before he is hatched to the breking cart. Put on the hiddle while he is being taught to lead, so that he may become accustomed to the bit in his mouth.

Mississippi is the 11th state of the original 13 states infested with the cattle fever tick to be released from the federal quarantine. Purebred cattle may now be safely introduced into any part of Mississippi, and cattle may be shipped from the state to outside markets.

The consumer who buys honey in small quantities pays an excessively high price, says the U. S. bureau of agricultural economics. He may pay twice, and sometimes four times, as much per pound for the same honey in a tin container holding 2 1/2 pounds or more. Honey in glass costs from 10 to 15 cents more per pound than in tin containers of equal capacity.

The Hessian fly is the worst insect enemy of wheat in the United States. Farmers must depend on preventive measures to control this pest. These include moderately intensive rowing, rotation of crops, plowing under of stubble, destruction of volunteer wheat, enrichment of the soil, thorough preparation of the seedbed, and good seed.

Air patrol for spotting fires is the latest development in the forest fire protection plans for national forests in the lake state regions, according to the U. S. forest service. Hydroplanes were used in fire fighting last summer, but this is the first air patrol planned for the national forests in this region. Planes will be used particularly during periods of heavy smoke when the visibility from lookout towers is poor.

Expansion of the federal beef grading and stamping service at additional slaughtering centers has been announced by the U. S. bureau of agricultural economics. The centers are Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, Detroit, and St. Louis. Beef grading and stamping is in increasing demand. There was an increase of 62 per cent over last year in the amount of beef graded and stamped in the last five months.

Don't spray the vegetable garden by the hit-or-miss method, says the U. S. department of agriculture. To control insects and diseases, begin to spray as soon as the trouble first appears. Use good apparatus and spray carefully and thoroughly. The ideal spray is a fine mist which should cover all parts of the plants evenly. Stop spraying before the foliage is drenched. The higher the pressure the better the spray.

Poultry that arrives at the market "overcopped" may sell for a lower price or may be subject to deduction in weight to allow for the feed in the crops. To prevent this, feed birds liberally just before shipment but put no feed in the coops. If they are to reach the market the same day they are shipped. If they will not arrive at the market for 24 hours or longer, nail in the coop one or two tin cans filled with corn well soaked in water.

Crop rotation, clean fall plowing, and general clean-up of cornstalks or other crop residue are recommended by the U. S. department of agriculture for control of barley scab, which causes severe losses in the central and eastern states. Fields of barley showing scab infection should be allowed to become fully ripe and dry before cutting. This helps to prevent spread of the infection in the bundle and shock. As yet no scab-resistant variety of barley has been developed.

Shell Beans Early

Some farmers who find weevils in stored beans or peas that were apparently in good condition when harvested believe that the adult weevils that eat out from the seed "develop from the germ." This is erroneous, say entomologists of the U. S. department of agriculture. Most infestations of weevils in beans and peas start in the field, where the grubs burrow into the seeds, making an almost invisible hole. To avoid weevil infestation, harvest the crop as soon as possible. The seed should also be threshed or shelled at the earliest possible date. Shell the seeds and treat them if weevil injury is suspected. Weevils in storage may be killed by fumigation with disulphide, carbon tetrachloride, or hydrocyanic acid gas.

No Shelters for Rats

Though rats are probably decreasing in numbers, these pests are still mankind's greatest enemies in the animal world, and man should wage constant warfare against them, says the U. S. biological survey. The most important thing in rat control is to remove rat shelters or make them inaccessible. The most common shelters are dead spaces within double walls and beneath floors, stored produce and supplies, lumber piles, and trash or refuse. Abolish the rats' food supply by storing foodstuffs in rat-proof buildings or rooms and by disposing of waste and garbage in tightly covered receptacles. Poisoning, fumigating, and trapping are methods of destroying rats. Small terrier dogs, especially when taught to hunt by themselves, often keep a farm free from rats.

AT THE MOVIES

Large Cast in Barithelms Film
One of the largest casts ever assembled for a talking motion picture will be seen and heard in "Son of the Gods," the new First National and Vitaphone starring production for Richard Barthelms which comes to the Palace theatre on Thursday and Friday of this week.

The Barthelms support is headed by Constance Bennett, who plays the feminine lead.

Snappy Music Numbers

Several musical numbers which are featured in the score of the Tiffany all-talking musical production, "Sunny Skies," are bound to be very much in demand on records and the radio. "Sunny Skies" comes to the Palace theatre on Saturday and Sunday next.

Particularly popular, it is predicted, will be "Wanna Find a Boy," "Must Be Love" and "You For Me." These, as well as the entire score, are by Will Jason and Val Burton. In the cabaret sequences of the pictures Earl Burtnett's famous recording orchestra will be heard in more snappy numbers by Messrs. Jason and Burton.

Broadway's Prize Songster in Film

In prominence of cast, and the authentic atmosphere of Broadway, "Puttin' on the Ritz," the United Artists' all-dialogue musical spectacle starring Harry Richman, coming next Monday and Tuesday to the Palace theatre, promises to be the foremost offering in the record of talking, singing pictures.

The presence in the cast of Richman alone is sufficient to assure plenty of entertainment, for Richman has been one of New York's greatest attractions in musical comedy and night clubs for several years.

"Bride of Regiment" Feature Songs by Popular Team

Edward Ward and Al Bryan, composers of "Broken Hearted Lover" and "Dream Away," song hits in the First National and Vitaphone all-color production "Bride of the Regiment" which comes to the Palace theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, have been working together as a team since they first met on the First National lot.

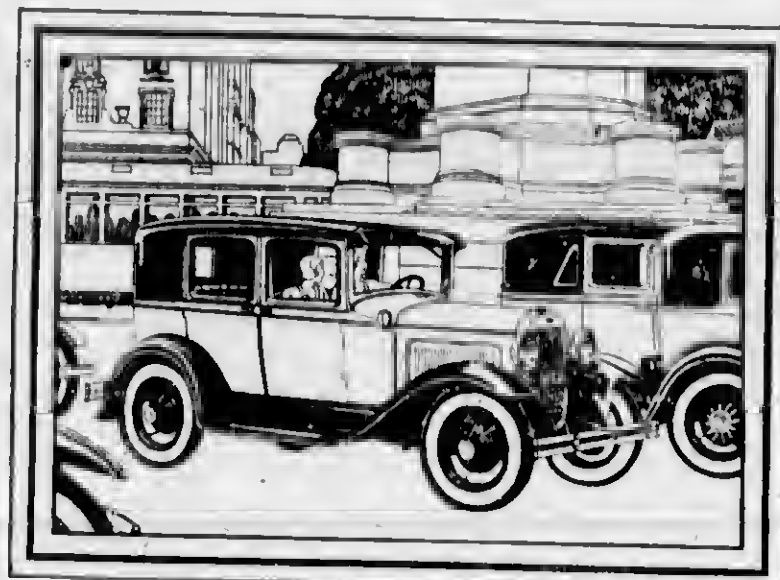

Both composers were brought to Hollywood to write music for First National pictures, arriving within a week of each other directly after the influx of musical talent into the film capital.

Meeting the Needs of Millions of People

The low-priced automobile has brought greater opportunity and added hours of recreation to millions of men and women.

BECAUSE the automobile is such an important factor in the lives and prosperity of so many people, the purpose of the Ford Motor Company is something more than the mere manufacture of a motor car.

There is no service in simply setting up a machine or a plant and letting it turn out goods. The service extends into every detail of the business—design, production, the wages paid and the selling price. All are a part of the plan.

The Ford Motor Company looks upon itself as charged with making an automobile that will meet the needs of millions of people and to provide it at a low price. That is its mission. That is its duty and its obligation to the public.

The search for better ways of doing things is never-ending. There is ceaseless, untiring effort to find new methods and new machines that will save steps and time in manufacturing. The Ford plants are, in reality, a great mechanical university, dedicated to the advancement of industry. Many manufacturers come to see and share the progress made.

The greatest progress comes by never standing still. Today's methods, however successful, can never be taken as wholly right. They represent simply the best efforts of the moment. Tomorrow must bring an improvement in the methods of the day before. Hard work usually finds the way.

Once it was thought impossible to cast gray iron by the endless chain method. All precedent was against it and every previous experiment had failed. But fair prices to the public demanded that wasteful methods be eliminated. Finally the way was found.

A better way of making axle shafts saved thirty-six million dollars in four years. A new method of cutting crankshafts reduced the cost by $500,000 a year. The perfection of a new machine saved a similar amount on such a little thing as one bolt. Then electric welding was developed to make many bolts unnecessary and to increase structural strength.

Just a little while ago, an endless chain conveyor almost four miles long was installed at the Rouge plant. This conveyor has a daily capacity of 300,000 parts weighing more than 2,000,000 pounds. By substituting the tireless, unvarying machine for tasks formerly done by hand, it has made the day's work easier for thousands of workers and saved time and money in the manufacture of the car.

All of these things are done in the interest of the public—so that the benefits of reliable, economical transportation may be placed within the means of every one.

WEEKLY CAMP CHARLEVOIX

NEWS COLUMN

Edited by Gahn Kinnison

CAMP CHARLEVOIX
PLANS DEDICATIONMANY INVITED TO AFFAIR SAT-URDAY AFTERNOONHeld in Conjunction With Dad's Day.
Many Down-Staters Will Be Present for Doings

Next Saturday, August 2nd, will be Dad's day at Camp Charlevoix, and at 2:30 that afternoon the dedication of the new camp will take place.

Dad's day is a yearly feature at Camp Charlevoix. On this day the Dads enter into the entire daily routine with the boys, starting at 7:30 a. m. A father and son banquet will be held in the big club house in the evening.

The dedication, held the same day, is sure to be of interest to hundreds from all over the state. Camp Charlevoix, with its 25 log buildings, has always been a source of interest to the public. Especially outstanding is the fine large mess hall and club house. This great hall contains a fire place around which the boys gather for their evening camp fires. The kitchen in the same building is equipped with electric refrigeration.

Several visitors, well qualified to speak on the subject, have declared the camp to have the finest group of buildings of their kind in this part of the country.

Camp Charlevoix invites her many friends and well-wishers to attend the dedication.

Last week visitors found Camp Charlevoix practically deserted. It was a week of hiking for the campers.

One group was on what is known as the Canadian trip. The first 20 boys to sign up for camp before January 1, are eligible. The boys, under the leadership of Lewis C. Reimann, camp director, crossed the upper peninsula and on into Canada. They visited lumber camps and other points of interest, and did a great deal of fishing.

Another group was on the Beaver Island honor trip. About 20 boys won the right to go on this trip by being members of the three cabins having the highest rating in inspection for the first four weeks. They established a base on the island and made several exploring expeditions and trips on the fishing vessels.

A third group was made up of the remaining juniors (those who did not go on either the Canadian or Beaver Island trips). These boys made several over-night hikes down Lake Charlevoix.

The last group included all boys who were not on either of the special trips, nor in the junior section. These campers went down the lake and established a base near East Jordan. From there they made trips up the Jordan river by canoe, and land expeditions on horse back.

It is difficult to realize how efficient an organization there must be to keep all these groups supplied with food, etc. The boys were kept in daily communication with headquarters at the main camp where several members of the staff remained to receive visitors and to check up on the various groups. A great deal of credit must be given to Wendell Mahaffy, camp business manager and head of the commissary department for the efficiency with which all the trips were conducted.

FIND BODY OF MAN IN LAKESunday Morning Party of Young Bathers Report Drowning, Suicide

A case of drowning or suicide faces the Petoskey police department, while Coroner G. W. Nihart retains charge of the body of a man pulled from Little Traverse Bay near the breakwater Sunday forenoon. One person viewing the body at Henika's undertaking parlors identified the man as Del Roberts, of Peoria, Ill., basing their statement on two tattoo marks on his arms.

The man appeared to be about 35 years of age, the clothing was clean and of fairly good quality. It is said such a man had been about Magnus State park recently.

The tattoo marks were on the right arm, an American flag, with the word "Liberty" beneath it. On the left arm was the tattoo picture of an American army nurse with the words "U. S. A." underneath it. Three upper teeth were gold crowned.

A wire to the police at Peoria had brought no reply up until noon today. The Del Roberts of Peoria was supposed to have been a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and his right arm appeared to have once been wounded.

PAGEANT PLANS
WELL UNDER WAYAnnual Event at Petoskey to Be Held
This Year on August 11-12

The date of the annual regional summer pageant and parade held in Petoskey each year has been definitely set for the 11th and 12th of August. The program calls for the assistance of each and every nearby community and asks that organizations in these communities take immediate steps to arrange for representation in the pageant and parade.

D. R. McCoy, parade chairman, asks particularly for floral floats, Indians display, comic entries and agricultural exhibits. Heretofore all parts of northern Michigan have been represented in the parade and it is earnestly hoped that this year's event will prove no exception.

The time of the parade has been set for Monday, August 11, at 10:30 a. m. central standard time. Petoskey merchants are cooperating in a wholehearted manner. The parade will be beautifully appointed and will include humorous entries throughout its length.

On the evening of each day a gorgeous musical spectacle, "Fantasy of Fairyland," will be given at the high school stadium. This production, under the direction of the John B. Rogers Producing company, has a cast of over 300 people with special lighting and scenic effects and presents a panorama of beauty in songs, dances and pantomime. Band concerts will be a feature of each day.

Entries are asked to file as early as possible.

MAN KILLED IN ELE-VATOR AT TRAVERSEBuried Under Barrels When Elevator
Broke and Fell to Basement

Clause J. Sporre, 41, an employee of the Michigan Cherry Growers, was fatally injured Sunday afternoon at the East Front plant when an elevator in which he was riding gave way, hurling him under several barrels of packed cherries, to the basement. He died soon after from a crushed chest.

Sporre was standing in an elevator loaded with barrels of fruit, on the ground floor of the packing plant, when a channel bar on the lift broke, letting the right side down, so that the elevator floor was in an almost vertical position. He and the barrels tumbled to the basement floor below, pinning Sporre underneath.

INSIDE INFORMATION.

Fresh tomatoes may be filled with almost any left-over meat or vegetable for a stuffed tomato salad. A filling of chopped meat, such as chicken, veal, or tongue, cooked peas, chopped pickle or cucumber, celery, and salad dressing, is excellent. After the tomatoes have been peeled and scooped out they should be seasoned inside with salt, turned upside down to drain, and placed in the ice-box until time to fill and serve them.

To make white icing which never fails, put into a double boiler one cup of sugar, 4 tablespoons cold water, 1 egg white, not beaten, and 1-8 teaspoon of salt. Have the water in the lower part boiling. Commence beating the mixture at once with a Dover heater and beat constantly while it cooks for seven or eight minutes. It should then look just like ordinary boiled frosting and should be almost thick enough to spread. Take it from the stove, add 1-2 teaspoon of vanilla and continue to beat about five minutes or until it has thickened.

PREPAREDNESS IN BUSINESS

By R. S. HECHT,

American Bankers Association.

My observations for many years, both as an employee and as an executive, have convinced me that the reason some men and women go ahead and others do not is that some keep themselves constantly prepared to accept and fulfill larger duties and responsibilities as they offer, and some do not.

Grant, as we must, that there is a certain element of luck in the conditions under which opportunity for promotion comes to different men and women, we nevertheless must also see that it is each individual's own state of preparedness which determines his ability to seize opportunity if and when it comes, and having seized it, to succeed in meeting the greater demands which it inevitably places upon him.

Real advancement never means going ahead to easier tasks, but always to harder ones. Opportunity for advancement is worthless unless in accepting it you are able to carry with you the abilities and qualifications that prepare you to meet the heavier exactions that are an inherent part of opportunity.

It is far better to go into action in the field of enlarged responsibility prepared and qualified, rather than that you and the institution you work for shall be exposed to the hazard of your having to build up to new responsibilities after having assumed them.

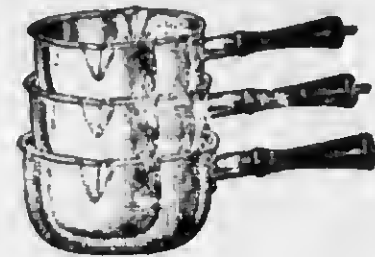

The new spirit of all business seeks to prepare its people in advance through education for the higher duties it holds in store for them.

Bank Bandits Active

The greatest number of bandit raids on American banking ever recorded in the figures of the protective department of the American Bankers Association were reported during the six months ending last February. Bank members of the association reported for investigation 311 forgery cases, 107 holdup robberies, 16 burglaries, 2 sneak thefts and 8 mortgage swindles while non-member banks, numbering less than half the total enrolled in the association, suffered $6 holdup robberies and 9 burglaries, non-members being burglarized or held up once for every $9 banks, as compared with once for every 164 member banks. The association detective agents caused the arrest of 143 of the 236 bank criminals apprehended during the period covered.

The association's report on these conditions urges support of the movement to provide city police departments with radio-equipped cruising automobiles which have proved particularly effective in Cleveland and Detroit in the broadcasting of alarms and the closing in on criminals immediately after or even in the midst of the perpetration of crimes. Last year the average time elapsed between the receipt of radio calls by these cars and the 1125 arrests which followed was one minute and forty-two seconds, the report says.

Business letters should be written with a view to their possible effect upon the investigating committee.

4-H CLUB CAMP OPENED MONDAY

BOYS AND GIRLS FROM FARM SECTIONS AT GAYLORD

Dedication of Camp and Its Three Fine Buildings Will Take Place on August 5

Charlevoix county is largely represented at the fifth annual encampment of the northern Michigan 4-H club boys and girls, which opened Monday at Gaylord. The program for the year promises to be one of the best. County Agent B. C. Mellen-camp is one of those in charge.

For four years this club camp has been organized. The first year there were less than 200 boys and girls present. This has gradually increased and last year there were more than 400 registered. It is expected that the registrations will exceed that number this year. But there is plenty of room. The boys' dormitory as well as the one for the girls, will each accommodate 300, while the dining room will seat nearly 1,000 people.

The state club department has arranged for some of the best boys' and girls' leaders obtainable, and though the club weeks in previous years have been wonderful, the one this year is expected to be much better.

Every morning there will be the camp fire programs which are impressive and interesting. The camp is always divided up into tribes, usually four. These tribes all have names of famous Indian tribes, and the competition developing among them is one of the finest evidences of the clean young manhood and womanhood who attend the camp, and the lessons learned in cleanliness, health, sportsmanship and right living in every way, remains with the members throughout life.

The dedication ceremony will be the big event this year. This takes place Thursday, August 5, at 7:30 in the evening, fast time. At this time Governor Fred W. Green will be present to dedicate the three buildings. These buildings will be named Campbell Lodge, in honor of Senator Calvin Campbell; Lunden Hall, in honor of the late Herman Lunden, and Ming Hall, in honor of Fred Ming, state representative. At the same time the official dedication of the entire camp as Camp Gay-Gug-Lun, will take place.

Among those who will take part in the programs are State Senator C. A. Campbell, of Indian River; State Senator Chester M. Howell of Saginaw, and John L. A. Galster of Petoskey.

State representatives will be: speaker, Fred R. Ming, Cheboygan; Alonzo Green, Hillman; William Green, Rogers City; Miles Galahan, Reed City; Earl McNitt, Cadillac; Lewis Anderson, Northport; E. L. Sargeant, Levering, and William Yonkey, Saginaw.

This service is open to the public, as is all the activities of the camp, and it is hoped that every community in this section will be represented so that all may know of what a wonderful place it is for children of this section of the state.

The many contests will also be of interest to northern Michigan, for the judging teams and demonstration teams that will attend the state fair in Detroit, will be chosen at that time. These young people attend the state fair as guests of Michigan. The health boy and girl champion is also picked, who will represent northern Michigan at the state fair. In the past five years northern Michigan has had two health champions who have attended the national 4-H congress at Chicago as Michigan representatives.

Northern Michigan has taken the lion's share of honors in boys and girls club work for the state, every year since the club camp has been organized.

The general invitation extended by the state club department is for everyone in this part of the state whether they have boys and girls in the camp or not. The department wants the people of this section to know what is being done for the future welfare and success of the future citizens, and how it is equipping them with first hand business and practical knowledge of agriculture.

The dedication service program follows:

Music—Gaylord band.

Introduction of the Master of Ceremonies—A. G. Kettunen, state club leader, East Lansing.

Master of Ceremonies—J. B. Has-selman, department of publications, Michigan State college.

Novelty Songs — Brecheisen Brothers, Petoskey.

Dedication of Ming Hall (boys' dormitory)—Fred R. Ming, Cheboygan, speaker of the House of Representatives.

Dedication of Lunden Hall (dining hall)—Lester C. Lunden, Gaylord.

Dedication of Campbell Hall (girls' dormitory)—Calvin A. Campbell, Indian River, state senator from the 29th district.

Plowing Song—Lester Van Den Bern, Atwood.

Dedication of Camp Gay-Gug-Lun—Fred W. Green, governor of the state of Michigan.

Novelty Songs — Brecheisen Brothers.

Introduction of the Guests of Honor—J. C. Guggisberg, Gaylord.

W. C. T. U. TO HOLD

MEETING IN CITY PARK

The August meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held next Friday in the park at the west end of Mason street, following a one o'clock picnic dinner. Those planning to attend are asked to bring dishes and silver, a few sandwiches and a dish of fruit to pass.

James Bryan of Oak Park, Ill., who was doped to win his junior singles final match easily, had to stage a great rally to overcome Mason Rose, Jr., of Sarasota, Fla. It looked like sure victory for Rose when he won the first two sets by scores of 2-6, 4-6. At this point Bryan began hitting his stride and his opponent's game weakened. The Oak Park lad carried the last three frames in succession, winning by score of 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

Paired with Robert Carey of Chicago, Goldsmith won the men's doubles crown in straight sets from the Cincinnati team of Eugene Stern and J. Rinnie. The score was 6-1, 6-1.

Miss Ellen Squire, Austin, Tex., won the women's singles title by defeating Dorothy Cook, also of Austin, 6-2, 6-3, in the finals Saturday.

Richard Slidder, Detroit, defeated Ben Marks, Detroit, 6-1, 6-3, in the boys' division.

Miss Adair Orr, Chicago, is the girl champion. She defeated Anne Rickards, Chicago, 6-4, 7-5. In the division for boys 13 to 15 years of age, Richard Slidder of Detroit, won his second title by defeating Carl Allen, Jr., Chicago, 6-0, 6-1.

The tournament which closed Saturday had one of the best entries ever posted in the Charlevoix open. This event is held as a forerunner to the Michigan Riviera championship, scheduled at the Inn courts the week starting August 18.

A postponement of one week will bring the annual Belvedere tennis tournament the week of August 11, and the annual golf tournament at the Belvedere golf club the week of August 18.

Richard Clark of St. Louis, will have charge of the tennis tournament, which is open to members of the Belvedere club and their guests.

A beautiful group of cups and trophies which go to winners in the two tournaments, are now on display at the hotel.

SEVEN NEW TENNIS CHAMPS CROWNED

ANNUAL CHARLEVOIX OPEN TOURNAMENT CLOSED SAT.

V. Goldsmith, Detroit, Won Men's Singles Crown—Two Finals Matches Wont Five Sets

New champions were crowned Saturday at the close of play in the 5th annual Charlevoix open tennis tournament at The Inn clay courts.

Contrary to earlier expectations that favorites would come through the finals with very little opposition, two of Saturday's matches went to five hard-fought sets before the deciding point was reached.

V. Goldsmith of Detroit, tennis instructor at Camp Manitou and member of the University of Michigan tennis team, found D. Buttrick of Sequanota, former Buffalo, N. Y., city champion, a worthy foe in the men's singles final. After taking the first set easily at 6-3, Goldsmith's foe put up an excellent brand of tennis to win the next two sets in succession by scores of 4-6, 2-6. The effort proved too much for the veteran, however, and Goldsmith took the fourth and fifth frames 6-0, 6-1 to win.

James Bryan of Oak Park, Ill., who was doped to win his junior singles final match easily, had to stage a great rally to overcome Mason Rose, Jr., of Sarasota, Fla. It looked like sure victory for Rose when he won the first two sets by scores of 2-6, 4-6. At this point Bryan began hitting his stride and his opponent's game weakened. The Oak Park lad carried the last three frames in succession, winning by score of 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

ANNUAL REGATTA STARTS SATURDAY

PROGRAM OF RUNABOUT RACES THAT AFTERNOON

Sunday Events for Outboards, Starting Promptly at Noon—Many Craft Are Entered

With prospects of one of the largest entries in its history, plans for the 5th annual regatta of the Charlevoix float club are being rapidly completed by officers of the club.

This big annual water event, which is sanctioned by both the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association and the National Outboard association, opens Saturday afternoon, August 9, at one o'clock, with races for several classes of runabouts on Lake Charlevoix.

Races are this year being conducted under new rulings adopted by the two national associations with which the local club is affiliated. Classes for runabouts are: D class, not over 110 h.p.; E class, not over 135 h.p.; F class, not over 165 h.p.; G class, not over 200 h.p.; H class, not over 300 h.p. At a meeting Tuesday evening, it was decided to hold an I class race, taking in craft of unlimited rating, on the Sunday afternoon program. Runabouts will race 2 heats and 2 laps each.

With the exception of the one runabout race, Sunday's program, which starts promptly at noon, will be made up entirely of outboard events. There are four classes of outboards—B, 14 to 20 cu. in. displacement; C, 20 cu. in.; D, 30 to 40 cu. in.; E, 50 to 60 cu. in. In each class are three divisions, I for amateurs who have driven less than 15 races; II for amateurs who have driven over 15 races, and III for professional drivers. Under this arrangement, there will be 16 races. Divisions I and II will race together, 2 heats, 2 laps each. Division III go the same number of heats and laps.

In division III, cash prizes of $100 each go to the winners in each of the four classes. In divisions I and II, trophies will be awarded the first and second place winners in each of the four classes.

An admission charge will be made. Seats on The Inn pier are available at $1.00 and bleacher seats in the park are 50c. General admission is 25c.

A plan to speed up the races has been adopted this year. One of the large government barges has been loaned to the club by Col. Christopher. This will be anchored along side the judge's boat and all contestants will make their headquarters at the barge so as to be handy for the start of each race. This plan will eliminate much delay between races.

Clifford Garrison of Harbor Springs, official of the M. V. P. B. A., will act as referee, and Mayor Matthews of the same city, will be regatta judge. Timers for the events are Austin Leland, Ray Kipke, II, H. Wilson, Ray Hamilton, Clair Webster, Louis Gilbert, Benny Osterbaan and Joe Boyer will be scorers.

Vane-Smith, secretary of the Boat club, will be the clerk.

The usual number of local runabouts, together with others from Traverse City, Harbor Springs and other nearby resorts, have entered the speed boat races. The crowds attending the regatta will probably see some of the fastest outboard races they have ever witnessed this year. Constant enlargement of horse power in outboard motors is going on each year, and now a speed of 50 miles per hour or more for these tiny craft is not at all unusual. A large number of outboards have entered, seeking new records on the protected Lake Charlevoix course.

The program is the best in years, and anyone interested in this sport should not miss the regatta events Saturday and Sunday.

The second annual regatta dance at Juilleret's on Sunday evening, will bring the regatta to a close.

MICHILIMACINAC TO BE RESTORED

Fort of Indian Days on Straits of Mackinac to Stand Again

Old Fort Michilimacine, which was located at Mackinaw City, just west of the present state park, entrance will be restored as near as possible, according to the recent action of the Mackinaw Island state park commission.

Authorization was given to Superintendent Kenyon to start work that will eventually reproduce the stockade and block houses, which marked the site of the massacre.

Old histories, old photographs and the judgment of long time residents of Mackinaw City will be used, and when the work starts, the commission expects that the boundaries and buildings of the old fort will be authentically reproduced.

Those who had visited this station in previous years hardly recognized the place. In fact, with its new location, new buildings and new arrangements, there was left only the old faces of faculty members and some returning students to remind one of previous years. The entire camp has been moved a half mile west and is grouped about the fine open space at the foot of the lake.

At the west end are the sheet steel houses for the men students, in the center are the study buildings, laboratories, libraries, dining hall, kitchen, community building and exhibition buildings. Off to the east is the camp section for the girl students, while to the far east end, near the old station site are the homes of the faculty members.

The place is now considered the largest fresh water institution of its kind in the world, and is recognized in all corners of the world for the importance of its instruction and investigations carried on. In fact, these investigations by leading scientists, make up quite an important part of the session's activities. The camp population now numbers close to 200 persons.

Of this number 42 are old students back for another season, with 27 doing research in zoology, six in botany and others taking other subjects. The women students outnumber the men by a count of 50 to 48, and the women seem to be having a great summer's outing along with the study. Most of the students in camp are graduates of some university, 36 of them holding B. S. degrees.

Dr. George R. LaRue, camp director, was in charge of the big Sunday program, and was ably assisted by Dr. Paul S. Welch. Both are noted for their research work made in Michigan. Dr. George E. Nichols, Yale, is back again and has Mrs. Nichols with him. Mrs. Welch arrived only Saturday but will be with her husband at camp during the remainder of the summer. Prof. John H. Ehlers, in the botany department, has a large class, almost more than he can handle and if the department continues to grow he will have to have an assistant. Prof. J. B. Hunkerford, of the entomology department has an even larger class this season.

The visitors were shown the new aquarium with its live fish and turtles, snakes, etc., the parasitology laboratory, the laboratory for limnology, Houghton hall where investigations of insects is carried on, the insectary, Reighard laboratory, the vertebrate laboratory, through the library and study halls, through Newcombe laboratory where investigations on plants is under way, and ended their tour of inspection at the club house where refreshments were served and a reception held.

Students served as guides and also helped entertain the guests by explaining the work at the various buildings, professors also assisted and conducted parties through the grounds and buildings while their wives and the girl students assisted in entertaining in the buildings and at the reception hall.

The entire place is a beehive of information, and one could spend weeks there and then not hear about all of the things being studied and research work being done.

One of the important investigations going on is one to determine what disease is making northern Michigan a difficult place in which to rear both tame and wild ducks. Scientists at the station have determined that the trouble is a blood disease transmitted by a fly which attacks the ducks. Dr. E. C. O'Roke has been carrying on this study.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day-bright. Get 24 for 25c at any of the Central Drug Store, or Rexall store.

ILL NINE YEARS: KONJOLA BRINGS PROMPT RELIEF

New Medicine Makes Real Record for Detroit Man; Stomach Ailment Soon Banished

MR. JOHN M. CAVANAUGH

"I suffered considerable anguish for about nine years with stomach trouble," said Mr. John M. Cavanaugh, 1233 Fifteenth street, Detroit. "During this entire period of time, I was subject to frequent vomiting spells. I remained hungry even after meals, and particularly so around midnight. These attacks of indigestion caused me much misery because of the swollen condition of my stomach. My liver was bad, too, and I felt so miserable that I feared I would have to stop working."

"I had great success with Konjola. I have taken four bottles and all my health troubles have been corrected. I am no longer subject to attacks of indigestion nor do I have vomiting spells after meals. I eat what I wish without fear or discomfort and I feel much better in every way."

Konjola should be taken over a period of from six to eight weeks and is recommended for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Konjola is sold in Charlevoix, Mich., at F. J. Fessenden's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Audrey Gilmartin is expected home this week from a six weeks' tour of the western states.

Rev. Linell is again on duty after having been absent for a month on his vacation in the western states.

The members of the Bay Shore and Murray canning clubs leave for a week's outing at Gaylord, Monday.

Mrs. McLean and two daughters returned to Detroit after spending a two weeks' vacation at the Shin-Tangle cottage.

LaVern McCalmon, accompanied by her mother and Mrs. Jack McCalmon, and Master Donnie, motored to Mackinaw City Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lambert and daughter, and a party of friends, returned to Detroit Sunday after spending a month at the Shin-Tangle cottage.

The Bay Shore boys and girls entered a float in the baby clinic parade in Petoskey, receiving first prize for outside towns. Georgie Barber, Bay Shore queen, received a willow rocker for a prize, and Lewis Masby received second prize for the "Two Black Crow" outfit, with his ponies.

ATWOOD

Cherry harvest is almost over. Grain harvesting is now in full swing.

Earl Farrell churned 1,500 pounds of butter last week.

Harvesting of the different kinds of grain is in full swing.

Albert Elzinga has been quite ill. He is improving at present.

Neil Berry of Central Lake, was a business caller here last Monday.

U. S. 31 now under construction, will be completed this week. It has been stated that 104 cars were counted in one hour at the Joliffe corner.

Several of the members of the M. E. church enjoyed a picnic dinner after services Sunday, near Harwood lake. C. M. Conklin, former pastor, was present and gave an enjoyable talk.

Leon Paudon and nephew of Palmyra, Wis., are visiting relatives and friends for a few days. Mr. Paudon was here 18 years ago and was surprised to see how everything had changed, especially roads and farm improvements.

Another farm deal was closed last Monday. Mr. Pierce, formerly of Central Lake some 20 years ago, purchased the Will Seymour farm, commonly known as the John Klump farm. Mr. Pierce takes possession at once. This makes four farms sold in about three weeks. More farm buyers are expected in the near future.

FAIRVIEW-BANKS

Tony Kuper is building a new garage.

Farmers are cutting oats, pitching beans, and picking pickles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Oosterbaan and family visited with their parents Friday evening.

James Dewey of Bellaire, candidate for the office of register of deeds, was in this locality Wednesday.

Our neighborhood was well represented at the mission festival held last week Wednesday in Peeble's grove.

Mrs. H. J. Timmer and daughter, Cora, who spent two weeks in the southern part of the state, returned home Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Genit Oosterbaan, Mr. and Mrs. Genit Bolhuis and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rooda of Holland, Mich., visited with Mr. and Mrs. U. Seneker Sunday evening.

About 20 young ladies surprised Miss Margie Timmer with a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening. The evening was spent in visiting and playing games. Light refreshments were served and a good time was enjoyed.

ROCK ELM

A good rain would be welcomed by the farmers in this vicinity.

There was preaching service at the school house Friday night by a minister from Petoskey.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Whitfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark and family, also Will Orvis and his brother Vaughn, were visitors at the L. Jensen home Sunday.

THE INDIVIDUAL YET NEEDED BY BUSINESS

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

SOME seem to think that the day of the individual in business has passed. But they are wrong. While the individual may not attract such outstanding attention as he did in the days of old when institutions were conducted on a smaller scale, he nevertheless is to be found in any large corporation, dominating the situation, giving orders here, co-operating there and shouldering the responsibility of keeping a large group of lieutenants, captains and privates working in unison and moving forward under the banner of progress. And all of these are held accountable to the public because the public has entered into a partnership agreement with the corporation through purchase of stock.

Welfare of Workers

Even in the gigantic mergers that have taken place within the last two years there remains more than ever the necessity for a leader, an aggressive personality, whose duty it is to see that basic principles are not forgotten, that the rights and privileges of the individual workers and the customers they serve are as well provided for as in the smaller business units.

It is gratifying to note that our corporations are giving more and more concern to the welfare of their workers. Numerous benefit organizations have been formed, opportunities offered for advancement of education and position, hospital service established and insurance and retirement pensions provided.

This general humanitarian movement in reality is the outgrowth of analysis, which has disclosed the need of improving the well-being of our individual workers, realizing at the same time that our institutions will benefit.

Shoot Fish With Arrows

Caraja Iodiana, in South America, use oo hooks and lines with which to catch their fish. Instead they shoot them with bow and arrow. In the Amazon, for instance, there are more species of fish than in all the other rivers in the world together. Though great skill is required to shoot them there is plenty for food with which to nourish both man and beast. Naturalists who have visited the jungles often report seeing big jaguars lying on branches of trees over the River of Death scooping up fish with their paws.

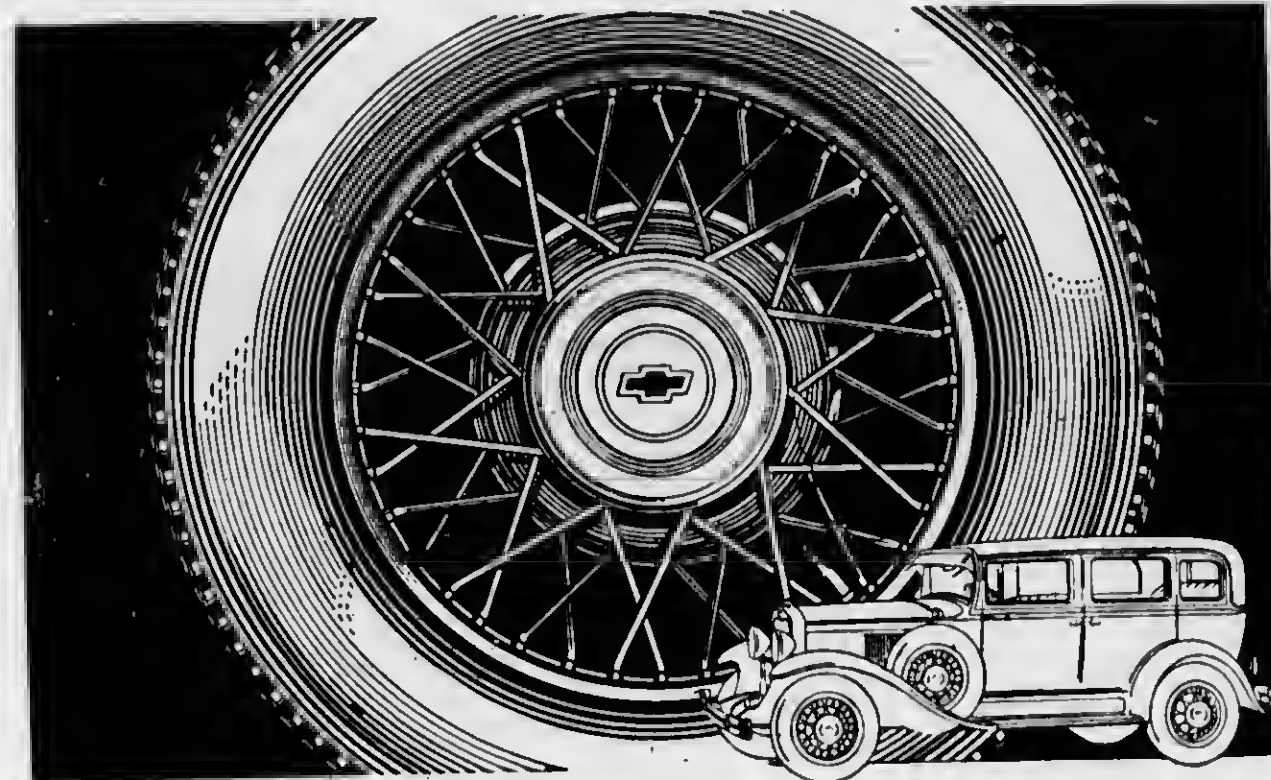

Hospitality

If I were an interviewer or a newspaper reporter, I should be tempted to give the impression which the men and women of distinction I met made upon me; but where all were cordial, where all made me feel as nearly as they could that I belonged where I found myself, whether the ceiling were a low or a lofty one, I do not care to differentiate my hosts and my other friends—Oliver Wendell Holmes, in "One Hundred Days in Europe."

SUNNY SIDE UP

(By D. J. Walsh.)

"Two eggs—sunny side up," sang out the girl and the call was repeated from the kitchen in the rear. Roddy Baker was terribly tired; he had been studying hard and last night the gang at the "frat house" had lusted on his going out with them and it was two o'clock before he came in, after which he had to finish an essay on Hamlet.

There was something about that alert young voice that challenged his tired brain and he looked up from the morning paper spread on the table before him. A small white hand was placing a glass of water beside his plate and his gaze wandered up the arm in the snug-fitting blue percale sleeve, over a white throat and stopped at the pretty doll-like face framed by fuzzy corn-yellow hair. She returned his gaze frankly and smiled. Her smile was refreshing.

"Your eggs will be here in a minute, Biddle," she smiled him. "Want something else? Got some nice fresh slinkers this mornin'—sugared or un-sugared—and the coffee is a knock-out. Fresh," she added in a whisper, which led Roddy to believe that the coffee dispensed behind the counter of the College cafe was sometimes left over from the previous day.

"All right. Bring me a cupful of coffee and a couple of slinkers." That was the first time he had ever called doughnuts "slinkers." It was not done in the House of Baker, but when one is away at college, one has to use the vernacular—and Roddy was learning much in his first year at the State university.

The girl brought his breakfast and after waiting on another customer she came back and seated herself across from him. She smiled again and Roddy left very happy. It was November and he had not "stepped out" with a single girl since he came to college. In fact, he had not talked to many. He had been so very busy getting settled in school and then Mother Baker had a habit of dropping in on Friday nights, staying at a downtown hotel, but nevertheless claiming her son's week ends.

"You don't eat here much, do you?" asked the girl.

"No. I live over at the frat, but I get tired of their cooking. These doughs—these slinkers are swell."

"Sure they are. We make them here. Why don't you come for eats more often, Biddle?"

"I think I will." Then the scion of the house of Baker became bold. "That is, if you'll wait on me. What—what is your name—so I can ask for you if you are not here."

The girl giggled. "Swell chance of me not being here when I am the whole show out here in front. But, if you must insist, my name is Letitia Louise Lafferty," and then she added coyly, "but my friends call me Lettie Lou."

"Mine is Roderick Baker." He pushed his plate back and leaned forward, his arms resting along the edge of the table. "Do you like movies?"

The girl's face beamed. "Do I? I'll say. There is a swell show on at the Royale tonight—'Far Love or Fame'—Gladia Leverette is playing opposite Lionel Brigham. I'm stiddy crazy about him."

Eight then Roddy was not so keen to see Lionel Brigham, but he could not dissent for now.

"All right. Let's go. I'll meet you—where?"

"Here at eight o'clock. I'm through then. That will give us time to get to the frat house. Thanks, Roddy. Want more slinkers? More Java?" Roddy shook his head and smiled into her eyes. Two customers rapped sharply on their tables and Letitia Louise answered their bidding. As Roddy closed the door behind him he heard that fresh, high voice sing out, "Four eggs—sunny side up—and two Javans."

Roddy was excited over his "date." Of course he could not help comparing Letitia Louise of the corn-yellow hair with his lovely sister Rosamonde, or Dorothy Lake, or Marian Buge, at home. They were different—very much so, but Letitia was a daisy good little sport and made a fellow forget about being homesome, when she smiled. The afternoon dragged. At six-thirty he went into the dining room for dinner. He refused a chorused invitation to go to a "movie" from some fraternity brothers. He must call mother tonight—she had not written the usual weekly letter. The telephone conversation would kill ten minutes, but even at that, eight o'clock was an hour off.

"Then a waiter came to the door and said Mr. Baker was wanted in the parlor. Of course, it was mother. She had been unable to reach him on the telephone from her hotel, so she had taxied up to the fraternity house. She was very glad to see him and Roddy tried hard to smile a welcome.

"Say, Minter, how about the opera? I can get you a ticket . . ."

"Fine," and Roddy's heart leaped with happiness. "That is, dear, if you really want to go."

"Oh! that was different. He was to go, too."

"But, I wasn't going, mother. I really don't care for the opera, you know, but I thought you—"

"Then how about a show, son?" and then she put her finger under his chin. "Out with it, Roddy. A date with a girl?"

Roddy nodded and things looked better.

"Fine! What is it, a 'movie' or a dance, and can't mother go along?"

"Mother was a darn good sport. He looked at his wrist watch. It was ten minutes to eight—too late to get word to the blond Lettie Lou, and it never occurred to Roddy that he would break the engagement. Roddy was a gentleman. He had been brought up to be a man of his word.

"Yes, I have a date, mother, to go to a 'movie.' She—she—" he did not tell his mother she was a waitress at the College cafe, so he finished lamely. "She's a darn, good little sport."

"Then that's settled. Where do we find her, son?"

"Well," Roddy swallowed hard. "You wait here, mother, and I'll run over and get her. I'm sure you are tired after your trip and we'll come back—"

Roddy stopped short when he saw his mother was laughing.

"Run along and I'll wait here. I was young once myself."

A slender little figure came out from the corner shadows of the College cafe and moved toward him on high heels, one hand on her hip, her coat drawn about her small person. Roddy groaned inwardly. "Rosamonde! Dorothy! Marian—and mother!"

"Oh, hello," he greeted her. "Say, a beastly thing has happened—that is, for us. Mother dropped in and is over at the frat waiting for us to pick her up. You don't mind, do you? Mother is a good sport."

Letitia Louise finished pulling on her gloves before she replied and Roddy waited anxiously.

"Why, no, Mr. Baker, I don't mind. I—I think it will be—charming?"

Under a street lamp Roddy looked at her closely. She was very pretty but her lips were over-red and the spots on her cheeks stood out flamingly. What would mother think? But Lettie Lou had stopped and with her handkerchief was rubbing at her cheeks frantically, holding a tiny mirror before her eyes. Roddy moved away from the circle cast by the street light and waited until she had finished.

"Mother, this is Miss Lafferty. This is my mother."

"I am very happy to meet you, Miss Lafferty," was his mother's hearty acknowledgment. "I hope I am not intruding. You see, I see my son so seldom."

"You are not intruding, Mrs. Baker," was the reply in a softly modulated voice and Roddy looked up in wonder. "It is a pleasure, I am sure, although you may not care for Lionel Brigham."

"Oh, I do like him," was Mrs. Baker's enthusiastic response and they were off.

Letitia Louise was wrapt in silence throughout the entire show. Once Roddy tried to take her hand under cover of his overcoat but she moved it away and her eyes did not leave the thrilling scene between Lionel and the fair Gladia. After the show they lined up at the drug store counter and consumed banana splits and then Mrs. Baker asked Roddy to call a taxi. She expressed a desire to see Letitia Louise again and the girl thanked her. Roddy drew a long breath of relief when the taxi drew away from the curb and turned to his companion—she was gone! She had slipped away into the darkness while he was bidding his mother good-night and tucking a robe about her knees.

The next morning he went to the College cafe for breakfast. A small figure in blue percale approached him. Lettie Lou was chewing gum.

"Good morning," was her greeting. "What will it be? Eggs—ham and—"

"We've got fresh slinkers, or maybe pancakes and sausage."

"Say! How on you got that way?" Roddy asked fervently. "Where did you go last night—and why are you so different? Gee! You're not the same." "Innocent mamma's boy," she laughed. "Eggs, did you say, Roddy?" and she culled out lustily without waiting for his reply. "Two eggs—sunny side up, Joe, and rattle the slinkers and Java." She turned back to Roddy. "Last night, you see, I was—sunny side up—that's it—sunny side up but deliver—me! Highbrows, ugh!"

Roddy alone at his table, decided he must write to Dorothy Lake today. Perhaps she would come down for the frat dance. She was a nice girl, classy, without being slangy. In fact, all the girls he knew were that way—sunny side up—Lettie Lou had called it. Sunny side up—just like the two golden yolks nestling on the plate that was slammed down before him by a small hand protruding from a blue percale sleeve.

STATE TAX MEN AND BANKERS IN ACCORD

Months of Negotiation Lead to Agreement on Changes Broadening Method of State or Local Taxation of National Banks.

NEW YORK.—Months of conference and negotiation between an American Bankers Association special committee and the Committee of the Association of States on Bank Taxation have resulted in an agreement on a form of amendment to the Federal statute dealing with state or local taxation of national banks that "maintains the integrity of the protective principles of the section and is satisfactory to the commissioners' committee," says the American Bankers Association Journal.

Thomas H. Paton, the organization's General Counsel, in making the announcement says that previously proposed amendments to the statute, which is known as Section 5219, have been opposed when it was felt their terms would enable any state to place banks in a tax class by themselves.

"The law as it stands today," Mr. Paton says, "permits state or local taxation of national banks or their shareholders in one or the other of the four following forms: the shareholders upon their shares, a property tax; the shareholders upon their dividends, a personal income tax; the bank upon its net income; the bank according to or measured by its net income. Only one form of tax can be imposed, except that the dividend tax may be combined with the third or fourth form if other corporations and shareholders are likewise taxed.

"The conditions permitted are: the tax on shares must be at no greater rate than on other competing moneyed capital; the income tax on shareholders must be at no greater rate than on net income from other moneyed capital; the tax on bank net income must be at no higher rate than on other financial corporations nor the highest rates on mercantile and manufacturing corporations doing business within the state; the tax measured by net bank income is subject to the same limitations as the tax on net income of the bank but may include entire net income from all sources."

States Seek Broader Law

National banks and their shareholders are taxed in different states under a diversity of systems, he says. The U. S. Supreme Court has held that the low millage rate on intangible personal property is in violation of the present law where it results in national bank shares being taxed at a rate greater than that assessed upon competing moneyed capital. A number of states, unwilling to use the income methods permitted, had the alternative of either repealing the intangibles tax laws or limiting taxation of national bank shares at the intangible rate. Therefore they sought a broadening of the permissive provisions.

Also, Mr. Paton points out, a Supreme Court decision held a state's excise tax on corporations invalid where it included income from Federal and local government bonds in the excise measure. This created doubt as to some state bank excise taxes.

"Conferences have been held to reach some agreement which would protect the banks, satisfy the tax commissioners and avoid a contest in Congress," Mr. Paton says. "From the standpoint of the tax authorities, the main objectives have been an amendment which would permit certain states to retain their low rate tax upon intangibles and at the same time derive an adequate, but not excessive, revenue from national bank shares, and an amendment which would permit certain states to tax corporations on their net income, excluding income from tax-exempts, and at the same time derive the same revenue from the banks as heretofore. From the standpoint of the banks, it has been deemed imperative to maintain the protective principles of Section 5219.

The Changes Agreed On

"In the proposed amendment the existing provision permitting taxation of bank shares no higher than the rate upon competing moneyed capital has been modified with respect to certain intangible tax states only by a provision under which, instead of the moneyed capital limitation, the rate shall not be greater than the rate upon the shares of other financial corporations, nor upon the net assets of individuals, partnerships or associations employed in the banking, loan or investment business, nor higher than the rate assessed upon mercantile, manufacturing and business corporations with head office in the state.

"Also an added fifth alternative permissive method, designated as a special tax, permits a state, in place of an ad valorem tax on bank shares, to

Between seven and eight per cent of the goods sold over the counter are returned by purchasers.

Such facts were revealed from studies made by the department of commerce.

The return vary in different kinds of business. They are not as large in groceries and sugar as in dry goods and in furs. In fact the fur stores report that 16 per cent of their cash sales come back.

Such a condition is not surprising. It is harmful. Goods taken from the store, handled and returned are not the same brand new merchandise. The loss is many times heavy and it is a loss that falls upon everyone who buys.

If the various losses which are inflicted upon the retail trade would be eliminated a tremendous saving to the public would result. If the losses

MONEY AND FOOD

The present business situation is marked by two things.

One is a surplus of money, the other is a surplus of food. By money we do not mean the money which every citizen may or may not have. We refer to the accumulated deposits of the great banking houses of the large cities. Money for gambling in stocks in Wall Street has been at the lowest interest rate in years and there has been plenty of it available. However many people seem to have gotten over the stock market craze and comparatively few are taking many chances on stocks.

The surplus of everything grown upon the land has been the serious aspect of the agricultural situation. That surplus has driven down prices, stood in the way of returning land values and it has had its serious effect upon every form of commercial activity.

Now if we can find a way to get that surplus money set at the task of buying surplus food, we shall make progress.

MICHIGAN RIVIERA TOURNAMENT AUGUST 18

Large Field Promised for Annual Event at The Inn Courts

Following the 5th annual Charlevoix Boat Club regatta, scheduled for Saturday and Sunday of this week, the next event on the sports calendar for the entertainment of vacationists at Charlevoix is the annual Michigan Riviera tennis championships, which open Monday, August 18, at The Inn Courts.

While few definite entries are in at this early date, word from down-state tournaments is that a large field will compete in the annual event here. John Hennessey, who has won the Riviera crown since inauguration of the tournament, will be here to defend his title following almost a year's absence from tournament play.

Walter T. Hayes of Chicago, will be tournament referee, and with him will be George O'Connell, Jack Harris, Ellis Klingeman, Roy Jennings, Fred Royer and others of the Windy City's star tennis following. Promise of some outstanding talent among the new crop of junior stars has been received here and local tennis club officials are looking for as large, if not larger field, than in former years.

SUNDAY PROGRAM AT INTERLOCHEN BOWL

Former Conductor to Be Guest — Day's Program is Outlined

The national high school band, playing in the afternoon at three o'clock, central standard time, next Sunday, has for a guest conductor, the famous Dr. Carl Busch, former conductor of the Kansas City Symphony, and one of the finest of the present day composers. Dr. Busch has honored the camp by being guest conductor in 1928 and 1929.

At seven o'clock, central standard time, the usual broadcast over the international network of the Columbia broadcasting system, on what is known as the Majestic radio hour. You will hear the hand, the orchestra, and the camp choir. Vladimir Bakaleinikoff will play violin solos and Redferne Hollinshead, tenor, will be heard from the New York studios in solos.

At eight o'clock, central standard time, the program continues by the national high school orchestra, Dr. Joseph E. Maddy conducting, presenting "America," an epic rhapsody by Bloch.

CHURCH OF GOD.

There will be no services at the stone chapel August 10, but the following Sunday and each Sunday thereafter Sunday school will be at 10:00, and preaching at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Every day this week and including next Sunday there will be services at the camp grounds at 10:30 a. m. and 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. Some of the ministers who will speak are O. L. Yerty of Belding, W. H. Shriner of Belding, Blain Varner of Alpena, and I. T. Mark of Petoskey. Also our elderly brethren, Leroy Sheldon of Boyne City, and J. H. Tuttle of Cheboygan, who have been regular workers at the camp meeting for years.

A. G. Pontious and several other good ministers are expected, so we have every reason to believe that there will be something very good at each service. All are invited and urged to come. The camp ground is one and one-half mile south of Charlevoix.

SUMMER PAGEANT EVENT NEXT WEEK

PETOSKEY WILL ENTERTAIN
AUGUST 11 AND 12

Venetian Trio, Cy, Moody, and Schultz Baad for Afternoon's
Parade to Be on Moody

Petoskey, Aug. 6. — Following closely upon the Children's parade, staged so successfully here last week, will be another of Petoskey's summer events and one of the outstanding attractions of the region each year—The Summer Pageant, to be held here Monday and Tuesday, August 11 and 12. Entries for the parade, which will be at 10:30 Monday morning, indicate that this feature will surpass those of former years which have gained wide publicity for the city through metropolitan newspapers and moving pictures. The artistic and gorgeously decorated floats will be interspersed with comic entries, generous prizes being offered in both groups, and in addition the Petoskey Indians, which have proved so great an attraction in the past will be given prominent places in the procession.

The afternoon events, which will be given on both days will include free street entertainments by the Venetian Trio of Chicago, comprised of a singer, violinist and accordionist; Marker and Schenck as "Cy and Mandy," a comedy pair who come from Chicago highly recommended; afternoon vaudeville by Bernie Schultz and his Douglas Lake hotel orchestra, who are well known to northern Michigan audiences; and the typical Indian village which will be displayed at Arlington park. An added attraction for Tuesday afternoon will be a regional championship baseball game at the Bay View grounds between the Silver Lake Tanners and the Brutus Athletics.

In the evening of both days the attraction will be at the high school stadium, when a gorgeous pageant, "Fantasy of Fairyland," with a cast of 300 people, will be presented. Nightly rehearsals for this event have been held for some time, and local people who have seen the director and his cast working in these rehearsals are emphatic in declaring that never has Petoskey or this immediate region attempted to stage any attraction so spectacular.

The admission charge for the pageant at the stadium will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children, tickets now being on sale at many stores and business places, as well as the Chamber of Commerce where reserved seats also are available.

MICHIGAN VALUATION DECREASED MILLION

Charlevoix County Increased, But Tax Rate Slightly Less

The assessed valuation of Michigan property was fixed Monday by the state tax commission at $8,450,030,200, a decrease of $114,668,000 from the equalized figure of last year.

The reduction represents a blanket cut of two and a half per cent which was made by the commission after first tentative figures were reached, according to Edwin F. Saunders of Detroit, chairman. The valuation placed upon the various counties Monday is tentative and may be appealed to the board of equalization in session August 18.

Charlevoix county's share in the state total was fixed at $10,433,000, an increase of $151,635 over 1929. The per cent of the 1930 tax for Charlevoix county is .123467 as compared to .124931 in 1929, a slight decrease.

MULLET LAKE ANNUAL REGATTA NEXT SUNDAY

Three Divisions for Speed Boats and Four for Outboards

Elsewhere in this issue will be found an advertisement announcing the annual regatta of the Mullet Lake Boating association. This year's regatta will be held at Mullet lake instead of Topinabee as in former years.

Races will be Sunday, August 10, starting at 2:00 o'clock. Events scheduled for speed boats are 85-110 h. p., four prizes; 110-150 h. p., 1st and 2nd prizes; 150 h. p. and over, 1st and 2nd prize; free-for-all, 1st prize. Outboard events are: class B, 6-15 h. p., 1st, 2nd, 3rd prizes; class C, 22-24 h. p., 1st, 2nd, 3rd prizes; class D, 32-35 h. p., 1st, 2nd, 3rd prizes; free-for-all, three prizes.

Twenty-one cups are being procured as awards for the winners, and no entry fee is charged to enter the races.

TAYLOR-VOELKER WEDDING LAST SATURDAY

Prominent Young Couple United at Sequanota Summer Home

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 4:30 in the garden at the Sequanota summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flagg Taylor, when their daughter, Miss Grace Elizabeth Taylor, was united in marriage to John Donaldson Voelker of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Voelker of Ishpeming, Mich.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Roy Vale, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Oak Park, Ill., and the Rev. C. W. Sidebotham of East Jordan, assisting.

Following the wedding, a reception, at which 165 guests from Oak Park, Chicago, and friends from the Charlevoix colony were present, was held at the Belvedere hotel.

Mr. Taylor, who is vice-president of the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co., Chicago, has been summering at Sequanota for many years and the family are prominent residents of Oak Park, Illinois, suburb of Chicago. Mr. Voelker is a member of an eminent Chicago law firm.

BELVEDERE CLUB ANNUAL MEET TUESDAY

Reports of Committee Heads and Officers Were Heard

At the annual meeting of the Belvedere club, held Tuesday forenoon at the casino, members heard the annual report of the president, secretary, treasurer and committee chairmen.

R. Vernon Clark of St. Louis, Mo., was re-elected president of the club. Vice-presidents elected were J. W. Fristoe and Charles Fox, Sr., both of St. Louis; secretary, Emerson W. Price, Charlevoix; treasurer, Logan Thomson, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Reports revealed there had been much progress during the past year. Perhaps the most encouraging was that from the Belvedere hotel, of which Mrs. Franklin C. Sears is manager. The house count showed an increase of around 500 over the previous year and financial returns were much larger. Of the 90 cottages on the club grounds, 69 are occupied at the present.

Members of the club have every reason to be satisfied with conditions as reported.

CHARLEVOIX GROUP ADULT CAMP GUESTS

Were Entertained at Camp Manitou Last Thursday Evening

A large group of Charlevoix business and professional men had an opportunity last Thursday evening to enjoy with the guests, the evening routine of the adult summer camp, Camp Manitou, near Ironton.

The affair proved very pleasant. Following a delicious dinner at 6:30 o'clock, the visitors joined with the campers in the singing of camp songs, led by members of the staff.

A period of dancing was enjoyed and this was followed by a number of original acts put on by members of the camp staff. They were original and very entertaining.

The visiting Charlevoix group found Mr. and Mrs. A'Amico, owners of the camp, to be very delightful hosts, also members of the staff. It was the unanimous opinion that the place is a very enjoyable vacation spot when one judges from the good time the campers are enjoying.

WEEKLY BAND CONCERTS DRAW CROWD

Ever Increasing Number Out Thursday Evening Each Week

Last Thursday evening, saw the largest crowd of the season out for the regular weekly band concert at the corner of State and Mason streets.

The city band, under the leadership of John TerWee, have presented excellent programs each Thursday evening throughout the summer, and the popularity of these concerts is proven by the large numbers that turn out to hear them.

Beginning of Telegraphy

Communication over long distances by such devices as the heliograph, signal fire, drum beat, and the like, have been employed from time immemorial. Electric communication, however, is a comparatively recent invention. It was first suggested in 1753 when it was discovered the discharge of a Leyden jar could be conveyed through an insulated wire. The experimenters, Galvani, Volta, Ampere, Faraday and others in the early part of the last century worked out the problems of the gravity cell and the electrical magnet, and then Morse in 1835 constructed his rude model which a few years later had been so perfected that with some modifications in detail it has been in use ever since.—Kansas City Star.

BELVEDERE MASQUERADE NEXT FRIDAY

Brilliant Affair at Belvedere Casino; Children's Party Following Week

Two interesting events are scheduled for the coming weeks at the Belvedere casino.

On Friday evening, August 15, the annual masquerade party will be given for the benefit of the Belvedere golf club. Assisting the entertainment committee of the club is Miss Galla Travis of Grand Rapids, who supervises many social functions at this popular summer colony, and Mrs. Alice Roderick of Cincinnati, Ohio, social hostess at the hotel.

This annual affair is one of the big social functions of the summer season at the Belvedere and is attended by those of the resort colonies from all parts of the city. The program is always most unusual and costumes original and unique. Much interest is being shown in the event.

Another brilliant affair, the annual Children's party, will be held the following week. Dancing pupils of the Calla Travis classes take a prominent part in the program, which is largely made up of specialty and novelty dance numbers.

The Methodist ladies will hold a baked goods sale on Wednesday, August 13, at the Charlevoix Hardware Co.—Adv. 3211.

Variety in Your Meals

What a dreary, dead old world this would be if there was no variety, if nothing new or different ever happened!

And how unappetizing and uninteresting meals would be if they were all alike.

Variety is the spice of life and especially in foods. It whets our appetites and gives us renewed vitality of body and spirit of mind.

But to prepare meals that are different is the problem—where to get the foodstuffs—but not if you depend on this store.

We Have The Foodstuffs You Want to Prepare Tasty Meals

No matter what menu you have in mind, you can get the foodstuffs here with which to prepare it. We have excellent variety in every line.

Everything fresh and good, too. We handle only the highest quality foods, yet sell at prices which are consistent with economy.

STATE FAIR TO HAVE UNUSUAL CONTESTS

Husband and Hog Calling Listed With Substantial Prizes

If on Michigan farms men may be seen out by the barn emitting strange calls and farm wives may be heard calling the men folk to dinner or supper at unseemly hours, there is a reason. They are practicing up to enter the husband and hog calling contests at the Michigan state fair, this fall. Thursday, September 4, is the day and the contests are scheduled in the grove at 2:30 and 3:00 p. m. Though the hog calling battle precedes the husband calling melee, fair officials have the assurance that there is no significance in placing these two contests together. In fact they are 52 pages apart in the official premium list.

Thirty dollars in prizes awaits the best callers in each class, with $15 the first prize, $10 for the second and $5 for the third.

A ring of sincerity has been noted in the voice of the practicing hog callers, for the fair officials have announced specifically that this is an important factor. "Truth will out," says the official announcement. "The hog caller's voice must have the ring of sincerity and honesty. It must carry conviction to the porkers or the calling is not a success."

This is the rule, too, in the husband calling contest. "The voice must carry assurance," say the fair officials. "It should carry the assurance that supper is ready and the wood box filled. Also it should be sufficiently seductive to woo one away from a game of rummy or checkers."

All husband calling entrants are assured that nothing will be held against them if their facial expression is not just what a smart photographer would advocate for a prize picture. Calling is the main effort. On the other hand, facial expression or effort will count for the hog caller. The more determined, alluring, captivating or vice versa the expression may be, the greater influence it will have on the judges.

The state fair will open Sunday, August 31, with a sacred concert by Creator's famous concert band in the afternoon and a patriotic and fraternal program in the evening.

The big feature of the fair this year will be the stampe, with cowboy and cowgirl champions of the famous round-ups of Cheyenne, Fort Worth, Calgary and Pendleton competing for prizes running well up into the thousands. This spectacle of the wild west will be presented each afternoon and evening in front of the grandstand.

CHARGE FIVE WITH MACKINAC CRIME

Youths Residing Near St. Ignace Blamed for Slaying

Five Rapinville, Mackinac county youths are in the county jail at St. Ignace facing charges of murder, the result of the death of Otto Drefa, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Drefa of Rapinville. The body of the slain youth was found on the Engadine road, in the east part of the country, last Saturday.

The body bore marks of having been struck and run over by an automobile, and on the head was a deep gash, which appeared to have been made by a heavy bottle or round instrument of about the size of a beer bottle. Two of the five youths insisted they found the body beside the road, but their car fenders were badly bent, and smeared with blood, and under one car was found blotches which appeared to be human blood, as though a human body had been hit and dragged for some distance.

The murder is believed to have followed a drinking carousal near Engadine. A man named Rosenbaum, an alleged bootlegger, is said to have thrown the six youths from his place because they were quarreling. Two of the youths, Rudolph Thomas and William Arnth, say that the dead youth had a jack knife in one hand when they found the body. The other three held for murder are Julius and Henry Fenske and Gustaf Bentz.

State police have arrested Rosenbaum, and claim they found five gallons of whiskey and 17 pints of beer at his place.

AT THE MOVIES

"Our Mary" is Left Waiting at the Church in Talking Film of "Taming of Shrew"

Girls, what would you do if— You were waiting at the church, dressed in beautiful bridal robes; your guests were assembled; your attendants were ready; the organ was playing; the minister was becoming impatient—and the bridegroom was missing?

When he does finally put in an appearance dressed like a tramp—what would you do?

That is the problem faced by Mary Pickford in "Taming of the Shrew," which comes to the Palace theatre next Friday for a run of two days.

Star Takes Tip from Pupil

When Alice White appears at the Palace theatre next Sunday and Monday in First National's vitaphone dramatic special, "Sweet Mama," she will be seen as a very trim, slim little girl, with pleasing curves correctly placed.

That's because of Alice's recently established principle of "weighing in at stage-side" for every film role. She took a tip from gentlemen of the ring, and finds that she can control her weight in much the same manner as prize fighters.

David Manners, Kenneth Thomson, Lee Moran, Rita Flynn and other favorites appear with Miss White in "Sweet Mama," which Edward Cline directed. The story, which is packed with surprises and thrills and comedy, was written and adapted by Earl Baldwin.

Talkies More Exacting Than Stage

"The talking picture brings the audience to the actor instead of the actor having to reach his audience," declares Basil Rathbone, famous English stage and screen actor.

Rathbone declares that stage acting and talkie acting have absolutely nothing in common! He has made a success in both, and his latest film role is leading man for Dorothy Mackaill in "The Flirting Widow," a First National vitaphone offering full of spice and pep, coming to the Palace theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Early American Golfing

The United States Golf association says that the earliest authentic record of the first golf club in the United States is found in an advertisement in the Georgia Gazette of September 22, 1794, when the Savannah Golf club, Savannah, Ga., celebrated its anniversary at the Merchants and Planters' coffee house. Golf was played by members of a regularly organized club in Savannah prior to 1790 and continued for about thirty years, eventually lapsing into a quiet hiatus some time about the year 1850. A bronze tablet in the clubhouse of the present golf club reads: "Savannah, the birthplace of golf in America."

Big Legal Fight Over Dog

It was a South London fox terrier. In 1919 two policemen pulled him out of a dog fight and he snapped at one of them. A Clerkwell magistrate sentenced him to death as a ferocious animal. The National Canine Animal Defense league thereupon retained one of the foremost barristers of London, Sir Henry Curtis Bennett, K. C., to defend Boba. Petitions were sent out and 20,000 signatures obtained asking for clemency for the "children's friend." The conviction was set aside and Boba released.

ADVERTISING VACATION LAND

The Michigan Bell Telephone company through its advertising department has just concluded an advertising campaign setting forth the virtues of Michigan as the paradise of the summer vacationist. The campaign, which began the first week in June and ended the week of July 20, included every section of the state, north, east, south and west. It appeared in 250 newspapers from the small country weekly to the metropolitan press and its value in attracting visitors to vacation land can hardly be estimated at its true worth.

This campaign was sponsored in the belief that whatever helps Michigan helps the Bell company also. We trust that this belief will not be dispelled and that a portion of the wealth that follows in the wake of the summer visitor will be reflected in increased demands for Bell company service.

No other organization in Michigan at the present time is contributing more to a returning prosperity than the Michigan Bell Telephone company. In addition to $3,227,000 in taxes, $30,000,000 in operation in maintenance, the company is expending upwards of $30,000,000 this year for new construction and additional exchange and long distance facilities throughout the state. Such splendid confidence in the future deserves our heartfelt commendation.

DEADLY GRADE CROSSINGS

Ten persons within a period of one week have lost their lives in railroad crossing accidents in Michigan. This is a heavy toll in human life to sacrifice to modern means of transportation—but who is at fault—the railroad or the motorist who had his car on the tracks when the train came along? Without knowing the circumstances in each individual case it is safe to say that the driver of the automobile made an error in judgment and caution that resulted fatally.

During the past three years $160,000,000 has been spent in this country for the elimination of railroad grade crossings, yet despite this tremendous outlay crossing accidents are on the increase. In Michigan the state highway department, working in conjunction with the railroads, is engaged in removing physical hazards from railroad grade crossings and wherever necessary making them additionally safe through the installation of efficient warning devices.

But until all railroad grade crossings are eliminated we will continue to witness accidents of this nature. In spite of every effort we seem unable to combat the human element part that enters into these accidents resulting in loss of life and destruction of property. The motorist should understand that when the highway department and the railroads have taken every precaution to guard grade crossings there is some obligation on his part to observe the signals and obey whatever regulations are in effect at grade crossings. Speaking of this obligation the United States supreme court recently expressed itself as follows:

"When a man goes upon a railroad track, he knows that he goes to a place where he will be killed if a train comes upon him before he is clear of the track. He knows that he must stop for the train, not the train stop for him."

WHEN FORESTS BURN

Nature has provided many things for your comfort and pleasure, nothing of which is finer than the wooded hills and valleys that greet the visitor sojourning in vacation land. But even nature is not proof against carelessness.

This is the season of the year when danger from forest fires is greatest. Beautiful forest areas are not only a valuable commercial asset, but have an untold value in attracting visitors. Where lakes and trees abound we find people seeking rest and solitude. When timber fires denude the land the loss is universal. It has been truthfully said that "Everybody loses when timber burns."

During the summer months thousands of people visit the timbered sections of Michigan. Thousands of acres have been set aside by the state to provide beauty spots for recreation purposes. As a visitor you are welcome. All your host expects is carefulness on your part. Be careful of fire for the tiniest blaze may grow to light an inferno on a hundred burning hills.

See that your camp fire is extinguished before you depart—be sure to break your match before throwing it away—don't cast lighted cigars or cigarettes into the dried grasses of the roadside—it is because of these things that many fires are started. Michigan pleads with you to help preserve her beauty for coming generations.

THE ROAD TO PROSPERITY

If one believes, then, that modern industry will have no turning back, but rather a steady rise to new achievement, if one believes that in Europe the process of increasing wage scales and enlarged buying power and consumption must inevitably take place, then, in the long view, one may realize that the depression of surplus production will in time be lifted from the world.

The problem, then, is how to expedite that day and, in the meantime, how to hold steady the industrial practices until by emulation they lift the buying power of Europe's great populations. These are vital economic truths. They can be understood by American people; they must be taught and they must be put in practice with such manifest devotion to business prosperity and social advance combined that there will be no question of their dislocation by untimely interference of state theories.—Julius H. Barnes—Address at the dedication of the Cleveland Terminal.

THE NAVAL TREATY

A study of the London Naval Treaty from an economic viewpoint brings to light some material advantages and also some savings in cost through the battle ship holiday.

The treaty limits the naval overhead, including maintenance and construction costs, up to the year 1936. If we could be assured that both Great Britain and Japan would be content to maintain their present fleets without any additional construction up to 1936 then our naval overhead could in that case be fixed without a treaty; but it is altogether unlikely that either of these nations would sacrifice the lead which they have established in certain categories and permit the United States to catch up without having assurances and limitations similar to those which are provided by the treaty.

The advantages of having a fixed naval overhead for the three powers which are party to the treaty are obvious. Stabilization of the budgets of the three powers should have a salutary effect upon the trade and commerce of the world in general.

KEEP THE KIDS OUT

Doing a "stunt" craze has at last invaded the ranks of the younger generation. It began when a kid over in Wisconsin started roosting in a tree and now it is spreading over the nation. Bicycle endurance tests have also been added to the roosting mania. Some newspapers are encouraging the boys and girls to enter these contests, which is bad for the kids, physicians assert.

Although he considered them as crazy affairs the average citizen had no particular objection to flagpole sitting, dance marathons, or endurance flights as long as they did not interfere with his pursuit of life, liberty and happiness. It was enough punishment to find his favorite newspaper exploiting such asinine attempts for notoriety as being matters of news value, without being called upon to lend encouragement by his presence. Therefore he registered no objections.

But he does have an interest in the children. He will regard any attempt at exploiting them by newspapers or so-called managers as dangerous to the growing generation. He will demand that stunts which threaten the life and health of innocent participants be discouraged. His protests will be heard—and heeded.

SHE SERVES ALL

What does a public health nurse do for the community?

She instructs teachers, pupils, and parents in the principles of hygiene and nursing.

She improves sanitary conditions and safeguards the community against the spread of communicable diseases.

She is a character of critical importance in the work of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association to save lives from tuberculosis.

She prevents public dependency by securing information regarding blind, deaf, crippled, mentally defective, sick and other atypical children and assisting in providing institutional care or special educational opportunities for them.

She saves tax payers' dollars by correcting conditions of disease that incapacitate wage earners, reduce their families to poverty, and make them dependent upon public charity.

To secure and to retain the services of a capable public health nurse is an objective that should rank in importance, in the minds of voters and officials, with the maintenance of good schools, good roads and a responsible system of government.

STANDING BY—

Ex-President Coolidge pleads for united support in the nation for President Hoover, whom he says is the president of all the people and who should have our combined efforts in the great task of returning this nation to its former prosperous condition.

This is sensible advice from a sensible man. President Wilson beheld an united country when civilization was being threatened. In no less measure does President Hoover need this same universal assistance when the industrial structures of the nation are in danger.

We are all in the same boat—we sink or swim together—there is no separation of the sheep from the goats. The man who talks disparagingly of the future is tying the millstone around his neighbor's neck as well as his own.

If most of our troubles are sociological we gain nothing by standing apart from the multitude and filling the air with our own lamentations. Let everybody stand girded for the battle—and learn to fight as a single unit for the things the nation needs.

DODGE DEPENDABILITY

TRUE ECONOMY

is more than price deep

Owners of the Dodge Six and Eight are gratified that the features which contribute most notably to the pleasure of owning these cars are also responsible for their economy, dependability and long life.

The carefully-perfected balance of the engine means less vibration. The floating comfort on the road means that the engine and chassis, as well as the passengers, are virtually free from shock and strain.

The strength and permanent silence of the Mono-Piece Steel Bodies reflect freedom from upkeep expense as well as greater safety. The internal weatherproof hydraulic brakes, which give such reassuringly positive stops, are self-equalizing—require no costly adjusting—reduce wear on tires.

Now more than ever before, Dodge cars combine all of the factors you want most in a motor car.

OBITUARY.

John Miller was born January 10, 1846, at Ogdensburg, New York, where he spent his boyhood days.

Mr. Miller was married to Eliza Smithers March 10, 1864. Her death occurred 30 years ago. To this union were born nine children, five dying in infancy. Three little ones were laid to rest at Heubelton, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller, with their little son Milford, came here 60 years ago and moved onto the old homestead in Marion township, which was mostly wilderness at that time. He helped to clear the land and change it into fertile fields.

Four more children were born here, one dying in infancy, leaving only four to grow to manhood and womanhood. Then one by one they were taken away. Milford died at the age of 26, three years later Fanny, and in 1900 the mother was called to go. In 1911 Mrs. Mattie Colburn passed away at Spokane, Wash. Only one daughter, Mrs. Bert Jones, also six grandchildren, remain to mourn their loss; Alfred Jones of Flint, Harold Jones, Mrs. Eliza Duhm of Bois Blanc, Thelma and Milford Jones and Mrs. Elva Talbot of Spokane, Wash.

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Wherefore I say unto thee, Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much; but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little" (Luke 7:47).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The poor suffering heart needs its rightful nutriment, such as peace, patience in tribulation, and a priceless sense of the dear Father's loving-kindness" (p.365).

WEEKLY CAMP CHARLEVOIX

NEWS COLUMN

Edited by Gahn Kinnison

Saturday, August 2, Camp Charlevoix celebrated its annual father and son day. As soon as the Dads arrived they entered right into the spirit of the occasion, engaging wholeheartedly in the different activities.

A few of the fathers arrived in time for the morning dip and the rest of them appeared during or after the morning clean-up. They followed the same schedule as their sons, going either to athletics, woodcraft, handicraft, or arts.

After rest period in the afternoon, everyone gathered in the assembly hall at the call of the bugle, for the dedication of the new camp. A hymn was first sang, after which followed a violin solo by Don Wheeler, one of the camp leaders. Then came the scripture reading, and a prayer of invocation by Dr. Bernard G. Mattson. After a tenor solo by George Alder, another camp counselor, the address of dedication was given by Dr. Eugene Antrim, president of the Oklahoma City university. A quartet of counselors then sang, after which Mr. Reimann, the camp director, read the service. Lastly, came the prayer of dedication, followed by hymns and the benediction. As silence fell over the assembly the bugle notes of taps came floating in through the open windows.

Following the dedication, a baseball game was played, between the fathers and sons. The camp then assembled for the banquet. After the delicious chicken dinner was finished, several songs were sung, first by the whole camp, and then by a quartet, composed of counselors.

When the songs were finished, Mr. Reimann extended a welcome to all the fathers and other guests. Several short talks were given, one from the counselors' point of view, by Don Wheeler, one of the leaders who had been with the camp the first year of its existence.

Howard Herbert spoke on the camper's way of seeing the activities and ways of the camp, and lastly, Glen Robinson gave a talk on the Dad's way of thinking.

After the speeches, taps were sang, thus ending the banquet and Dad's day.

GOOD RACE PROGRAM HELD ON SATURDAY

Horsemen, Sponsor Another Event for Sunday, August 17th

Lovers of the sport of horse racing saw some very good contests last Saturday afternoon at the East Jordan fair grounds.

A racing matinee, sponsored by officials of the Charlevoix County Agricultural society brought out a field of 11 horses for the three races.

In the 28 pace and trot, Peter Mayne, owned by Fred Clemens of Onaway, finished first in both heats. Neil Medium, owned by Harry Smith, Belfaire, placed second in the first and third in the second, and Alice Gordon, James Elzinga's entry, took a third and second in the two heats. The time was 2:24.

Ralph Bacot's "Ella Brino" copped the 25 pace and trot. "Peter Thompson," owned by Jesse Smith, was second in both heats, and James Elzinga's "Baker Frisco" was third. Best time was 2:20.

"Canto Stout," owned by Fred Clemens, Onaway, walked off with the free-for-all in the fast time of 2:18.

Those who saw the races say they were all closely contested and that the time was better than usual at the annual fall fairs in this section.

Another matinee, sponsored by race horse owners of this region, is planned for Sunday afternoon, August 17th. In addition to the 11 horses entered Saturday, five others will compete. Present plans are to turn a percentage of the receipts over to the Charlevoix hospital. Full program and further details will be made public later.

FLINT WEDDING OF INTEREST LOCALLY

Miss Veronica Coates Married There Late in July

An impressive marriage ceremony was solemnized at St. Matthew's church, Flint, on Thursday, July 24, at 8 o'clock, when Miss Veronica Coates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Coates, became the bride of Harold M. Hoffman.

Rev. Fr. Powers officiated at the nuptial high mass, using the ring ceremony.

The bride was becomingly gowned in bridal satin, with which she wore a long veil trimmed with lace and held in place by a band of orange blossoms. The bride's bouquet was white roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride chose her sister, Miss Ann Coates, to assist as maid of honor. She was attractively gowned in pink georgette over pink satin and wore a picture hat to match. Her bouquet was pink roses. The bride's brother, Joseph Coates, was best man.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the immediate members of the family at the home of the bride's parents. After a two weeks' honeymoon, the young couple will make their home at Buffalo.

The Coates family are former Charlevoix residents and are well known in this city.

FINE MEETINGS BEING HELD AT SNOWFLAKE

The meetings at Snowflake continue to grow in interest. A large audience was in attendance last Sunday and Rev. John Parent as speaker held the closest attention of his listeners. Next Sunday at 2:00 p. m. he will demonstrate the blindfold ballot work. He will have charge of the meetings until the close on August 17, being ably assisted by Rev. D. C. Darling.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these services.

MOTHERS' DAY AT KAMP KAIRPHREE

FIRST ANNUAL EVENT HELD THERE LAST SATURDAY

Representative Group of Mothers Were Present for Excellent Program Arranged

Near Charlevoix, on the north shore of beautiful Lake Charlevoix, is one of the finest camps for girls in Michigan, Kamp Kairphree. This is its third season in this location. It is equipped to accommodate 50 girls and has a staff of 14 young college women as instructors in the many activities that belong to an organized camp. Miss Ethel McCormick, assistant professor of physical education in the University of Michigan, is the head counselor.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Swain, directors of this camp, will be glad to have anyone in Charlevoix who is interested in camping for girls drive the seven miles to visit their camp and witness some of the daily activities. One of the most interesting to watch is the regular morning instruction hour in swimming beginning at 10:30, central standard time.

In addition to this work classes are held in canoeing, camp craft, nature study, hand craft, tennis and other ball games, archery, riflery, dancing, and dramatics, all with competently prepared teachers. A short course in counselor training is offered to a small selected group of the older girls. Hikes over night, canoe trips, auto drives to points of interest, and visits to Beaver and Mackinac islands, all properly chaperoned, are planned for the girls.

Saturday, August 2nd, was Mothers' day at the camp. This corresponded to Dads' day at Camp Charlevoix. A very representative group of mothers was present for the day's program which closed with a banquet at which 70 were present. The table, set on the long porch of the lodge, was beautifully decorated in blue and white with cedar, maiden's hair fern, corn flowers, bunny breath, and white tapers. Miss McCormick acted as toast mistress. To toasts to "The Mothers," "The Daughters," "The New Camper," and "The Old Camper," were responses made by Jean Francis Woodruff, Mrs. Williams of Muskegon, Sally Ann Ralston, and Marcia Sharfman.

The assembly hour followed. The upper senior girls gave the operetta, "Lady Francis," under the direction of Miss Florence Boyceff. This was followed by solo dances by Miss Innis Hushour, a graduate of Miss Calla Travis' studio of dancing, violin solos by Mrs. Robert R. Swain, and vocal solos by Miss Boyceff.

This was the first Mothers' day at Kamp Kairphree, but it will probably become an annual affair.

IF ICHABOD CRANE HAD A FLASHLIGHT

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

WE ALL remember the story of Ichabod Crane and the headless horseman. There was the dark form by the side of the road—and gone on with the business of vanquishing his competitor.

John G. Lonsdale

What Ichabod really needed was a modern flashlight. Then he would have discovered the trickery at once. Many business men need the flashlight of analysis to uncover the hobgoblins in their business and then they might sit back and laugh at their rivals who hesitate to investigate and learn the truth.

At this time, when business and banking are making strenuous efforts to have a clear vision ahead, it is especially important that the power of research and analysis be employed to their fullest extent. When these twin brothers of good management have been pressed into service in all fields, I am confident we shall see a further lessening of periods of stress. However, I believe business in general has learned the valuable lesson that any prosperity that is not based on a little adversity would not seem happily safe or sound.

RESERVE SYSTEM'S DIVIDENDS ANALYZED

Bankers Find Increased Payments to Member Banks Would Be Small Inducement.

Various proposals that member banks in the Federal Reserve System should participate more largely in its net earnings through an increase in the dividend rate above the present fixed 6 per cent "would be a very small financial inducement" to them, it is declared in a recent study of this subject by the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. This is shown, the commission says, by a theoretical forecast, on the basis of the past six years, of additional earnings that would be disbursed to member banks during the next six years under two plans introduced in bills before the United States Senate.

"The Fletcher bill provides that Federal Reserve Bank earnings, after present 6 per cent dividends to members and completion of a 100 per cent surplus, should all be distributed as extra dividends to the stockholder banks," the report says. "If the earnings of each Federal Reserve bank were distributed among its own members there would be no extra dividends in the Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco districts during the next six years, but the other six Federal Reserve Banks would pay annual extras at the following rates: Richmond, 6.08 per cent; Atlanta, 4.99 per cent; St. Louis, 3.50 per cent; Minneapolis, 9.51 per cent; Kansas City, 5.48 per cent; Dallas, 4.33 per cent.

"If the earnings were pooled and paid out to all members in all districts each member would receive an average annual extra dividend of .73 per cent. Under this plan no franchise tax as now would be paid by the Federal Reserve Banks to the Federal Government.

Another Plan Analyzed
"The Glass bill would provide that, after present 6 per cent dividends, one-half the remainder should be paid to member banks as an extra dividend with the residue going to surplus and Federal Government as franchise tax. The average annual extras to members would be as follows: Boston District, 2.51 per cent; New York, 4.3 per cent; Philadelphia, 2.05 per cent; Cleveland, 2.09 per cent; Richmond, 3.26 per cent; Atlanta, 4.67 per cent; Chicago, 3.20 per cent; St. Louis, 2.02 per cent; Minneapolis, 4.75 per cent; Kansas City, 2.74 per cent; Dallas, 3.31 per cent; San Francisco, 1.37 per cent.

"If these extra funds were pooled the result would be an extra average annual dividend of 1.73 per cent for each member. Under this plan the system would still pay as now an annual franchise tax, amounting to $1,941,995 on the average."

By way of concrete instance, the report says, a member bank having capital and surplus of $200,000, therefore holding Federal Reserve Bank stock amounting to $5,000 on which it is receiving $360 under the present 6 per cent dividend arrangement, would with the addition of each 1 per cent to the dividend rate receive an additional income of $50 a year.

"If each member bank will figure out for itself the dollar-and-cents gain it would enjoy we are confident it will be agreed that the gains are small as against the economic disadvantages which can be pointed out," it concludes.

CORRESPONDENCE

NORWOOD

Miss Hill of Saginaw is a guest of the Baumbach home for a few days.

Charles Greeley, Jr., spent the week-end with his cousins, Joe and Ruth Parsons of Ellsworth.

Mr. and Mrs. William Brown and family of Flint, arrived here Sunday evening, where they are occupying the Carmen cottage.

Miss Mary Clark of Muskegon, who is spending the summer months in Charlevoix, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richardson.

Mrs. L. L. Dice and Mrs. Ray Ashdon and two children of Charlevoix, were guests of dinner with Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Beard of Petoskey last Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Kiah Jones and daughter Clara, who have spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Jones and other relatives here, returned to their home in Moline, on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wolter of Chicago, who have been visiting Mrs. Wolter's father, William Richardson, and also other relatives here for the past week, left for their home Tuesday morning.

Much effort is being made by the coast guards and local citizens and summer guests of Charlevoix-Petoskey and Norwood, in the search for the bodies of the three men who met with the terrible disaster last Wednesday night on Lake Michigan, west of Norwood, when the gas on board their boat seemed to have exploded. No trace of the bodies have yet been found.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Jones entertained a group of relatives at their home Sunday evening in honor of Mrs. Jones' birthday. Among the relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. Kiah Jones and daughter Clara of Moline, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jones of Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Heise and daughter Beth, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Holeccheck and family of Charlevoix.

The Annual Bazaar and sale of Baked Goods and Ice Cream, and Cake at the Ironton church will be held Wednesday, August 20th, from 12 to 6 p. m. Everybody welcome.—Adv. 3311.

BAY SHORE

Mrs. Henry Hair was a Petoskey caller Monday.

Mrs. A. G. Tillotson entertained a few friends at dinner Thursday night.

Mrs. Hazel House visited Wednesday in Petoskey with Mrs. Harold Tillotson.

A band of bootleggers were taken south of here Friday night by Sheriff Dove Vaughn.

Mrs. Alice Malby and son, Louis, visited her sister in Petoskey a few days last week.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Saunders, of the Charlevoix hospital, a boy, August 6.

Andrew Gilmartin came home Tuesday last from her vacation which she spent in western states.

A number from here attended the parade Monday morning. All report it was the best in many years.

Jack McCalmon returned home from Big Rapids-Thursday, where he has been attending summer school.

A large crowd gathered at the home of Gus Troutman Saturday night for a dinner and a general good time.

The Canning club girls returned home Thursday night and Friday, from Gaylord, where they had spent the week. All had a good time and want to go next year.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c a box at the Central Drug Store, the small store.

JOSEPH WM. FLANDERS FOR County Treasurer

I wish to announce my candidacy on the Republican ticket for nomination to the office of county treasurer at the primary election September 9, 1930. I will give the office the same faithful attention as in the past. I greatly appreciate the confidence of Charlevoix county voters in the past and solicit your continued support.

New Compound Brings Long Sought Relief from Rheumatism and Other Ailments

MRS. ROSE GIZZO

"I am happy to have learned about this new medicine, Konjola, because in less than a month it has brought my health back to normal," said Mrs. Rose Gizzo, 444 Eagle street, Buffalo. "I suffered severely from rheumatism and often had headaches, backaches and heartburn. My appetite was poor and I lost a lot of weight. I was nervous and subject to frequent dizzy spells. This condition existed for about ten years until I gave Konjola a trial. The first bottle helped me and as I continued the treatment my health troubles vanished. Today I am not troubled with rheumatism, headaches, or backaches. I have a wonderful appetite and have put on considerable weight. My nerves are much improved. I am still taking Konjola."

The files of Konjola are filled with just such happy expressions. Konjola, when taken systematically over a six to eight week period, has done for thousands what it did for Mrs. Gizzo.

Konjola is sold in Charlevoix, Mich., at F. J. Fessenden's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Hazel Haus and Audrey Gilmartin entertained many old friends of their mother, Mrs. John Gilmartin. A very good time was reported.

Wedding bells were ringing Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when Miss Elinor Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker, became the bride of Donald Bailey, son of Mrs. Bailey, both of this place. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Linell conducted the ceremony, after which a lunch was served to the near friends, and the young people left for Cadillac for a short honeymoon, after which they will be at home here to their many friends.

FAIRVIEW BANKS

Take a vacation now. Hot and dry the past week. Dick Osterbaan was in Petoskey Wednesday.

Mrs. W. J. Timmer was in Central Lake Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Genett Oosterbaan moved into their new home last week.

Farmers have started to harvest red beets for the Central Lake Canning company.

Mr. and Mrs. Mettus Rubingh left for the southern part of the state Thursday for a week's visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ross and children left for Grand Rapids to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. John DeGroot of Maple Villa, Banks, and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar DeGroot of Wright's district, called on their father Sunday evening.

George Rubingh went to Vogel Center, Mich., Tuesday, to attend to the classical meeting of the Christian Reformed church, to be held in that village on Wednesday.

MARION

Camp meeting ended Sunday with a good attendance.

Mrs. William Withers had the misfortune to break her wrist last week.

Chicken thieves are in the neighborhood. Be prepared to greet them.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dawson and daughter of Detroit, were guests at the home of Charles Celler Thursday last, also Mrs. Celler's brother, Thomas Garland of New York City, has been spending a few weeks at their home.

Richard J. Davis, C. S., will give a free lecture on Christian Science, Sunday, August 17, at 3:00 p. m., standard time, at the Palace theatre. The public is cordially invited.—Adv. 3311.

TEMPERANCE UNION
HELD AUGUST MEET

Business Session Followed Picnic Dinner at City Park

The August meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, held last Friday in the park in connection with a picnic dinner was well attended and a very pleasant occasion.

During the rather informal business session, the president called attention to the primary election to be held September 9. A list of the various candidates for office was read and their qualifications discussed under the leadership of Mrs. Simmons, Christian citizenship director.

Prohibition is a supreme issue this fall and the opposition is making a supreme effort everywhere to nominate and elect wet congressmen. Our present congressman, Frank P. Bohn, who has twice been elected on a dry platform, is opposed by John J. O'Hara, who announces himself in favor of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and state control of the liquor traffic without the return of the saloon.

The president of the state W. C. T. U. has made the following endorsements: for U. S. senator, Chase S. Osborn, a militant dry, who recently declared that "Prohibition is the greatest boon which ever came to America;" for governor, Wilbur M. Brucker, an undoubted friend of prohibition; and for lieutenant-governor, Lauren D. Dickinson, a tried and true friend of prohibition and its enforcement.

Announcement was made of the state W. C. T. U. convention to be held in Grand Rapids, October 14-17, and of the district convention to be held in Manicella about October 10. The next meeting of the local union will be held in the community room September 12, with Mrs. Todd and Mrs. Novak acting as hostesses. The public school teachers will be invited for the social hour.

FAIL TO FIND HILLMAN BANK ROBBERS

Robbers Thought Trapped in Swamp. Elude Huge Posses

The hue and cry of Hillman's exciting 12-day manhunt for two bank bonditers died down last Saturday.

Parties of volunteer searchers returned to their homes and jobs and posses of state police, sheriff's deputies and Hillman officers disbanded.

Explaining the return of the state police detachment to Manistee, Lieut. Earl J. Hathaway said: "We don't admit the men have escaped for good. We simply have decided that we would not do any good staying here longer. The men probably got out of the swamp Tuesday or Wednesday night and are far away by now."

"They may even have perished of starvation or insect bites," Hathaway added.

The manhunt began at the Fletcher swamp shortly after two thugs robbed the Montmorency County Savings bank at Hillman of $15,000 in cash and securities, July 29. Hundreds of armed volunteers participated in guarding and searching nearby swamps during the long vigil.

It should be a rule of the disarmament conference that all warship blue-prints be placed on the table.

To the Electors of Charlevoix County:

It is my duty as a candidate for nomination as county treasurer to inform you, and particularly those of you who do not personally know me, as to who I am, my reasons for being a candidate and what I stand for. I have lived in Charlevoix county the greater part of my life; was graduated from Boyne City high school in 1912. After taking a year of commercial work in Albion college and general agriculture in M. S. C. I purchased a farm in Hayes township, where I have lived fifteen years. For ten consecutive years I have been supervisor of Hayes township and also a member of the auditing committee of the board of supervisors. During that time it has been my duty to keep in close touch with the financial affairs of the county and I have discharged that duty to the best of my ability. The knowledge of county business gained by this experience naturally leads me to feel that I could be of some service to the people in the office of county treasurer. I know the burden of taxation and the need of lessening that burden whenever and wherever possible. The office of county treasurer affords many opportunities in this respect. If chosen to the office it will be my earnest and constant endeavor to perform my duties always in the interest of the people and give them the benefit of a careful and safe business policy.

I am offering my candidacy for your consideration at the primary election, September 9, 1930. It will be impossible to see all of you personally, but I welcome inquiries and am willing to leave the whole matter to your best judgment.

Sincerely yours,
HOWARD C. STEPHENS

PEE WEE GOLFERS HOLD TOURNAMENT

Local Miniature Course Is Scene of the Event Coming Week

The Pee Wee golf course in Charlevoix is this week the scene of an interesting tournament. Qualifying rounds began last Tuesday and closed last Saturday, at 12:00 p. m. The 32 lowest score holders will compete in the championship flight while the remaining players will play in the runner-up flight. This program applies to both the senior and junior flights.

Cups will be awarded as prizes in both groups. Other prizes to be given include clubs and balls. The event promises to attract a large field of players.

The company which operates the local course is known as the Pee Wee Golf Course, Inc., with headquarters at Muskegon. G. S. Clark, vice president of the concern, has general supervision of the four northern Michigan courses. The company maintains ten courses in this state.

Ice cream social and bino party will be given by the St. Mary Altar society Friday evening, 8:00, at St. Mary school hall. Public invited.—Adv. 331t.

AIRPLANE FORCED DOWN AT WALLOON

Crash Brings Hurts to One Muncie Man—Second Escapes Injury

Albert L. Johnson, Muncie, Ind., was painfully cut and bruised, and Ray Johnson, Muncie, badly shaken up when their plane crashed near the Thomas House hotel at Walloon Lake last week. They were enroute from Northport point to the lake to be guests at the Margaret Johnson cottage. The plane wheels were broken, the propeller bent and other damage done.

The machine is owned by the Warener Geer Co., its number being NC80K. The party had just participated in the Indian state air tour and were coming north for a vacation.

This is the first plane crash to occur in that section and the first for northern Michigan this season. Last year there were several non-fatal accidents in this region but up until this one occurred the action had escaped for 1930.

The Baptist ladies will hold a baked goods sale at the Charlevoix Hardware Co. store on Saturday, August 16.—Adv. 331t.

RACING MATINEE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Charlevoix County Driving Club Plan Event at Fair Grounds

Attention is again called to the racing matinee to be held Sunday afternoon, August 17, at the East Jordan fair grounds. The program starts at 2 o'clock.

Sponsoring the affair is the Charlevoix County Driving club, whose membership is made up of race horse owners of this county. In addition to local-owned horses, a good string is coming from Cheboygan, Petoskey and other northern Michigan points, and a good program of races is promised.

An admission of 50 cents is being charged, but grandstand seats will be free, and there will be no additional charge for automobiles. A percentage of the proceeds from the matinee will be turned over to the Charlevoix hospital.

Richard J. Davis, C. S., will give a free lecture on Christian Science, Sunday, August 17, at 3:00 p. m., standard time, at the Palace theatre. The public is cordially invited.—Adv. 331t.

PLAN TRI-COUNTY GRANGE MEETING

To Be Held at East Jordan Gym on Wednesday, August 20

A tri-county grange rally will be held at East Jordan, August 20, 1930, at the high school gym.

It is hoped to have a national speaker as well as a state speaker. Several interesting numbers will be rendered by local talent.

The afternoon meeting will be a closed session and after this various games and stunts will be pulled off for which prizes will be awarded the winners.

The evening program will be open to the public and all who care to come are cordially invited to do so.

A pot-luck dinner will be served at noon and supper will be pot-luck also. It is hoped that every grange in Charlevoix and surrounding counties will attend and enjoy a pleasant day.

BELVEDERE TENNIS TOURNAMENT NOW OPEN

Play Started Tuesday Morning—Golf Tournament on Next Week

Several first round matches have been completed in the men's singles and doubles of the annual Belvedere tennis tournament which opened Monday afternoon.

Play will be continued throughout the week, with the finals probably on Saturday.

Next week the annual golf tournament opens Monday at the Belvedere course. Qualifying rounds are being played off this week and match play in the several flights for both men and women start Monday, August 18.

Parmelee has good building material. Phone 417.—Adv. 14tf.

L. D. S. REUNION AT "PARK OF THE PINES"

Ten days of church services, class-work, and recreation for the old and young, will be held at "Park of the Pines," five miles north of Boyne City on the Charlevoix-Boyne City highway.

Everybody is cordially invited to attend at any or all times. There will be special music by the choir and the orchestra in the evenings and on Sundays.

This is an annual reunion of the northern and western Michigan districts of the reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; headquarters at Independence, Mo.

COSTUME BALL TO BE A BRILLIANT AFFAIR

Annual Benefit Party at Belvedere Casino Thursday Evening

One of the most colorful affairs of the summer season—the annual costume party at the Belvedere casino—is being given Thursday evening for the benefit of the Belvedere golf club.

A most unusual program is being arranged. Austin Leland and Miss Malissa McKay of St. Louis, Mo., are giving tap numbers, and Miss Jane Sliter, instructor of the Calla Travis School of Dancing, Grand Rapids, will give two numbers, a toe ballet and jazz and dance modernistic.

The resort colonies are busy in preparation for the events. Costumes are being procured from New York, Detroit, St. Louis and Chicago costumers and each group is arranging some special stunt. Costumes and stunts are being kept a secret until the evening of the party, and the array promises to be most brilliant.

Miss Calla Travis is assisting members of the entertainment committee of the Belvedere club in the supervision.

The Congregational Ladies' Aid will conduct a sale of baked goods and other articles on Friday, August 15th, beginning at 10:30 a. m., at the Abstract & Engineering Co. office, 228 Bridge street.—Adv. 331t.

STATE GOLF LEAGUE LAUDS GOLF COURSE

Express Appreciation for Use During Michigan Amateur Tourney

A recent letter from James D. Standish, Jr., secretary of the Michigan Golf League, to Howard L. McGregor, president of the Belvedere Golf club, expresses the thanks of the League for use of the course during the Michigan amateur tournament, and in no small way lauds the splendid layout.

The letter, in part, follows: "This is just a line to you in behalf of the Michigan State Golf League for the use of your splendid course at Charlevoix during the past week. This championship was undoubtedly one of the most successful ever conducted by the League, and

Not By Skimping

Some people save by "skimping" a few pennies here and there — and of course, savings can be accumulated by that slow, painful process. Most people, however, have decided it much easier and more efficient to set aside a certain percentage of their incomes, regularly, and deposit it in a Savings Account.

If you haven't as yet, adopted the plan, why not give it a trial? Why not come in and deposit some convenient amount—today?

Variety in Your Meals

What a dreary, dead old world this would be if there was no variety, if nothing new or different ever happened!

And how unappetizing and uninteresting meals would be if they were all alike.

Variety is the spice of life and especially in foods. It whets our appetites and gives us renewed vitality of body and spirit of mind.

But to prepare meals that are different is the problem — where to get the foodstuffs — but not if you depend on this store.

We Have The Foodstuffs You Want to Prepare Tasty Meals

No matter what menu you have in mind, you can get the foodstuffs here with which to prepare it. We have excellent variety in every line.

Everything fresh and good, too. We handle only the highest quality foods, yet sell at prices which are consistent with economy.

Dennis King's Rise to Fame Thrills Fans

Dennis King, who for the past two or three years has been rated by critics as the greatest singing star of the Broadway musical comedy stage, will be seen and heard for the first time by movie audiences at the Palace theatre when "The Vagabond King" comes there on Saturday and Sunday next.

"The Vagabond King" was the vehicle for Dennis King's greatest singing achievement. It had a sensation-long run of more than a full season's duration in New York and made an impressive tour in other cities afterward.

Byrd Uncovered Camera Fun Even While Danger-Pressed

Busy as he was with all the details of the gigantic South Pole expedition on his shoulders, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, whose achievement in circling the South Pole by airplane and exploring the ice-covered territory at "the bottom of the world" has stirred a world-wide acclaim, was never so preoccupied to take note of the interesting human-interest sights which occurred during the stay of the expedition in the Antarctic.

Willard Vander Veer, Paramount camera-man with the expedition, says the intrepid leader was indefatigable in calling the attention of himself and his co-worker, Joseph Rucker, to interesting incidents he ran across; a battle between seal and sledge dog puppies; a roundup of the solemn penguins whose insulted dignity made one of the funniest scenes in the entire film-record brought to the United States by Paramount; the entire personnel lined up, including the admiral himself, each man shaving the head of the man in front of him in preparation for the long winter night.

These are only a few of the heartily humorous incidents in the master picture, "With Byrd at the South Pole," which will show at the Palace theatre, starting Thursday, for two days.

Novel Styles Seen in Dove Talkie
Billie Dove has several striking gowns by Edward Stevenson, studio designer, created especially for her latest, "First National release, 'Sweetheart and Wives,' coming to the Palace theatre for a two days run beginning next Monday.

One of these dresses is of purple satin made in the latest mode, normal waistline and long skirt. The waist is the basque type without the usual snug fit. The skirt is full and falls in graceful cascades to the floor. The dress is trimmed with cerise silk lace at the neck where it drapes off the shoulder. The lace also forms the short-sleeves.

Counterfeit $1,000 bank notes are said to be in circulation. We have escaped being stung so far.

Prof. E. L. Anthony, Head of Dairy Department, Will Speak

(By B. C. Mellemcamp)
All dairymen are cordially invited by the Charlevoix County Guernsey Breeders' association to attend their third annual guernsey show picnic to be held at East Jordan on Saturday, August 16.

This occasion is the leading dairy event of the year and a wonderful program is in store for all farmers interested in dairy development and progress. The Guernsey Breeders' association and cow-test association are sponsoring this big show, and are indeed anxious to entertain you.

Last year over 30 of the leading guernseys in the county were shown and judged and this year fully as many will be on display. Ribbons will be awarded the winners in the various age classes.

You will be very much interested in hearing Professor E. L. Anthony, head of the dairy department, Michigan State college, who is visiting us for the first time. He is a splendid speaker and comes to us bubbling over with dairy contacts and experiences.

W. D. Burrington, state guernsey fieldman, will again be with us and discuss topics close to all owners of guernseys. Another feature will be the awarding of diplomas to dairymen who have had herds averaging over 300 pounds of butterfat. These are awarded by the national dairy council in recognition of this splendid achievement.

Then we are glad to announce that Carleton Smith and Robert Cummings of Charlevoix, two leading dairy club members, will give a demonstration on fitting a calf for the show.

A picnic dinner in East Jordan tourist park will be enjoyed at the noon hour with free coffee furnished by the associations. The program will begin promptly at one o'clock, fast time, on the grounds. Features will be the address of Prof. E. L. Anthony, talk by W. D. Burrington, demonstration by two dairy club members, report of last year's cow-test association, awarding of diplomas to our leading dairymen, and the judging of some 50 head of our leading guernseys.

No matter what breed of cattle you are interested in, we are very hopeful that you will bring your family, as well as a well-filled lunch basket and spend the day with us. Let us make this a real county dairymen's picnic, and one never to be forgotten.

"Spirit" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, August 10.
Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect" (Matt. 5:48).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Let us learn of the real and eternal, and prepare for the reign of Spirit, the kingdom of heaven—the reign and rule of universal harmony, which cannot be lost nor remain forever unseen" (p. 208).

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale
Notice is hereby given that default has occurred in the conditions of that certain mortgage, dated the 30th day of November, 1918, executed by Arthur Van Amburg and Nellie S. Van Amburg, his wife, as mortgagors, to the Federal Land bank of St. Paul, a body corporate of the city of St. Paul, county of Ramsey, state of Minnesota, as mortgagee, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 26th day of December, A. D. 1918, at 4:00 o'clock p. m., recorded in Liber 62 of mortgages on page 258 thereof, in that certain installment of forty-two and 25-100 dollars ($42.25), principal and interest due November 30, 1929, remains unpaid; and further, that the taxes were not paid by the mortgagors and were permitted to become delinquent, that on the failure of said mortgagors to pay such taxes, The Federal Land bank of Saint Paul did elect to pay the same, and on June 27, 1930, paid the sum of One Hundred Forty-seven and 47-100 dollars ($147.47), as taxes for the years 1928 and 1929, that pursuant to the provisions of said mortgage, said mortgagee has elected to declare the whole debt secured thereby to be now due and payable; and there is due and payable at the date of this notice upon the debt secured by said mortgage, the sum of One Thousand Three Hundred Forty-four and 49-100 dollars ($1,344.49); and that no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof, that, by virtue of a power of sale therein contained, said mortgage will be foreclosed and the land and premises therein described lying and being in the county of Charlevoix, state of Michigan, as follows: to-wit: The North Half of the Southeast Quarter (N¹/₂SE¹/₄) of Section Thirty (30), Township Thirty-four (34) North, Range Six (6) West, containing Eighty (80) acres, more or less, according to the Government survey thereof, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash by the sheriff of Charlevoix county, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Charlevoix, in said county and state, on Tuesday, October 28, 1930, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon, to pay and satisfy the debt secured by said mortgage and the costs and disbursements allowed by law upon said foreclosure sale.
Dated this 26th day of July, 1930.

Various Clubs of County — Attendance Reached 500 Mark(By B. C. Mellenkamp) Judging by the interest, enthusiasm, and large attendance, this year's annual junior encampment at Gaylord held last week was the greatest event in our boys' and girls' club program.From all of northern Michigan, these rural boys and girls came, five hundred strong, like a mighty army, bringing new contacts, new ideals and an enlarged vision. All through the week a busy program was carried out daily, including contests, demonstrations, judging, educational projects, and nature studies.For the first time, the use of the three new buildings was possible and this made a splendid set-up for entertainment of the great group. One was used as a girls' dormitory, another as a boys' dormitory and the last as the dining room.Can you imagine around 600, all seated at the same time, then you can imagine the thrill of camp life.The feature of the week was the elimination contests and demonstrations that were held to select the teams that win the honor of attending the state fair at Detroit with transportation paid by the fair association. The best teams from each county vied with each other for supremacy.While final results are not known from all contests, Charlevoix county has the honor of being represented by a canning demonstration team.

BITS OF INFORMATION
FOR FARMERS.Many farmers in the south harvest their peanuts too early, before most of the crop has fully developed. The time for digging peanuts can be best determined by a slight yellowing of the foliage and an examination of the pods. If the pods are full grown and the inside of the shells has begun to color and show darkened veins, the crop is ready to harvest.It is much better to select tomato seed from a plant producing uniformly good fruits than for a superlative fruit on a plant that also bears uneven and inferior fruits. Size, smoothness, solidity, and freedom from cracks in the fruit, and vigor, productiveness, and freedom from disease in the plant, should be considered. Tomatoes inter-cross to only a slight extent and seed of more than one variety from one garden may safely be saved.The best time to harvest cabbage is when the green cover leaves begin to curl back slightly, exposing the whiter leaves beneath. At this stage cabbage is as hard and as heavy as it will become without bursting and is not too crisp and brittle for good handling. Cabbage intended for immediate shipment to market should be trimmed to from two to four close-fitting wrapper leaves. These leaves protect the heads and can be removed at the market if necessary to give the cabbages a fresher appearance.Cool milk and cream promptly to a temperature of 50 degrees F. or below, and hold it at such temperature, to prevent rapid growth of bacteria, says the U. S. bureau of dairy industry. If there are large numbers of bacteria in market milk when it reaches the consumer, this indicates that the milk was not carefully produced or kept cool enough.
A 10-gallon can of warm milk usually can be cooled to about 50 degrees in about 20 minutes, if first cooled over a cooler with water at 55 degrees and then set in a tank of ice-water at 37 degrees, says the bureau.To make them more digestible, grind or roll small hard-coated grains such as rye, wheat, barley, or grain scrums before feeding them to livestock, advises the U. S. department of agriculture. Grinding or rolling should be coarse. Finely ground grain spoils more readily, is less palatable, and may form a pasty mass during digestion. Grinding all grains may pay for stock with poor teeth, for horses doing very hard work, and for high-producing cows.Control of tomato early-blight and Septoria leaf-spot, two diseases that defoliate the plants and greatly reduce the yield and quality of fruit, is best accomplished by destroying crop remains. These blights are caused by fungi that live chiefly on dead plant material, and plowing under of wheat stubble, cornstalks, and other plant debris robs the blight fungi of their food supply. All dead plant material must be thoroughly covered with soil in the fall to get good results. Much better control of these blights has been effected by plowing than by spraying or dusting, says the D. S. department of agriculture, and experiments have shown that tomatoes grown on fall-plowed land are more free from blights than those grown on spring-plowed land on the same farm.Profits from late potatoes depend considerably on successful storage of the crop. All diseased, badly cut, or bruised tubers should be discarded.
Tubers should be dry and fairly free from dirt when stored. From 38 degrees to 40 degrees F. is the best storage temperature to prevent sprouting. Potatoes, however, should be stored at these temperatures directly after being dug. A preliminary curing or storage for two to threeTo the Voters of Charlevoix County:I wish to announce my candidacy on the Republican ticket for the office of county clerk. Since being appointed to office of county clerk in July 1929, I have given all the duties of said office faithful attention. I am unable to see each voter in the county personally as the duties of office prohibit me from making such a campaign, but I respectfully solicit your vote and support at the primaries September 9th, and if nominated and elected I shall continue to perform the duties of county clerk in a prompt, efficient and courteous manner.

weeks at a temperature around 60 degrees should first be provided in order to allow all wounds and skinned areas, which are incident to harvesting and handling, to heal. There should be sufficient ventilation to provide air circulation and to remove excess heat and moisture. With ordinary storage facilities, it is better to store potatoes in bins not deeper than five or six feet, with a floor space not larger than 12 by 12 feet.
The table quality of potatoes deteriorates quickly in the light, so the storage room should be darkened.

August Sheep Dipping

August is a good time to dip sheep for ticks. Two dippings are necessary, about 24 days apart, because the first may not destroy all the tick eggs. Various kinds of dips—such as coal-tar-cresol, cresol, and nicottin—may be used. Sheep dips are most effective when used with soft water. The sheep tick is very prevalent and spreads rapidly, especially among close-herded range flocks.
Heavily infested sheep will bite, scratch, and rub against any available object. The ticks may be found by parting the wool over the neck, breast, shoulders, belly, and thighs.

Hyacinths for Winter

Few bulbs for house flowers are so nearly foolproof as the hyacinth, say horticulturists of the U. S. department of agriculture. With sound stocks, hyacinths blossom if planted with ordinary care. By planting the Dutch prepared or Dutch Roman varieties it is possible to enjoy hyacynth blooms from late December until the end of the outdoor blossoming season. Pot the bulbs in late August, put them in a moist, shady place and keep them as cool as possible for two or three months. When the pots are full of roots and the top growth is one to three inches high, move the pots into subdued light in a cool cellar until "greening" is well under way. Hyacinths are fairly hardy under the difficult conditions often encountered in rooms where temperatures vary widely and frequently.

Saving Onion Seed

Onion growers who through selection have developed a strain of onion that is especially adapted to their local conditions may often find it advantageous to grow and save their own supply of seed. Unless the grower has a clear conception of the type of onion for which he is striving and unless his soil and climatic conditions are suitable for the saving of seed, he will find it preferable to purchase his supply of seed. The right time to gather onion seed is when the inside of the grain has reached the dough stage. Onion seed becomes black very early, but this change of color is not reliable as an indication of ripeness, and often deceives an inexperienced grower. The heads should be harvested by cutting them from the stems just before the first-formed seed begins to shatter in handling. The seed heads are spread to dry on cotton sheets or on a smooth tight floor where they will be protected from the weather and will have plenty of ventilation.

INSIDE INFORMATION.

After an apple pie is baked, lay thin slices of cheese over the top, and put in a very moderate oven until the cheese is melted. Serve at once while the cheese is warm.Be careful not to cook corn on the cob too long or it will be tough and tasteless. Have a large kettle of water boiling rapidly and drop the corn into the water for from eight to ten minutes, if there are not many ears.To shorten a pattern for a small person, fold a tuck in it half-way between the armhole and the waistline, and another tuck half-way between the waistline and the bottom.
In cutting straighten the seam lines as necessary. If a shorter sleeve is required than that of the pattern, take tucks half-way between the elbow and armhole, and half-way between the elbow and wrist, so that the elbow always remains in the correct position. Such alternations should be carefully fitted to the person before the material is cut.The kitchen of even a rented house may be made convenient. It will pay you to study the arrangement of the major equipment with reference to your work centers for preparing raw food, cooking, serving, clearing away, and dishwashing. Sometimes slight changes in position of equipment make a big difference in comfort. Paint the walls a cheerful color, such as warm tan or soft yellow—or cool gray in a room that receives plenty of sunshine. Provide extra shelves and storage places if necessary, and have places to keep each set of utensils where they are needed.Bankers advise us to pay by check.
But it's sometimes safer to receive in cash.

WEEKLY CAMP CHARLEVOIX

NEWS COLUMN

Edited by Gahn Kinnison

The first place for camp floats at the Petoskey Regional parade was won by Camp Charlevoix Monday morning. The float consisted of seven hersemen, three of whom acted as color guards at the head of the parade, 40 senior and intermediate boys and counselors, together with a float on the camp truck depicting a French-Canadian trapper's camp with its two trappers, "Tex" Buchen and Colonel Gillespie. This latter part of the parade as well as the sun-tanned boys in their green and grey uniforms, won many rounds of applause.

Three campers, Erwin Evans, Donald Sexton and Dick Woodfield, were the members of the color guards selected by the Petoskey chamber of commerce.

Sunday the senior section went to Charlevoix to watch the motorboat races. After a very enjoyable hour at Lake Charlevoix, the boys went down to Lake Michigan to inspect the coast guard station. They then liked down the beach about a mile to the old limestone quarry where they made a stone collection under direction of George Alder.

The last camp banquet will be held on the evening of August 25th when the final awards will be given to the boys and the letter awards passed out. Three awards will be given in five departments of camp to the three age groups alike: Handicraft, knives by Marble Arms & Mfg. Co.; Woodcraft, axes by Marble Arms & Mfg. Co.; Arts, plaques by Max. A. Ramm, president Detroit real estate board; Character Shields, by Charlevoix association of commerce, and the athletic cups by the Petoskey chamber of commerce. This banquet will close the best season Camp Charlevoix has ever had.

were working on the motor when the fire started. Whether they were blown to bits by the explosion, or jumped into the lake, is merely speculation. A dingy, belonging to the yacht was left on the dock at Charlevoix. Possibly the men would never have had a chance to use it.

Search is being continued in hope of finding the bodies. Heavy seas have hindered efforts on the lake and when conditions are favorable, an effort will be made to locate the hull. If it is found, the lake will be dragged in that vicinity.

Mr. Hamilton was practically a life-long resident of Charlevoix. He came here with his parents at the age of seven and had since made the city his home. He was 57 years old.

Mr. Hamilton was better known as head of the Hamilton & Son Boat yard, which connection has made him known to lake-faring men in nearly every port on the Great Lakes. His friends were legion. He first started in business with a rowboat livery and gradually expanded the business to its present position. He was public-spirited and served his city for years in various capacities such as harbor master, deputy sheriff, member of the fire department, and in other ways. He leaves a huge niche to be filled.

Besides his wife, there are four children, one daughter, Mrs. Clara Reed, and three sons, Ray, Ralph and Reno, all of Charlevoix. A sister, Mrs. Katherine Ripley of Chicago, is visiting at the home here.

AUGUST SESSION COURT CONCLUDED

DOCKET WAS ONE OF LIGHTEST ON RECORD

Group Arrested Saturday After Drunken Brawl at Superior Entered Pleas of Guilty

The August term of circuit court, which had one of the lightest dockets on record, closed today following the hearing of a non-jury chancery case before Judge Parm C. Gilbert.

Monday's and Tuesday's sessions disposed of a number of probation, divorce and like cases.

On Tuesday, Paul Carrow, Claude Beardsley, Robert Russell and Harry Point, the latter of Superior, were brought before Judge Gilbert. The first two named entered pleas of guilty to charges of transporting liquor and Russell and Point to charges of possession.

The quartette were arrested Saturday by Sheriff Dave Vaughan following a drunken brawl at Point's home near Superior the previous night.

Sheriff Vaughan received a call early Saturday morning, from the Mauby home. Point's daughter had fled there and told them that her father had shot her mother. Vaughan found Mrs. Point hiding in a field near the house. Two shots had been fired from a shot gun, but whether at her as told, is not known. Point was found dead drunk in the house.

After sobering up sufficiently to talk, Point told of a visit to his home by Claude Beardsley and Robert Russell. He claimed they brought a gallon of moonshine and that he furnished beer for the party. George Lusk was also implicated, but so far has not been apprehended.

Russell and Lusk both have previous records and Beardsley's reputation is a bit shady, although he has never been arrested. According to the reports, the whole affair was a detestable mess.

Beardsley and Russell furnished $500 bond for their release until the October term of court, when they will appear for sentence.

COMPLETE LOWER PIERS THIS WEEK

Work Starts on South Side of Upper Channel Next Week

This week will see the completion of concrete work on the piers between Round lake and Lake Michigan, according to Col. A. P. Christophel, government engineer in charge.

Operations will then be shifted to the south portion of the pier between Round lake and Lake Charlevoix, where the south side will be built as in the lower channel.

After completion of the piers, the space between will be filled with rock, which will form the foundation for sidewalks to be built upon. The ground behind the piers will be graded and otherwise beautified.

Operations here at Charlevoix have been progressing very rapidly since the work started. Fortunately there have been no accidents or other incidents to delay the work and it is expected the job will be completed by early September, according to latest reports.

Charlevoix can certainly be proud of this excellent improvement, which has removed the unsightly old wooden piers, and feel fortunate that pressure enough was brought to bear to procure the necessary funds for the work.

THREE LIVES LOST IN LAKE TRAGEDY were the best events of the day and it certainly was unfortunate that everyone did not see them.

However, officers of the boat club feel they did the best they could in providing entertainment for the crowd. The club is indebted to Aaron Deroy of Detroit, for the use of the yacht "Yoreda" as judges boat Saturday, and also to Commodore Julius Gilbert, whose yacht was used Sunday and Col. A. P. Christophel for use of the government scow. They are also indebted to the regatta judge, Duncan Meier of Harbor Springs, who acted as starter; Austin Leland, E. E. Wilson, Col. A. P. Christophel, Ray Kipke, timers; George Schwab, Jr., for the pole boat and Lon Hager and Val Scroggie, who assisted him; to the city band, who played during the races, and all others who worked towards making the regatta a success.

A fitting climax to the event was the regatta dance at Juilerett's Sunday evening. A large crowd took in the affair and reported a good time.

CAMP MANITOU ACTIVITIES

Chicago takes a leading place among the newcomers at Camp Manitou. Among the guests from the mid-west metropolis who have registered at the camp are the Misses Ethel Gould, Charlotte Weiss, Ruth Rosenblum, Annette Krassner, Jean-belle Rosenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Halperin, Lillian and Evelyn Block, Esther and Ethel Bierman, Shirley Millman, Ann Blum, Mollie Hymanson. From Cleveland come the Messrs Harry Dash and Leonard Freedberger.

Social activities have vied with athletic events for the center of interest during the past week. A masquerade ball afforded an opportunity for the display of considerable ingenuity, resulting in a wide range of costumes, which varied from the white toga and laurel wreath of a Roman official to the vivid attire of a pirate bold. Miss Ethel Bierman, Chicago, won first prize for the effectiveness and simplicity of her costume as an Indian maid, while William Ahlstrom, Detroit, took first among the men, appearing as a boy scout equipped with every form of regalia, from an alarm clock to complete fishing tackle, and loudly announcing that he was "prepared" for any contingency.

Dr. J. Goldsmith of Detroit, University of Michigan varsity player and tennis coach at the camp, who captured both the singles and doubles trophies in the Charlevoix open tourney, has entered the Belvedere matches and the Bay View tournament as well.

PING PONG TOURNAMENT AT BELVEDERE HOTEL

Play Tuesday, Friday and Saturday Evening of This Week

Of interest to those at the Belvedere hotel is a Ping Pong tournament at the casino, entries for which closed Monday and play started Tuesday evening.

The tournament, which had a large group of entries at the first play Tuesday evening, will continue Friday and Saturday nights. There are events in singles for men and singles for women. American Ping Pong association rules govern the play.

Mrs. Roderick, social hostess at the hotel, is sponsoring the tournament in cooperation with the management.

YOU can't be yourself many years at a stretch, without being somebody new! All at once, you will be using different cosmetics, eating different foods, setting your table differently; re-arranging your surroundings, re-adjusting your whole scheme of life.

Advertisements lead you to do this—even when you are least aware. They announce the new discoveries. Others try them. You try them. Of a sudden, you've changed! The old is at once too out-of-date. It is too slow in this age of speed. Too ineffective in this age of perfection.

Somewhere, in advertisements you have not read yet, are things other people are reading about that will make a change in you. Read the advertisements here today. You will discover some of the things you will want to use habitually. You might even get ahead and start using some today.

ANNUAL HOSPITAL MEETING FRIDAY

SIX OF NINE BOARD MEMBERS TO BE CHOSEN

Finances Are Low and Future of Institution Depends Entirely on Support Given

Annual meeting of the Charlevoix hospital will be held Friday evening of this week at 8 o'clock, in the city council rooms, library building. A quorum of 15 is necessary to legally hold the annual meeting.

The present hospital board consists of the president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and four trustees.

Six new members of the board must be elected Friday evening. On account of public indifference towards hospital affairs, it has been impossible to get a quorum out to the annual meeting for two years. Terms of three members, P. D. Campbell, Dr. R. B. Armstrong and A. J. Usher expired in August, 1929, but they have continued to serve without being elected. Members whose terms expire this August are W. H. Miller, George Glados and M. A. Levinson. The last two named tendered their resignations at the regular monthly meeting held August 6th, therefore six new board members must be re-elected or supplied. Harry A. Craig is serving as temporary president following Mr. Levinson's resignation.

The future of Charlevoix hospital hinges quite largely upon the meeting Friday evening and continued support. Because of apparent indifference, finances of the institution are the lowest in five years. The deficit runs around $3,500 annually and this must be met if operation is to be continued.

Officers have carried the burden and managed to finance the institution so far, but are now at the end of their resources. There is no present indebtedness, but there is a lack of funds to meet future running expenses, and, unless support is given, the hospital may be closed.

Charlevoix cannot afford to be without a hospital. Everyone should appreciate this fact and turn out to the annual meeting Friday night to do their share in getting the institution back on the solid footing it formerly had.

We are of the opinion that contributions from the resorts will be resumed after a two-year lapse and that matters can be put back in running order again. The main thing is get out Friday night, show an interest and take part in the annual meeting. A re-organization of the board can be made and generous support will send them off to a right start.

ST. LOUISANS WIN NERS IN NET MEET

Take All Title Except Men's Singles Won by Harry Cary, Chicago

Play in the annual Belvedere tennis tournament closed with final men's singles Monday afternoon. A complete reversal of dope marked the closing match.

Austin Leland, several times Belvedere champion, lost in straight sets to Harry Cary, Chicago, by scores of 6-0, 6-1. The result came as a complete surprise, as Leland had been doped to win the 1930 title.

In the boy's doubles, the St. Louis team of Jack Turney and John Wallis, defeated William Talman and William Bragaw of Detroit, 6-1, 6-4. Miss Eleanor Bryan of St. Louis, Mo., is the girl champion. She defeated Ruth Bailey of Sequanota, 6-4, 6-3.

In the boy's singles, Jack Turney won a hard-fought three-set match from William Talman, Detroit. The scores were 6-2, 3-6, 9-7.

Miss Jane Connitt of St. Louis, Mo., won the ladies' singles event. She defeated Helen Huntington of Providence, R. I., in a grueling match, by scores of 10-8, 4-6, 6-4.

The St. Louis team of Jane Connitt and William Witherspoon defeated Elene Wiggins of Sequanota and Harry Cary of Chicago, to win the mixed doubles event. The score was 6-1, 6-4.

Winners in the various events were presented with beautiful trophies, posted by officials of the Belvedere club.

FORT AT MACKINAC WILL BE RESTORED

State Plans to Rebuild Historic Stockade at Mackinaw City

A stockade following as closely as possible the original boundaries of old Fort Michilimackinac is being planned for the Mackinaw City state park.

The stockade will be in conformity with a policy of Frank Kenyon, superintendent, to preserve all the old landmarks and relics at the park.

When the state acquired the park, by gift from the federal government in 1885, there were no visible evidence of any buildings, blockhouses or other structures on the grounds. "Relic hunters" had been excavating deep holes all over the original fort site, forming unsightly and unsafe places.

The Mackinac Island state park commission, controlling the Mackinaw City park, forbade any more digging and the rule has been observed since that time. The old fort site has been graded, seeded and planted with elm trees.

Originally the state did not own the whole ground, but the rest has been acquired by purchases, and the city of Mackinaw has closed the road running through it and added this area to the park. Today the entire site of the historical old fort is owned by the state and has been made accessible to the public.

DEATH CLAIMS RESPECTED CITIZEN

CHARLES ARNOLD DIED TUESDAY AT LOCAL HOSPITAL

Had Been in Ill Health Six Weeks and Death Followed Operation for Abdominal Ailment

Charlevoix lost a respected pioneer citizen Tuesday morning in the death of Charles Arnold, who passed away at 8 o'clock following an abdominal operation performed Sunday.

Mr. Arnold's death came as a shock to Charlevoix citizens. He had been in ill health and under a doctor's care for practically six weeks, but this was known to few outside of the family and relatives. He was confined to bed a week before his operation and death.

Deceased was born September 27, 1863, on a farm in Redford township, Wayne county, the son of Willet C. and Phoebe Ann Arnold. At the age of five he moved with his parents to a farm located at what is now the center of Detroit, and later to a farm near Charlotte, where he received his first schooling.

When Mr. Arnold was 14, his parents moved to a farm near Susan lake in Hayes township. He went to the rural school there and later worked in lumber camps and at odd occupations in this vicinity. He followed the carpenter trade for many years and for the past seven years was assistant engineer at the government fish hatchery, where he was working when illness compelled him to retire.

Mr. Arnold was married to Miss Margaret Emily Metcalf at Charlevoix on February 8, 1894. Mr. Arnold purchased the lot for their Dixon avenue home from John S. Dixon, Charlevoix's first pioneer. The site was then a large corn field and Charlevoix was still in its infancy.

Surviving besides the widow is their only son, Allen Arnold of Birmingham, Michigan. There are also two brothers, two half brothers and two half sisters, viz: Elmer of Saginaw, James of Cadillac, George of Hayes township, Albert of Gloucester, Mass.; Mrs. Prudence Yemmans, Charlevoix, and Mrs. May Elwell of Gloucester, Mass.

Mr. Arnold has been an officer in the First Methodist church for about 20 years, and was a member of the Odd Fellow and Forester fraternal orders.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the Frank Metcalf residence, 1221 Park avenue, with Rev. John B. Lockyer officiating. Interment at Brookside cemetery.

For Saturday Only
Five-pound ball of Binding Twine, 59c. Charlevoix Hardware Co. — 3411.

There will be a dance at Maple Grove Grange hall Friday evening, August 22. Good music, good order. Everybody welcome.—Adv. 3411.

MICHIGAN RIVIERA TENNIS TOURNAMENT ON AT INN COURTS

ENTRY LIGHTER THAN IN FORMER YEARS, BUT STRONGEST EVER TO PARTICIPATE IN LOCAL TOURNAMENT

Preliminary Matches Opened Monday Afternoon—Quarter-Finals Friday; Semi-Finals Saturday and Finals Sunday Afternoon—Results of Play Up to Wednesday

Play in the third annual Michigan Riviera tennis championship, held at The Inn courts under the auspices of the Charlevoix Tennis club and sanction of the Western Lawn Tennis association, opened Monday afternoon.

While the entry is light in all divisions compared with former years, Charlevoix has never entertained a more outstanding field of tennis talent.

Heading the list of eight seeded players is John Hennessey of Indianapolis, Ind., former Davis cup star and fourth ranking player in the United States. Hennessey is the defending champion. He twice won the Western Michigan title at Charlevoix, and the Michigan Riviera crown an equal number of times. Others in the seed in their order are Bob Sellers of San Francisco, Calif.; Bruce Barnes, Austin, Texas; George O'Connell, Chicago, former Western Michigan champion; Ellis Klingeman, Chicago; Jack Harris, Chicago; Walter T. Hayes, Chicago, and Warren Byrum, Kalamazoo, Michigan open champion.

Topping the upper bracket is Bob Sellers, along with Klingeman, O'Connell and Byrum. Hennessey heads the lower bracket and others of the seeded players are Harris, Hayes and Barnes. With the outstanding list of stars scheduled to meet in the quarter-finals, Charlevoix tennis fans will see some of the best matches ever played here.

Preliminary matches in the men's singles division opened Monday afternoon, and results up to Wednesday noon are as follows:

Monday's results:
Preliminary Round
Bob Sellers, San Francisco, d. Avery Johnson, St. Louis, Mo., 6-0, 6-1.

Walter T. Hayes, Chicago, defeated E. B. Smith, Chicago, 6-0, 6-3.

Ellis Klingeman, Chicago, defeated Chester Bowers, Chicago, 6-1, 6-2.

Willard Wilcox, Grand Rapids, defeated Ward Barnum, Lansing, 6-2, 6-2.

Play in women's singles was to start Wednesday. Heading the seed is Ann Austin McLanahan, Baltimore, Md. Others in order are Lucy Hargerty, Louisville, Ky.; Josephine Gray, Cincinnati, Ohio; Ida Rittenberg, New Orleans.

HILLMAN BANK BANDIT IS CAPTURED

Partner in Crime Believed to Have Escaped from Hide-Out

Tom Hunt, 24, captured Thursday after a 17-day hunt following the robbery of the Montmorency County Savings bank, named his companion in the robbery as Alec Graham of Detroit, according to state police.

Hunt said Graham had slipped out of the swamp and returned to Detroit, but officers doubted his story. He refused to reveal where the loot of the robbery—$8,000 in cash and $7,000 in negotiable securities—was hidden. It is believed eached in the swamp.

Hunt admitted to officers he was in Alpena last week, getting a fresh supply of food for his swamp camp. He was captured at the farm of George Thompson.

Sergeant George Aldridge of Cheboygan, Lieut. E. J. Hathaway of Manistee, and Sheriff Charles Brown of Montmorency county, led in the capture.

Hunt was found hiding beneath a barn on a deserted farm at the outskirts of the swamp and offered no resistance when placed under arrest.

He said their plan had been to hide in the swamp after staging the robbery, getting food from nearby farms, and then after the hue and cry had died down making their escape.

Junior Singles
Peter Blanchard, Baltimore, Md., defeated Walter Kerney, Lansing, 6-1, 6-1.

Don Sexton, Birmingham, defeated Aram Gulserian, Potoskey, 6-2, 6-2.

Willard Wilcox, Grand Rapids, defeated Ward Barnum, Lansing, 6-2, 6-2.

Play in women's singles was to start Wednesday. Heading the seed is Ann Austin McLanahan, Baltimore, Md. Others in order are Lucy Hargerty, Louisville, Ky.; Josephine Gray, Cincinnati, Ohio; Ida Rittenberg, New Orleans.

MAGAZINE EDITOR IS TAKEN BY DEATH

C. E. Kimball Died Aboard Pennsylvania Lines Train

C. E. Kimball, publisher of the Northern Michigan magazine and a well known resident of Potoskey for many years, died Thursday morning on the morning Pennsylvania Lines train while enroute from Grand Rapids to Potoskey.

Mr. Kimball boarded the train at Grand Rapids, chatted with friends until about 11:30, and seemed in as good health as usual. As his friends left for their own part of the train he bade them good night and appeared to trainmen to have rested during the remainder of the night.

Members of the train crew recall that after about 4 a. m. they noticed him reclining in his seat, apparently asleep, and believe that death came at about that hour. W. E. Williams of Chicago, enroute to Potoskey for a visit, spoke to him in the early morning but believed him asleep and did not disturb him. When the trainmen went to awaken him for the Potoskey station they found him unconscious.

Dr. John Reyecraft was called and pronounced death probably due to heart failure. Mr. Kimball suffered a serious sick spell some years ago but appeared to be slowly recovering from its effects. He had been busy all summer traveling up and down western Michigan in the interests of his magazine.

The family has resided on William street in Potoskey for some time, the wife and one daughter, Mrs. Charles D. McColl, being the surviving relatives at that place. A brother, E. M. Kimball, resides at Lake Benton, Minn., and a sister, Mrs. W. P. Mahoney at Bonner's Ferry, Idaho.

Buy your shoes now at Campbell's shoe sale.—Adv. 3411.

Opposing Frank Winnick, local lad who has won a big following in his two appearances here, will be Young Doby of Saginaw. Local fans will remember Doby as the lad who fought Kid Shaw, the Mexican battler, in one of the Legion shows a year ago. The Saginaw boy is a nice fighter and we venture a guess that Winnick will have his hands full.

Another match which will prove popular is between Alec Bolton, local Indian lad, and Joe Writer of Detroit. Both boys showed their wares a week ago and pleased those who saw the fight.

At the present time, no opponent has been picked for Cecil Yettaw, but assurance has been given that he will be matched. It was planned to bring Winnick up against Ted Gravelin, but match-makers Powers and Stout have been unable so far to bring Gravelin to terms.

Thursday night's show should be the best ever shown here, and, with interest as it is, a full house will undoubtedly be on hand for the show.

MANY AFFAIRS AT BELVEDERE CASINO

RESORT COLONIES TURNED OUT ENMASS FOR EVENTS

Annual Costume Ball Thursday Evening and Children's Party Monday Night Were Colorful

Two brilliant parties—the annual costume ball last Thursday evening, and the annual Children's party Monday—have held the attention of the Charlevoix summer colonies during the past week. Directing both affairs was Miss Calla Travis, popular dancing instructor at the Belvedere and leader in their many social functions.

The party Thursday evening was a colorful event, and the grand march which opened the program saw such a varied assortment of costumes that space does not permit individual description. Outstanding was the Chicago Club group, 35 in number, portraying the Volga-Boatmen. The costumes were remarkable realistic. Under a stinging lash, the members labored in harnesses attached to a two-inch hawser which had been fastened on the end of a small toy boat on wheels. The stunt won liberal applause.

Opening the program of special features, Miss Melissa McKay of St. Louis, Mo., portraying Miss Broadway, won hearty applause for her tap number.

Miss Jane Slater, an instructor in the Calla Travis Dancing school at Grand Rapids, who is assisting Miss Travis at the Belvedere this summer, endeared herself deeply with the assemblage with her three numbers—the dance modernistic, French ballet and American jazz ballet. Her performance was near professional, as was also that of Austin Leland, popular member of the St. Louis set, who pleased the audience with three tap numbers. Austin was given a great hand before and after every appearance.

Another pretty affair—the annual Children's party—was an event Monday evening of this week.

The program was a review of the summer's work by dancing classes under the direction of Miss Calla Travis.

The children pleased a large audience with their dances and in addition had a wonderful time. The many costumes were very pretty.

Little Louise Ann Usher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Usher, and a pupil of Miss Travis' Grand Rapids school favored with toe and nobby numbers and Miss Jane Slater gave a tap dance and encore.

Those in attendance were lavish in their praise of the children's performance.

BAND CONCERT PROGRAM THURSDAY NIGHT

Fine Group of Selections to Be Given by City Band

Miss Marion Pickard has returned to Chicago, where she has employment as a governess. She visited with relatives here a couple of weeks. It is said wedding bells are ringing.

Abe Arnold is busy selling hay, of which there is quite a demand these days. A buyer from Ohio has been buying in this vicinity this summer, as it has been so dry down there.

Commissioner Palmer kindly took the writer along with him to the commissioners' meeting at Mt. Pleasant last week. The meeting was an educational treat with Miss Wafford.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25¢ at any of the Central Drug Store, the Rexall store.

A LECTURE on CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Entitled
Christian Science:
Its Healing Influence in Business and the Home
by
RICHARD J. DAVIS, C. S. of Chicago, Illinois
Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts

These lectures, which are arranged to meet the need of men and women everywhere, are a concrete example of the universal appeal of Christian Science and its practical application in every department of human endeavor. This great audience is made up of active, busy people who have left their offices and homes and are gathered here with the hope that they may take back with them something which will better enable them to meet and handle the problems and harassments that come into their everyday experience. This is indeed a hopeful sign—an indication that men are seeking a closer and more practical contact with God. And why not? Should it be thought strange that intelligent men and women are turning from outgrown ideas of religion, with special days of service, to the concept of an omnipresent, ever-available God and a religion to be lived every day of the week, and every hour of the day?

The Great Discovery
In 1866 a gentle New England woman lay upon her bed, suffering with a severe ailment which was the result of an accident. A devout Christian, educated and reared by her parents according to the best traditions of that day, this woman, Mary Baker Eddy, had through her whole life been seeking a more satisfactory understanding of God, a God available to her own human needs and those of her fellow-men. Experiment in medicine and other healing methods had led her step by step away from matter to a consecrated study of the Bible and the spiritual healings of Jesus and his disciples. At this point in her experience, alone and helpless, and nearing what her physician, what friends and relatives thought to be her death, she turned unprompted from medicine to God, from matter to Mind. She sent from the room those who were with her and opened her Bible to the account in Matthew of the healing of the palsied man by Jesus. In that hour of extremity she experienced a spiritual revelation which raised her up a well woman. She dressed herself and walked into the next room, to the consternation and amazement of her friends. Face to face with God, the sense of pain and suffering faded away. She recognized her true heritage as a child of God, and was free.

Fortunately for the world this was the beginning, not the end of a great experience, for she immediately commenced to study and ponder the spiritual law underlying her recovery. By this act this loving woman has made God available to all men and women through Christian Science. Thousands are today grateful for her life of service and in the future millions will rise up and call her blessed. Turning after her own healing to the Bible in her search for the law which made that healing possible, Mrs. Eddy saw that there must be an absolute Principle back of the life and works of Christ Jesus. She felt that there was a spiritual connection between her own recovery and the healings wrought by the Master, and her conclusions were arrived at and based solely on the Scriptures. Her study resulted in the discovery of what she termed "the Christ Science or the divine laws of Life, Truth, and Love" (Science and Health, p. 107). She declared that these laws, the law of Life, the law of Truth, the law of Love, could be clearly understood by men and that when understood they could be applied specifically to the myriad problems of the race.

Scriptural Basis
At this point there may be those here who will say, "You ask me to accept Christian Science on the basis of the Bible. How can I do that? The discussions and debates of today and the radical differences in opinion even in churches of older faith than yours have unsettled my thought. How do you or I know that the Bible can be accepted as true?" Christian Science does not ask you to accept a single statement about the Bible or anything else which does not coincide with correct reason or that you cannot fully test by demonstration. Realizing this, Mrs. Eddy herself tested her discovery for years before she gave it to the world.

Not long ago a young man came to me, a Japanese. He was born in the Orient and educated there. His parents and all his family are Buddhists and he had been reared in that belief. Naturally he knew little or nothing of the Bible or of Christianity, and the occidental ideas of God and Christ Jesus were unknown to him. Like millions of other people the problems of life were forcing him to seek a solution and in his extremity Christian Science was presented. This man, a thinker, commenced the study of Christian Science solely from the standpoint of reason. There could be no other approach because of his utter unfamiliarity with and lack of faith in the Bible. Little by little he found that reason and revelation were being reconciled and followed by test or demonstration. In the line of reason a flood of light was thrown on the Bible and the life, works, and words of Jesus. This man, all his life a Buddhist, trained in modes of thinking entirely remote from our own, has accepted Christian Science and realizes that Mrs. Eddy has correctly and scientifically based her discovery on the Bible. The teachings of that book have been shown to him to be absolutely reasonable, logical, and demonstrable.

It is to be here noted that Mary Baker Eddy says she discovered Christian Science. She did not invent or originate it. In the same way that Lief Ericsson may be said to have discovered America, so she discovered or brought to light a Principle that has existed through the ages, an ever-operative divine law, indicating the harmony, Science, and continuity of being. It was the promised Comforter or Christ, the spiritual idea of God, and this Comforter or truth of being so illuminates her consciousness with light that the divine facts of being came as a complete revelation, which she transcribed in the book known as "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." Study of this book is revealing to all mankind "the Comforter which leadeth into all truth" (Science and Health, p. 127).

Down through the ages the law of God has always been available but there have been few who discerned enough of the truth to demonstrate it in human experience. Occasionally at various periods in history there have appeared great prophets and seers—Abraham, Moses, Elijah, Elisha, Isaiah, and others. These men approximated Truth sufficiently to uplift the thought of their people. And by practical proof demonstrate to a man almost always doubting, thought, an available God. Confucius, Socrates, and Plato also represent periods when men were reaching out for a clearer concept of God through philosophy, but the actual Science or law being, the relation of God to man, they but dimly discerned.

At the outset may I remind you that Christian Science is a science, the Science of being, the Science of actual existence, which enables everyone to gain a demonstrable understanding of the laws and rules of all true living. It, therefore, makes its appeal to your reason and thoughtful consideration. In order that you may get out of this Science the real blessings which are there for you, the demand is made that you shall think, think carefully and accurately and regard it as a science to be studied rather perused. No one would think merely of perusing the science of astronomy if he expected to gain a practical understanding of it, and this is equally true of Christian Science.

In the study of this Science you will find that its teaching regarding God is clear, logical, and reasonable. You will find that it coincides, perhaps, with much that you have unconsciously felt true. You will find that the teaching of Christian Science regarding man and his relation to God is satisfying and hopeful, and that this Science provides certain rules which must be followed if the Science is to be correctly and scientifically applied. Speaking out of an experience of many years, I can say to you that any man or woman who will set himself to the earnest study of Christian Science, giving strict attention to the rules laid down for its application, cannot fail to succeed. He will get out of it infinite blessings, prosperity, and peace.

All successful demonstration of Christian Science is based upon a correct concept of what we understand to be God as divine Principle. Christian Science declares that since there can be but one universe—even as the word "universe" indicates—so that universe can have but one cause. This universe, even as we recognize it humanly, gives evidence of being infinite, immeasurable, as having no limit or boundary. Reason tells us, too, that this infinite, immeasurable universe proclaims the existence of an intelligent cause or noumenon. It is also evident and reasonable that since all we recognize manifests intelligence, it must in its very nature be the phenomenon, or effect, of an intelligent and self-existent first great Cause which we in Christian Science call God, or Mind. God is, therefore, the one, infinite, eternal Mind. In line with reason, we also see that this one self-existent Cause or Mind must be the Life of all being, that God is infinite, eternal Life. Being eternal and infinite, God is in His very nature all-inclusive, and Christian Science declares that God is, as stated in the Bible, omnipotent, omniscient, and omnipresent.

It is important to note here that Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, turned wholly to the Scriptures in her search for a better understanding of God, and that, therefore, the definition of God as stated in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," the Christian Science textbook (p. 587), finds its sanction in the Bible. In her definition she declares Him to be: "The great I am; the all-knowing, all-seeing, all-acting, all-wise, all-loving, and eternal; Principle; Mind; Soul; Spirit; Life; Truth; Love; all substance; intelligence."

It is possible to analyze and prove by logic and reason the truth of every term in this definition of God, but this is, of course, not practical in the short space of time allotted to a lecture. Let us consider a moment the teaching of Christian Science that God is Mind, the one infinite, intelligent Cause of the universe. How does this Mind reveal itself? How is it evidenced? In thoughts or ideas, as infinite as the Mind conceiving them. Viewed even on a human plane, all that we cognize—all of which we are conscious—is the product or result, primarily, of some kind of thinking. This great building, everything dealing with its plan, construction, and development,—all the ingenuity, invention, and art manifested, the intelligent work of many men,—all this and much that is not visible, is the product solely of human thought. In the great buildings about us, these too, the product of thought, are thousands of people, conscious, intelligent, thinking persons, all manifesting thought or ideas. The big office and building are fairly throbbing with the life, action, and thought that constitute what we call business. Indeed, is not all that means business or commerce, the result or effect thereof? There could be no business without thought or ideas.

Is anyone originating all this himself? Can anyone think for a moment that he is himself the cause and creator of thought, or invention, business, skill, art, and science? And is it conceivable that the immeasurable nature of thought, infinitely and continuously existing in man, finds its origin in brain matter, a pulpy mass within a cranium? Christian Science declares that since there is but one Mind or Cause, that all true thought necessarily finds its origin there, and only there,—that all is divine Mind and its infinite ideas or manifestations, and that man, declared in the first chapter of Genesis to be the image and likeness of God, must be the mental image or likeness of Mind. Indeed, the Icelandic translation of Genesis puts it in just that way: "And God said, Let us make man after our mind and our likeness; and God shaped man after His mind, after God's mind shaped He him; and He shaped them male and female."

Can we conceive of a universe without order, precision, or law, a universe devoid of thought or ideas? When thinking ceases does not consciousness also cease? What becomes of a man without Mind and ideas? A nonentity or nonexistence. As a man thinketh, so is he, and Mrs. Eddy says in Science and Health, on page 109: "Christian Science reveals incontrovertibly that Mind is All-in-all, that the only realities are the divine Mind and idea."

Is it conceivable, then, that an imperfect thought could emanate from the one all-perfect Mind? No, reason tells us that this cannot be. Cause being perfect, so is effect. Logically, therefore, man is understood in Christian Science to be wholly spiritual, the exact and perfect image or reflection of perfect mind.

This teaching of Christian Science regarding the true nature of man, according as it does exactly with the spiritual account of creation in Genesis opens the way for every man and woman to understand and demonstrate his real identity as a child or son of God. We are enabled to perceive, in a measure, why Jesus declared himself to be the Christ, or Son of God; why and how he could do the things he did; and his understanding to do works which he said were possible to every man. The healing works of Jesus, his redemption of sinners, the demonstration of abundant supply where lack seemed very evident, enabling him to feed the multitude, his raising of the dead, all this was the result of spiritual thought, of what he knew of the truth of real being. It was his understanding of God as the only Mind that enabled Christ Jesus to prove his sonship with God. And it was his understanding of the Mind which was also in Christ Jesus that enabled Peter, Paul, and many others to prove by their works that same sonship with God. Are you using the understanding of God as the only Mind in your business and in the home? Are you learning to think with a larger measure of power, capacity, and vision, because you understand that these characteristics belong to man as the image of Mind? On page 128 of the Christian Science textbook Mrs. Eddy writes: "The term Science, properly understood, refers only to the laws of God and to His government of the universe, inclusive of man. From this it follows that business men and cultured scholars have found that Christian Science enhances their endurance and mental powers, enlarges their perception of character, gives them accuracy and comprehensiveness and an ability to exceed their ordinary capacity. The human mind, imbued with this spiritual understanding, becomes more elastic, is capable of greater endurance, escapes somewhat from itself, and requires less repose. A knowledge of the Science of being develops the latent abilities and possibilities of man. It extends the atmosphere of thought, giving mortals access to broader and higher realms. It raises the thinker into his native air of insight and perspicacity." His native air! Your native air, right today, is one of vision, capacity, and intelligence, if you will just claim what belongs to you, your heritage.

Frank F. Bird FOR REGISTER OF DEEDS

I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for re-election on the Republican Ticket at the Primary Election September 9th, for the office of Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county. If nominated and elected I will give the public the same prompt and efficient service that I have in the past.

TEN MILLION TOURISTS VISIT PARKS

Conservation Department Believes 1930 Will Set New Record

A probability that close to 10,000,000 people will visit Michigan's 65 state parks this year has been predicted by the parks division of the department of conservation.

Attendance figures taken from 12 state parks in the northeast section of the lower peninsula for the season to July 15, show an increase over last year of 60 per cent.

While the parks throughout the state will not average such a high percentage of increase, there has been a noticeable increase in all other parks, according to the reports of the various park superintendents.

The attendance at the 12 northeast parks from the opening of the season to July 15 in 1929 was 611,000. For the same parks and the same period this year the attendance has been 1,031,000.

The Bay City state park reported a 100 per cent increase in attendance over last year. Until July 15 this year 862,000 people had visited the park. For the same period in 1929 the attendance was 439,875. Park and highway improvements contributed considerably to the enormous increase in the park's popularity.

Last year 7,454,741 people visited the state parks. The estimated 10,000,000 for this year is believed to be more conservative, considering that it is slightly more than 30 per cent, or half of the increase shown by the parks in the one section of the state.

FAST HORSE RACES SEEN LAST SUNDAY

MANY SAW EVENTS AT EAST JORDAN FAIR GROUNDS

Clemens Stables Entries Carried Off Two Races—Local Horse Woe Class C Event

In spite of many other entertainment features at scattered points throughout northern Michigan, a good crowd was out for the races sponsored by the Charlevoix County Driving club at the East Jordan fair grounds last Sunday afternoon.

The races well repaid those who made the trip to see the program. A good field of horses were entered and time in the various events was considered exceptionally fast.

In the class A event, "Peter Mayne," driven by Fred Clemens of Onaway, placed first in both heats. "Neil Medium," driven by H. B. Smith, Bellaire, placed second and third, and "Joe Spinks," driven by Tony Galmore, East Jordan, finished third and second in the two heats. Time 2:34.

Another Clemens entry, "Canto Stout," carried off the class B event in straight heats. In second place was "Ella Brino," Ralph Bacot's entry, and third to "Sandy," driven by Edgar Smith. Best time was 2:21.

In the class C division, Jess Smith's "Peter Thompson" won in straight heats. "Ed Little," driven by Cushman, Cheboygan, placed 2nd and 3rd in the two heats, and "Henry Direct," driven by H. B. Smith, Bellaire, had a 3rd and 2nd. Time was 2:19.

Lovers of the sport of horse racing found the program much to their liking. Horsemen are now getting their animals in shape for the fall fair period and Sunday's close contests were as good as will be seen any time later.

A part of the proceeds from the program were turned over to the Charlevoix hospital, for which the board of trustees are grateful.

GROESBECK TO SPEAK HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Comes to Charlevoix at 9 o'clock on Tour of Northern Region

Ex-Governor Alex J. Groesbeck of Detroit, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination at the primary election September 9th, comes to northern Michigan on a speaking tour next Tuesday, August 26.

He will address a public meeting in Charlevoix at 9 o'clock in the morning, speak at Harbor Springs at noon, at Petoskey at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and in the evening at 8 o'clock at the Boyne City gymnasium.

Groesbeck's support in Charlevoix county, according to all advance information, we have been able to gather, is exceptionally strong, and good crowds will be out to hear him.

ONE VICTIM BOAT TRAGEDY IS FOUND

Body of Carl Bogren Taken from Lake Near Antrim City

The body of Carl Bogren, Petoskey business man, one of three men who lost their lives a week ago last Wednesday night when the yacht "Two Brothers" caught fire and sank in Grand Traverse bay, was found late Thursday afternoon.

Oscar Bogren of Tampa, Fla., brother of the victim, who had been patrolling the shore for several days, first sighted the body floating one-eighth mile off Antrim City in Lake Michigan. He called Charlevoix for a small boat, which brought the remains here, from which point they were later removed to Petoskey, where funeral services were held Saturday.

Two others, Sam Hamilton, of Charlevoix, and Fred Lundberg, Petoskey, Bogren's half brother, were also lost in the tragedy and search is being continued for their bodies.

HOLD HARBOR HEARING HERE SEPT. 16

Public Meeting Will be Held in City Council Chambers

We are in receipt of the following notice from H. M. Trippe, Major, Corps of Engineers, District Engineer, Milwaukee, Wis., regarding a harbor hearing to be held here, with the request that it be published:

"The River and Harbor Act of July 3, 1930, requires a preliminary examination to be made of Charlevoix harbor, Michigan.

"A public hearing on the above will be held by the undersigned at Charlevoix, Michigan, in the council chamber of the city hall, on September 16, 1930, at 2:00 p. m., central standard time.

"All interested parties are invited to be present or to be represented at the above time and place, particularly navigation interests and the officials of any county, city, town or local association whose interests may be affected by the improvements proposed. All present will be given an opportunity to express their views upon the subject.

"Oral statements will be heard, but for accuracy of record all important facts and arguments should be submitted in writing, in triplicate, as the record of the hearing will be forwarded for consideration by the War Department. Written statements may be handed in to the undersigned at the hearing, or mailed to him beforehand."

H. M. Trippe,
Major, Corps of Engineers,
District Engineer.

There will be a dance at Maple Grove Grange hall Friday evening, August 22. Good music, good order. Everybody welcome.—Adv. 341f.

including man, is a complete success, finished and very good. It shows man now he may legitimately assert his dominion over the belief of failure, how he may separate it from his thinking and claim infinite success, infinite opportunity, and infinite capacity—the natural attributes of God's man.

Christian Science points out too, that men often fail because they are weighed down with a great sense of personal responsibility. It is their business. They must tend it. They must watch it week-days, Sundays, and holidays or it will get away from them. But where is God in all this? Is there no application of spiritual thinking in business? In the case of the man carrying on his business solely through the efforts of human will and with the consciousness that he alone is personally responsible, one can easily imagine a time when he would find himself in fear and wholly unsustained. But the man who turns daily and unreservedly to divine Mind, the source of all intelligence, this man will not fail or fear, for he has learned to declare as did Jesus, "I can of mine own self do nothing. . . . The Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works." Christian Science declares that we may legitimately cast our burdens on the Lord. Can we conceive that the All-mighty, the all-loving God is unable or unwilling to carry them? "For that he is strong in power, not one faileth." Are you afraid to declare, "I am a son of God"? Are you afraid to establish your relationship with your creator, the Father-Mother God? Are you afraid to think with the Mind that was in Christ Jesus, with the Mind that knows all things? And if you are not thinking with this Mind, upon what are you relying for your intelligence and thinking capacity? Christian Science shows us how to be spiritual thinkers. It shows us that since Mind is infinite and man is the image or reflection of that Mind, there is no limit or bound to one's ability to think, that we can now claim as ours, infinite intelligence, infinite wisdom, infinite understanding. Do you believe it to be presumptuous to claim that you reflect infinite intelligence? Are you doubtful lest there be not enough of Mind to go around? My friends, you need have no fear on that score! The very immeasurable character of Mind indicates its unlimited nature. You may claim all there is and there will still be enough for the rest of us,—all this because Mind is one and infinite.

No Pharaoh of Egypt held the children of Israel in greater bondage than today is exacted of humanity by the task-master fear. Men are afraid to eat, and afraid not to eat. If business is good, they are afraid it will be bad, if it is bad they are afraid it will be worse; afraid if the weather is hot, afraid if it is cold. Indeed, fear is usually present in some form at all occasions. What is this tyrant fear? Is it real and God-provided? Has the all-loving creator of the universe put into the heart of man these thoughts of timidity, apprehension, and misgiving? No, not one of them. "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." The world is coming to see how available are the teachings of Christian Science that God is Love and the only Mind governing man. Now this understanding enables us to recognize and cast out fear. It shows us that fear comes from a thought primarily as a temptation to acknowledge and bow down before a power other than the one God. We are asked to admit the existence of an evil entity which has the ability to incapacitate, terrify, and destroy the children of God. Spiritual reason tells us that all this is not the product of an infinitely good God, and indeed God would not be infinite, if evil and its offspring, fear, are self-constituted and eternal realities.

Discouraged and disheartened in the struggle with life's problems, it would seem as though man's ability to cope with difficulties and to resist them had so weakened, that at the very first onslaught of the enemy he gave up without an effort. We are told in the Scriptures that if we resist the devil, evil, he will flee from us, and Mrs. Eddy in Christian Science has shown the world how to stand courageously and resist evil and fear. On page 393 of Science and Health she says, "Rise in the strength of Spirit to resist all that is unlike good. God has made man capable of this and nothing can dictate the ability and power divinely bestowed on man." Christian Science, in its teaching that all is Mind and its infinite manifestation, shows us that fear always makes its appearance as our thinking, as some kind of thought. It claims to be part of our own thinking, our consciousness. The realization that all true thoughts have their origin in God enables us to separate these fear thoughts from ourselves and from the divine Mind, to see them only as illusions, as false beliefs without basis or cause in Truth. This perception that fear and erroneous beliefs are not real nor of God, gives man courage and power to meet and resist all difficulties. We learn how to study and scrutinize the guests seeking admission to our mental home, and to banish the dangerous fear and its companion beliefs, timidity, anxiety, and worry present themselves. Fear is no part of the divine Mind or Mind's creation. It has no cause in God and God never made it. It is therefore without law or Principle.

In Christian Science everything in the realm of wrong thinking, false belief, fear, and disease is termed error; in other words, erroneous thought. The way of deliverance from error for everyone is a way of correct and right thinking. There is no other. We here possess the power to think divinely, to have spiritual and holy thoughts, whether we have exercised that power or not. That even children may think themselves out of error is illustrated in the method used by a small boy I know in California. He is afflicted with a physical condition to remain in bed, this little fellow lay earnestly trying in his childlike way to get rid of the trouble. Suddenly he stood up in the center of the bed, and pointing his finger said, "Error, you move on. You can't park here. He could not have expressed it more exactly. For it is not the nature of evil and wrong thinking to do just that thing, park in our consciousness? And, like some people's cars, it breaks the law and should be told to move on.

In Christian Science, we do not "send" Truth or true thoughts to other people. Truth is a nature. The notion of sending thoughts from one person to another is only a species of suggestion. Truth cannot be suggested. It just is. Therefore, how inspiring it is to realize that when we see that man is free, well, awake, and alive, this is an unimpeachable fact, and the very presence of this right thought eliminates and dissipates the belief that man is sick, fettered, or asleep.

The practical application of Christian Science and its great blessing was demonstrated in our family many years ago when my father was afflicted from his habit but not one of them helped, in any degree, but with his healing in Christian Science, however, not only was his life regenerated but this blessed Truth, the one great influence in the lives of every member of our family and has governed us ever since. You can therefore understand the gratitude which I give to God for revealing this blessed Truth to our revered Leader, Mrs. Eddy.

Those who would set aside the Constitutional Amendment in regard to prohibition are forever claiming that their individual liberties are taken away, but let me ask anyone, Who has less liberty than the man or woman who is a slave to drink? Spiritual thinking gives man true liberty and the power to act rightly and conversely frees him from his degrading slavery to evil habits and wrong thinking of every kind.

There is nothing in the teaching of Christian Science that recommends, excuses, or advocates the use of intoxicating liquors. The Christian Science church stands squarely with and gives its whole-hearted support to the Constitution of our country and to those who are dutifully upholding it. We believe that the Prohibition Amendment is not a good law, but it is a great moral and spiritual force operating for the welfare of the nation, and that it came about as the result of better thinking on the part of a great majority of our people. Because it is a force for good operating in human experience, it cannot be separated from the progress and unfoldment of our nation.

No better illustration of the humanitarian motive pervading Christian Science can be found than the establishment by Mrs. Eddy of the great international daily newspaper, "The Christian Science Monitor," designed, as she said, "to injure no man, but to bless all mankind" (The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany, p. 353). A newspaper writer from girlhood, Mrs. Eddy keenly appreciated the potency of journalism and its effect upon the thinking of the world. We often hear the term "power of the press" but to what extent have we analyzed it to see just what that means—power of the press? To what extent have we seen that what is known as human consciousness is largely constructed, framed, or built up through what we read in the newspaper? We think, whether we realize it or not, largely in terms of the printed page. Indeed it is said that we are a newspaper-governed people. Much that we think or talk about is the result of what we read in the newspaper. Consider for a moment! Every morning here in this city thousands of you get up and stream out into the streets and buy a newspaper. And then what? Each one commences to think in terms of the printed page. Crime, disaster, scandal, accident, disease, and death—no very good mental food with which to begin the work of a day. Not long ago a professor in Bradford College, England, made the statement that five-sixths of the thinking done by the civilized world was furnished by the newspapers.

Now Mrs. Eddy, great woman that she was, looking below the surface of things, saw the tremendous power of the printed page, the consciousness through that medium. She recognized, too, the part that the press plays in all this, and conceived the idea of a newspaper reflecting the spirit of truth, of honesty, integrity, and righteousness in business affairs, in government, in the home, in education, in art, in every department of life, in fact. The Monitor today is acknowledged by many of the great men of the time to be the criterion for all newspapers. It is a way-showing in journalism. Its practical influence upon human affairs cannot be estimated, and only love for mankind inspired its inception and is its governing purpose.

Discontent and restlessness are states of thought frequently met with today. We find men and women dissatisfied with one another, their homes, their families, and their position. (Continued on page 7.)

AT THE MOVIES.

Noah Beery's Voice Two Octaves Lower Than Any Recorded

To Noah Beery belongs the distinction of being the possessor of a basso-profundo voice that is able to register two octaves lower than any other so far recorded on the Vitaphone.

Not very many people today know that Noah Beery has a really remarkable bass singing voice or that before his advent into the silent pictures he was a member of a summer Chicago Grand Opera company. He took featured parts in such operas as "Aida" and "Il Trovatore."

In "Song of the Flame," he takes one of the leading roles as Konstantin, a part well suited to his type of voice and style of acting. This picture comes to the Palace theatre on Friday and Saturday.

France and America—Represented in Film

France and America are liberally represented in "The Big Pond," Paramount's comedy-drama with music which comes to the Palace theatre for two days beginning on Sunday next.

The star is Maurice Chevalier, former Idol of Paris, but new Idol of America. He plays the part of an ambitious Frenchman who makes good in an American chewing gum factory. The leading lady is Claudette Colbert, American stage and screen favorite. She plays the role of an American daughter of wealth who meets Chevalier while traveling in Venice. Miss Colbert was born in Paris and lived there until her early teens when she came to New York.

Women Fight But It's for Movie

Brawls and fist fights are not exactly the sort of things a person cares for, but there are occasions, Fannie Brice has discovered, when a knock-down and drag-out fight is indispensable in this hectic business of earning a livelihood.

In the United Artists' all-dialogue musical comedy, "Be Yourself" starring the popular Miss Brice at the Palace theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday, a fight is staged between the noted vaudeville star and Gertrude Astor, that ends in the knock-out of the latter.

With Miss Brice in "Be Yourself" are Robert Armstrong, who portrays the part of a boxer who finally wins the championship; Gertrude Astor, who impersonates the character of a chorus girl; Harry Green, as a cub lawyer; G. Pat Collins as the champion; Budd Fine as a cabaret manager, and 14-year-old Jimmy Tolson as a "blues" singer.

"Soul" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, August 17.

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "With my soul have I desired thee in the night; yea, with my spirit within me will I seek thee early: for when thy judgments are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness." (Isa. 26:9).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit is eternal, divine. Nothing but Spirit, Soul, can evolve Life, for Spirit is immortal, it does not exist in mortality" (p. 335).

Single Family Home Ideal

The family is the unit of society and the single-family home is the ideal setting for that unit. There it gets its best opportunity for development, for light and air and sunshine and the companionship of growing things, all of which are desirable from the family viewpoint. A community built upon homes is solidly built, and will endure.

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale

Notice is hereby given that default has occurred in the conditions of that certain mortgage, dated the 30th day of November, 1918, executed by Arthur Van Amburg and Nellie S. Van Amburg, his wife, as mortgagors, to the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, a body corporate, of the city of St. Paul, county of Ramsey, state of Minnesota, as mortgagee, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 26th day of December, A. D. 1918, at 4:00 o'clock p. m., recorded in Liber 62 of mortgages on page 258 thereof, in that certain installment of forty-two and 25-100 dollars ($42.25), principal and interest due November 30, 1929, remains unpaid; and further, that the taxes were not paid by the mortgagors and were permitted to become delinquent, that on the failure of said mortgagors to pay such taxes, The Federal Land Bank of Saint Paul did elect to pay the same, and on June 27, 1930, paid the sum of One Hundred Forty-seven and 67-100 dollars ($147.67) as taxes for the years 1928 and 1929, that pursuant to the provisions of said mortgage, said mortgagee has elected to declare the whole debt secured thereby to be now due and payable; and the date of this notice upon the debt secured by said mortgage, the sum of One Thousand Three Hundred Forty and 49-100 dollars ($1,340.49); and that no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof, that, by virtue of a power of sale therein contained, said mortgage will be foreclosed and the land and premises therein described lying and being in the county of Charlevoix, state of Michigan, as follows, to-wit:

The North Half of the Southeast Quarter (N¹/₂SE¹/₄) of Section Thirty (30), Township Thirty-four (34) North, Range Six (6) West, containing Eighty (80) acres, more or less, according to the Government survey thereof, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash by the sheriff of Charlevoix county, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Charlevoix, in said county and state, on Tuesday, October 28, 1930, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon, to pay and satisfy the debt secured by said mortgage and the costs and disbursements allowed by law upon said foreclosure sale.

Dated this 26th day of July, 1930.

The Federal Land Bank of Saint Paul, mortgagee.

James E. Shepherd, attorney for the mortgagee, Cheboygan. 31113

BITS OF INFORMATION FOR FARMERS.

Store cement in a dry place. If exposed to dampness it soon becomes lumpy or even a solid mass. Don't store cement on the ground. Build a raised platform and keep it away from the sides of the shelter.

A lighted match, cigarette, or cigar thrown from an airplane or other air craft may set fire to a forest, grain field, or buildings. If you travel by this modern means of transportation, be careful not to throw out any burning material.

Wrapping apples in oiled wrappers or packing them in shredded oiled paper protects them from the scald disease. When shredded paper is used it is important that it be well distributed throughout the package. Apples scald less when packed in boxes, baskets, or ventilated barrels than when packed in the usual tight barrels.

Be more careful in making silage from legume crops than from non-leguminous crops, says the U. S. department of agriculture. Legumes have a lower sugar content from which the acids necessary in preserving silage are developed. All the legumes may be ensiled successfully if mixed with a crop containing much sugar, such as corn or sorghum; or they may be ensiled alone if not too succulent when cut.

The pullets in the poultry flock should get a good growing ration in late summer and early fall so they will be in laying condition by October, or at least by the first part of November. If the pullets start laying too early, however, reduce the amount of protein in the ration. It may also be advisable to omit milk from the ration. Pullets that begin to lay too early—4 to 5 months of age—are inclined to lay very small eggs; or they may lay a few eggs and then go into a molt.

To get the best yields from timothy and clover hay, seed half of the timothy seed in the fall, 2.5 pounds to 4.5 pounds per acre, and seed the other half in spring with the clover. The U. S. department of agriculture has found that seeding timothy in the fall at the rate of five or more pounds per acre, and clover in the spring, gives lower hay yields than when the same quantity of timothy is seeded in spring. When timothy is fall-seeded and clover spring-seeded the yield of hay declines as the rate of seeding timothy is increased above five pounds per acre.

"Culling the lowest producers from the dairy herd not only raises the average production per cow, but also increases the cash income over the cost of feed per cow," says O. E. Reed, chief of the U. S. bureau of dairy industry. "Figures in the bureau indicate that culling the lowest-producing one per cent of the dairy cows in this country would not lower the milk and butterfat production as much as one per cent, but only one-fifth of one per cent; and that culling the lowest-producing 10 per cent would lower milk and butterfat production only five per cent."

Soybeans spoil rather easily if not kept under proper conditions in storage. Heating and molding is especially likely to occur if the seed is hauled in large quantities in a bin or a poorly ventilated room; this is almost certain to happen if the beans were not fully dry when threshed. The storeroom should be dry and should have a free circulation of air around the sacks. Cross piling is a good way to accomplish this. In Manchuria soybeans are dried thoroughly and then placed in sacks, which are built up in large racks and covered with matting.

PONTIAC MAN ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT KOOLJOLA

I Lost Sixty Pounds and Was In a Pitiable Condition Before Taking New Medicine," He Says

MR. PUGH C. SMITH

"My height is six feet two inches and I should weigh approximately 200 pounds," said Mr. Pugh C. Smith, 388 North Saginaw street, Pontiac. "In the latter part of 1928, due to long working hours in the shop, improper food and lack of sleep, I gradually lost more than sixty pounds. I was in pitiable condition and such food as I ate did not digest properly. This was due, no doubt, to my rundown condition. At the time, Konjola was recommended I was in a state of mind bordering on melancholy."

"After taking this miracle medicine for about six months my friends did not recognize me. I had gained back all my lost weight. I am now a picture of health. When I started taking Konjola I weighed 140 pounds; I now weigh 204. I have not taken Konjola for eight months and I still feel great. Every word of this statement is true and I can support the facts by many witnesses who have known me for years."

What could be added to such a sincere statement? Is it not logical to believe that Konjola can do as much for you—for everyone?

Konjola is sold in Charlevoix, Mich., at F. J. Fessenden's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

ter oats in the south indicate that best results usually are obtained by applying from 200 to 400 pounds of superphosphate (acid phosphate) in the fall at time of seeding, and by using a top dressing of nitrate of soda in the spring about March 1st, applied at the rate of 100 to 150 pounds per acre. Ammonia sulphate applied at the rate of 80 to 100 pounds to the acre may be substituted for the nitrate of soda.

To Get Rid of Ants

House-inhabiting ants, such as the little red or Pharaoh's ant, and other species that get into furniture, woodwork, etc., are difficult to eradicate because of their inaccessibility. If the nest can be located, destroy the inmates by injecting into the opening a little carbon disulphide, kerosene, or gasoline. Use an oil can or syringe. Take care, of course, to keep fire away from these inflammable materials. Dusting sodium fluoride about the runways of ants will kill them. Leave no food where ants can get at it.

Winter Legumes

Many farmers are finding that it pays to include winter legumes in the crop rotation, says the U. S. department of agriculture. Studies made by the department in Georgia, Alabama, North Carolina and South Carolina indicate that where winter legumes are plowed down for corn, the corn yield is increased from 5 to 30 bushels an acre, provided a good growth of legumes and a good stand of corn are secured. The time and manner of sowing the legume seed, the inoculation of the seed or soil, the use of fertilizer, the date of plowing down the legumes, the date of planting the corn, and the time elapsing from plowing to planting, all affect the returns from the corn crop.

Roughage for Dairy Cows

Feed dairy cows all the roughage they will eat, either in the form of pasture grass, soiling crops, hay, or silage. The nutrients in these feeds are usually cheaper than those in concentrates are less subject to digestive disturbances. However, if both hay and grain are bought and the hay costs more than one-half to two-thirds as much as the grain, the quantity of hay may be limited and more grain fed. This applies to medium or low-producing cows. In feeding high producers, care should be taken not to throw the cow off feed by giving too much concentrates.

Culling Hints

The pullets in the poultry flock that lay persistently in late summer and fall and molt late in the season are likely to make the best breeders next spring, says the U. S. department of agriculture. Pullets that molt early in their pullet laying year are usually poorer layers than the ones that molt late in the fall. The early molter also stops producing eggs early in the summer or fall, whereas the late molter persists in laying well throughout that period and makes a good annual record. Difference in persistency of production of birds is also shown by the bleached appearance of their beaks and shanks. The color of the beaks and shanks of the best layers usually bleaches more quickly than is the case with birds that lay only intermittently.

Mildew stains, when very fresh, may sometimes be washed out with soap and water, or bleached in the sun. The growth of mildew, is at first on the surface of materials that have been allowed to become damp, but in a short time these molds penetrate the fiber and injure it, and are almost impossible to eradicate. Soaking the stains in sour milk overnight and placing them in the sun without rinsing, will sometimes help. Slight stains are sometimes removed by moistening them with lemon juice and salt and placing them in the sun. Javelle water, used as a bleach will take out mildew stains on white cotton or linen but should never be used on silk or wool. Chemicals are also used in times. Mildew on shoes may be wiped off as soon as detected, and the shoes washed with soap and warm water, and well dried. Stuff the shoes with soft crumpled paper or dry oats, and dry in a warm, but not hot place.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

Price reductions of $40 on all sport models in the Chevrolet Six passenger car line were announced August 14 by H. J. Klinger, vice-president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company.

The models affected are the Sport Roadster, which is now priced at $515; the Sport Coupe, reduced to $515; the Club Sedan, now $625, and the Special Sedan, $685. All models formerly were priced $40 higher.

This latest move of the company brings the price range of the Chevrolet Six to less than the range of the four cylinder Chevrolet at the time of the changeover at the close of 1928. At that time the four was priced from $495 to $715, while the nine different passenger models in the six cylinder line, today range from $495 to only $685, following this latest reduction.

The move of the company comes directly after the announcement that wire wheels may now be had as optional equipment without extra cost on any Chevrolet Six passenger car.

A LECTURE ON

tions. They want a change, and a change they surely need, a change of thought, of thinking, and not necessarily of position. Christian Science declares that there is no condition, however unbearable, discordant, or inharmonious, that may not be adjusted by right thinking.

Not long ago a man came to see a Christian Science practitioner. He was a salesman for a well-known car. He had a fair drawing account, but he was not selling many cars. He was dissatisfied, querulous, and full of fear. He found much to criticize in the automobile industry in general and in his own company in particular; his was altogether a most unhappy state of mind. He ought to have more money; he knew he was worth it, and why didn't he sell more cars? As the practitioner came to understand his situation, he began to see something. This man was demanding that Christian Science help him to sell more automobiles. It was as if he were expecting that Spirit, divine Mind, could be called upon to operate in his behalf in the sale of material motor cars. Now do you suppose for an instant that that state of thought was prepared for what in Christian Science we call a demonstration, a proof of God's infinite power and law? Not at all. What this man really needed was a change in thought, a change in his own thinking. What he actually needed was a healing of his mind, a healing of his incompetency, and incapacity. In that state of mind he was not giving his company the value of his drawing account. In other words, he was not establishing for himself and proving by his right mental attitude that God had already endowed him with intelligence, wisdom, and capability and that these qualities had to be put into action by him, to be proof in "good works." When he grasped that what he needed was a change in his mental attitude, he naturally demonstrated a greater measure of success.

The correct understanding of Christian Science never permits one to ignore the human problem. The absolute truth about God and the real man must always be intelligently applied to the relative condition, right where human beings seem to be having difficulties. For example, business men and women who are salesmen can, through their study of Christian Science, destroy their fears, worries, and discouragements that knock at the door of human consciousness. In quiet reflection and prayer they can maintain the true facts about themselves—that they do reflect intelligence, efficiency, and all the other qualities that go to make up a successful business man or woman. But these qualities of thought must be put into action, in wise human footsteps. Mrs. Eddy, in her textbook, Science and Health (p. 252), says: "The divine demand, 'Be ye therefore perfect,' is scientific, and the human footsteps leading to perfection are indispensable."

For the benefit of those who are just beginning to look into Christian Science, or who perhaps are wholly unacquainted with the subject, it might be well to say here that Christian Science does not teach that a man who is having trouble as a salesman, or another who is not successful with dictation or stenography, can go to a Christian Science practitioner and with a few treatments be miraculously metamorphosed, the one into an expert stenographer, the other into a successful business man. What Christian Science does do, however, is to cause an adjustment in their thinking. It is thought that has to be changed, and this is sometimes not accomplished in a moment—particularly where the individual concerned has been habitually thinking failure, fear, lack, or limitation. It is a gradual process of spiritual and mental redemption. The man who has been laboring under the belief of incompetency, incapacity, or inability, sees in Christian Science that these characteristics are not the divine heritage of the sons of God—that they never originated in the divine Mind, and therefore, may be legitimately denied and eliminated from his thinking. He learns to see that what man does possess divinely are the mental qualities of a goodness, inspiration, spontaneity, keenness, and initiative, and claiming these as his own, he begins to lose his fear and is, therefore, able to face the work of the day with confidence and courage. He sees why he may legitimately say, "I perceive now why I am not working alone the source of my power and capacity lies. It all comes from God, my Father—Mother God. I know 'I can do mine own self do nothing.' It is not I that do it; but the Father that dwelleth in me. He does the work."

There is another side to this question of lack, poverty, bad business, and its fear, the effect on our health. Many a man becomes ill, has a nervous collapse or other physical troubles, as a result of his incorrect thinking about supply and substance. How important, then, that he change his thinking, and find that true spiritual concepts concerning both his business and his health have their origin in God, that the same divine Love, which cares for one, sustains the other.

Christian Scientists are sometimes called optimists, no doubt because they are, as a rule, a happy and cheerful lot of people who look on the bright side of life, but the basis for this appearance of happiness goes much deeper than a mere effort to be cheerful, a kind of Pollyanna attitude. It finds its basis in true scientific thinking, in the possession of a satisfactory concept of God and man, in having proved that God is the only true source of supply to His children, and that "no good thing will be withheld from them that walk uprightly." One can readily see that the man or woman turning in this way to God has opened the door of his understanding to the demonstration of limitless unfoldment and opportunity. No task is too great, no undertaking too big, for the man who has learned that divine Mind is the source of his strength and capacity. The very first words of the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health (p. vii), are in line with this: "To those leaning on the sustaining infinite, today is big with blessings." What words of comfort and encouragement! We are not working and struggling alone—we are leaning on the sustaining infinite love of God. As one of our hymns so beautifully puts it:

How gentle God's commands!
How kind His precepts are!
Come, cast your burdens on the Lord
And trust His constant care.
Beneath His watchful eye
His saints securely dwell;
That hand which bears creation up
Shall guard His children well.
His goodness stands approved,
Unchanged from day to day;
I'll drop my burden at His feet,
And bear a song away.
(Christian Science Hymnal, p. 100).

One of the saddest phases of human life, a condition with which almost everyone has to contend, either in himself or in others, is the quality of envy, jealousy, and rivalry. There is no more unhappy state of thought than that of the man or woman who is disturbed over the prosperity or success of a coworker. It rankles in the heart, is the source of bitter mental suffering, and, in the light of Christian Science, is often the basis of physical disease, and torment as well.

The teachings of Christian Science show us how to analyze envy and jealousy correctly, how to root it out of our own consciousness, and how to dispel its effect, if it is manifested by others. What is the envious man doing? Is he not contemplating in bitterness the success of others, while at the same time in a state of mental denial of his own capacity and opportunities?

Opportunity is infinite, unlimited. Success is infinite, unlimited. Each one of God's children may turn directly to God, the Giver of all good, and receive in abundance whatever is necessary for his individual prosperity and achievement, and at the same time, his brother is not denied the same privilege. Mrs. Eddy has beautifully expressed in her textbook, Science and Health, this infinite and loving bounty of God, where she says, "Love is impartial and universal in its adaptation and bestowals" (p. 13), and again where she states that "whatever blesses one blesses all" (p. 206). The very nature of divine Love is to bless—to bless all impartially and without favor. As men and women come to see this, they will be at rest and at peace; they will recognize that God, in infinite tenderness and consideration, has provided enough of success, opportunity, and progress for all—that no one is denied. They will learn to rejoice in the prosperity of their brother in the same measure as if it had come to them.

Do you recall the story of the prodigal son in the New Testament? After years of dissipation and evil living, this boy returned and was welcomed with outstretched arms by his father, a father who immediately prepared every good thing for the repentant son. And then, at that moment of rejoicing, envy reared its head. The older son came in, full of bitterness, anger, and hate because of the love that was being bestowed on a lost brother. And do you recall that wonderful answer of the father to his complaint, "Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine"? Some day we are all going to learn the full meaning of that glorious truth—that we are ever with God and that all God has, is ours today, in infinite measure. The rivalries and vain ambition for commercial supremacy and domination will

NEWS COLUMN
Edited by Gahm Kinnison

Saturday was "battle day" at Camp Charlevoix, and a great "war" took place, in which the "Reds" won a decisive victory over the "Blacks," winning the battle in each of the three sections.

The battle was in the form of a "flag rush," each side having three flags to guard.

In the senior section the Reds captured the Blacks' flag inside of ten minutes in their first heavy offensive, but only after a furious struggle in which the Blacks put up a stubborn but futile defense.

In the junior and intermediate sections the Reds also won decisive victories after 20 minutes of warfare.

In these battles all foul tactics such as slugging, choking, kicking, and the like, were barred, but prisoners could be taken by carrying a captive bodily into the prisoners' base.

This was the most overwhelming defeat inflicted by either the Reds or Blacks upon the opposing side in the four years that these annual battles have taken place. Last year the Blacks won and with the victory went the "Big Brown Jug."

The last week of camp has been given over to outside trips again.

The senior section divided into three groups. A canoe group, which goes to Burt lake; a horse-back group which is to go to Walloon lake; and the Honor trip to Cross Village, to be taken by the cabin bearing the highest rating in inspection for the last four weeks.

The intermediate sections went by canoe to the Isle of Pines.

All groups were to start Tuesday morning and return some time Saturday.

VOTE MILLION TO BOOST THE APPLE

Association Undertakes Task of Restoring It as King of Fruits

Plans to raise a $1,000,000 advertising fund to restore the "King of Fruits" to the dinner table of every home in the United States were under consideration Friday by delegates to the International Apple association convening at Grand Rapids.

The need for a nation-wide consumer advertising campaign was told by E. C. Wolcott, Chicago secretary of Apples for Health, Inc.

West Baden, Ind., was chosen as the association's 1931 convention city and E. E. Samson, Yakima, Wash., was re-elected president at Thursday afternoon's session. Other officers named were: Marcus J. Gray, Boston, vice-president; Otto E. Furbinger, St. Louis, treasurer, and R. G. Phillips, Rochester, N. Y., secretary.

GRAINGER GUEST CONDUCTOR AT INTERLOCHEN BOWL

Percy Grainger, internationally known as a pianist and composer, will be the guest conductor of both the National High School orchestra and band on Sunday afternoon and evening, August 24. Thirteen of his own compositions will be played by the band and orchestra. The orchestra continues, traditionally, to close the season with "Les Preludes" by Liszt.

The afternoon concert begins at 3 o'clock, central standard time. At 7 o'clock the program is broadcast over the Columbia national chain, and at 8 o'clock a regular program is given by these organizations, including the camp choir. This will be your last chance to hear music from the National High School players during this season. Special trains carry the youngsters from Interlochen at midnight on Sunday.

REPORT OF MICHIGAN CROPS

DROUGHT CAUSES HEAVY LOSS TO POTATOES AND BEANS

Too Early in the Season to Offer Any Accurate Prediction as to the Final Results

The August 1st estimate was for a total United States crop of approximately 373,000,000 bushels of potatoes. If this quantity is realized, it will be only three per cent larger than last year's short crop and five per cent below the average production of the preceding five years. The condition declined sharply during July in practically all northern states from Nebraska and the Dakotas through to the middle Atlantic coast. Since August 1, the heat and continued drought have further reduced the prospects in those states. Rains have occurred in some sections in sufficient amount to improve the outlook, but a large percentage of the area is still extremely dry and it now seems probable that later estimates will be several million bushels lower than the August 1 figures.

Advices from New York, New Jersey, and New England indicate better than average yields except in Aroostook county, Maine, where excessive rains will likely cut the yield to a point slightly below average. The south Atlantic states will probably have the lowest yield since 1914 and the south central states, the lowest since 1927. The southern states show an increase of 11 per cent over 1929.

It is too early in the season to offer any accurate prediction as to the final results but, unless there is decided and unexpected improvement over many states, it is reasonable to assume that prices will be above the average of past years.

The 1930 Bean Outlook

Since the compilation of the August 1 crop report, the Michigan Cooperative Crop Reporting Service states that the hot weather that continued for eight or nine days after that date, together with prolonged drought has added materially to the damage which occurred in July. Local areas have had some rainfall but much of the state's bean area has had too little to appreciable benefit the crop. The early bloom blasted in July, and much of the later bloom is falling off because of the continuing unfavorable weather conditions. While good rains would still be of some help to late planted fields, it is now apparent that much of the injury is irreparable and that Michigan's 1930 bean acreage will yield considerably below the ten-year average. In many fields, not only is the set light but the pods have but few beans in them. Were it not for the fact that the acreage is about 40 per cent above the five-year average, the total production would be lower than the average for that period, even if no further decline in condition occurred.

The ladies of the St. Mary Altar society will hold a sale of baked goods at the Charlevoix Hardware on Saturday, August 23. Every article home-baked.—Adv. 3411.

Guernsey Show and Picnic Goes Over Big

The third annual Guernsey summer show and picnic, held in East Jordan last Saturday, attracted a large audience of dairymen from all sections of the county. Over 75 sat down to a real picnic dinner at noon in the tourist park.

Headlining the program was the address by Prof. E. L. Anthony, head of the dairy department, Michigan State college. His discussion of the dairy situation and other dairy topics was enthusiastically received. His remarks were well chosen and given in language that all dairymen know.

The next feature was the awarding of diplomas to some 22 dairymen who have herds averaging over 300 pounds of butterfat as shown by the cow-testing association records.

Boys' and girls' club work came in for its share of attention when Carleton Smith and Robert Cummings gave a demonstration on "Fitting a Calf for the Show." They showed the proper manner of clipping off excess hair, polishing of the horns, blanketing, washing, and training of the calf as preparatory steps before entering the show ring.

The show itself was the best yet held in quality and correct Guernsey type. Every year the display indicates that real progress is being made by the Guernsey breeders of Charlevoix county and that in a very few years there will be a large number of high quality Guernseys owned by many dairymen.

The show was judged by Prof. Anthony in his very capable manner and attracted fully 150 people around the ring. The outstanding female of the show was owned by Murphy Bros., of East Jordan. This Guernsey was five years of age and a splendidly built purebred.

The prize was a new sanitary milk pail, donated by the East Jordan Lumber Co. store.

Following were the winners of the various classes:

Junior Calves—1st, James Nice, East Jordan; 2nd, Charles Murphy, East Jordan; 3rd, Carl Stevens, Walloon Lake.

Senior Calves—1st, Irving Crawford, East Jordan; 2nd, Orval Bennett, East Jordan; 3rd, Milan Hardy, Boyne City.

Senior Yearling—1st, Charles Murphy, East Jordan; 2nd, Carl Stevens, Walloon Lake.

Two Year Olds—1st, James Nice, East Jordan; 2nd, Orvie Gunsolus, East Jordan; 3rd, Bert Lumley, Boyne City.

Three Year Olds—1st, Orval Bennett, East Jordan; 2nd, Carl Stevens, Walloon Lake; 3rd, James Isamen, East Jordan.

Four Year Olds and Over—1st, Murphy Bros., East Jordan; 2nd, Irving Crawford, East Jordan; 3rd, Carl Stevens, Walloon Lake.

Yearling Bulls—1st, Bert Lumley, Boyne City; 2nd, Orvie Gunsolus, East Jordan; 3rd, Murphy Bros., East Jordan.

Mature Bulls—1st, East Jordan Bull club, East Jordan.

Other exhibitors were Clyde Clute, Boyne City; Lawrence Fineout, Boyne City; and Walter Heileman, East Jordan.

ALEX J. GROESBECK POPULAR CANDIDATE

ADDRESSED CROWD AT BOYNE CITY TUESDAY

Charlevoix Sent City Band and Large Representation to Hear
Candidate for Governor

The popularity of Alex J. Groesbeck, candidate for the highest state office Michigan affords, was fully demonstrated at the high school gymnasium, Boyne City, Tuesday evening, when he spoke before a packed house, and held the closest attention of his listeners during his 45-minute talk.

Accompanying Ex-Governor Groesbeck on his tour of this section of the state were former secretary of state Charles J. Deland and ex-judge E. P. Lajoie of Detroit, besides representatives from the Detroit News and Detroit Times.

The meeting was called to order by H. A. Craig of Charlevoix, who spoke briefly and introduced Ex-Senator Wm. J. Pearson of Boyne Falls, who followed with introduction of speakers of the evening.

First speaker on the program was Charles J. Deland, who is acknowledged as the best posted man in Michigan on state affairs. He made a comparison of state expenditures during the Groesbeck and Green administrations, severely rapping present state officials on the increased cost of carrying on state affairs. He closed his remarks by stating that if the people wanted relief from present conditions, the proper course would be the election of Alex. J. Groesbeck.

Judge E. P. Lajoie of Detroit dwelt largely in his remarks on the present condition of state institutions and their over-crowded condition. According to his statements, the Green administration has been guilty of gross negligence in this respect. He expressed confidence that these conditions would be immediately corrected in the advent of Groesbeck's election.

Alex. J. Groesbeck, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, was the final speaker of the evening. He declared there would be a restoration of the rigid economy in the spending of state money that characterized his previous administration. He is the only candidate seeking the nomination for governor who declares that state expenses can be reduced.

He has told of the tremendous increase in state expenses and has given to the taxpayers actual figures showing the tremendous increase in taxes since he retired from office.

As a proof of the economy he practiced during the time he was governor he gave his listeners a tabulation of what the state tax was each year during his administration and what it has been during the present administration.

The tremendous increase in taxes since he left office is shown by the table. It follows:

Under Governor Groesbeck
1921	$20,441,333.79
1922	$17,305,384.12
1923	$16,000,000.00
1924	$15,000,000.00
1925	$16,500,000.00
1926	$17,500,000.00
A six-year average of	$17,000,000.

Under the Present Administration
1927	$24,800,000.00
1928	$20,500,000.00
1929	$29,500,000.00

The state administrative board has not released the tax total for the present year, but it is known that it will be the greatest in the history of the state, far exceeding last year's record state tax collection.

Ex-Gov. Groesbeck declares the tax collection of this vast amount of money from the taxpayers is unnecessary and that the state can be operated on much less an amount without curtailing its development.

No Extra Taxes for Buildings
There is not the slightest necessity for the taxpayers of Michigan to shoulder an added tax burden for the next four or five years of something like $25,000,000 for a building program in addition to the regular state tax, he emphatically stated.

During the time he was governor, he conducted the biggest building program in the history of the state and he did it without asking the general property taxpayers for an extra cent. In the payment of the costs of (Continued on page 4.)

DRY LAW VIOLATORS SENTENCED TO PRISON

Judge Sprague Meets Out Punishment to Six Taken in Raids

Emmett county officers assisted by state police and federal operatives conducted a series of raids Saturday night that resulted in the arrest of six alleged liquor law violators in the county. Those taken in the raids were Emil Moret of Readmond township, Howard Rhoadbeck of Harbor Springs, and Tony Picarski, Telisfore Yell, Dan Olson and Mrs. Louise Shoman of Petoskey.

The entire group having pleaded guilty was sentenced Wednesday in Emmett county circuit court by Judge Victor Sprague of Cheboygan. Following are the sentences meted out to the alleged offenders:

Telisfore Yell, one to four years in Jackson prison; Tony Picarski, fine of $150.00 and from six months to two years in Jackson prison; Mrs. Shoman, six months to two years in the Detroit House of Correction; Howard Rhoadbeck, fine of $100.00 in default of which he will be sent to jail; Emil Moret, one to four years in Jackson prison; Dan Olson, one to four years in Jackson prison.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPEN SEPT. 8TH

FOOTBALL PRACTICE STARTS
ON TUESDAY, SEPT. 2ND

Superintendent's Office Open Thursday, Friday and Saturday of Next Week to Pupils and Patrons

Adopting that favorite phrase of the younger American generation in regard to schools, we'll say "It won't be long now." In fact, the time before school opens is all too short for many who are loath to give up care-free summer days for the routine of months to come.

Ray Kipke, who returns as athletic director of local schools for another year, has already issued the call for football material, urging all those planning to enter this sport to report at the high school before 3 o'clock the afternoon of Tuesday, September 2nd.

Suits will be issued at that time and practice will get under way at the south side field the same afternoon. This will mark the first year Charlevoix high school has called out candidates for pre-season practice, an indication that football is being looked upon seriously and that a good organization will be ready when the season opens.

For the benefit of students and patrons of the school generally Supt. Otterbein announces that he will be in his office on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. Hours will be between 10 and 12 a. m. and 2 to 5 p. m. On the first two named days and Saturday forenoon, students and Mr. Otterbein urges everyone who possibly can to take advantage of this opportunity, thus avoiding confusion the opening day of school on Monday, September 8th.

Preparations are under way in the buildings for the opening of school. Interior of all rooms are being redecorated, the outside window sills and casings repainted and other general and necessary improvements are being made.

EIGHTH ANNUAL COUNTY PICNIC

LABOR DAY, SEPTEMBER 1, AT WHITING COUNTY PARK

Three Boxing Matches, Baseball,
Sports, Speakers, Picnic Dinner Listed Attractions

(By B. C. Mellencamp)
Great plans have been made for your entertainment on Labor day at Whiting park, when the business and rural interests of Charlevoix county unite in putting on the eighth annual Charlevoix county picnic.

Nothing has been left undone to make this day one that will never be forgotten. There will be something doing every minute.

Sports that will make your blood run wild, speeches that will hold your rapt attention, music that will thrill, and above all three real boxing bouts. Then don't forget the picnic dinner at noon. Food will never taste better than in this beautiful site located near the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix where the atmosphere is perfect and the spring water is 100 per cent pure.

Throw away your cares and troubles, pack up the old lunch basket and bring along the family for the big occasion.

Music for the day will be furnished by the Barnard band, a group of young musicians all under 18 years of age, who know their stuff when it comes to producing music.

Doughnuts, coffee, cream and sugar will be furnished free of charge. Come and help yourself. Then several Legion posts in the county will have stands to quench your thirst and satisfy your appetite.

The sports will start at 11 o'clock fast time, with running races for the children and men, a potato race, sack race, and tug-of-war between the city and country men. Basket dinner at noon. The speaking program starts at 1:30 o'clock, featuring the appearance of several orators of local reputation.

At 2 o'clock the boxing contests start. Three evenly matched bouts are listed that will be red-hot battles from the going. The first bout is between two Charlevoix boys, Alex Bolton and Guy John; second match, Cecil Yettaw, Charlevoix, and Joe Writer, Detroit; third match, Frank Winnick, Charlevoix, and Bugs Clute, Boyne City. Matchmaker Powers of Charlevoix fame, will be in charge.

At 3 o'clock comes the indoor baseball game between the American Legion teams of East Jordan and Boyne City. Watch the fur fly when these two aggregations tangle.

Space does not permit any more details but come and enjoy the day at Whiting park on Labor day, September 1st.

BODY OF SECOND LAKE TRAGEDY VICTIM FOUND

The badly decomposed body of Fred Lundberg who with two companions was drowned when their yacht caught fire in Grand Traverse Bay two weeks ago, was found floating face down north and east of Old Mission point about 5 p. m. last Wednesday.

The discovery was made by Grover Geniet, Charlevoix, captain of a yacht owned by Dr. Roger Morris of Cincinnati, as the yacht was making toward Old Mission harbor.

MICHIGAN LURES THE ENTIRE WORLD

ITS RECREATIONAL RESOURCES ARE CONSIDERED GREATEST

Magazine of Michigan Editor Pictures Many Attractions Michigan Has to Offer Vacationists

The catching of fish and the hunting of game are as old as the human race, or older. Fish and game were probably the first of the natural resources to be used by humanity. Lands, forests and forest products, metals and minerals, and water power followed in about the order given.

To the early pioneers Michigan, like most of North America, offered a bountiful supply of such resources from which to mould the material side of our modern civilization and prosperity. Up to the beginning of the present century, much of this supply was consumed with but little thought of the morrow.

Michigan natural resources naturally fall into two general classes, those which are exhaustible and once exhausted can never be replaced, and those which by intelligent usage and proper care can be made to endure forever. The metal and mineral resources exemplify the first, and forests will serve to illustrate the latter class.

Today and for the last three decades, the conservation picture has been on the screen of American interest. Today, we are learning to get the most from the utilization of such natural resources as can never be replaced; and we are learning and practicing the conservation and replacement of those resources which, like the annual farm crops, can be annually sown and annually harvested.

Further, Michigan is leading in the development of a comparatively new utilization of several of the natural resources. The reference is to the recreational and aesthetic usage of forests, parks, lakes and rivers.

Annually millions of people resident beyond Michigan's boundaries visit this state, and countless others of Michigan's citizens avail themselves of these recreational resources.

Michigan has done many things calculated to insure the perpetuity of her natural endowment and to develop this asset to the point where the greatest possible "interest" may be obtained. More than 20,000 miles of surfaced highways speak for the accessibility of Michigan territory. But access, while essential, is rather the means than the end.

Twelve state forests, comprising about 460,000 acres of state-owned and administered lands are under process of reforestation at the rate of 18,000 acres annually. Today about 80,000 acres of these lands have been planted in white, Norway or jack pines. Such lands are not only potential forests, state-owned; they are also public hunting grounds, game refuges and recreational areas. A number of "forest parks" have been established on several of the forest units, affording desirable camping and recreational sites for those who prefer the more remote places.

Michigan's 52 state parks last year afforded outdoor recreation to more than 7,500,000 people, almost twice the population of the state. Other parks are in process of development and will be opened for public use as rapidly as the demand increases and public funds become available. Michigan's scenic and historical assets are being preserved from the despoiler Time, and made available to the public.

The pollution division of the conservation department and the stream pollution control commission created by the last legislature are working hand in hand, and it might be said day and night, to bring about as rapidly as possible a solution to Michigan's pollution problems.

One hundred sixty conservation officers patrol Michigan's lands and waters, guarding her fish, game and other resources from illegal use. Sixteen state fish hatcheries annually place millions of game and commercial fish in public waters to supply ever-increasing economic and recreational demands.

A state game farm, which annually raises about 15,000 ring-necked pheasants to plant as breeding stock, and seven game refuges, are playing a part in maintaining the game resources of the state, as are shorter hunting seasons and a conservation-minded population.

HOSPITAL ANNUAL MEETING FRIDAY

ATTENDANCE WAS LARGEST IN INSTITUTION'S HISTORY

Resorters and Townspeople Turned Out En masse to Help Hospital
Out of Difficulties

With an attendance of over fifty, the largest on record, the annual meeting of the Charlevoix hospital trustees and advisory board was held Friday evening at the council chambers in the library building.

Following a thorough and complete discussion of the hospital's present financial status, elections of trustees was held.

P. D. Campbell, Dr. R. B. Armstrong and A. J. Usher, hold-over members since August, 1929, were re-elected, as was also W. H. Miller, whose term expired in August, 1930. Joseph Foster and William H. Wallace were chosen to fill the vacancies caused by the resignation of M. A. Leviason and George Gladson.

The board of trustees then elected their officers as follows: President, Harry A. Craig; vice-president, Geo. W. Weaver; secretary, P. D. Campbell; treasurer, A. J. Usher.

Following the business session, funds to meet the immediate needs of the hospital were turned over to the treasurer.

Trustees and advisory board members held another joint meeting Monday evening at the hospital, and finances came up for a thorough discussion again. Plans were made to divide the business street among board members for solicitation of funds and also for an intensive membership drive. It is planned to reorganize the Hospital Woman's Auxiliary and an associate auxiliary among resort women will be perfected shortly.

Never before has the interest of Charlevoix's summer people in the hospital been more manifest than at the present time. Their hearty response when difficulty beset the local institution is an indication that the hospital will continue indefinitely, and that aid may be had for the asking.

Funds derived from early solicitations will be used to meet operating deficit. Further funds will be put into needed new equipment. The hospital is badly in need of an X-ray machine, an electric elevator and a fire escape. The last named item is probably most important at the present time and will be taken care of as soon as possible.

NEW WATER PLANT AT WALLOON LAKE

Concrete Reservoir Now Being Constructed by Alfred E. Hass

A new water reservoir is being erected for the village of Walloon Lake and will likely be completed and ready for use late this season.

The improvement is one of the many important and worthwhile undertakings of the season in the northern Michigan resort territory and assures the village of Walloon Lake an adequate supply of pure spring water piped from high in the hills north of the resort.

CITY DEISEL UNIT NOW IN OPERATION

RELIEVES THREATENED POWER SHORTAGE PERMANENTLY

Functioning Satisfactorily and Consumers Will Reap Benefit of Cheaper Electric Production

Charlevoix's electric worries are over for some time to come. Last week the new Deisel unit voted early this spring by the city council, was put into operation for the first time.

The engine is fulfilling very satisfactorily all that was promised for it, and is relieving a power shortage that at times during the past month reached a serious aspect.

Charlevoix citizens generally have little conception of this city's electric needs during the peak summer months. At the height of the season, electric consumption reaches the minimum of 550 k. w. and is usually over that figure.

Because of abnormal water supply, the Bellaire unit has been producing only 50 k. w. during the day in order to save a head of water for night. At night it has been producing approximately 150 k. w.

Capacity of the city's two steam units is 197 k. w. each, or a total of 394 k. w. Add this to the 150 k. w. produced by the water unit at Bellaire and it is readily seen that all together they do not come up to the 550 k. w. peak load. As a consequence, the steam motors have, at times, been crowded to produce nearly 250 k. w. each to carry the night load.

The new deisel unit of 650 h. p. will produce at capacity 450 k. w. While tests were being made during the past week by J. J. Ehrat of Milwaukee, engineer of the Nordberg Mfg. Co., the engine has been used to ease the load on the other units, and the acute situation of former weeks has been nicely relieved.

Future prospects concerning electric power are very rosy. During the winter months, the Bellaire plant will carry the load nicely with the exception of about two hours in the evening. In other years it has been necessary to operate the steam unit to produce the balance. This was a costly proposition. Positive figures show the deisel unit may be operated five times cheaper than the steam. Figuring on this basis, "one" may readily see the great saving which will be made.

Many have grumbled over the high electric current cost. Considering this, we might say that the new unit has been added without a bond issue. Money used was taken from surplus in the electric fund. The addition was necessary and would otherwise had to have been paid for by a raise in taxes. With the new unit in operation at a greatly reduced cost for power produced, consumers may in the near future look for a lowering of rates. The money they have already paid has provided the new addition and they will later reap the benefits rather than dig down to provide for what had to come.

The city council has made a forward step and are deserving of commendation.

NEW SCHEDULES FOR TRANSIT CORP. BOATS

Post Season Trips of Steamers
"Manitou" and "Puritan"

The Michigan Transit Corporation, through its office here, announces post season schedules for its steamers, the "Manitou" and "Puritan."

The "Manitou" will leave Chicago at 3:30 p. m. September 2, arriving at Charlevoix September 3rd. This trip will be repeated on the 5th and 6th of September with arrival and departures at the same hours as the first trip. Southbound she will leave Charlevoix on September 4th and 7th, arriving at Chicago respectively on the 5th and 8th at 10:00 a. m.

The "Puritan" will leave Chicago at 7:15 p. m. and will run as far north as Frankfort. The Puritan's regular fall schedule will go into effect Wednesday, September 10th.

The Michigan Transit Corporation's general offices are at Chicago. Its steamers give direct service to and from all summer resorts in northern and western Michigan.

We want several pounds of clean cotton or wool rags for press cleaning. Will pay 5c per pound for the kind we want. Bring them to the Courier office.—Adv. 34t.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c to pay at the Central Drug Store, the Rexall store.

RHEUMATISM IS PUT TO AN END BY NEW KONJOLA

Chicago Lady Is Enthusiastic Over What New and Different Medicine Did for Her.

MRS. MARIE BASMAN

Surely one could do no wiser thing than to profit by such experiences as Mrs. Marie Basman, 740 North Lawndale avenue, Chicago, had with Konjola. She says:

"I was troubled for two years with rheumatism in my hip. I could hardly get out of bed in the mornings. I tried a number of medicines and treatments but nothing helped me. Then I started with Konjola. That was six months ago and I took six bottles. Since then I have not had an ache nor pain. If I do, I surely will take Konjola again. Some of my friends are now using Konjola and getting fine results."

Konjola is a medicine for the aged and the infant; for all the family. A complete treatment of from six to eight bottles will bring relief from even the most stubborn cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Konjola is sold in Charlevoix, Mich., at F. J. Fessenden's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

of East Jordan, were callers at the home of George Meggison one day last week.

Mrs. Jack Armstrong and children, who have been visiting at the home of Henry McClanathan, left Monday of last week for their home at Wyandotte, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Jone Durance, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Durance and family of Flint, were guests at the farm home of George Meggison one evening last week.

The seed inspector was in the neighborhood looking over the potato fields, also H. A. Berg, representative for the farm economics department, called at several farms and looked over the farm account books.

Mrs. James Courier and daughters, Lois and Leone, have been visiting the past few weeks with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Ingalls. Mr. Courier will join his family later when they will return to their home at Muskegon.

Among the farmers of this vicinity who attended the annual meeting of the Michigan Certified Seed Growers' association at the state potato farm, on Tuesday, August 19th, at Lake City, were W. K. STATE DEFICIT OF $15,000,000 LOOMS

SANITY IN GOVERNMENT—OEEES
INSTEAD OF WORDS—URGED
BY ALEX J. GROESBECK

TEN YEAR RECORD SUMMARIZED

Detroit, Mich.—"The question in this campaign is whether Michigan is to have a responsible, constitutional government. There is an enormous job ahead for the successful candidate. The problem of the voters is to decide who of the candidates is best fitted by experience and training to bring the state out of its present financial predicament."

This was the assertion made by Alex J. Groesbeck, candidate for governor when asked to give a fundamental statement of his position, for the information of the electorate throughout the state.

State Virtually Bankrupt
"In order to fix the responsibility for the present virtual bankruptcy of the state exactly where it belongs," said Mr. Groesbeck, "it is perhaps best to divide the subject into three periods of time:

"First, my own administration lasting six years;

"Second, the administration of Mr. Greea covering four years;

"Third, the future and what must be done to correct the present almost hopeless conditions.

"When I left the Capitol building at Lansing there was a general property tax of $17,500,000 and we were sure the needs of the state would be no more than $2,000,000 in excess of this amount. In 1921, I told the legislature that a new form of taxation would be required to carry out the program of development, and so a corporation tax adding $5,000,000 to the state's credit was introduced. The entire financial problem of the state should have been solved.

"Instead of a solution we now have a deficit of more than $7,500,000 in the state treasury and this will amount to approximately $15,000,000 by January 1, 1931, when the newly-elected governor takes office. When the people begin paying their taxes in December this money will already have been spent.

Deeds Instead of Words
"When the people for the first time elected me as their governor, the state treasury was empty, just as it is now, and the state was in debt. At the close of the fiscal year, June 30, 1926, Michigan had a surplus with no indebtedness.

"I had pledged to the people a business administration, and my first endeavor was to put such a plan in operation.
"All bills were paid in cash and discounted as they were paid. At the end of the 1926 fiscal year, this saving totalled $775,448.22. The largest saving by this method during any year of any prior administration was only $10,050.

"A purchasing department was established to buy supplies for all state institutions at wholesale, instead of paying high retail prices.

"In all 31 boards, commissions and departments were abolished, eliminating duplication of effort.

"State business was placed in the hands of the administrative board, headed by the governor. This board is composed of seven officers elected by the people. One of these is the attorney general. Mr. Brucker is a member of this board.

"A modern bookkeeping and accounting method was installed as well as a continuous inventory system.

Through the establishment of a traffic system for routing supplies $506,272.25 was saved during my administration.

"Sinking funds were established for the soldiers' bonus, the war loan and the highway construction funds and money was diverted into each one from the proper sources at the proper time. This practice has not always been followed since, although provision for each was made by law.

Highways and Building 1921-1926

"In 1921, there were only 318 miles of concrete highways and 702 miles of other hard surface highways in the state. These roads were mostly so disconnected that it was impossible for motorists to travel throughout the state without being enveloped in clouds of flying dust.

"In 1926, there were 1,537 miles of concrete highways, an increase of 1,219 miles, and 918 miles of other hard surface highways an increase of 216 miles, or a total increase of 1,435 miles, radiating in every part of the state, furnishing new opportunities for tourist travel and creating thousands of dollars in new business for many people in the Upper as well as in the Lower Peninsula.

"It was in my administration that the highway department inaugurated the policy of snow removal from the main trunk highways, thus opening the roads to all-the-year travel.

"In the six years I was at Lansing, 111 buildings were either erected or rebuilt. Every bill incurred in this construction program was paid. The total cost was $22,447,395.36. These buildings included prisons, hospitals, homes, schools, colleges and the state university at Ann Arbor.

"It may be said without fear of contradiction that in my administration, the state enjoyed the greatest building program it has ever experienced, at the lowest possible cost to the people.

Tax Increases Since 1926

"Now let us take up the administration of Mr. Green, of which Mr. Brucker was a part as a member of the administrative board. Mr. Green inherited all the business machinery I had set up with the co-operation of the different legislatures. All the essentials of good, sound management were at his command and it should have been an easy matter for him to conduct the business of the state with economy and outstanding results. Instead he failed. An examination of the general property tax shows clearly how the period of extravagance was initiated and continued:

General Property Tax
1926 $17,500,000
1927 24,500,000
1928 20,500,000
1929 29,500,000

Increase in 1927 over 1926 $ 6,700,000
Increase in 1928 over 1926 2,700,000
Increase in 1929 over 1926 11,700,000

"It should be borne in mind that the general tax is raised by direct levy upon real and personal property. It comes from the purse of every home owner in the state, the farmer and the people who live in hamlets, villages, towns and cities.

"Further convincing evidence of the extravagance of the Green-Brucker administration is contained in the total revenue figures of the state. The total revenue is made up of the General Property Tax, the Gasoline and Automobile Weight Tax, the Utilities Tax, the Corporation Tax and Special taxes and fees. From 1926, the last year I was in office, the total revenue was as follows:

1927 97,532,795.04
1928 106,267,265.19
1929 121,528,147.84
1930 124,726,064.84

"There was a progressive increase each year and the difference between 1926 and 1930 is the enormous sum of $32,528,717.86 or 35.3 per cent.

Taxes Hit All Classes

"A very large part of this increase in total state revenue was brought about by increasing the general property tax levy and a 50 per cent increase in the gasoline tax. The general property tax increase fell on every one who owned real or personal property and the increase in the gasoline tax on every owner of a motor car.

"The average increase in the general tax levy in 1928 and 1929 was $10,330,000 yearly, of which Mr. Brucker was as well aware as Mr. Green.

"The gasoline tax increased from $10,000,000 in 1926 to $22,000,000 in 1930, more than 100 per cent.

"The corporation tax has increased from $5,000,000 in 1926 to $7,000,000 in 1930.

"The Green-Brucker administration also passed the malt tax, the revenues from which have never been definitely given out.

"Now Mr. Brucker says he will call a special session of the legislature at great expense to the people at which he will take action on taxation. Had Mr. Brucker been a man of courage, as a member of the administrative board he should have raised his voice in loud protest against the progressive increases in all kinds of taxation and consequent extravagance when those subjects were up. But I defy any one to find in the record such a protest from Mr. Brucker.

Green Trying to Cover Up

"Mr. Green is much smarter than Mr. Brucker. The former saw the futility of explaining the enormous increase in taxes to the people, so he permitted Mr. Brucker to run in his place, hoping, with his man Friday in the governor's chair, that many of his mistakes would be covered up and concealed for such a long time that the people would eventually forget all about them.

"Now as to results from the Green-Brucker administration. There are none worth mentioning. To the statewide system of highways constructed during my tenure of office, a few miles of roadway have been built here and there, mostly as political rewards. The building program called for an expenditure of $22,000,000, much of it unnecessary. Last year $5,700,000 was appropriated for new buildings and of that sum only about $1,500,000 was expended for that purpose. Where the remainder has gone only Mr. Green knows. If Mr. Brucker knows he isn't saying anything about it.

"From a building standpoint, that is highways and state institutions, the Green administration has done very little.

"It is one great achievement has been an enormous increase in the general property tax and the pleasure of spending large sums of money from other taxation sources with the result that we now have a deficit in the state treasury of nearly $7,600,000 and this will increase to $15,000,000 by January 1, 1931 when the next governor and legislature takes office.

Brucker Ought To Know

"Now let me emphasize again where Mr. Brucker fits into the picture of extravagance in the Green administration. As a member of the administrative board, which is supposed to run the business of the state on a common sense business basis, he must have been aware of the huge sums of money raised and spent so wantonly. If he didn't know it, either he never was present at a meeting of the board or he failed to read the record in the newspapers and in the legislative proceedings.

"The issue at stake in this campaign is the revision of taxes downward, the cutting of unnecessary expenses, the termination of the orgy of useless spending and a return to sane government.

"If the job falls to me, I can only promise the people of the state that there will be no dodging the issue, there will be no dodging of words, there will be no alibis. With the co-operation of the state legislature, these finance and tax problems will be taken up in a manly way and settled, and I hope it will be a long time before someone has to step in and do the job over again."

AT THE MOVIES

Nancy Carroll Has Requisite Movie Talents

Nancy Carroll has become a motion picture star in less than two years after her screen debut because she is fortunate in having the four requirements which make great actresses, according to Edmund Goulding, director and author of "The Devil's Holiday," in which Miss Carroll will be seen at the Palace theatre on Thursday next.

"An actress, to become great, must have innate ability, physique, intelligence to acquire technique and experience necessary to acquire the latter," says Goulding.

"Buddy" Rogers Does His Stuff in Tunes Hit

"My Future Just Passed" is the big hit song of Charles "Buddy" Rogers' latest starring picture, "Safety in Numbers," tuneful and merry musical comedy confection, which comes to the Palace theatre Monday and Tuesday.

But, in spite of the paradoxical title of the song, Mr. Rogers is so engaging and "It"-ful in this picture that there isn't anyone who would deny that he still has a most distinguished future which will probably take a long time in passing.

"Buddy" has a way about him that just gets to everybody. He's handsome, spirited, capable; sparkling with youth, emanating the good

8 plies under the Tread

Here is EXTRA SAFETY!

FOR the high powered, high speed cars of today, with needed quick starts and stops, you should have this extra protection. Just look at the inside of this Firestone Anchor Super Heavy Duty Tire. There are eight plies of cords under the all Non-Skid, Center Traction Tread. It is a big—tough—strong tire—a construction that insures against punctures and blowouts.

Come In and See for Yourself!

We have cut up various brands of tires, so that you can see the inside construction. Come in and make these comparisons, section for section, and you will readily see the superiority of Firestone.

We sell and service the complete line of Firestone Tires, Tubes, Batteries, Rims, Brake Lining and Accessories, and actually give you greater values.

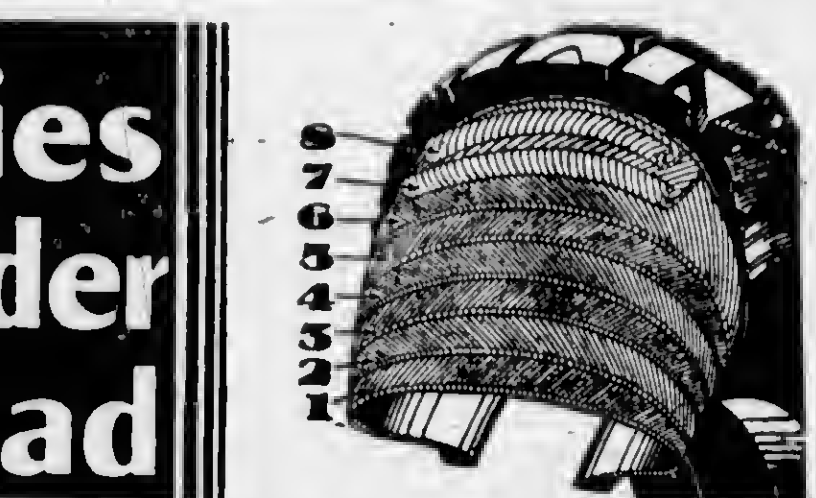

The Firestone Anchor Super Heavy Duty Balloon has a double cord breaker—8 plies under the tread. Some other makes have no breaker at all and some a single breaker made with old-fashioned, square woven fabric that Firestone discarded when they developed the balloon tire.

DOUBLE GUARANTEE: Every Firestone tire makes bears the name "FIRESTONE," and every tire we sell carries the Firestone Unlimited Guarantee and ours. You are doubly protected—absolutely assured every dollar you spend buys real quality and satisfaction. I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for reelection on the Republican Ticket at the Primary Election September 9th, for the office of Register of Deeds for Charlevoix county. If nominated and elected I will give the public the same prompt and efficient service that I have in the past.

the kind and density of forest growth recently cut-over or burnt-over lands, marshes and bogs, occupied crop or pasture lands; the nature, location and extent of glacial and hard-rock formations, with their commercial deposits of limestone, shale, clay, gravel, marl, and so on; the amount of developed waterpower and an estimate of the extent of undeveloped waterpower with possible dam site and storage reservoir locations; and many other additional features which may be ascertained by writing to the Land Economic Survey, Department of Conservation, Lansing, Mich.

Michigan's development and utilization of her natural resources is a type of service which benefits everyone, the buyer as well as the seller. And because of Michigan's geographic location, directly north of a large population congestion area, more and more will Michigan be called upon to furnish outdoor recreation and outdoor recreational areas, to those who would fish, hunt, camp, golf—or for those who just "go to see."

The Great Seal of the State of Michigan bears the inscription, "Si quis peninsula amorem circumspice."—"If you seek a beautiful peninsula, look about you." So said our forefathers, and so say we, in deed as well as word.—The Magazine of Michigan.

HENNESSEY AGAIN RIVIERA CHAMPION

WON THIRD SUCCESSIVE TITLE
HERE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Peter Blanchard, Baltimore, Junior Champ—Luey Haggerty, Louisville, Won Women's Singles

Those who predict a comeback on the part of John Hennessey, Indianapolis net star, to the ranks of the Davis cup squad next year, received justification to their belief at The Inn clay courts Sunday afternoon when the lanky Hoosier won his third successive Michigan Riviera tennis title by taking over Robert Sellers, Pacific coast champion of San Francisco, Calif., in four easy sets, 6-2, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1.

Although he dropped one set to the west coast lad, Hennessey was master of the situation from beginning to end, donating games to Sellers to turn the tide from utter rout to interesting play for a large gallery of spectators. Superior play in the first set was shown by the fact that Hennessey counted 29 points to Sellers' 18, erring 13 times to his opponents' 25, and counting the remainder of the points on placements. Sellers started to force Hennessey in the second act with the count 3-2, against him and dropped two games through carelessness. The last point of the sixth game of the set went to Hennessey on a double fault, while

Alex. J. Groesbeck for Governor

The last on the next game came on an ace through Sellers being out of position. Sellers however, brought the count up 4-5, and then lost heart in the next game when Hennessey's top spin on his backhand drive carried two shots over the net after hitting the tape. Sellers deliberately hit the ball out the side of the playing inclosure on set point.

Sellers Wins Third Set

Long John ran off the first three games of the third set in easy manner and then eased up and Sellers took two games before Hennessey crashed through for another game. The Hoosier, however, got off his stride in the meantime and Sellers won the set, 6-4, solely through the fact he committed eight less errors than Hennessey.

After the intermission, Hennessey ran off five games without going to deuce before Sellers got the courtesy game on the love count. Hennessey dropped one point in the last game and counted match points, as he did many others during the match, by drawing his opponent to the net and then passing him down the side lines.

Sellers came back in the doubles with Bruce Barnes, Austin, Texas, to beat Hennessey and Jack Haggerty, Chicago, in four sets 7-9, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3.

The women's singles title went to Lucy Haggerty, of Louisville, Ky., who took over Lucille Dalley, Saginaw, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, featured by the harder driving of the winner.

The tournament which closed Sunday had one of the smallest but most select entries ever participating in a local tennis meet, and matches the last three days were of a caliber seldom seen in these parts. As in former years the players were more than satisfied with their entertainment here and an equally as good entry may be expected in 1931.

With very few exceptions, players in the Riviera tournament went to the Michigan state meet now in progress at Harbor Springs.

CELEBRATE FACT BOVINE TB GONE

Michigan First Large Dairy State
Free of This Disease

Celebrating Michigan's designation as the first large dairy state to place all its counties under complete bovine tuberculosis supervision, an open banquet will be held September 12 at Michigan State college, it was announced by college officials.

Dr. John R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry in the United States Department of Agriculture, will be principal speaker at the gathering, which is to be open to interested members of the general public. Several hundred persons are expected to attend.

Agencies combining to stage the memorial dinner are the state department of agriculture, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the Michigan State Farm bureau, Michigan State college, the U. S. Livestock Exchange, and several smaller groups.

"Arriving in Charlevoix at The Inn—tired, dirty and groggy—met at the door by Monty and his 'million dollar smile.' What a man!—and then, all cheerful and glad to be alive."

Not only Mr. Joslyn, but many others, share that same feeling towards Monty.

THREE BOUTS END WITH KNOCK-OUTS

VISITING BOXERS TESTED IN AMERICAN LEGION BILL

Jimmy Williams, Cecil Yettaw and Amos Hall Put Down Opponents for Count of Nine

Imperted boxers didn't do so well in their engagements with local boys at the American Legion boxing show promoted by match-makers Powers and Stout at the gymnasium last Thursday night. Three of the four outsiders took the count, while the other was awarded Referee McMullin's decision.

In the opening bout, Jimmy Williams of Chicago, who is summering in Charlevoix, scored a knockout over Joe Sting, Saginaw battler, in the second round of their scheduled four-rounder.

Cecil Yettaw, colorful local boy, knocked out Kid Dugan of the Soa in an equal number of rounds after several minutes of fast milling. Up to the time Yettaw put the upper peninsula boy away, the fight had been fast and even.

The first decision of the evening went to Joe Writer of Detroit, who out-boxed Alce Bolton, local Indian lad. The fight was fast and furious, but the Detroit boy was a little too much for Bolton.

Frank Winnick lost Referee McMullin's decision in his six round match with Young Doby of Saginaw, but in spite of defeat won a big hand for his gameness against odds. The bout went six rounds and the local fighter tired before the finish. Doby, a boxer of several years experience, was too clever for Winnick, and probably could have put him away. The score card showed Doby won four rounds, one went to Winnick and the other was even.

In the final go of the evening, Battling Amos Hall upheld his reputation by knocking out Buddy Mapp of Saginaw, in the fifth round of their scheduled six-round bout. The first three frames were fairly even and neither hurt each other. Hall staggered Mapp towards the end of the fourth and took a lot of confidence out of the Saginaw boy. In fact we believe his courage ebbed to a point where he didn't care to go on any further, for in the fifth Hall caught him under the ear with an upper cut and he went down for the count. It didn't look like a knock-out from where we sat. We believe Mapp had enough and knew when to quit, for Hall certainly would have put him away before the fifth canto was over.

Whatever the result, it was a mighty good scrap—just as good as every other one on the bill.

ALEX. J. GROESBECK POPULAR CANDIDATE

building one hundred and eleven new buildings at various state institutions he used but $2,000,000 of state tax money. Payment of these buildings was done by the use of a corporation tax.

Although the state during the past three years has collected many millions of more money from the taxpayers than during any time Alex. J. Groesbeck was in office, the state according to the present administration, is faced with an extensive building program. This is due to the fact that all the money that has been collected during the past three and a half years has been used for greatly increased payrolls and other purposes.

He declared that the building needs of the state can be taken care of without an additional tax burden and by the use of rigid economy in the conduct of the state's business. He is the only candidate for the place who says that the expenses of the state can be reduced without in any way impeding the progress and development of Michigan institutions.

He is opposed to an income tax, and declared if elected he would oppose any legislation that would lead to increased taxation. At present state institutions such as prisons, state hospitals, etc., are in a deplorable condition and overcrowded. He stated, in reference to the present administration's building program, that over six million dollars had been raised by special tax intended for the relief of this condition; that not over two million could be accounted for, the balance being used to cover deficits in various state funds. He is a firm believer in better roads, and stated he would, if elected, give the state a road building program that would put Michigan on the map as the one state in the union where good roads prevailed everywhere, especially on trunk lines, and would accomplish this with a reduction in the present tax rate.

His talk was blunt and to the point. He indulged in no flowery talk and his remarks made a deep impression upon the hundreds who heard him. We predict that Charlevoix county will go overwhelmingly for Groesbeck on Primary election day, September 9.

Charlevoix was represented at the meeting by some eighty ardent Groesbeck supporters and the city band.

CADDIES ENJOY DAY OF SPORTS

FIELD DAY PROGRAM MONDAY AND TUESDAY AFTERNOONS

Events Substituted for Annual Excursion Given by Members of the Chicago Club.

Monday and Tuesday afternoons were enjoyable ones for caddies at the Charlevoix Golf club. Instead of the annual excursion provided by members of the Chicago Club of Charlevoix, this year's entertainment took the form of a field day and around $100 in prizes were distributed among winners of the various events.

The junior boys had their program Monday afternoon and the older boys Tuesday.

Among the younger group the events and winners were: longest driver, Harold Potter; approaching contest, Keith Nickerson; putting contest, Bill Chambers; 100-yard dash, Marvin Dixon; bicycle race, Winfield Kirby; three-legged race, Winfield Kirby and Edward Heise Jr.

Tuesday afternoon the older boys had their field day and the events and winners were: driving contest, 1st, Robert McCall; 2nd, Otto Yemans; approaching contest—1st, Howard Davenport, 2nd, Franklin Curtis; putting contest—1st, Edw. Olach, 2nd, Lawrence Johnson; bicycle race—1st, Bob Foster, 2nd, Clair Ecklund; running race, 1st, Bob Foster, 2nd, Cecil Yettaw; three-legged race—1st, Bill Novak, and Wilson Howe, 2nd, Joe Smith and Bernard Foster.

In addition both groups chose sides for a football rush, relay race, ball race and tug-of-war.

Following sports, the lads were treated to ice cream, candy, etc. Qualifying rounds for the annual caddy tournament will get under way Friday of this week and play starts next Tuesday.

EMMET COUNTY BIG FREE FAIR

AT FAIR GROUNDS, PETOSKEY,
SEPT. 2, 3, 4 AND 5.

Free Acts and Side Attractions Expected to Draw Unusual Crowd
Each Day

The Emmet County Free Fair will be held this year at the fair grounds at Petoskey on September 2, 3, 4 and 5. Roy V. Otto, secretary of the fair, stated that "This year's showing, entertainments, etc., will be the best in years and will be a mark which will be hard to surpass next year."

The grounds have undergone several great improvements, one of which is the mid-way. A new 24-foot street has been laid down and no longer will people have to walk on muddy ground. Concessions are of a better character than in previous years and many high class eating places will be had. There will be just plenty of places on the mid-way where one can find amusement.

To the Voters of Charlevoix County:

I wish to announce my candidacy on the Republican ticket for the office of county clerk. Since being appointed to office of county clerk in July 1929, I have given all the duties of said office faithful attention. I am unable to see each voter in the county personally as the duties of office prohibit me from making such a campaign, but I respectfully solicit your vote and support at the primaries September 9th, and if nominated and elected I shall continue to perform the duties of county clerk in a prompt, efficient and courteous manner.

Fenton R. Bulow

This year the committee has completed arrangements with four of the best free acts which they could get and these will perform afternoon and evening for the benefit of the crowd. The final night of the fair will be the large public wedding which will be done in royal fashion. The couple who will agree to be married on this night will receive $50 in gold besides the pleasures of having a wedding similar to a royal wedding.

Horse races, ball games, band concerts, drum and bugle corps, will also form entertainment for the patrons of the fair. The exhibitions of stock, produce, and handicraft promises to excel anything ever seen. Two new features will be a fox show and a rabbit show. Hundreds of these animals will be brought to the Emmet County Free Fair this year.

PLANS WELL UNDER WAY FOR CELEBRATION

Business Men Have Subscribed Money for Big Home Coming

Plans for Central Lake's homecoming and Labor day celebration are nicely rounding into condition. With practically enough money subscribed, the celebration is assured.

The program is being outlined. It will consist of two ball games, one in the forenoon, between Atwood and Pleasant Valley, and Central Lake will meet Alden in the afternoon game, according to plans now under way.

A horse shoe pitching tournament will also be one of the main attractions. This will probably be pulled off following the noon hour, say at 12:30. The tennis tournament is still in doubt but will be held providing the local tennis aspirants are willing to enter. If it is held, it will probably take place about 9 o'clock in the morning.

Street events will also be pulled off about one o'clock and followed by a demonstration by the Central Lake fire department. Following this will come the ball game between Central Lake and Alden.

In the evening, the band, directed by W. H. Hopkins, will put on a street carnival. The band will also play during the day to give lovers of music entertainment. Several other stunts which will be planned will appear in the Torch next week.

The business men are doing their part in subscribing the money, and is up to the rest of the people to help and make it a success. Everybody take part.

Here's hoping that Central Lake has a real celebration Labor day, September 1.—Central Lake Torch.

TRAIN SERVICE TO CHANGE SEPTEMBER

Train Each Way Daily on P. M.
After That Date

Announcement made by Superintendent J. A. Grigware, of the Petoskey-Chicago division of the Pere Marquette regarding the winter service from Grand Rapids north to Petoskey is of great interest here.

Superintendent Grigware and General Passenger Agent John Dunphy, Detroit, were in Traverse City last week to explain to the folk there why the usual Grand Rapids to Traverse City train was to be eliminated this season, in an effort to reduce expenses, and at the same time announced the winter schedule Grand Rapids to Petoskey and return.

They said the southbound train out of Petoskey would leave here at 8:30 a. m., reaching Grand Rapids at 4:30 o'clock. It would be in time for direct connection with the evening train to Chicago and the evening train to Detroit. Charlevoix passengers would reach Chicago at about 10 o'clock that evening and Detroit at about 9:30 o'clock the same evening. Formerly the southbound train left Petoskey at 2:00 and passengers reached Grand Rapids in the evening and Detroit and Chicago the next day.

The northbound train would leave Grand Rapids at 7 o'clock and reach Charlevoix at 2:30, thus giving Charlevoix her afternoon mail from that section an hour or two earlier than formerly.

The schedule does not call for a sleeper service as no such service would be necessary with the daylight run, each way. Service would be six days a week, as formerly.

Now is the time to buy shoes at Campbell's.—Adv. 3511.

TOP O' MICHIGAN
ANNUAL SHOWPOTATO GROWERS GETTING
SET FOR BIG EVENTGet in Touch With Your County Agent at Once and Be Among the Winners of Prizes

Now is the time for all potato growers of the Top O' Michigan to make plans to enter the Master Potato Growers' Contest to be held in connection with the Eighth Annual Potato and Apple Show at Gaylord, October 29, 30 and 31, according to B. C. Mellencamp, secretary.

A prize valued at $25.00 is to be given to the first place winner by the Top O' Michigan Potato Show association and the winner will compete with winners from five other district potato shows at the state show at East Lansing during farmers' week where the Michigan Master Potato Grower will be selected. This master potato grower will receive $125.00 toward expenses on a potato tour in 1931.

The winners at each show will be judged on the following points: (1) total production per acre—125 points; (2) field run quality—125 points; (3) ability to select type or show sample—100 points; (4) ability to grade—75 points; and (5) cost of production—points.

College supervision will be given at digging time to certify fields and get cost of production. The contestant will be required to enter a peck of potatoes in the open class and grade his lot of potatoes under supervision of the state department of agriculture officials.

Guy Eppler of Petoskey, winner of last year's prize, is now on a trip to Maine and Prince Edward Island.

Announcement

I will be a candidate at the Republican primary election September 9, for the office of REGISTER OF DEEDS.

I have lived in Charlevoix county for the past 23 years, 13 years in banking and 10 years in the garage and auto business.

If the voters of Charlevoix county honor me by election to the office of Register of Deeds, I shall endeavor to perform the duties of the office in a prompt, courteous, and efficient manner.

Your support now, and your vote September 9, will be greatly appreciated.

SABIN HOOPER

SEES HEAVY CLAIMS
ON FUTURE BANKERSAmerican Bankers Association
Official Declares That Banking Changes Creating Large Bank
Systems Will Call for Broader Social Viewpoints.

Larger scale group or branch banking will inevitably bring a new era of banking organization and operations to the United States and bankers will have to develop "new conceptions, new administrative methods and new economic views," Rudolf S. Hecht, Chairman of the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association, recently told the members of the American Institute of Banking.

The institute is the educational section of the association and he emphasized the point that the new era in banking demanded "that we must step up our education so that banking shall be fortified for new responsibilities."

What the Future Calls For

"We must broaden our social conception of banking," Mr. Hecht said. "Not only for the technical operations of the new banking must we fit ourselves, but both as individuals and an organized profession we must charge ourselves with serious consideration of the social problems that are involved. Already we hear murmurings and fears and doubts as to whether the changes that are coming about in banking in the extension of group and branch systems do not constitute the looming of a new financial menace, a monopolistic threat not only to the individual unit banker, but to the financial liberty of society in general. I am stating these things merely as facts that must be taken into consideration in our studies."

"Public opinion cannot be ignored by any business, least of all by banking, which is admittedly semi-public in character and is, therefore, subject to special supervision by the constituted authorities. If banking develops tendencies that give rise to public fears, we must so conduct ourselves as to reassure all doubts."

"For this is true,—that business succeeds only by serving society,—that no business can permanently prosper which does not both render service to the public and at the same time convince the public that it is rendering that service. Banking, therefore, must take cognizance of what the public is saying of this new era in its development."

"It must be part of the technique of modern banking administration, whatever form our enlarged institutions take, to avoid the creation of monopolies, or even the appearance of such a centralization of financial power as to be able to exercise an undue influence over public or private finance or other lines of business. The public's right to the safeguards of fair competition must be observed."

Must Preserve Individual Initiative

"It must also be an item of management that individual initiative and opportunity shall be maintained. If America has outstripped other nations in the distribution of the benefits of its progress, it is due to the fact that there are no barriers of social caste or business tradition against advancement for character, ability, and initiative. American business has learned that it serves itself best by encouraging by every practical means individual ambition and initiative, and hurts itself most by repressing or neglecting them. Competition for efficiency, both within an organization and between organizations, will prevent any institution from long enduring in which maintenance of opportunity and recognition of initiative are not controlling principles of management. As heads of the greatest of our financial and industrial institutions stand men who started from the humblest of beginnings. Through all the grades of executive authority and reward stand men in positions in keeping, generally speaking, with their individual merits. I, personally, see no reason for fearing that the enlarged banking organizations which the future may hold would necessarily supply future bank employees with any less opportunity for achievement than unit banking."

"Again, a major consideration of administration in any multiple form of banking organization must be its public relations in every community it touches. Its foremost consideration must be actually and visibly to serve the economic upbuilding of that community. No system will be long tolerated whose local members work, or are suspected as working, to draw economic strength from one place to enlarge the financial power of another. The local unit bank has always been part and parcel of the communities where it lives—and no system can last which does not make it a major principle of operating technique to serve, and not exploit, the communities into whose business lives it enters."

Business and Utility Crowding Out Beauty

Relative to esthetic elements in city building projects, an authority has said: "The gradual disappearance of the private residential dwelling with its spacious lawns and beautiful foliage within the confines of the city limits, has necessarily lowered esthetic considerations in practically every large and progressive American city. Business and utility are crowding out beauty and design. Property values are soaring higher and higher in direct ratio to the upward economic trend."

"Municipal art commissions or other public bodies of similar character must bestir themselves now if we would prevent the total extinction of the rustic in the city home of the future."

Efficiency of space and economy of investment are the factors which have been given most heed in building construction, he pointed out.

"In fostering building development in any large city, the welfare of the latter is also closely bound up in the regional planning within city limits and with areas adjacent thereto. To that end conferences should be held with representatives of adjacent cities and towns to work out jointly and to correlate the problems of neighboring smaller communities in the environs of the larger municipalities."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace" (Rom. 8:6).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "As a material, theoretical life-basis is found to be a misapprehension of existence, the spiritual and divine Principle of man dawns upon human thought, and leads it to 'where the young child was,'—even to the birth of a new-old idea, to the spiritual sense of being and of what life includes" (p.191).

Miss Ruth Matchett began teaching this week in the Adams school.

Dorothy Smith began her work of teaching the Burns school near Central Lake on Monday.

Minnie Gornell spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. Clifford Genett and family, the first of the week.

Many Barnard people are going after blackberries in spite of rumors that bears inhabit the berry patches.

We are glad to see that the work on the Burns hill is progressing nicely, the grading being nearly completed.

The Barnard band played last Wednesday evening at the Grange rally at East Jordan. Several other good features made a very interesting program.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston and their daughter and son-in-law, all of Constantine, Mich., visited Mrs. Preston's brother, Michael Garber, a few days last week.

TOP O' MICHIGAN
BIG POTATO SHOWPreparations Being Made for the Eighth Annual Exhibit

The new premium book for the Eighth Annual Top O' Michigan Potato and Apple Show is now in the hands of the printers according to B. C. Mellencamp, secretary of the show association, and will be available for distribution about the first of September.

The usual attractive premiums totalling over $1,500 will be offered. Several changes, including a complete junior department will be one of the new features.

The apple premium list has also been changed to add interest to the show.

The usual contests will be held with the Master Potato Grower contests and the Junior International Harvester contest the main attraction along this line.

The eighth annual show will be the best and biggest in the history of the association. The new 4-11 club camp buildings at Gaylord gives unlimited space for expansion to a show that is already the largest of its kind in the country.

Anyone wanting one of the premium books should write to their county agricultural agent or to B. C. Mellencamp, secretary, Boyne City, Mich.

WEEKLY CAMP CHARLEVOIX

NEWS COLUMN

Edited by Gahm Kinnison

Sunday night Camp Charlevoix held her first sacred ceremony in her new council ring, where each boy received an emblem in the form of a plain "C," or an Arrow "C" and were received into the tribe of Charlevoix. The Arrow "C" was the emblem for the greater all-round efficiency.

Every camper was blindfolded and led through the woods to the beautiful council ring which is a cleared space in the heart of the evergreen forest. Log seats are placed around the circle, and a "throne" is erected at one side, from which the "Great Chief" gives out the awards.

A large fireplace was situated at the center of the ring in which a large fire blazed.

Those who received the Arrow "C" were: Irwin Evans, John Reifel, Gahm Kinnison, Dudley Mattson, Merrit Stone, Bert Reedy, John Wentworth, Henry Lord, William Wygant, Lewis Baker, Dodwell Herbert, Robert Evans, John Hineckley, Glenn Robinson, John Bagley, Chas. Clarke, John Nurken, Lewis Greenman, Winship Todd, Richard Woodfield, Curtis Seebaldt, Arthur Brandt, Cholett Griswold, Dick Bisbee, John Parker, Dave Laing, Pete Rose, Gardner Friedlander, Bob Burch, Russell Brown, Robert Thompson and James Ramm.

Monday evening Camp Charlevoix held her 4th annual farewell banquet, attended by campers and their parents.

The after-dinner program was opened by the camp quartet, composed of Fred Morris, Pete Morris, John Olwin, and George Alder, singing several amusing and entertaining numbers. Then Walter North, toastmaster, introduced the first speaker of the evening, Colonel Gillespie, head of the athletic department, who made the awards for the best all-round athlete in the senior, intermediate, and junior sections. The athletic award was won by Wm. Wygant in the senior section; by Curtis Seebaldt in the intermediate; and by Bob Burch in the junior.

Next, John Nenniger gave out the awards for the most outstanding boy in handcraft in each section. In the senior section the award was won by Lewis Baker; in the intermediate section by Wilbur Bailey; and, in the junior section by Russell Brown.

Jack Hogan gave the woodcraft awards to John Reifel, Dick Bisbee, and Gardner Friedlander, for being the most efficient campers on hikes.

Following this the arts award was made by Fred Morris to Merrit Stone, Dave Laing and Bob Thaw.

These awards were followed by an announcement by John Woodfield, father of one of the campers, that sufficient funds had been raised among the Dads so that next year will find a radio installed in camp.

The next number was a violin solo by Don Wheeler, a counsellor.

Following this came the awarding of the coveted character plaques, for all-round efficiency. The awards were made in the senior section by Earle Oldham to Dodwell Herbert; intermediate, by Walter North to John Parker; and in the junior, by Ira Hirschy to Pete Rose.

The following boys were announced to have passed the junior red cross life saving tests: John Parker, Frank Harlow, Noel Pope, John Reifel, John Wentworth, and Dod Herbert.

Next, Dick Bisbee, who has been a camper for four successive years, gave an interesting account of his experiences.

Bert Reedy also talked on what Camp Charlevoix did for his son, and Mrs. Reimann read a verse of her own about the various counsellors and phases of camp.

Following this Prof. E. V. Jotter, director of activities, gave an account of all the accomplishments and memories of the past camping season.

As a fitting conclusion to this final program a farewell talk was given by the camp director, Lewis C. Reimann, in which he gave credit for the camp's success to the staff and to Mrs. Reimann, and thanked the parents for their fine cooperation.

With the breaking up of this last meeting, Camp Charlevoix leaves until next year and bids goodbye to all her many friends and well-wishers.

TROUT SEASON ENDS AT MIDNIGHT MONDAY

Lake Charlevoix Stays Open for Rainbow to December 1st

One of the most satisfactory trout seasons in Michigan in years will come to an end at midnight, Monday, September 1st.

At that time every trout stream and designated "trout" lake in the state will be closed to all fishing.

All trout fishing in any lake or stream in Michigan will cease at midnight, September 1st. There are a few exceptions when rainbow trout fishing in Lake Charlevoix and other waters will continue to specified dates after the regular season closed. These few exceptions are listed in the Digest of Fishing Laws, distributed by the department of conservation throughout the state.

Fishing for large and small mouth bass will continue after September 1st in non-trout streams and all lakes except designated trout lakes, up to and including December 31st. All other species of bass, bluegills, sunfish, perch, pike perch, great northern and grass pike, muskellunge, lake trout, and all non-game fish may be taken in non-trout streams and in all lakes but trout lakes up to and including March 31st.

Since the game fishing season opened last spring the fish division of the conservation department has received thousands of creel census cards from anglers who have made studies comments on fishing conditions. The consensus of opinion expressed through these cards has indicated a highly satisfactory fishing season generally throughout the state.

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT MOONLIGHT GARDENS

Girl Orchestra and Feature Dancers Come Thursday Evening

A special treat is in store for patrons of Moonlight Gardens, A. T. Jeffery's popular amusement place on Petoskey avenue.

On Thursday evening of this week Mr. Jeffery has engaged Gertrude Fairfield's "Tip Top Entertainers" for the night's special entertainment feature.

A ten-piece girl band will furnish music for dancing and, in addition, members of the group give feature dancing numbers. The organization comes to this region highly recommended, and a pleasant evening of fun is in store for the many patrons of the place.

SUMMER VISITOR DIES AT IRONTON

GRAND RAPIDS MAN VICTIM OF BOATING ACCIDENT

Injured on Head When Boat Upsets and Apparently Died from Heart Attack

Peter Boslooper, age 33 years and proprietor of the Certified Service Oil company of Grand Rapids, died last Wednesday in a boating accident near Ironton, on Lake Charlevoix.

The man was boating with six others, including two of his own children, when the boat filled with water in the rough seas. Mr. Boslooper apparently received a bad injury on his head when the boat overturned and died of heart attack while attempting to swim ashore with one of his children.

The accident occurred when the stalled outboard motorboat in which the seven were riding was swamped in a heavy sea 100 feet from shore, while Boslooper was rowing it ashore.

In the boat beside Boslooper were his two children, Flora June, 2 1-2 years old, and Thomas Boslooper, 6; Andy De Vries, Lansing, and his daughter, Annie Laurie De Vries, 2 1-2 years; Philip Simon, 11, and Betty Jane Simon, 6, of Niles.

Boslooper attempted to swim to shore, carrying his son on his back.

The father had progressed only a short distance when he sank, the boy going down with him. Philip Simon, an Eagle Scout, emerged as hero of the accident. He swam to shore with Annie Laurie De Vries, then returned to the swamped craft and dived to rescue Thomas Boslooper, whom he took to shore and revived. Then he swam out and recovered the body of the elder Boslooper, attempting vainly to revive him after reaching land.

Examination of the body revealed no water in Boslooper's lungs which, augmented by a cut over one eye, led officials to believe the parent may have been severely injured when the boat overturned and swooned while swimming or was stricken with a heart attack.

Andy De Vries put Flora June, Boslooper and Betty Jane Simon on the overturned boat, then swam the 100 feet to shore, although friends said he never before had been able to swim.

The Bosloopers had been vacationing at Chula Vista. Mrs. Boslooper saw the accident from the shore. The body was returned to Grand Rapids.

Besides the son, Thomas Davis, 7, and the daughter, Flora June, 4, who were with him at the time of his death, he leaves the widow, a brother and five sisters, one in California and four in Grand Rapids.

To the Electors of Charlevoix County:

It is my duty as a candidate for nomination as county treasurer to inform you, and particularly those of you who do not personally know me, as to who I am, my reasons for being a candidate and what I stand for. I have lived in Charlevoix county the greater part of my life; was graduated from Boyne City high school in 1912. After taking a year of commercial work in Albion college and general agriculture in M. S. C., I purchased a farm in Hayes township, where I have lived fifteen years. For ten consecutive years I have been supervisor of Hayes township and also a member of the auditing committee of the board of supervisors. During that time it has been my duty to keep in close touch with the financial affairs of the county and I have discharged that duty to the best of my ability. The knowledge of county business gained by this experience naturally leads me to feel that I could be of some service to the people in the office of county treasurer. I know the burden of taxation and the need of lessening that burden whenever and wherever possible. The office of county treasurer affords many opportunities in this respect. If chosen to the office it will be my earnest and constant endeavor to perform my duties always in the interest of the people and give them the benefit of a careful and safe business policy.

I am offering my candidacy for your consideration at the primary election, September 9, 1930. It will be impossible to see all of you personally, but I welcome inquiries and am willing to leave the whole matter to your best judgment.

Sincerely yours,

HOWARD C. STEPHENS

The ladies' title went to Mrs. Sampson Rogers of Chicago, who triumphed over Mrs. F. M. Hodge of Kalamazoo, in the final Saturday.

The tournament had a large entry of club members and their guests and held the interest of the colony throughout the week.

CABARET PARTY WAS BRILLIANT

ANNUAL BELVEDERE CASINO AFFAIR, THURSDAY EVENING

Near Professional Program of Dance Numbers Given Under Supervision of Miss Calla Travis

Climaxing the social program at the Belvedere club was the annual cabaret party given last Thursday evening at the casino.

The affair was largely attended and the most brilliant ever staged. Every nook of available space in the casino was taken for tables and many more were set on the stage and on the porch.

Mrs. R. Vernon Clark, prominent socially among the St. Louis group at the Belvedere was chairman, and assisting her was Mrs. Wallis, another St. Louisan. Other committee heads were: Cakes—Mrs. C. B. Fox, chairman, Mrs. F. A. Leland, Mrs. Ingham; sandwiches—Mrs. J. W. Ferguson; table reservations, Mrs. George Tramel, Chicago; tickets—Mrs. W. N. Bemis; decorations—Mrs. Alice Roderick, Cincinnati, Ohio; entertainment—Miss Calla Travis, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Opening dance of the evening program of entertainment features was "Girls of Broadway," featuring the Misses Melissa McKay, Katherine McKay and Katherine Carrier of St. Louis. Miss Jane Sliter of Grand Rapids, the artist of the evening, favored with a rhythm tap, and also gave the German dance, VanLaban, with string quartet accompaniment. One of the outstanding numbers, a Russian Cossack solo, was given by Miss Jane Saunders of Petoskey, who studied last winter in the Calla Travis studio at Grand Rapids. Her costume was of most effective white satin, trimmed with pearl satin and blue. Miss Saunders also danced in the French ballet and jazz toe number with Miss Jane Sliter and Miss Ennis Houshour of Grand Rapids. Miss Houshour giving the soloist number of the ballet. Costumes were of gold cloth and green net and effective headgear of gold metal cloth. Miss Sliter and Miss Houshour brought their part of the program to a close with American tap dancing, which received hearty applause and was professionally given. The entertainment program was concluded by Austin Leland and Miss Elizabeth Jamison of St. Louis, who gave a couple dance in jazz and taps. Mr. Leland, in his solo number, proved a popular entertainer.

WARNED AGAINST A CLOTHES SALESMAN

Faker Said to Be Operating in North Michigan Territory

Charlevoix people have been warned by the Chamber of Commerce to be on the lookout for a fake clothes salesman who is said to be operating in this region.

The Grand Rapids Association of Commerce sent a warning to the local organization that a man by the name of John Emden is traveling through the northern counties selling suits of clothes and representing that he is a representative of a certain Cleveland company. According to Secretary Lee H. Bierce of the Grand Rapids association this man is not an authorized agent for this company.

Should this man attempt to operate here the Chamber of Commerce should be notified at once, so that his credentials may be investigated.
